Through the death of his uncle, John D. Vermeule, of New Brighton, S. I., an account of which was published in Saturday's Daily Press, Edward Vermeule, of Jackson avenue, the borough, may find himself a millionaire. He is one of the two surviving relatives, the other being his sister, Mrs. Julia Austin, who had made her home with John D. Vermeule for the past ten years. The will of the uncle is to be read at the late residence tonight and from reports sent out today from New Brighton, it is stated that little doubt exists but what the nephew and niece will inherit almost the entire estate of about $2,000,000.

Edward Vermeule, who is well known throughout the city and borough and who has been connected with the Griffen Hardware Company for years, admitted to a Daily Press reporter today that a written request of his uncle's had awarded him $10,000 immediately after his death. This was given without any condition whatsoever pending the probation of the will and settlement of the estate. Beyond this Mr. Vermeule said he know nothing at this time, but he would be in attendance at the reading of the last will and testament tonight, the full contents of which are known only to legal advisers of the testator.

In the news dispatches sent out from New Brighton, it is ascertained that John D. Vermeule had vast business interests and property holdings that will take considerable time to be listed in an accounting for the New York State inheritance tax. The stories also add that the uncle was very fond of his nephew and niece and outside of a number of small bequests to business associates and old employes in his company would bequeath his fortune to the two relatives. The windfall to each of the main beneficiaries will in all probability reach one million dollars.

John D. Vermeule, as told in Saturday's Daily Press, was a native of the borough. He was born ninety-four years ago on what was then known as the Vermeule farm on Greenbrook road. The tract originally comprised twelve hundred acres, but has since been sold off in various pieces. The present Brunson property on Greenbrook road at the head of Clinton avenue was a part of the Vermeule place and is where the house in which John D. Vermeule was born was located. Mr. Vermeule went to New Brunswick when only a young man, but made rapid strides in the business world, principally as a promoter of rubber manufacturing. At the time of his death he was president of the Goodyear Rubber Company.

He had been in poor health for ten years and during all that time he was cared for by his niece, Mrs. Austin.

ALLEGED FORGER ARRESTED AFTER TWO MONTHS' SEARCH

On a warrant sworn out by George J. Finger on March 25 last, William T. Hand, twenty-one years old, was arrested by Patrolman Martin Welsh, yesterday morning. He is wanted for alleged forgery, Finger charging him with passing a worthless check amounting to $27.50 on him. It is understand that other victims will file similar complaints.

For two months the local police have been on the lookout for Hand and it was not until he returned to his home for a visit yesterday, that he was arrested. He has been working on a farm but admits that he has made several "slip in and slip out" visits to Plainfield during the time he was "hounded."

VAGRANTS LET GO.

John Martin and Rex Thomas, of Norfolk, Va., were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city police court this morning, charged with vagrancy. They were told to get out of town and with this understanding Judge DeMeza suspended sentence. The men were arrested while sleeping in a barn Saturday night, and spent the week-end in jail.

A STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

The Pastor's Aid Society, of the First Presbyterian church, will hold a strawberry festival and supper on Friday, June 4. There will be a special attraction in the afternoon for the children.

SMALL BOY HAS A LUCKY ESCAPE

Stanley Neighbour, Seven Years Old, Falls Forty Feet and Still Lives.

INJURED INTERNALLY

Landed on His Feet After Rubber Coat Had Buoyed Him up and Rubber Boots Aided in Lessening Shock.

Falling from a back porch on the fourth floor of the Manning building, on West Front street, to the ground below, a distance of forty feet, Stanley Neighbour, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Y. Neighbour, escaped with his life Saturday afternoon in a most miraculous manner. The fact that he wore a complete rainy day outfit of rubber was partly responsible for his not being killed outright, the wind getting under his long rubber coat and buoying him up while rubber boots lessened the shock. In the descent he turned completely over and landed squarely on his feet.

The boy's parents occupy apartments on the third floor of the building, but were not home at the time. Other tenants rushed out and found the little fellow in a senseless heap on the ground. He was carried to his bed where Dr. Albert Pittis examined him a few minutes later, arriving in a remarkably short time in response to a hurry call. The physician found that the boy had sustained badly torn ligaments of the right leg, a possible fracture of several small bones in both legs and probably internal hurts. X-ray photographs have been taken and he is being kept in bed under close watch in the event of a sudden development of organic trouble.

In company with a number of other children, Stanley was playing on the porch, the particular pastime just previous to the accident being a sham battle for the possession of a broom. In the struggle the boy lost his balance and fell against the guard railing just at a point where two palings had been knocked out. He lunged backward through the opening, but would not have gone over had it not been that another paling broke as he caught hold of it with one hand. In the other hand he held tight the broom that had caused his fall. When he landed the handle of the broom was clutched to his breast.

Several tenants of the building who were on lower porches saw the boy as he was descending and noted how the wind got under the tightly buttoned coat. None of them expected to find him alive when they hurried to the yard below, as beside the great height of the fall, a flag court is laid at the base of the porch uprights. It was found, however, that he had missed the flagging by about two feet, striking the ground that had been somewhat softened by the rain.

The distance from the fourth floor porch to the ground is easily forty feet and it is an apparent fact that young Neighbour's escape from being crushed to death is one of the most remarkable known in the city for years. In the event of his recovery, which at this time is still in doubt, he will owe his life to the lucky combination of circumstances, the buoyance of the coat, the rubber boots and the somersault that brought him to his feet.

ARCH-DEACON PREACHES AT HOLY CROSS CHURCH

Arch-deacon R. Bowden Shepherd, of the Diocese of New Jersey, was the special preacher at the Church of the Holy Cross last night, being heard by a large congregation. His discourse was listened to with great interest. During the service it was announced that the old altar formerly used in the edifice had been given to a new church at Bradley Beach.

The present altar at Holy Cross was the gift of J. Brognard Betts in memory of his wife. Mr. Betts, who died a few weeks ago, was a vestryman of the church and one of the most active workers in the parish.

ANNIVERSARY SURPRISE.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Lynch, of East Second street, were given a surprise by twenty friends, last night, in honor of the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding. The affair was arranged by their daughter, Mrs. Daniel Gray, of Dunellen. The guests enjoyed an informal program of vocal and instrumental music and refreshments were served in conclusion. Among the numbers that were especially enjoyed during the evening were piano duets by Miss Lizzie Mara and Miss Elisha McKeon and vocal solos by Mrs. Daniel Fray, Miss Mara and Mrs. Thomas Lynch.

Record Class to Graduate from Plainfield High School

One hundred and six pupils, the largest number ever graduated from the Plainfield High School in a single class, will finish courses in that institution next month and will receive their diplomas at the commencement exercises to be held in the school's auditorium, Thursday evening, June 24. Included in the group that has set a precedent in local scholastic history are many of the leaders in the various class and school activities and some of the most prominent athletes. In fact every branch of social, scholastic and athletic endeavor is represented by a leading facto in the 1915 class.

While it is not absolutely certain that all of the 106 will receive sheepskins, that fact being determined by the final examinations to be held in the near future, it is certain that over one hundred will be included in the outgoing division. Miss Mary E. Smith is the salutatorian of the class and Harold Davis is the valedictorian.

Efforts are being made by Superintendent of Schools Henry M. Maxson to secure a prominent speaker for the commencement exercises, but as yet no official announcement has been given out. Daniel F. McNamee is president of the class.

Those in the graduating class are: Claire Britten, Evelun Cashin, Muriel Cockburn, Margaret Combs, Gladys Dickerson, Ruth Dunn, Hildegarde Ehler, Maibelle Filmer, Anna Franke, Grace Gerichunt, Lorena Harris, Marguerite Jahn, Margaret Keating, May Kerwin, Esther Kivatinos, Edith Lowry, Mary MacDonald, Alice Mallery, Lottie Mendell, Anna Moledezky, Ruth Morris, Eivira Patten, Hazell Putnam, Dorothy Richards, Ida Sachar, Hazell Sawyer, Eva Selden, Jennie Shrager, Dorothy Simmons, Mary E. WATCHUNG COUNCIL MEMBERS PRESENT

Plans Complete for Visitation Night to Be Held in Local Auditorium.

Six automobiles, carrying thirty members of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, went to New Brunswick, yesterday, to be present at the degree ceremonies of the council in that place. The third degree was exemplified on a large class of candidates in charge of National Warden Thomas McLaughlin, of Newark. The trip to and from New Brunswick was made without incident for the Plainfielders, and councils from other parts of the State were also present. Westfield sent a large delegation and the members all attended the degree work, which was done in Columbia Hall. Following the ceremonies the guests were informally entertained by the home council.

Plans are underway for the visitation night ceremonies to be held in Columbus Club Auditorium tomorrow night. A large number of representatives of other New Jersey councils are expected to be present and the services will be followed by a reception in charge of Watchung Council.

The visitation night here is held in connection with the rotation plan, it being Plainfield's turn to act as hosts. Grand Knight Robert McCormack will be in charge.

CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS.

At the regular meeting of the Camp and Conference Club, the following officers were elected for this year: President, Miss Nettie Steiner; vice president, Miss Marion Mair, secretary and trasurer, Miss Mildred Calleen. Arrangements for a Japanese lawn fete were completed to be given on June 25. Proceeds will be added to the fund to send delegates to the summer conference at Silver Bay.

SERIES OF CONCERTS.

The Young People's Society of the Swedish Lutheran church, of East Seventh street, are arranging for the second of a series of concerts, the event to be held at the church auditorium Saturday evening, June 12. Refreshments will be served.

PLANT IS SOLD FOR $29,000.

Leon Jefass, of New York, has purchased the Century Rubber Company plant on North avenue, for $29,000, the sale being conducted by Frank P. McDermott, of Jersey City, receiver. It is understood that Mr. Jafass will operate the plant.

G. A. R. TO HONOR DEPARTED HEROES

PROGRAM IS COMPLETE

Special Exercises to Be Held in Local Schools, Preceding Attendance at Divine Services on Sunday and Parade and Exercises Monday.

All arrangements for the customary observance of Memorial Day were completed by Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., at a meeting Saturday night. Owing to the fact that the day falls on Sunday, the usual program will be somewhat lengthened in order to provide for both Sunday and Monday. The veterans will attend church services, decorate the graves of comrades and conduct the patriotic exercises in Reform Hall on Monday, following the parade through the business section of the city.

The full program as outlined at present will be as follows: Friday, May 28, veterans will visit the city and borough schools in order to give encouragement to the rising generations that the "Maintainance of government is the first duty of man." The details will be the following. North Plainfield High School, 8:20 a. m., Past Commander Captain William Hand and Past Commander F. B. Goodfellow; Plainfield High School, 8:30 a. m., William S. FINED $10 FOR HIS ASSAULT ON WOMAN

Harry Wilson Adjudged Guilty of Disorderly Conduct in Police Court.

Charged by Florence Scriven, his landlord, with disorderly conduct, Harry Wilson, of 205 View avenue, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city police court, this morning, and after being given a hearing was adjudged guilty and fined $10. The incident occurred last Thursday afternoon, when Miss Schriven went to the Wilson home to ascertain why he had sent her a note, the main point of which was to inform her that he would not pay three months' back rent until after she had made certain improvements.

According to the testimony given in court a wrangle followed with Mrs. Wilson and while the fracas was at its heighth the man of the house returned home. Miss Schriven and her sister vainly strove to secure a satisfactory explanation from the tenant and, it is alleged, that Wilson became angry and threw the defendant down on the porch and kicked her.

Dr. A. K. Brennan testified to having attended the complainant for injuries caused by external violence. In passing sentence on Wilson the judge severely scored him for the part he played in the mixup and warned him that a recurrence of the incident would result in the infliction of a jail sentence.

WHAT THOUGHT DID.

William Ayers, a Dunellen motorcyclist, was arrested on West Front street, near Somerset, at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, by Patrolman Thomas Flatley, charged with exceeding the speed limit. According to the patrolman the cyclist was traveling at a rate of thirty miles an hour, but Ayers thought differently and swore that he was running at "about ten per hour." City Judge DeMeza, after advising the defendant to acquaint himself with the various "speeds," gave him another chance, suspending sentence.

Food Supply Problem to Be Taken Care of If Italy Blockades Mediterranean—German Reply to U. S. Note is Further Delayed—Germans Again Attack at Ypres and Arras—Swedish Steamer Mined.

Berlin, May 24.—Germany today officially declared that "a state of war now exists between this country and Italy." Immediately after the announcement was issued telegraphic instructions were sent to the German Ambassador at Rome to leave immediately. Similar messages were sent to the consular representatives in Italy.

Washington, May 24.—It is practically certain that Bulgaria will not enter the war This was learned from the legation of that country here today. It was also declared that in all probability Roumania would not enter until an agreement was reached with Bulgaria. The Bulgarian minister here, Stephen Panaretoff, said he believed the Allies would be willing to satisfy Bulgaria if it remained out of the war, and that Adrianople would be turned over to Bulgarian control at the end of the war if the Allies were successful.

Diplomats representing the Allies here are today considering the advisability of forming an "Overseas Trust," in Switzerland, such as now exists in Holland. The action is contemplated in order to secure the usual imports for Switzerland in the event of a Mediterranean blockade by the Italian Navy. By such an agreement the Swiss government would pledge itself to take over all imports in its own name and give guarantees against re-exportation to any countries, thus obviating the necessity of interfering in any way with consignments destined for Switzerland, with the delays incident thereto. No announcement will be made immediately as it would be construed by Germany and Austria as plain indication, officials said, of Italy's intention to declare a blockade of the Mediterranean.

SUSPECTS ROUNDED UP BY THE POLICE

As Climax to Carnival Week Five Prisoners Are Taken Into Custody.

As a sequel to a week of activity on the part of pick-pockets at the carnival, five suspicious characters were rounded up by the police Saturday night, and efforts are being made to gather evidence that may prove material in convicting them of some of the depredations committed in this city. With the aid of Lieutenant "Paddy" Ryan, of the Newark detective bureau, Captain John J. Flynn and Patrolman Dennis O'Keefe took the following into custody Saturday night: Goldie Ferris, of Orlando, Flor.; Rubin Capers, of New York city; Nathan Gold, of Newark; John Robinson, of Newark, and Julian Engleson, of New York city. Engelson was let go this morning and $50, which he had on his person when arrested, was returned to him.

Ryan came to Plainfield, Saturday night, and his acquaintance with some of the country's best known criminals led him to pick out the prisoners that are being held in the city jail under bonds of $100 each by City Judge DeMeza. It is not known whether or not the men arrested had anything to do with picking the pockets of a number of local citizens who were "touched" during the week at the carnival grounds, but Captain Flynn is today looking for evidence that may lead to the holding of several of the men for further criminal action.

The charge preferred against them to secure their appearance in court tomorrow morning is one of "loitering" and despite the fact that those interested in the carnival and relatives of the prisoners spent much of yesterday trying to get their freedom the local authorities refuse to give them up. Ryan has recognized one of the men as a crook who is being sought by police of other cities and it is possible that representatives of departments in other parts of the State will come here today to give the captives the "once-over."

Several of the prisoners are well known to employes of the carnival and their meals are being supplied during their incarceration from a local restaurant.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER PASSES AWAY IN SOMERVILLE

Thomas Hyland, a former well known Plainfielder, and for many years engaged in the milk business locally, died suddenly Saturday at his home in Somerville. He had been living in the latter place since his retirement from active work about fifteen years ago, residing with his only two relatives, the Misses Mary and Kate Hyland, both of whom are nieces. Mr. Hyland had a farm on Rahway road, but disposed of the property at the death of his wife. He had a large milk route in Plainfield at one time, serving his customers himself for many years.

The funeral was held this morning in the church of the Immaculate Conception, Somerville, and the gathering in attendance included friends from Plainfield. The body was afterward brought to this city for interment in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

ANNUAL SCHOOL EXHIBIT ATTRACTS MANY VISITORS

The annual exhibit of the manual art department of the public schools of Somerset county was held in the Somerville High School, Saturday, and was attended by a large number of persons despite the bad weather conditions. All of the rooms in the building were open and contained the pupils' work of manual training, turning, mechanical, sewing, cooking, painting and free hand drawing.

The exhibit was larger than last year and the schools represented were Somerville, North Plainfield, Bound Brook, Raritan and Bernardsville. As usual a large delegation from Bernardsville made the trip to the county seat and spent the day. All the work that was placed on exhibition was returned to the schools and will be given to the owners.

PREACHES ON "BILLY SUNDAY, 20TH CENTURY PROPHET"

Rev. C. S. Gillespie, of Grace M. E. church, delivered a forceful sermon last night on "Billy Sunday, a Twentieth Century Prophet," before a large congregation. The sermon was both interesting and instructive and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. A choir of thirty-five voices, assisted by D. W. Winckler on the violin, rendered several "Billy" Sunday hymns.

Miss Mary Steiner was the leader of the Epworth League service at 7 o'clock and the church choir rendered special selections. One hundred and fifty members will attend the prayer meeting service Wednesday night when there will be special music by a choir of fifty voices. The subject will be the special petition of the Lord's Prayer, 'Thy Kingdom Come." The adult probation class will meet in the parsonage Thursday evening of this week.

HENRY LUND WEDS MISS MAY MILLER

Miss May Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Miller, of West End avenue, North Plainfield, and Henry Lund, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lund, of Grant avenue, West Dunellen, were married at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the manse of the Netherwood Reformed church at Plainfield, by the Rev. Edward S. Ralston. The ceremony was performed in the presence of friends of the couple from Somerville, North Plainfeidd, Dunellen and West Dunellen.

Mrs. Lillian Kearns, of Stony Brook place, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and John Kearns, of North Plainfield, was best man. The bride wore a gown of blue poplin and her sister, the matron of honor, was also prettily attired in blue.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of John Kearns in North Plainfield. The program comprised an elaborate wedding supper, music and dancing, the feature being the singing by P. J. Hickey.

The bride received many valuable and useful presents. The Adam Herlich house on the Plainfield side of Jefferson avenue has been rented and the couple will go to housekeeping at once. The groom is employed in the beam side of the Levgar Structural Company.

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF MRS. THURMAN AYERS

The funeral of Mrs. Thurman E. Ayers was held at the late home at 602 Center street at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The service was largely attended. Many were present from Mrs. Ayers' girlhood home at Holmdel. The service was in charge of Rev. T. E. Vassar, pastor of the First Baptist church of New market, assisted by Rev. H. L. Polan, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. Rev. Mr. Vassar spoke beautifully of the departed and consolingly to those who will miss her so much. Rev. Mr. Polan made a comforting prayer.

A quartet, composed of John Nelson and the Mises Iva Dayton, Bertha Nelson and Gertrude Bunting, sang "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "It is Well With My Soul."

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The management of the Spicer Universal Joint Manufacturing Company, where the bereaved husband is employed, and the office force of the same company contributed beautiful floral pieces. The Ladies' Aid Societies of the First and Seventh-Day Baptist churches were numbered among the contributors.

The burial was at the Middlesex County Hillside. The pall bearers were Chester Gaskill, Harry Kenyon, Mahlon R. Dayton, Fred Clawson, Eugene R. Smalley and Walter Nelson.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The five part California photoplay "The Lily of Poverty Flat," based upon the writing of Bret Harte, will be the photoplay feature at Proctor's this afternoon and tonight.

There is a decided and widespread interest just now in Bret Harte's writings; the demand for them has resulted in the completion of his collected works. With Mark Twain, Bret Harte probably divided the honors of typical American authorship in the last part of the nineteenth century and the beginning of the 20th.

Beatrice Michelena is the "Lily" and in the slang of the time, "Some Lily," one of the most beautiful as well as one of the most accomplished actresses on the motion picture screen. Miss Michelena has a role packed full of the finest acting chances.

There is perhaps, in the part no emotion to which a young girl is subject, that is not represented in this photo-drama.

Lily's father, strikes it rich and lucky at Poverty Flat ;and Lily and her Ma and Pa go to Paris and have a perfectly glorious time, so different from the old exciting, strenuous, rough and tumble mining days out west. Joe, Lily's miner lover, remains behind in America; while in Paris there is a desperate attempt to attack Lily's loyalty to him. But she remains true to Joe.

Incident upon incident, excitement upon excitement, crowd the picture, which is full of scenic beauty, rich settings and numerous fine acting parts.

Moreover, there is the unmistakable Bret Harte atmosphere felt through the many scenes of the offering.

LIBRARIANS' SUMMER SCHOOL TO OPEN AT ASBURY PARK

Trenton, May 24.—The seventh annual summer school for librarians will be opened in the Public Library at Asbury Park today and continue until June 26. The sessions, which are under the auspices of the New Jersey Public Library Commission, will be free, but students must be librarians or be under appointment in a New Jersey library at the time they are admitted to the school.

Cataloguing and classifications of books, a study of the best publishers, bindings, the best methods of purchasing volumes, simple methods of technical library work and other subjects designed to give proper training to librarians will be included in the course of instruction, which will be under the direction of Miss Sara B. Askew and Miss Edna B. Pratt, organizers for the State Library Commission. The week beginning June 14 will be devoted to school library interests and a number of exhibits will be shown.

A number of special lectures will be given during the session, chief of which are as follows: June 9, "Cataloguing," by Miss Theresa Hitchler, of the Brooklyn Public Library; June 14, "Book Binding and Book Mending," by Miss Rose Murray, of the New York Public Library; June 14, "Principles of Book Section," Miss Corrine Bacon, of White Plains, N. Y.; June 16, "The Work of the Passaic High School Library," by Miss Elizabeth White, librarian of the Passaic Public Library; June 16, "The Modern High School," by Miss Mary E. Hall, of the Girls' High School, Brooklyn; June 16, "The School Library Department of the Public Library Commission," by Dr. Everett T. Tomlinson, of Elizabeth, and a lecture on "Prints and Book Illustrations," by John Weitenkamps, of the New York Public Library. The date yet for the latter lecture is to be announced later.

TRIAL OF 26 DEPUTIES TO BE COMMENCED TODAY

New Brunswick, May 24—Today has been set for the beginning of the trial of the 26 deputies indicted for murder in connection with the strike riot at Roosevelt, in which two strikers met their death. Through order of the court, a "foreign" jury has been panelled from Mercer county, and 100 jurymen from that county arrived here today. The 26 men will not be tried together, it is believed, for Justice Bergen has authorized separation of the trials. It is expected that ten of the accused deputies will be tried first.

Here are the accused men: Harry Patterson, John Gordon, Carl Smith, Thomas Murphy, Robert J. Wallace, James D. Williams, Frank Rick, Frank Mullen, Edward Gillen, Michael Manning, Harry Tone, William Irving, Henry Gilmore, John O'Mara, Alexander Brummer, Harry Terrill, Harry C. Tiler, James Bavier, Walter Bedell, William McLaughlin, Tony Simone, Walter J. Batterson, John Mulvaney, Frederick Livingston, John C. Moran and John Smith.

The indictments were returned against the deputies as a result of the deadly fight between strikers and armed deputies on January 19. Sixteen men were injured and two died from gunshot wounds. They were Carman Patty and Desoderio Alesandro. The fight began when the strikers stopped a passenger train to see if strikebreakers were being taken to the plant of the American Agricultural Chemical Company, where a strike was then in progress.

The deputies hastened to the scene, and a pitched battle took place. At first fists and stones were used, then someone fired a shot and a general fusilade was the result. None of the deputies were injured. Positive identification of 21 of the 26 men is said to have been made. The 26 deputies were indicted for murder and atrocious assault and battery on February 5. Eighteen indictments were returned, two of them charging murder against all of the accused deputies.

The trial is expected to be long drawn out. Able lawyers have been working on the defense for the deputies.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

One of the biggest pictorial achievements of the screen, "The Carpet From Bagdad," recently released by Selig under the new V. L. S. E. combination, will be presented at the U. S. Theatre today and tomorrow. In booking this high-class production Frank G. Hall, proprietor of the Astor Theatre, is adhering to his policy to give the discriminating theatregoers of Plainfield only the very best films obtainable.

So numerous are the absorbing situations in "The Carpet From Bagdad" that it is difficult to determine the most interesting scene. Popular opinion, however, will no doubt select the sandstorm scene photographed in the Sahara, in which the drama reaches its greatest power, as the most appealing episode in the entire subject. "The Carpet From Bagdad" is a story of the Far East, of Oriental streets and temples and camel caravans, of the machinations of a gang of international criminals who plot successfully to steal a sacred prayer rug from a mosque, but who are finally foiled in their plotting by an innocent girl. There is realism in every inch of this film in five spectacular reels, including many tensely dramatic scenes. The all-star cast is headed by Miss Kathlyn Williams, who is making Mary Pickford look to her laurels.

Wednesday and Thursday another gripping photo-play, "The Valley of the Missing," will be presented.

Mr. Hall announced today that "The Eternal City," the wonderful visualization of Hall Caine's masterwork now playing at the Astor Theatre, New York, at prices ranging upwards of $1, will be shown at an early date at the Astor Theatre. Miss Pauline Frederick, who starred in "Outcast" last winter, will be seen in the leading role of Roma.

TO GIVE FAIRY PLAY.

"The Sleeping Beauty," a fairy play, will be given by the Sunday-school of St. Mary's Episcopal Mission in the parish house of Grace church, Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and in the evening at 8 o'clock. Lemonade and tea will be served. The proceeds will be used to make another payment on the lot which the Mission has acquired.

FREEDOM CASTLE ATTENDS SERVICE

Rev. E. C. Conover Preaches to Knights of Golden Eagle at Temple Baptist Church.

IMPORTANCE OF LIFE

Preacer Declares That if Crown of Glory is to Be Worn, Preparation Must Be Made Now for the Life to Come—The Power of Choice.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagles, attended service at the Temple Baptist church, last night, when Rev. Evarts C. Conover, the pastor, preached an interesting sermon on the subject of "What Is Your Life?" after first extending a welcome to the members of the order and commenting on the fact that it had lost no members by death during the year. In part Mr. Conover said:

"If we would obtain a crown of glory we must prepare for it now; we cannot escape the inevitable and happy the man who prepares for it. The question is important, because, first, our life is a part of the great plan of God. We sometimes fail to appreciate this. We see how God uses great men, but what am I that God should use me?

"Yet Revelation is very clear in the matter. God uses the smallest forces in nature, surely He has not ignored man made in His image. We may be small and have an inconspicuous place, but God needs us and our life is necessary to the carrying out of His purpose.

"Secondly, while my life is a part of God's plan, He has intrusted me with the shaping of it. Life is a pilgrimage, we are going somewhere, we each determine what the end shall be. God has given us the power of choice and He will not violate our will. The Spirit may hover over us. He may knock at the door, but will not uninvited invade the sacred sanctuary. We may reject the plan and be cast out, or accept it, and receive the reward.

"How great our responsibility; how awful that our salvation rests in our own hands. God has provided the crown of glory and has given us the power to possess it. Oh, that we might have grace to obtain it. It is worth the effort and only when we have obtained it will we have lived a successful lives. Paul sat in his cell waiting for the end, confident of what awaited him. So, too, can we, for death is robbed of its sting and the grave of its victory when our lives are given over to God and Jesus rules over them.

"Our order is good, the principles are second to none, the work second only to the church, but it cannot save you. That can come only through Jesus Christ and you obtain it when you give your life over to Him. God help you to do this now. We don't know when the end shall come, may be a long way off or just over the hill, nearer than we think and we are wise if we prepare for it now. Is your life right with God? Next year we may gather to pay tribute to your memory, what influence will you leave if you should be called?

"May God grant that we live in accordance with His plan, feeling our responsibility. Then when the end shall come and we are ready to cross over, we shall have lived in such intimacy with the Father there will be no fear, but a rejoicing because it will be to go over to get the crown of glory."

FATHER TYRELL DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Rev. John J. Tyrrell, aged 70 years, a priest, well-known here, died Saturday, at his home on Westfield avenue, near Rahway, where he had lived for twenty-one years. While he had no parish or charge, he frequently assisted in saying mass and officiating at Catholic churches throughout this section.

The late Pope Piux X granted him on December 6, 1902, the privilege of having an oratory in his home, where he might fulfil the obligation of saying mass every day, and Bishops O'Connor and McFaul extended to him New Jersey privileges. Father Tyrrell was born in Ireland, where he received his early education. He is survived by two sisters and two brothers. The funeral will be held at St. Mary's church, Rahway, tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery, New York.

WAR NEWS

rian government, will confer with the Secretary of State at 4 o'clock this afternoon. It is understood on high authority that the conference will be devoted entirely to a discussion of the status of Austrian affairs in Italy and may be followed by an announcement that the United States will take over the Austrian embassy in Rome during the period of the war.

Although both the Austrian and Italian ambassadors have consulted with Secretary Bryan it was declared today that no official requests had been made that the United States take over the diplomatic interests of those governments. Such requests are expected hourly, however, although it is not believed that Germany will ask this government to represent her in Italy, because of the pedency of the controversy now between Washington and Berlin.

Through Ambassador Page, at Rome, the United States has been officially informed that a state of war exists between Italy and Austria-Hungary. The Ambassador cabled to the State Department to this effect today. No details of the announcement were contained in the despatch.

Further delay by Germany in replying to the note of protest lodged with it by this government, assailing its submarine warfare and war zone policies, is expected by the State Department. The Department received a lengthy communication from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin, evidently pointing to the fact that further delay might be expected, as a result of the advent of Italy into the war. This government, it was made clear, will not press unduly for a reply for it recognizes the grave situation in which Berlin finds itself.

Paris, May 24.—Despite their heavy losses near Ypres and north of Arras, the Germans have resumed their offensive in both regions, according to today's official communique. The attacks of the Kaiser's troops at Steenstraate and Ypres were repulsed by the Allied troops, while north of Arras fighting that lasted all night resulted in favor of the French, the communique says.

Berlin, May 24 (By wireless).—The following statement was given out at German Headquarters today:

"Western theatre—Several night advances by the English between Neuve Chappelle and Givinchy, as well as French attacks on the northern slope of the Lorette Hills at Ablair, and north and south of Neuville were repulsed. The enemy suffered heavy losses. We took 150 prisoners. Between the Meuse and Moselle artillery battles continue. In Priest Wald the French suffered heavy losses during a new unsuccessful attack.

"The situation in the eastern and southeastern theatres of war is unchanged."

London, May 24.—A despatch from Petrograd says the Austro-German forces in Galicia now have assumed the defensive, and their active operations consist chiefly of counter attacks. According to an official statement from the headquarters of the Russian General Staff slight progress is claimed on the left bank of the Lower San. It is stated that all assaults by the Austro-German troops in the southeastern theatre of operation were repulsed.

An Athens despatch to the Telegraph states that the Marquis Di Garroni, the Italian Amoassador to Turkey, and his staff are leaving Constantinople today.

Rome, May 24 (Central News Cable).—Baron Sonnino, the Italian foreign minister, has sent to all Italian diplomatic and consular representatives notice that the declaration of a state of war, beginning today, has been delivered to Austria.

Stockholm, May 24.—The Swedish steamer Hermodia was mined and sunk in the North Sea, yesterday. Her crew took to the boats and was saved.

MILLIKEN-COLE.

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Adelaide Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Cole, of East Front street, and Clifford E. Milliken, also of Plainfield. The ceremony was performed in the chapel of St. Paul's church, New York, on May 21. The bride and groom are living in this city. Mr. Milliken is employed by Woolston & Buckle.

BOY SCOUTS MEETING.

The members of the Fife and Drum Corps and Engineer Patrol of Troop 5, Boy Scouts, are requested to be present at the meeting to be held at Scout headquarters tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. This will be the last meeting before Decoration Day, and a full atendance is required.

BIG SCOTTISH RITE MASONIC FUNCTION AT JERSEY CITY

Jersey City, May 24—More than 100 Freemasons, members of lodges in the Valley of Jersey City, the northern part of New Jersey, are to receive degrees, or grades, of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry at Scottish Rite Temple, 17 Park street, this city, tomorrow. It will be an all-day performance.

This is the occasion, observed annually, when the four Scottish rite bodies, Lodge of Perfection, Council of Princes of Jerusalem, Chapter of Rose Croix and the Consistory of Princes of the Royal Secret, hold consecutive meetings between 11 o'clock a. m. and midnight, for the purpose of conferring the Scottish Rite grades on the class of candidates usually in waiting to take advantage of the opportunity to accomplish within a day what usually requires three or four months' time.

The occasion is one which attracts a great deal of attention in Scottish Rite circles, and visitors, members of sister jurisdictions in this and other States, are generally present in large numbers.

The elaboration of the ritual with stage and scenic effects, equivalent to those obtainable at most of the pretentious homes of the drama, when taken en masse, make this annual event one among the most conspicuous in Scottish Rite Masonic circles anywhere.

Prominent members of the rite from Newark, Elizabeth, Paterson and other of the more important centres in this part of the State, are to take an active part in the activities tomorrow.

THE FRANK CASE.

Leo M. Frank's case has become of such nationwide interest that it overshadows anything of the kind which has ever before attracted the attention of the American people. From one end of the country to the other petitions are being sent to Governor Slaton, of Georgia, urging that the death sentence be commuted to life imprisonment, in the hope that eventually justice will be done the condemned man. Governor-elect Nat Harris, who takes office in a few weeks, has said that in determining the matter, if it is left to him, he will handle it on a "Georgia basis." This is technically a proper stand, but one which will forever mark him as narrow minded, and it is certainly to be hoped that the case will be decided before he enters office.

When Frank was convicted there was a great hue and cry for his life. No denial is made of the fact that the jury, judge and everyone identified with the case were intimidated by howling mobs of irresponsible people. Even the newspapers were afraid to speak out and demand justice, for fear of the wrath of the mob. That this sentiment is rapidly changing is illustrated by an editorial which appeared in the Atlanta Journal of yesterday, which said of the trial:

Frank was presumed guilty at the outset. Every doubt in his favor was rejected, while the lightest trifles against him were welcomed and magnified. The chief and, indeed the only considerable witness of the prosecution was a negro of criminal record, who implicated himself in the crime that he charged to Frank. On his unsupported testimony, Frank was convicted. The atmosphere within and without the court room was such as to make a fair trial impossible. Only superhuman strength could have resisted the prejudice and passion that surcharged the Frank trial from beginning to end.

The Journal then says that in the interests of justice Frank should be given commutation, so that a most thorough examination will permit "the further establishment of justice and truth." After stating that the lawyers in all parts of the state are convinced that Frank is not guilty, the Journal says:

With the utmost conservatism we can go further and say that a great majority of the people of Georgia feel that Frank's guilt has not been proved beyond a reasonable doubt, and that a great many of them consider him innocent.

When Frank was convicted no newspaper in the State would have dared take the stand taken by the Journal, one of the leaders in the State. After what has seemed like a hopeless cause, justice having been refused on strictly legal grounds in every possible court, it begins to look as if Frank's great fight for his life was at last to be successful, and an innocent man is not to be sent to the chair.

Plainfielders, especially the younger generation, know what a public spirited, big hearted man is Commissioner Allen E. Beals, of the local Boy Scouts, and one of our Playground Commissioners. It is gratifying therefore, to find this tribute to him in the "Men and Affairs" column of yesterday's Newark Sunday Call:

The Boy Scout movement has drawn into its service many busy men who have a hearty interest in the boys of the country and anything that tends to their uplift. One of the most active "Scout Commissioners" of the State, as the men are known who assume a lot of the executive direction of the movement in the larger cities, is Allen E. Beals, a playground commissioner of Plainfield. Although he is in charge of the department of a big trade paper of New York city and his duties as playground commissioner at Plainfield take considerable time, Beals is active in the Scout work. He manages to get the time occasionally to accompany the troops of Plainfield on their "hikes," and he also visits neighboring cities to help the men in charge of the work in formulating plans for the further benefit of the organization. Beals is highly esteemed in Plainfield, where he was engaged in newspaper work before taking a place on one of the big New York papers, which was more in accord with his ability. Later he had a position with a big trade paper, and now he is an authority on certain matters in which his publication is interested.

The New Brunswick Times, after a long, and what has been generally believed to be a successful, career in the evening field, made its appearance today as a morning paper. While the notice of the change given in the issue of Saturday does not say so, it is understood that the owners of the Home News have acquired an interest in the Times, which has been a mighty healthy competitor of the former sheet. Whether a morning newspaper can be made to be successful in New Jersey from a financial viewpoint, in comparison with an evening paper, is very doubtful, in view of the experience in other cities. While there are five other morning papers in the State, it is no secret that only one of them, the Paterson Call, is a money maker, although several are good newspapers. New Jersey is too near New York and Philadelphia, to be in a position to have successful morning papers in the smaller cities.

State Comptroller Edwards is said to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. He won't make much of a hit with the friends of civil service, for ever since he first went into his present place there has been a steady effort to upset the workings of civil service in that department, in order to take care of Hudson county politicians.

CHRISTIAN FIELD

Beginning on Sunday, June 13, and continuing throughout the summer, the sessions of Hope chapel's Sunday-school will be held at 9:30 a. m. There will be no afternoon session until October.

The annual children's day service for Hope chapel Sunday-school will be held on June 6 at 10:45 a. m. The superintendent, pastor and older members are urged to be in attendance on this occasion.

There will be a celebration of Holy Communion at Hope chapel the second Sunday in June.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered in Trinity Reformed church at the morning service on June 6. Letters of dismissal from other churches may be sent or handed to Rev. Mr. Broek at any time. He will be glad to meet those who are thinking of uniting with the church on confession of faith at the communicants class to be held next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, or at any other time by appointment.

Next Sunday evening Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and the members of the Women's Relief Corps will atttend services in Trinity Reformed church in a body. The pastor will preach a patriotic sermon on this occasion.

The annual meeting of the Elizabeth District Women's Home Missionary Society will be held in the First Methodist Episcopal church, of Cranford, Thursday. The morning session will begin at 10:30 o'clock and the afternoon session at 2:30. Luncheon will be served by the ladies of the church for a nominal fee.

The last musical service at the First M. E. church will be given on Sunday night. Excerpts and oratorios which have been given during the past season will be sung and Miss Edith Rubel, violinist, of New York, will be the assistant soloist.

CHIEF KIELY LEAVES FOR INTERNATIONAL MEETING

Chief of Police Kiely left last night for Cincinnati to attend the annual convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs, which convenes tomorrow in that city. The local department head is vice president of the organization and also represents the New Jersey chiefs as president of the State association. He will be gone about a week and during his absence Captain John J. Flynn will be acting chief.

Accompanying Chief Kiely last night was Chief of Police Michael T. Long, of Newark, who will make an effort to secure the 1916 convention for Newark, while the 250th anniversary of the charter of Jersey's metropolis is being celebrated.

COMMISSIONERS NAMED FOR TRUNK SEWER LINE

Three condemnation commissioners, Harry McDonald, of Watchung; V. B. Field, postmaster of Bound Brook, and Thomas Richards, of Somerville, were named by Justice Parker in the Supreme Court at Jersey City Saturday to appraise the value of the right-of-way desired for the trunk sewer which is being constructed in this city, North Plainfield and Dunellen.

The court was petitioned for the commission and it is understood that they will start their work at once in order to facilitate the construction work, plans for which have already been put in operation.

ELABORATE PROGRAM FOR SECOND NIGHT CLUB FETE

All is in readiness for the second annual entertainment and dance of the Second Night Club to be celebrated in the Columbus Club Auditorium tonight. An elaborate program has been arranged by a large committee under the supervision of John Kyle and all indications point to a replica of last year's monster success.

Dancing will be one of the main features and a program of a novel and pleasing variety has been mapped out. The aim of the committee has been originality and many events never before attempted at an affair of this kind will be staged tonight.

Old-fashioned cake-walks, May dances, shadow dance and other unique numbers will be indulged in.

MISS BUXTON OBSERVES HER BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

Miss Mary Buxton, of 452 West Sixth street, observed her seventy-fourth natal day at her home, Saturday, where she has lived for the last twenty-five years. She is a native of Perth Amboy and a daughter of the late Captain C. S. Buxton, who was an officer in the English army until his retirement to America to make his home. He first located at Perth Amboy but later moved to Washington Valley, near Warrenville, the property now being owned by Isaac P. Runyon. After selling the farm the family moved to this city, locating on North Front street. Here Captain Buxton died and his widow and daughters removed to West Sixth street, the present home. In 1894, Mrs. Buxton died, and a few years later two of the daughters, leaving Miss Mary Buxton. Miss Buxton has three brothers, Thomas Buxton, of Charlotte, N. C.; Captain Henry Buxton, of Singapore, and Pierre Buxton, of Wichita, Kan.

Miss Buxton is an active member of Grace Episcopal church, being prominent in various branches of church work and taking a keen enjoyment in everything she enters.

MAD DOG RAN LOOSE IN WATCHUNG'S BOULEVARD

Persons living along Mountain Boulevard, Watchung, were thrown into a state of excitement Saturday afternoon, when a supposed mad-dog ran wild up and down the thoroughfare. After biting several other dogs the dog made for Dr. Cooley's herd of cattle.

Several farm hands went after the ferocious beast with pitchforks and Melvin H. Crate had the misfortune to get in the animal's path and was bitten. It is said that he bit several other persons before being dispatched with a bullet shot from Arthur Winn's gun. The head of the dog was sent to Trenton for examination to determine whether or not it was mad.

DECORATED GRAVES.

A committee composed of five members of Freedom Castle, No. 42, K. G. E., of this city, decorated the graves of their deceased brothers yesterday afternoon in the Plainfield avenue, Hillside and St. Mary's cemeteries. Yesterday was the annual memorial day for the lodge. The committee consisted of George Church, chairman; R. V. Kinney, Frank Runyon, John Dixon and George A. Ayers.

MRS. WILLIAM T. SEAL DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Carrie Schuyler Seal, wife of William T. Seal, died at her home at 189 North avenue, yesterday afternoon, following a long illness. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Schuyler, of High Bridge, where she was born forty-two years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Seal removed to this city from New York in 1910 and had made their home on North avenue since that time, both having made a great many friends throughout the city.

Beside her husband and parents, Mrs. Seal is survived by two sons, Ralph and Alfred Seal, of this city; two sisters and two brothers. The latter are Mrs. Sylvester C. Seal, of Dunellen; Mrs. James Parrish and Howard Schuyler, of Helene, Montana, and Elmer Schuyler, of Bay Ridge, L. I. She was a member of Lydia Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, and the High Bridge Methodist church.

A funeral service for local relatives and friends will be held at the late home on North avenue tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson officiating, and during which Lydia Chapter will conduct its burial ritual. The body will be taken to High Bridge early Wednesday morning and a further service will be held in the Methodist church there at 10 o'clock. Burial will afterward be in Evergreen cemetery, Clinton.

MINUS THE FISH STORIES.

City Judge William G. DeMeza returned home, yesterday, following a week's vacation spent at Mt. Pocono and resumed his seat on the police court bench, this morning. The judge went away primarily for the purpose of fishing for trout but found the weather in that section too cold to make the pastime enjoyable. As a result he got only a limited supply of the speckled beauties and failed to gather his annual collection of Ike Walton yarns.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE.

WHEREAS, since the last regular meeting of the Vestry of the Church of the Holy Cross, death has removed from us our esteemed friend, J. BROGNARD BETTS, who for many years has been associated with us as a member of this Vestry, and

WHEREAS, we are not only deeply impressed with the sense of the great loss which this Church and Vestry has sustained by this dispensation of Divine Providence, but also by our own personal and individual loss as well, be it

RESOLVED, That J. BROGNARD BETTS, by his genial and courteous bearing in his intercourse with his associates, by his high sense of personal honor and rectitude, his sound judgment, and his faithful attention to the interests of the Church of the Holy Cross, notably exemplified the high standard which is set for those to whom the administration of church affairs are entrusted, and be it

RESOLVED, That his loyal interest in the well being of our institution as evidenced by his continued attendance at all meetings of our Vestry, even in his declining health, and the conscientious work which he so cheerfully gave in the administration of his duties as Treasurer of this Church, had endeared him to each of us as a valued friend, whose death brings to us all a deep feeling of personal sorrow, and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Clerk of this Vestry enter these Resolutions on the Minutes of this Meeting, and that they be suitably prepared for presentation to the bereaved relatives of Mr. Betts, to whom our sincere sympathy is extended, and that a copy hereof be furnished the public press.

CONTRASTS LAWS PROTECTING WOMEN

Mrs. O. D. Oliphant Says the Best Remedial Laws Are in Male Suffrage States.

Considering the inclement weather a large number of people attended the suffrage meeting at Scotch Plains, Saturday night, when Mrs. O. D. Oliphant, of Trenton, gave an interesting talk on the subject of suffrage. Efforts were made to arrange a debate, but this plan failed. The room was attractively decorated with spring flowers, the anti-suffrage roses of pink being sold afterward.

Mrs. Alfred D. Beeken presided and introduced Mrs. Oliphant. The latter dwelt on the fact that the best remedial laws have been passed in male suffrage States and when found in equal suffrage States they had been copied from male suffrage legislation.

The speaker contrasted the labor laws protecting women and children in Massachusetts and California, showing that in the former State textile manufacturers formed the chief industry and excellent laws had been passed to protect women and children. In California, on the contrary, where canneries formed the largest industry these canneries were expressly exempted from this kind of legislation.

Mrs. Oliphant contrasted the laws affecting women and children in Colorado and Wisconsin, these two States having similar labor conditions and showed that they were much better in Wisconsin where only men vote. She caused a laugh by telling of the case of a man in California who obtained a divorce from his wealthy wife and to whom the judge awarded alimony. She refuted the statement that in New Jersey a man could will his child away from the mother unless with the written consent of the mother attested by two witnesses.

The speaker said that during the last six months suffrage had been defeated in nineteen States, in fourteen in the Legislatures and in by five by popular vote. She urged the men by their votes in October to protect the women from being exploited in politics.

SERVICES MARKED BY SPIRIT OF REVIVAL

Al. Saunders, Sunday "Trail Hitter," Speaks at First Baptist Church.

Those who were present at any of the services held at the First Baptist church yesterday, it is believed, will not soon forget the day or the man whose wonderful Christian experience has already been used in bringing scores and hundreds of others to Christ. "Al" Saunder, as he is popularly and affectionately known, impressed all with a remarkable natural ability and enthusiasm in his Christian work.

As the result of his talks some twelve or fifteen persons expressed their willingness to become Christians and it is believed that the effects of the meetings will be felt for many weeks. It was the opinion of many who heard Mr. Saunders tell of "Billy" Sunday's great work in Scranton, that one could not honestly question that the latter has been used by God in revolutionizing society and changing men's lives everywhere, and that criticism along these lines was as foolish as futile.

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the church, made special reference to the editorial in Saturday's Daily Press by Charles Hillman Fountain, which he said so accurately and fully answers all possible criticism concerning Sunday and his work. He also very appreciatively referred to the part the Plainfield newspapers have always taken in church activities and the courtesy they show the pastors and their work.

MANY ATTEND MISSION AT ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH

Every available seat in St. Joseph's church was occupied last night, the opening night of the Mission, which will continue for one week with services in the morning and night. Services will be at 5:30 and 8.00 every morning and at 7.50 every night. Father John and Father James, of St. Michael's Passionist Monastery of West Hoboken, are the priests in charge and those who have not heard them should make certain to do so. Each is a convincing speaker and holds the attention of his congregation throughout his discourse. Matters pertaining to the Catholic faith are discussed every night.

Father James made the address last night, taking as his sermon topic, "What doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world and suffer the loss of his soul: what can a man give in exchange for his soul?" Father John will deliver the sermon tonight. An invitation is extended to the public to attend services.

THIRTY-THREE OF WORLD'S BEST DRIVERS IN SPEEDWAY RACE

Indianapolis, Ind., May 21.—Thirty-three of the world's best automobile drivers will face the starter in the International 500-mile sweepstakes, to be run on the Indianapolis Speedway, Saturday, May 29. Of all the big races of the year, the 500-mile event is looked upon as the one most likely to furnish the fastest speed and attract the biggest crowds.

Last year more than 100,000 people saw Rene Thomas drive a Delage to victory at the rate of 82.7 miles per hour. Thomas will not be among those who will attempt to exceed that record in this year's event, he not being able to get the Delage people to let him have a car because of the war on the other side. Goux, Bolliot, Guyot and Duray, all of whom were prominent in the race last year, also will be missing.

Only thirty cars participated last year, that being the number which the track could accommodate under the conditions which prevailed as to the piston displacement of the entries. The conditions this year have been changed; piston displacement having been reduced to 300 or under. This, of course, means smaller machines and permits of thirty-three cars starting. Forty-one have been entered, which means a series of elimination trials to determine those which will finally start.

Here, too, the conditions have been changed. Last year in the elimination races it was necessary to average 75 miles an hour in order to qualify; this year it is necessary to show 80 miles in order to get a chance to try for the fortune offered in prizes.

Thomas, last year's winner, received $21,500 for winning, and it is estimated that the winner this year will receive a much larger sum. In addition to the money prizes, there are several valuable trophies offered.

Among the drivers is Dario Resta, who already this year, has placed to his credit two of the big road races, the Vanderbilt Cup and the Grand Prize. In these two races, Resta drove a Peugeot, the same make which he will handle in the forthcoming race. Billy Carlson, Barney Oldfield, Ralph DePalma, Eddie Pullen and Ralph Mulford are also among those entered.

Maxwell, America, 2,100, Carlson.
Maxwell, America, 2,100, Rickenbacher.
Maxwell, America, 2,100, not nominated.

MUDDY PIT ROBBED RUNYON OF A RECORD

Pole Vault Called Off With Local Boy Locked in a Tie.

Because of the heavy downpour of rain and the muddy conditions of the track and jumping pits, the competitors in the interscholastic meet held at Princeton, Saturday afternoon, were forced to abandon all thoughts of record-breaking. Runyon, the Plainfield High School's only entry, tied for first place, with Parker, of Hill School, in the pole vault.

Parker and Runyon were both clearing the bar at 11 feet, 6 inches, and every indication pointed to the breaking of the record of 11 feet, 7 inches, when the pit became mired.

The event had to be called and on the toss for medals Runyon lost out.

Stark, of Mercersburg Academy, the winning school, came in third in the pole vault. He has been an opponent of Runyon's for quite a while and only recently has Runyon been able to beat him.

SOMERVILLE ATHLETES BEST BOUND BROOKERS

Somerville, May 24.—Somerville High School defeated Bound Brook High School in their annual interscholastic track meet here Saturday. The score was 22 to 14 in favor of the county seat team. Bound Brook was handicapped by the fact that it had only one man entered in each event. Although no records were broken, on account of the wet track, all the races were close and interesting. The 440-yard run was the closest contest, the first three runners reaching the tape in a blanket finish.

The prizes were silver cups for first place and a bronze medal for second place.

The summaries:

220-yard dash—Won by Wolf, Bound Brook; second, Bucheit, Somerville; third, Jewett, Somerville. Time, 26s.

440-yard run—Won by Schamp, Somerville; second, Amerman, Somerville; third, Prove, Bound Brook. Time, 61 1-5s.

The officials were: Judges, Thompson and Maydole, Somerville, and Horn, Rutgers; timers, G. Otto and R. Mason, Rutgers.

WILLARD'S GLORIES MAY BE SHORT-LIVED

Veritable Hercules Training in the Watchung Hills for Jess' Crown.

There is another white hope in our midst. He is Barney McCormick, of Cedar Grove. He is training upon the mountain highways between Watchung and Mt. Bethel. He wants to fight Charley Weinert, Jess Willard, Jim Coffey and Sam Langford.

Charley Quinn, the sporting impressario of Newark, was in town today and declared he expected to match McCormick against Jess Willard for a battle to take place in Milwaukee for twenty rounds on July 4.

McCormick weighs 190 pounds. He is agile and has lots of motion in his arms. He is quick on his feet also, according to Quinn, who is on the sporting staff of the Newark Star. Quinn says he is a "world beater." "By gum, he has got a longer reach than Fitzsimmons and a stiffer punch than Jeffries and what more do you want to make a champion," declares Quinn.

Charles Quinn, manager of McCormick, is arranging to have pictures taken of his protege in a few days and they doubtless will appear in the movie films of this city.

AFTER COUNTY "CHAMP."

The Plainfield High School baseball team will go to Rahway tomorrow to play the High School team of that place. Denny, the High School's star pitcher, will do the twirling for the local team. A good game is expected as Rahway has not been defeated yet by any county High School team. The squad and rooters will leave on the 2:15 trolley.

LINDEMAN LOSES.

Ernie Lindeman, formerly a pitcher for the Plainfield team in the Central New Jersey League, pitched against the Philadelphia Giants at Suburban Oval, yesterday, and lost, 3 to 1. He allowed seven hits and the visitors played errorless ball.

NEW BOXING LAW IN NEW YORK.

Albany, N. Y., May 24.—Governor Whitman signed Saturday, the bill of Assemblyman John G. Malone, of Albany, reorganizing the State Athletic Commission and giving the Governor power to name three new boxing commissioners. The action removed all doubts as to whether or not the commission would be allowed to remain as at present organized. The bill increases the State tax on the gross receipts of prize fights from 5 per cent. to 7½ per cent. It is expected that the State will get more than $50,000 a year from the operation of the new law.

MRS. STOCKTON STARTS.

Mrs. H. R. Stockton, of this city, was scheduled to start at 10 o'clock this morning, in the qualifying round of the annual championship tournament of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association at Sleepy Hollow. Mrs. C. E. Manvel, of Westfield, started at the same time. According to the schedule Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, of this city, left the first tee at 11 o'clock. More than eighty women in the metropolitan district started play.

ABSTAINERS HANG UP A NOTABLE VICTORY

Plainfielders Walloped the Sphere All Around the Lot Yesterday.

The Plainfield T. A. B. S. baseball team walloped the Harlem aggregation, which hails from New York, on the local diamond, yesterday afternoon, the final score being 15 to 6. The locals held the lead at all times and the visitors were helpless at the pitching of Jack Denny, who was relieved in the ninth by his brother. The New Yorkers used two pitchers during the game, and the T. A. B. S. artillery collected a total of fifteen hits, while the Denny brothers held the opposing batsmen to eleven.

The home team ran wild on the bases, making a total of 10 steals. For the abstainers, "Tone" Denny was the star with the willow, getting five safeties in as many times at bat. He played centre field when not pitching. Scott, McCarty and Winter each registered a pair of bingles.

The score:

BORO BOY HELPED TO GIVE WEST POINT FIRST BEATING

"Hub" Stine, of the borough, took part in the baseball game between the Springfield Training School and the Army, at West Point, Saturday, which was won by the Y. M. C. A. aggregation, by a score of 7 to 6. Stine caught the last four innings and hit for a single the only time he faced the Army pitcher. Neyland, of the Army, who has made such a creditable record as a pitcher, relieved McMahon, who was going badly in the fifth inning and only allowed one hit during the remainder of the game. Stine was credited with this bingle.

Springfield scored six runs in the second round and the winning tally came in the fifth. After the game "Hub" made a flying trip home and spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Stine, of Mountain avenue. He returned to Springfield yesterday afternoon for a week. George Townley, the other borough boy who is attending the Y. M. C. A. College and who is a member of the pitching squad, did not take the trip to West Point.

PITCHING AT A KNOT HOLE ALL WINTER FAILS TO CURE WYCKOFF OF WILDNESS

J. Weldon Wyckoff.

All last winter J. Weldon Wyckoff, one of Connie Mack's young hurlers, spent his spare time hurling baseballs at a knot hole in his father's barn. When he reported to Connie this spring he announced that this stunt had cured him of his wildness. But he was mistaken. Wyckoff now leads all the hurlers in Ban Johnson's circuit in his generosity toward the batters, having issued about fifty passes to first.

BUSY WEEK FOR N. P. H. S. BASEBALL COMBINATION

The North Plainfield High School baseball team faces one of the hardest weeks of its schedule, four games being listed to take place in the next six days. The Leal game today is followed by a trip to High Bridge, Wednesday afternoon, for a return game with the High School team of that place. The borough team won the first game 7 to 8 on Hyde Oval, and a good game is looked for. The following day Seton Hall "Prep" will appear on Hyde Oval. These teams have met once this season in Orange and the borough team lost a five-inning game 1 to 0.

Saturday afternoon the maroon and black aggregation will take on the Alumni team. The game will be started at 3:30 o'clock.

ERRORS IN THE NINTH GAVE GIANTS VICTORY OVER CLIFF

"Cliff" Randolph, of this city, pitched in his oldtime form at Perth Amboy, yesterday, against the New York Giants, losing the game by a 3 to 0 verdict. The local slabsman was at his best and fanned a dozen of his opponents and allowed only four hits. The three runs came in the final inning of the game. Cliff issued no free trips.

Randolph was opposed on the mound by Ritter, who also yielded four hits and passed two. The game was won in the ninth on a single and three errors by Christopherson, the Perth Amboy shortstop. Although a victory the game was a costly one for the Giants, Fred Merkle, the regular first baseman, getting a broken nose in the second inning by being hit with the ball while trying to steal second. The score by innings follow:

LOCAL PLAYER LOST TWO.

Miss Edna Wildey, of this city, lost two matches in the Pelham Country Club invitation tennis tournament, Saturday afternoon. In the women's doubles, final round, playing with Mrs. Alfred Graham Miles, the local women lost three sets to Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the Norway player, and Miss Clare Cassel. The scores were 6-2, 8-10 and 6-2. In the mixed doubles tourney, second round, Miss Wildey and R. W. Leonard lost to Mrs. B. F. Briggs and R. E. Rogers, 6-4, 6-4.

SCHOOL TENNIS DATES.

Both the city and borough school tennis teams will get into action tomorrow afternoon provided the weather is clear. Plainfield will entertain East Orange at Parker Field, while the boroughites are scheduled to meet Battin on the Park Club courts. P. H. S. and Leal will play their second interscholastic match at Parker Field Wednesday afternoon.

LOCAL ENTRIES.

Jack Fritts, the local athlete, will take part in the New York A. C. games in New York city on Saturday, June 5. He will enter in the javelin throw in which he is specializing. Ralph Runyon, of the Plainfield High School, will compete in the pole vault and running high jump events. Both are entered for the Pastime A. C.

RAIN INTERFERES WITH LOCAL GOLF COMPETITIONS

The stormy weather on Saturday interfered to a considerable extent with the golf play on the local courses. At the Plainfield Country Club all competitions were declared off for the day owing to the rain, but there was the weekly dinner-dance in the evening, which was largely attended.

The weekly competition for the President's cup attracted a fair sized field to the Park Golf Club, but only a few posted their scores. First honors were won by H. E. Blazier, who returned a net score of 84, while W. P. Taylor was second with an 86, and Charles B. Morse was third with a 91. The leading scores were as follows:

H. E. Blazier, 90, 6-84; W. P. Taylor, 89, 3-86; Charles B. Morse, 101, 10-91; Royle T. Phillips, 103, 7-96; Walter Whitehead, 115, 10-105.

22 FANNED THE AIR.

The Dunellen Boy Scouts defeated the Mountain A. C. team, of the borough, Saturday morning, by a score of 7 to 4. Torgash, the winning pitcher, fanned 10 and allowed six hits, while his opponent, Dunning, struck out 11 and yielded but five safeties.

BROKE A RECORD.

Edwin Glaentzer, boys' secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., bettered the association record for the 220 yards (one-eight mile) potato race in the gym last Saturday afternoon. He went the distance in 51 seconds flat which is three-fifth of a second better than the mark made by John R. Fritts, one time all-around champion of the association, in 1910. Only one stop watch caught Mr. Glaentzer's time so the 51 3-5 second-record will stand as the race was not official.

BORO BOWLING SCHEDULE.

Bowling will be held four nights this week in the Borough One Man Tourney on the Somerset street alleys. The following will be carried out: Tonight, Menzenbach vs. Connolly, W. Conover vs. Thorn, Conshay vs. C. Nate; tomorrow, Ferrero vs. Lewis, Kunzman vs. Howe, Miller vs. Conshay; Wednesday, Luthman vs. Squires, Voorhees vs. C. Nate; Thursday, G. Conover vs. Snyder, Smalley vs. McKenzie and Menzenbach vs. Howe.

LOCAL TALENT FIGURES IN BIG DOUBLE BALL PROGRAM

Eugene Lidgate, of Fanwood, took part in a double header, yesterday, playing with the Hoboken team. He did the backstop work in both games, the first being a 5 to 4 victory over the Lancaster team and the second being a scoreless ten-inning tie with the Bushwicks. In the second game he failed to hit safely but accepted a dozen chances without a misplay. "Bill" Stallings, who covered second base for the Pets last season, played first base on the Hoboken team and collected a pair of hits, one going for three bases. He also made ten putouts and one assist.

Joe Harter, the former Pet centre fielder, played that position against Lidgate's team and was credited with four putouts. Wilson, the pitcher that Lidgate managed, allowed but one hit in the second game.

HENRY GREATER THAN EVER.

Constant Catching All Winter Improved Washington Receiver's Work.

It depends entirely on the physique of a ball player whether it is harmful for him to keep in action after the regular season closes. In many instances the player is benefited, and John Henry of the Washington team appears to be one of these.

After the close of last season Henry joined the all star team which stayed in action until February, and Henry never was as good a catcher in his career as he has proved himself this spring, being developed by the incessant work he did during the winter.

Not only is he a smoother working backstop, but his hitting has improved, and he has never been in more perfect condition than he is right now.

PITCHER FABER IS TOUTED.

Chicago Catchers Boost Young Hurler of Chicago White Sox.

Red Faber has the most difficult delivery to fathom and the hardest curve to catch of all the Chicago White Sox hurlers.

This is the consensus of opinion of sox catchers who have been called on to stop a varied assortment of pitched balls. For spitball, curve ball, smoke ball and knuckle ball pitching the Sox slab staff is second to none in the game.

Of all pitchers counted upon as assets of the club this season Faber, say the catchers, is the most difficult from the viewpoint of the backstop.

CARLSTROM HAD BIG DAY.

Albin Carlstrom, who formerly played with the Plainfield Pets, had a good day with the Buffalo team, of the International League, Saturday, in a double bill with the Jersey City Skeeters. Each team won a game. Carlstrom, who plays third base, faced the pitcher four times in the first battle and made two singles, a sacrifice hit and a sacrifice fly, which gave him a perfect batting average. In the field he played errorless ball and accepted four chances. In the second game he made one hit and a run, and accepted one chance.

THEY'RE AT IT AGAIN.

The mysterious Plainfield baseball team, with a new battery, lost another game at Recreation Park, New York, yesterday afternoon, to a Springfield delegation, the final count being 10 to 3. Otis and Ragon were the battery for the Plainfielders. The score by innings follow:

Plainfield	0 1 0 0 1 1 0 0 0— 3

Batteries—Clifford and Schworm, Otis and Ragon.

HOPE CHAPEL PRACTICE.

The Hope Chapel baseball team will practice Tuesday and Friday nights of this week on the Clinton avenue field. The game Saturday will be with the First Baptist aggregation on the West End avenue grounds.

BODIES BROUGHT HOME.

New York, May 24—Pierre Lorillard, of New York, was a passenger arriving this morning on the steamship New York of the American Line, from Liverpool. Mr. Lorillard brought some papers for Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, which were given to him by friends of the late Mr. Vanderbilt in Liverpool. Mr. Lorillard said that he did not know what the papers contained, but presumed that they were the formal proofs of death as given by the testimony of survivors of the Lusitania in Liverpool, and to be used in the settlement of the Vanderbilt estate.

ARRESTED AS A SUSPECT AND LATER GIVEN LIBERTY

Joseph Kinney, of Trenton, was arrested in the borough, Saturday, as a suspicious character. He was taken into custody for examination concerning the robbery of George Scheelein's home, on Pearl street, which occurred a week ago Saturday night. The man has been seen loitering near the house for some time and was the one who returned the stolen staincoat to Mr. Scheelein, Monday, saying he had found it on the Central Railroad tracks just west of Park avenue.

He inquired later if the stolen goods had been returned and Chief Weiss, thinking he might know something of the robbery, arrested him. The borough chief talked with the chief of police of Trenton, who identified the man as living in that city, but stated that he had no criminal record in that city. His only offense, the Trenton chief said, was intoxication. James Kinney, a brother of the arrested man, came to this city today to look after him. He was freed by the police authorities.

GRAND JURY RETURNS THIRTY-NINE INDICTMENTS

The Union county Grand Jury brought in its final batch of indictments for this term, this morning, and was afterward dismissed by Judge Connolly with the thanks of the court. The indictments handed up today numbered thirty-nine, making a total of eighty-nine for the term, one of the largest numbers recorded for the May session of the court in many years. One of the accounts was against Thomas A. Caldwell, of Union, charging him with the murder of Frederick Scott, colored, as the result of a quarrel near their homes Saturday afternoon. This is considered remarkably quick work as the matter was not taken up until this morning.

Former Congressman William E. Tuttle was foreman of the jury and came in for a shore of praise from the court. After they were dismissed the jurors made a tour of the Union county jail. They will assemble later in the week for the usual social gathering that follows the completion of their court work.

REDFIELD ON COMMERCE.

Washington, May 24—Secretary of Commerce Redfield in his address to the delegates to the Pan-American financial conference which opened here today, urged the necessity for a free and untrammeled commerce between the countries, unhampered by restrictive laws. He declared the business interests of the United States sought no privileges not granted by the American republic to other commercial nations.

SMALL BOY INJURED.

Frank Perry, a small boy living at 30 Race street, was received at Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday, suffering from slight injuries sustained by falling into a sewer trench excavation. His condition is not serious and he will be able to return home in a day or two.

CROWNING OF THE VIRGIN.

The Crowning of the Blessed Virgin was held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Young women of the parish were present. Hymns were sung and the sermon was delivered by the pastor, Father Bogan.

KILLED AT BORDENTOWN.

REV. C. S. IMES WILL BE ORDAINED JUNE 3

Before a large audience of members and friends at Bethel chapel, yesterday morning, Rev. C. S. Imes, the new pastor of the East Fifth street chapel, preached his first sermon as pastor. He will be ordained at services to be held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Thursday night, June 3. Mr. Imes passed examination at a recent meeting of the Elizabeth Presbytery which was held in the First Presbyterian church of this city.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. T. W. Nolan and son, Bellie, of Arlington avenue, have gone to Nyack-on-the-Hudson for a week.

Mrs. A. S. Venable, of West Third street, who has been confined in the hospital for the past three weeks, has returned to her home after a successful operation.

W. W. Hall, of West Fifth street, is detained at his home by illness.

Mrs. Agnes Head, of Essex street, has been spending several days at Paterson and Newark, visiting relatives.

FRANKLIN B. PACKARD.

Franklin B. Packard, son-in-law of Robert R. Pentecost, of 115 Westervelt avenue, the borough, died Saturday, at his home in South Manchester, Conn., following an illness from acute Bright's disease. He was thirty-nine years old and leaves his wife and one daughter, the latter ten years old. The funeral will be held at the mortuary parlors of P. J. Phillip & Son, 955 Greene avenue, Brooklyn, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 p. m. Mr. Packard had many Plainfield friends through his visits here, all of whom are invited to attend the service.

INJURED MAN ARRESTED.

Having sufficiently recovered from a fall from a Lehigh Valley freight train in which he broke his leg, Joseph Rineholt, of Newark, was arrested at Muhlenberg Hospital, this morning, by Sergeant Maurice Higgins. He will be taken to Newark this afternoon, where he is wanted by the probationary authorities. After being injured on the tracks at South Plainfield he was removed to the local institution, where he has since been confined as a patient.

INFANT'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Elizabeth Gough the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gough, of Steiner place, was held yesterday afternoon at the parents' home. Rev. Father Hart, rector of St. Joseph's church, officiated, and furial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

SEWING MEETING.

A sewing meeting will be held in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. A large attendance is desired and all the women of the congregation are invited. Mrs. King and Mrs. Kriney will serve tea.

LEAL GAME TOMORROW.

The Leal-North Plainfield High School baseball game, scheduled for this afternoon on Crescent Oval, has been postponed because of rain and will be played tomorrow afternoon, starting at 3:30 o'clock.

KING CONSTANTINE BETTER.

Washington, May 24.—King Constantine, of Greece, is improved, according to a despatch received today at the legation here. The King's fever abated, the message says.

COL. WEDGWOOD FIGHTS GERMANY BUT CALLS ENGLISH LANDLORD CHIEF FOE

Josiah Wedgwood, parliamentary radical, and Boer war veteran has dropped his political differences with the government and is leading a regiment in France, "not that Englishmen may take France, but in hope that Englishmen may take England."

Wedgwood is a descendant of the founder of the Wedgwood potteries and has an interest in that enterprise. His whole soul is given up to a fight against English landlordism, however and he has been one of the chief advocates of breaking up the large baronial estates by means of taxation.

"England's greatest menace is not Germany," says Wedgwood, "but the fact that we have been starving a large part of our population in order that another part may live in luxury. We have been breeding two races of human animals. One race averages five feet two inches in height and works in factories. The other averages six feet high and plays cricket. It is on the first class that the chief burden of the war falls and the second class gets all of the benefit.

"A country is not free unless its men can work for themselves and get the product of their labor. So long as the land is all in the hands of a few, this will not be possible.

"After the Boer war, I was military governor of the city of Ermelo, South Africa. It was thronged with destitute men, yet there were thousands of acres of unused land around it and an abandoned coal mine.

"I decreed that all men might work this land and mine the coal without interference. From that time on men were free in Ermelo, because they could work for themselves and get the product of their labor. The employed workers were free, too, for they had the option of quitting and working for themselves if they saw fit. Wages rose to $5 a day and employers complained of a scarcity of help.

"I did this as a matter of military necessity. What necessities the present war may lead to I do not know, but I have hopes. Certainly know, but I have hopes."

An Appeal to Americans

BY

The Commission for Relief In Belgium

Sole Clearing House for all Belguim Relief

We, as Americans, are enlisted for the war to save seven million men, women and children. It is the greatest commissary undertaking in the history of the world, and in the lexicon of America there is no such word as fail.

We Need Food Supplies as Well as Cash

Railroads, express companies, postoffices, governors and state committees are aiding. Our Flotilla of Mercy, comprising thirty-five chartered ships, is constantly carrying food. But—Our Supplies Are Far too Short!

Are You Helping? If Not, Send in Your Name Now!

Make out your check or money order, or send cash either to your state committee co-operating with this Commission or to the New York Headquarters:

THE MASTER MIND

Novelized by Marvin Dana, author of "Within the Law," from the successful play by Daniel D. Carter

Copyright, 1913, by the H. K. Fly company.

"I see," he said softly. "But, Lucene, you've overlooked one rather important thing."

His wife stared at him uncomprehendingly.

"Have I?" she questioned mechanically.

"Yes," Wainwright answered. "Of course, I dare say, it's a matter really of no moment to any one except myself. But the fact is you've made me love you."

There came from the girl a tiny burst of sound, indeterminate, yet fraught with emotion. The husband continued with a curious severity of expression:

"You had forgotten that?"

"The wife gasped. Her color flowed to and fro in her face, so that she was pallid and fevered in the same instant.

"No, no!" she breathed.

"But—hadn't you?" Wainwright persisted. "Hadn't you forgotten, too, how you—feel toward—me?"

Lucene shuddered visibly. But her resolve of martyrdom, formed under the specious arguments of Andrew, still held. She would not yield to the love light in her husband's eyes—the enveloping caress in his voice.

"No, no!" she cried, with a hysterical vehemence. "Don't you see? That was all a part of the game—my"—

Wainwright smiled inscrutably. Something in the manner of his wife was convincing toward comfort.

"Oh, yes, to be sure!" he said smoothly. "All a part of the game! And that—that is—all?"

Lucene faltered, shrank, could not meet his searching eyes.

"That," she said despairingly—"that is—all!"

Wainwright went slowly toward his wife. There was something compelling in his aspect, something that beat upon her heart and bent it to his will, despite her struggle against him. Blindly she saw an imperative gesture from Andrew, bidding her go. She gave no heed to it. Her whole soul was absorbed by the man she loved, who came close to her, and looked down on her with eyes that searched within the innermost recesses of her soul.

"Look at me!" he commanded. She made no answer; only stood downcast before him, tremulous, longing, fearfully reluctant. "Look at me!" Again the command smote her, moved her strangely to obedience, despite everything.

"Lucene!" Once again, his voice was wholly masterful. "Look at me!" Then, at last, she yielded her eyes to his, and the piteous sacrifice in those depths taught him something of the ghastly truth that lay beneath her surface reluctance.

He went to the door leading into the hall and called sharply:

"Marshall, Marshall!" There came an indeterminate sound that he translated into an answer. "Bring Creegan here!" was his command.

A moment later the detective appeared with a manacled thief at his side.

"Take off the handcuffs," Wainwright directed briskly.

After one glance at the set face Marshall obeyed the order. Then Wainwright spoke again, to the prisoner:

"Creegan, my wife tells me that she and you had planned to go away together."

"That's right, gov'nor."

"Well, here she is, Creegan. Take her—and go!"

The thief stared wonderingly.

"Sure—sure!" he exclaimed.

Wainwright nodded toward Creegan and then looked toward his wife.

"Come, come!" he exhorted. "There's your man. Take him and be off." He went to her, took her hand, drew her forward, and placed her hand in that of the thief, holding the two together. The touch of the ruffian's hand on hers broke the bonds of her self control. She drew away with a shrill cry of horror.

"No, no, no!" she repeated fiercely. "I can't, I can't, I can't!"

"Lucene!" Wainwright's voice was surcharged with tenderness.

But the woman was become genuine now—self sacrifice forgotten under the driving of natural repulsion.

"Oh," she cried despairingly. "I'll go; yes, I will go! But not with him—not with him! Oh, I couldn't; no, I couldn't! I'd—I'd kill myself first!"

Suddenly a smile curved the lips of Wainwright.

"I thought so!" Without any haste he turned to Marshall. "Take him away!" he directed, with a curt nod toward the thief.

"I'll keep him safe, no fear!" the detective joined.

But Wainwright shook his head.

"No, not that," he commanded. "Turn him loose—let him go!"

As the two disappeared Lucene uttered a broken cry and sank to the floor, huddling in helpless weakness. As she fell Wainwright leaped to her, caught her in his arms, drew her to his breast.

"Oh, my dear—my dear!" he said tremulously. "I knew it! Yes, I knew it!"

Then presently there came a whisper from the wife, a merest breath of sound, which told him loudly of her truth:

"Oh, Cortland, but I meant to go!"

For the time being Wainwright felt himself the conqueror. He understood in some measure the device by which the Master Mind had plotted to make Lucene the instrument of his vengeance. He turned to Andrew with a smile of exultation at the utter discomfiture, as he deemed it, of his ingenious foe.

"I shall dismiss you now, Andrew," he said, rather superciliously.

The Master Mind, however, showed no trace of the humility of defeat.

"You are to learn, Mr. Wainwright, that I am not quite so easily dismissed."

Wainwright frowned disdainfully.

"What do you mean?" he demanded.

"What has passed," Andrew remarked, "is merely an incident. Now we come at last to the real issue between us."

Wainwright was plainly perplexed.

"The real issue?" he repeated.

Andrew's eyes flashed ominously and in his utterance had a new toxic quality.

"Do you suppose that, after four years of careful planning, I would place the issue in the hands of a mere child?"

"Yet it would seem that you did commit just that folly."

"Not so!" Andrew's denial was spoken with angry vehemence. "I have my chief resource against you still in readiness, and I shall employ it. Listen, sir! You aspire to high office, Mr. Wainwright. The opposition to you is strong, and it is unscrupulous. You have threatened the corporations. They know what to expect from you. Now, if in the newspapers were to appear the story of certain peculiar talents of your wife's relatives, together with a sketch of your wife's life"—

"My wife's relatives!" Wainwright exclaimed.

It was Lucene who seized the opportunity for explanation. Little by little, now that the period of most frightful stress was past, she had been gathering some idea of the truth as to the manner in which she had served the vindictive spirit of the man whom hitherto she had regarded with a reverential gratitude. Though the whole matter was not yet clear to her by any means, she nevertheless perceived beyond the shadow of doubt that Andrew hated her husband and that he had maneuvered elaborately for revenge, and that she had been entrapped by his wiles into the playing of a part against the man she loved. There was to her a wonderful comfort now in the fact that her husband had remained convinced of her faithfulness despite all appearance of evil. That he still loved her she knew, and the knowledge revived her spirit to revolt against the monstrous pretense induced by Andrew. She felt that now, at last, there was indeed an end to hypocrisies between her and her husband. The secrecy and deceit of the past had been punished enough already, perhaps, in the misery of the present. For the future there should be only truth between them. The love of the man, she had learned, was big enough to forgive the wrong she had done him out of girlish weakness, treacherously beguiled by the deft leadings of one whom she esteemed as her kindly guardian. So at Wainwright's bewildered exclamation, she cried out eagerly:

"Oh, let me be the one to tell you, Cortland. Please—please!" She clung to him in tender beseeching and felt a new strength from the fond glance of his eyes. "Yes," she went on, with a catch of her breath, "it's all true about me. I did wrong—oh, horribly wrong! I know now. My conscience told me the truth always, but I fought against it because he said I must. I let you think my name was Lucene Blount and that all these awful people were my relatives. Mr. Andrew said that it was the only way. I let him guide me. I honored him and loved him for all he had done for me, and I was sure that what he told me must be right, even when it seemed wrong to me." Of a sudden her face whitened, and the mouth drooped in fear. "Oh, I'm afraid I can't make you see, and, if I can't I shall die. You know, Cortland, I trusted him. Why, he has been like father and mother to me. And then he said he'd bring me the man I loved and explained that all this fraud about my life and relatives was the only way. He said, if you knew I was a poor girl with a bad record you never would care for me. And, because I longed so for you I let myself be persuaded and did everything as he bade me. I never dreamed that he was your enemy—never! Oh, Cortland, say that you see! Say it!"

"I shall dismiss you now, Andrew."

"Poor child!" Wainwright murmured. "Of course, dear, I see! But these persons—who are they, really, then?"

Andrew interrupted, with a gibing inflection in his question:

"Perhaps you still fancy that the Blounts are actually relatives of your wife?"

"Why should I not?" Wainwright retorted.

"Your reputed brother-in-law, Walter Blount," Andrew explained, with evident relish, "is William Slocum, alias Diamond Willie. Your reputed mother-in-law is Milwaukee Sadie, an ex-shoplifter. I may add incidentally that there are indictments out against her in Chicago in connection with the white slave traffic."

"It seems to me," Wainwright objected, "that you are talking nonsense. I myself have talked with persons who know the Blounts perfectly well."

"Those individuals were from Laramie," Andrew replied. "They have known the Blounts, so called, for the last four years in Laramie. During that period of time the Blounts have in fact lived respectably out there on the proceeds of their crimes."

Curiosity prompted Wainwright's next question:

"And my father-in-law?"

"He is Henry Morgan, alias Black Hank, a cracksman wanted in three cities." Abruptly Andrew's face took on its most malignant aspect. "And now," he said, with savage emphasis "your wife!"

Wainwright stiffened himself.

"Well?" he inquired quietly.

"Your wife, Mr. Wainwright," Andrew declared, with unconcealed exultation, "is Maggie Flint. That is her real name. She has been convicted of theft—served time. She was, however, a first offender and was soon freed by influence under a suspended sentence. You will find the facts duly set forth in the criminal records of Chicago."

Now, again, Lucene broke in on the conversation. Her musical voice was harsh, high pitched, from anxiety.

"But I was innocent!" she cried to her husband. And then to Andrew: "You know I was! Say it!"

"Yes," Andrew admitted without the least reluctance; "that is true. You were innocent."

Wainwright's professional caution compelled a question.

"How can you know that?"

Andrew smiled cruelly. He spoke in a tone of placid contentment.

"Why, as to that, it was necessary according to my purpose for her to have a record. I therefore arranged to give her one."

For a few moments Wainwright was filled with fury over this revelation of heartless cruelty against the woman he loved. He looked down again at Lucene and saw that she was staring at Andrew with distended eyes.

"You didn't know?" the husband questioned.

"No, no!" the wife panted. "Why, it is horrible! All that frightful misery—and he did it—and I—I loved him!"

Andrew's face grew tense under the denunciation, and his eyes fell for the first time. But he lifted them resolutely to meet Wainwright's as the latter spoke in crisp interrogation:

"Well, then, just what is your purpose?"

"You are a candidate for governor, but tomorrow will witness your formal retirement from public life forever!"

"You are mad!" Wainwright exclaimed contemptuously.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

"Oh, what a beautiful bubble!"

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Proud Bubble and What Came of It.

"IN the first place," announced daddy, "the proud bubble was separated from itself. It was the tiniest bit of soap ever, and the rest of it was water. And who would ever have thought that the soap and the water would have come together in such fashion as to make a cunning bubble to float through the air?

"But that is just what happened, and that is why we have a story about it. And to make a story like this we have to introduce a quality which we call imagination.

"Well, I must tell you how the bubble came to be made to float through the air with the greatest of ease. There was a cake of soap in the kitchen and some water that ran out of a faucet in the sink, and there was a clay pipe, together with a lot of other clay pipes, in a grocery store. And, yes, to be sure, there were some children.

"And the children asked their mamma for pennies, and they had been good, so she gave them the pennies, and they went to the grocery store, and they bought two clay pipes. And back they came to their homes in order to enjoy themselves, as children do, blowing soap bubbles.

"So they ran some water out of the faucet into a basin, and they 'swashed' the cake of soap around in the water till the water was all roily and soapy, and then they took the basin of soapy water and the pipes out on the lawn, for it was gorgeous summer time, and then they blew bubbles.

"My, how many bubbles they blew! But I am only going to tell you about one of these bubbles. Of course it was the biggest one in that army of bubbles the children blew that summer day. It was the proudest bubble—the proudest because it was the biggest, you see. The bigger a bubble is the prouder it is. That's a way bubbles have.

"When this bubble first left the pipe it wasn't so awfully big, but it grew, and it danced along through the warm air under the whispering green leaves and the blue sky and the warm sun like a balloon in fairyland, where, of course, the people are much smaller than they are here. And the children and their parents exclaimed at its size, saying:

"'Oh, what a beautiful bubble! Isn't that the finest bubble you ever saw?'

"And the bubble heard, of course, and it grew prouder and prouder of itself, floating through the warm air. And it swelled with pride, and it swelled and swelled till—what do you think?"

"I know!" cried Evelyn. "Daddy, it swelled so that it just burst!"

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Dr. Ellson felt that since his wife had sent letters broadcast through the country, containing damaging statements about Mrs. Morton, all thought of obtaining a divorce behind closed doors must be given up. Mrs. Morton's good name must be openly vindicated.

Mrs. Morton, Dick's mother, was the star witness, and when she took the stand and gazed over the crowd assembled, her face took on a grim expression and her voice rang defiantly to the farthest corner of the courtroom.

She gave a short, clear account of her various meetings with Mrs. Ellson, ending with an account of the visit to Nell's bedside. She ended her testimony with the statement:

"Mrs. Ellson excited her and made her worse. The doctor called every day for a week, and now Mrs. Ellson bases her plea for a divorce on the number of visits he made." A ripple of laughter ran over the room.

Now the inperturbable old lady was turned over to Mrs. Ellson's lawyer for cross-examination.

"Have you ever testified in court before?" began the lawyer.

"What has that to do with the case? I've practiced truth telling, if that's what you are trying to find out." Another wave of merriment swept the audience.

"You testified that my client warned you of the danger of your son's interest in Miss Rudolph. Tell us about the interview," continued the lawyer.

"When I was visiting my daughter this summer," began the old lady.

"Do you refer to your daughter-in-law?" interrupted the lawyer.

"Yes. I avoid 'in-laws' in conversation, and law and lawyers whenever possible. They batten on trouble," snapped Mrs. Morton, to the delight of the audience.

"Confine yourself to the question, please," said the lawyer sternly.

"How can I when you constantly interrupt?" she replied undaunted.

"Why did you resent her kindly efforts to inform you of the state of things?"

"Kindly!" exploded the old lady. "My son walked home with Miss Rudolph—they lived on the same street—in broad day light, on the public highway. He never saw her alone. This mischief maker whispered about that there was a secret flirtation and set forth to save the endangered home. She couldn't look at any act and give it an innocent interpretation."

"How do you account for the letter that came into her hands? Was that innocent?"

"Any woman who would take a scrap of a letter that a couple of ferreting maids had discovered and send it to the wife in the hope of making trouble is not fit to be at large in society. The girl was a fool, as she has admitted, and was trying to appear to advantage before an equally foolish young woman. My daughter was sensible enough to blow the froth away and no harm was done, but that woman had done her malignant best to make trouble." She turned and pointed her finger at Mrs. Ellson.

"You did not hear the conversation when my client visited the sick room of your daughter-in-law? I believe you said you were in the yard."

"The doors being open, I heard a good part of it. Your client's voice carries well when she is angry."

"What did she say?"

"She threatened the vengeance of a jealous wife, threatened to expose her publicly. This precious circular letter sent to all her husband's patients was the fulfillment of that threat."

"Do you honestly think any woman would go to such lengths with no cause back of it?" asked the lawyer impressively.

"I can't account for the actions of fools. Can you?" With this parting shot the witness was dismissed.

The judge granted a divorce to the doctor. The payment of alimony was made conditional on her keeping away from Fairport and keeping quiet.

OBSERVE VICTORIA DAY.

Montreal, P. Q., May 24—The memory of Queen Victoria was kept green throughout Canada today. Patriotic exercises marked the day, which had a special significance because of war times. Canadians are especially loyal to Queen Victoria, and no British possession celebrates more thoroughly the birthday of the late ruler.

EMPIRE DAY AT FAIR.

San Francisco, May 24—Today is Empire Day at the big Exposition, in memory of Queen Victoria. The British-American League has arranged the ceremonies of the day, which will resemble those held in England, Canada and other parts of the British Empire.

FORTY TROOPERS FROM N. Y. GUESTS OF J. FRELINGHUYSEN

Somerville, May 24.—Forty members of Troop A, of New York City, came to Somerville Saturday and were the guests of former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen at his estate near Raritan. This trip went to Cuba in the Spanish-American War and took active part in the campaign. Senator Frelinghuysen was first lieutenant of the troop.

There are sixty survivorrs of the troop. The troop was entertained at luncheon at the Frelinghuysen home and was taken to the Country Club in the afternoon. In the evening the troop was dined at the club.

TO BECOME MORNING PAPER.

New Brunswick, May 24—Starting today, The Times, published here, will be a morning newspaper. Heretofore it has been put out in the afternoon. The paper will be on the streets each morning at 5 o'clock, two hours earlier than the New York papers. The management explains that one of the considerations that led to the change was the fact that the paper train that arrived here from New York at 5 a. m. has been abandoned.

Household Hints..

BREAD SUBSTITUTES.

Bread Substitutes—Soak dried lima beans over night, pick over and parboil, throw away first water. Stew till tender, season with salt and pepper. Now drop little egg dumplings in this broth on top of the beans, and cover closely. Steam fifteen minutes and serve.

Egg Dumplings—Sift one cup of flour with the teaspoon baking powder and a quarter teaspoon of salt, stir in one-half cupful of cold water and one whole egg, beat well, and add more flour if necessary, to make a stiff drop batter. Drop with a teaspoon which has been dipped in broth to prevent sticking. Egg may be omitted and a little butter in bean broth improves it.

FOR BUSY MOTHERS.

For the mothers who have little children just getting around into everything, this will be a great help.

Make frame about two and one-half feet wide by three feet long and twenty-seven inches high, having slats three inches wide set about three inches apart running up and down from platform to top rail (which may be finished along top side with a half-round strip to make it smooth for baby's hands); bore hole in each corner and put in casters. Tack light pad in bottom, put in baby's playthings with baby, and you have a nice, safe place for him or her while you are outdoors or upstairs. Also makes a nice place to keep toys. Can be moved from one room to another or out of doors in warm weather.

SIMPLE HOME REMEDIES.

Sure cure for rough hands (if one can use glycerine, some cannot)—Two ounces pure glycerin, two ounces rosewater, one ounce citric acid. Put all together in a bottle. Shake often till the acid crystals are dissolved. At night rub a little on the hands, rubbing in thoroughly, leaving on till the morning bath. Have cured chapped and bleeding hands in a week's time. Removes sunburn also.

Glycerin applied to burns, then heaping flour over the affected parts to keep out the air, is good.

Lemon as a Cosmetic—Lemon juice rubbed on the cheeks before going to bed and allowed to dry there, will remove freckles, sunburn and whiten the skin and give it a charming smoothness and softness to the touch. This should be done about three times a week, winter and summer. Dilute juice with water if skin will not stand pure juice. Even warm water and soap are not sufficient to remove the dirt in the pores, but the acid of the lemon will carry off all such blemishes. Half a teaspoonful of lemon juice in a glass of water, brushed on the gums and teeth, will give the same feeling of cleanliness. It will remove the smell of onions and tobacco from the mouth. As a hair tonic and wash, it has no rival. Squeeze a half lemon in a bowl of tepid water and rub the half lemon vigorously into the roots and scalp.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Magic Polishing Cloth—This is a fine, handy thing for brightening up silver and does away with the muss and dust of powders. Dissolve half cup shaved white soap into cup of hot water and when this is cold stir in three heaping tablespoonfuls powdered whiting and a few drops of ammonia. Stir into a smooth jelly. Lay this jelly on clean pieces of flannel, let the cloth absorb all that is possible, and dry. A quick rub with one of these cloths will remove all tarnish.

If a garment is soiled with perspiration, wash with Indian meal and lukewarm water, instead of soap.

Wall Paper Cleaner—Two cups of flour, half cup cold water, three-fourths cup salt, one tablespoon ammonia, one tablespoon coal oil. Stir all together, boil in double boiler until like a thick paste, then let it cool a little, and knead like bread dough. Put in air-tight cans, keep in cool place. This costs about five cents and is well worth trying.

BLACK AND WHITE WITH A TOUCH OF ROSE.

This gown is one of the most effective of the season's black and white creations. Though of silk, a certain summery crispness is given by the white organdy vest, collar and ruffles on front and sleeves. The ruffles on the bodice and the flaring collar are piped with rose satin. The silk of which the gown is made was striped in black and white and girdle, neck and wristbands and the band on the edge of the skirt are of plain black faille. The latter and also the girdle is scalloped on the lower edge.

MIDDY BLOUSE POPULAR.

No. 8842-8845.

It makes little difference whether you play tennis or golf, whether you tramp, or whether you spend a morning among your books, your clothes must be comfortable, yet smart, if you are to get the highest satisfaction out of them. The ever popular middy blouse serves this purpose admirably, and as shown above, the blouse and skirt cut by Ladies' Home Journal Patterns Nos. 8842 and 8845, is a very pleasing modification of these designs. The blouse or waist is made to be slipped on over the head. Size 32 to 42. Size 36 requires 2½ yards 36-inch material.

The four-piece skirt, with a slightly raised waistline, is made very attractive and unique by a series of plaits running up and down either side. This gives the skirt a fullness that makes it adaptable to any sport. Sizes 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32. Any size requires 5 1-8 yards 36-inch material.

Patterns may be obtained at the store of A. E. Force and Company.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — POOR SCOOP—HE WAS SO YOUNG! — BY "HOP"

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

Wyalusing, Wis.—Mrs. Lydia Thomas Shrake, of this town, will tomorrow celebrate her 104th birthday. She is the mother of ten sons, the eldest if which is now 85, and five of whom fought in the Civil War. While her long and useful life has laid its impress upon her, she retains her faculties and ability to care for herself. Her memory of the early pioneer days is unimpaired.

Portland, Ore.—Miss Fay Clark, superintendent of schools of Malheur county, Oregon, has one of the most difficult regions of the country to work in. Her duties take her, on trips more than 400 miles at a time, 150 of which are covered in a wagon without springs. Only 15 of the 62 schools in her section can be reached by railroad.

Newark—Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of the novelist, with Mrs. Medill McCormack and Mrs. Antoinette Funk, of Chicago, and Miss Virginia Watrous, of Washington, are completing their suffrage campaign in New Jersey. Today they opened a two-day campaign in Paterson. The mascot of the trip is the bulldog of Miss Watrous, which is named "Votes."

Boston—A fund is being raised in Boston, Chicago, New York and Philadelphia for a memorial to Madame Marie Dopage, of Brussels, Belgium, who lost her life on the Lusitania while returning from her self-imposed mission to America for the sake of humanity and her country. The great work which she started will be perpetuated in the Depage Memorial Field Hospital. The idea for this fund was suggested by Dr. Samuel J. Mixter, of this city.

Birmingham, Ala.—The annual golf tournament of the Southern Women's Golf Association will open here today. Many parties of women golfers have come from Southern cities, and in addition to the sport on the links, entertainments are being provided by the Birmingham ladies.

New York—The Supreme Hive of the Ladies of the Macabees of the World met here today. Plans were discussed for the erection in Kentucky of a hospital for the treatment of members, which has been suggested by the Kentucky branch.

St. Joseph, Mo.—The Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs will meet here Wednesday for its sixth biennial. From 55 clubs the membership has grown to 215. Mrs. W. R. Chivvis, president, has been in California, but is expected to be present. The notable point about the convention is the suggestion that it be a plain clothes convention. Mrs. Chivvis has led a campaign for the elimination of extravagance, and the keynote of the convention will be service rather than style.

Philadelphia—The first national observance of the natal day of an American woman was that of last Thursday, when Dolly Madison Day was observed in many quarters of America. The principal exercises were held here, where Dolly Madison lived for many years. It was here that, after the tragic death of her first husband, John Todd, a Quaker, that she met the eminent statesman whom she married. The old house where she presided as Mistress Madison is still standing in Spruce street, and it was there that she entertained Lafayette, Talleyrand and other notable from abroad.

Jacksonville, Fla.—The symbolic group, representing the Woman of the South, to be erected in the Confederate Park, Jacksonville, has been finished by the sculptor and has arrived here. It is given by the Confederate Veterans, assisted by the State of Florida. The group shows a woman of the '60s, clad in the dress of the times, with a boy and girl at either side of her. A book lays open in her lap, and the theme depicts the influence of the Southern mother in the home.

THE TEMPERATURE.

CO-EXECUTORSHIP

The man who makes his wife his sole executor unthinkingly places upon her in a time of acute mental distress a burden almost too heavy to be borne, but when he names her in conjunction with a competent trust company he knows that while she will retain the supervision of the estate, the trust company will attend to all the details.

This Company is a specialist in the management of estates. Consultation on the subject is invited.

THREE PROPOSALS FOR CITY'S FUEL

M. T. Moynihan & Co., of Dunellen, Submits Lowest Figure for All Buildings.

PETITIONS RECEIVED

East Seventh Street Residents Want More Light—Commercial Mills Company Petitions to Have Watering Fountain Replenished.

Three proposals were submitted to the Common Council at the adjourned meeting, last night, for coal to be used in the city buildings. That of M. T. Moynihan & Company, of Dunellen, agreeing to furnish coal for the almshouse on Rock avenue at $5.45 a ton delivered, and for other city buildings at $5.70 a ton delivered, was the lowest. Joseph Harrigan's proposal for 200 tons of the best nut and stove coal was $6.12.5 a ton, and that of the Consumers Coal Company was $6.20 a ton for 250 tons. All estimates were given on the basis of net tons of 2,000 pounds. While no announcement was made of the successful bidder the three proposals were turned over to the committee with power to act.

John DeForest, of East Fifth street, submitted a second application to the Council for a permit to locate a gasolene storage and pumping tank on the curb east of Watchung avenue. His first request was received at the last meeting and is at present in the hands of the committee. A petition signed by Annie Hand and other property-owners on East Seventh street in the vicinity of Terrill road, was received requesting the Council to supply proper illumination for that portion of East Seventh street. The Plainfield-Union Water Company informed the Council through a communication that a two-way hydrant had been installed at South avenue and Berckman street. The Commercial Mills Company complained last night of the fact that the watering fountain on Muhlenberg place had been without water for sometime past and petitioned that it again be placed in working order. The company stated that its watering facilities nearby had been constantly in use, necessitating extra expense and considerable inconvenience. The sum of $100 was appropriated last night for the Memorial Day celebration and a check for the same was drawn and turned over to the G. A. R.

Councilman Francis J. Blatz, of the street committee, announced that action on the petition of Sumner avenue residents to have that thoroughfare macadamized would be deferred until after the sewer was laid.

The clerk was instructed to communicate with the East End Civic Association in regard to a petition received from that organization at the last meeting requesting that better police protection be provided east of Leland avenue and north of the Central Railroad. This matter is now in the hands of the police committee and will be taken thoroughly in hand.

MISS FLORENCE HAINES BRIDE OF HOWARD GEORGE

Howard A. George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar D. George, of North Plainfield, and now a resident of Bloomingdale, this State, and Miss Florence May Haines, also of Bloomingdale, were married at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the Church of the Transfiguration, New York, Rev. Dr. George Houghton officiating.

Among those who witnessed the ceremony were Mr. George's father and Mrs. Edgar D. George, Jr. The couple left on a wedding trip and upon their return will reside at Bloomingdale, where Mr. George holds a position with the Dupont Powder Company. Mr. George formerly resided in the borough and is well-known here. At one time he was in the employ of the Public Service Corporation.

CASE POSTPONED.

Arraigned on the complaint of the overseer of the poor, William Knight, colored, was notified to appear in the city court June 1 for trial, by City Judge William G. DeMeza this morning. The postponement was granted at the request of Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., who was present to prosecute the charge.

MICHIGAN WOMAN TO ASSIST IN CAMPAIGN

Mrs. Jenny C. Law Hardy, of Tecumseh, to Speak for Suffrage Cause.

The Michigan Suffrage Association has just notified Mrs. E. F. Feickert, New Jersey Suffrage president, that it will send to New Jersey for the month of June, Mrs. Jenny C. Law Hardy, of Tecumseh, Michigan. Mrs. Hardy is very well known throughout the West as a brilliant speaker upon many other subjects in addition to woman suffrage. She is a native of Australia, and as Australia is the only city in the world whose women do not lose their citizenship upon marriage to a foreigner, Mrs. Hardy, although married to an American, still retains her citizenship in Australia.

Mrs. Hardy was educated in Europe and speaks fluently in German, Italian and French, as well as English. She has visited New Zealand many times and is an authority upon the working of woman suffrage in that city as well as in Australia and the twelve Equal Suffrage States of the United States. She will begin her work in New Jersey by speaking at a meeting held under the auspices of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Jersey City, on June 3, and will speak thereafter in Newark, Paterson, Passaic, Bayonne, Elizabeth, Perth Amboy, New Brunswick, Trenton, Camden, Woodbury, Salem and many other South Jersey towns, including a three days tour in Cape May county.

The National Suffrage speakers, Mrs. Winston Churchill, Mrs. Antoinette Funk and Miss Virginia Watrous, who have been touring Middlesex, Essex, Passaic and Hudson counties, have met with conspicuous success. They will complete their tour by a series of street meetings and factory meetings in Paterson today.

"THE EXAMINATION OF CONSCIENCE" IS URGED

In a Strong and Forceful Sermon Father John Pictures Results of Sin.

Another capacity congregation of Catholics and non-Catholics attended the mission at St. Joseph's church last night, and which will be held all this week by the Passionist Fathers of St. Michael's Monastry, of West Hoboken. Preceding the sermon, Father James gave a short instruction on the Sacrament of Penance, taking up the first of five points he will dwell on each night, namely, "The Examination of Conscience." To accommodate the majority of those wishing to attend the 8 o'clock service in the morning has been changed to 7:30. The other will be at 5:30 and the evening service will be at 7:50 o'clock.

"Sin" was the subject of Father John's sermon last night, and in a strong and forceful address, he told the congregation the beginning of sin in the world, the deliberate indulgence of many who have no faith, no belief and knowingly disobey God and the result. In part Father John said:

"God made us for Himself to glorify Him. As He made the stars, the brute beast, the stones, nature, so he made man, each to glorify its Maker. Man alone, the masterpiece of God's genius, received free will that he might do God's holy will. God endowed man with a free will to obey His commandments. Man may serve or man may refuse to serve and this refusal to serve God is what we call 'sin.'

"Look about you in the world. Is there any thing as common as sin? You will find it in the home, the schoolrooms, in places of business, in the factories, wherever men and women are employed. You will find sin among the learned as well as the rude and unlearned. Can you put your finger anywhere in the universe and say 'God has not been offended here?' There are men in the world today who question God's right to command them. Men and women who call themselves enlightened, believe in systems of thought that are positively absurd. They even refuse to believe the creation of man.

"God alone is the creator and originator of man. Rebellion against God is sin. Refusal to recognize God's rights to our service is sin. Sin is not only rebellion but contempt against God. In the refusal of the angels to obey God's will, they were cast out of Heaven into Hell. That was the beginning of Hell. Through the refusal of Adam and Eve to obey God's will, an eternal curse was placed on them and their children. It was sin that crucified our Lord and as long as human passion exists, sin will exist."

Miss Elizabeth Wetherell in Charge—Episodes Depict Association's Activities—Work in Foreign Lands Also Shown.

The clarion cry of the auctioneer, and the request for bids on counters, cigar cases and other store fixtures of all sorts, this afternoon, played a prominent part in the final scene of the active business career of Bennett Britton, the 102-year-old business man, who for the past twenty-three years has been conducting a cigar store and poolroom at West Front street and Clinton avenue. Mr. Britton brings to an end today his long career as a business man, and retires to a life of quiet and serenity. The aged man is probably the best and most widely known character in this city, especially among "the boys" whom he called his friends. The rush of present day business methods, the wear and tear of modern life was fast becoming too much for Mr. Britton, who, although enjoying fairly good health, is beginning to feel the results of the oncoming years, which have some time since passed the century mark.

When a Daily Press representative entered the store this morning, Mr. Britton was carefully following the news columns of a morning paper, for he still takes a great interest in the

RHEUMATISM OF THE HEART PROVES FATAL

Emile Dreyer Expires in New York Before Medical Aid Arrives.

Within a few minutes after he had left the office of a specialist from whom he had been taking treatment, Emile Dreyer, of 148 East Front street, this city, was stricken with heart trouble on East 57th street, New York, at 7:30 last night. He fell to the sidewalk and pedestrians who noticed his condition carried him to a shoemaker's shop near by. He died before an ambulance surgeon could reach him, death being due to rheumatism of the heart. The police took charge of the body and after removing it to an undertaker's parlors, notified his relatives here, identification being made through cards found in his pocket.

Mr. Dreyer was a native of Plainfield, having been born in this city fifty-six years ago. He made his home with his only sister, Mrs. Tell A. Beguelin, at the East Front street address. He was a jeweler by trade and until a few years ago conducted a jeweler's material business in New York. Recently he has been in the employe of Gross & Beguelin, of New York, as foreman of their material department.

Mr. Dreyer had been suffering for many years with a rheumatic heart and had been taking treatment from Dr. A. Seibert, of 114 East 57th street. He visited the latter's office last evening and was on his way home when the fatal attack occurred. He had a host of friends in this city, with all of whom he was very popular and to whom his sudden death comes as a distinct shock. He was a member of Fanwood Council, Royal Arcanum, and was also an exempt fireman, having been a member of Gazelle Engine Company in the volunteer days.

Beside his sister, Mrs. Beguelin, Mr. Dreyer is survived only by a stepmother, who lives in Europe, and a brother located in the West. The body will be brought to this city this afternoon and the funeral arrangements will be made later.

SUBSCRIPTION DANCE FOR HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

The senior class of the Plainfield High School has planned to give a subscription dance for next Saturday night. Because of the proposed elaborateness of its class-day exercises and its Senior Oracle, the class has taken this way of raising funds.

An effort is being made to get VanEps' orchestra to play for the function, which promises to be one of the best dances of this school year.

VERMEULE WILL IS MADE PUBLIC

ONE OF FOUR HEIRS

Mrs. Julia Austin, a Niece, Must Receive Immediately Payment of $150,000—May Take a Year Before Full Accounting is Made.

The will of the late John D. Vermeule, the former Plainfielder who died at his home in New Brighton, S. I., last week, was opened and read at the late residence last night and, as told exclusively in yesterday's Daily Press, Edward A. Vermeule, of Jackson avenue, the borough, was one of the principal beneficiaries. Although the value of the estate cannot be determined at this time it will aggregate more than $1,000,000 and may reach twice that amount. John Smith, who was private secretary to Mr. Vermeule; Fred Townley, of Sayreville, a grand nephew, and Edward A. Vermeule, the only nephew, are named as executors with power to proceed immediately to make an accounting. Owing to the vast holdings which Mr. Vermeule had in corporations, banks and other industries, real estate and personal property, it is believed that a year will elapse before a total valuation can be definitely arrived at.

By the terms of the will, $150,000 in cash must be paid outright to Mrs. Julia Austin, a niece of John D. Vermeule and sister to Edward A. Vermeule. This amount had been placed in her name several years ago and John D. Vermeule retained the income from it while he lived. Another cash bequest of $10,000 is to be paid immediately to Edward A. Vermeule; another of $35,000 to relatives of Mrs. Mary Kelly Vermeule, wife of John D. Vermeule, now deceased, this sum having been money of her own

SECOND NIGHT CLUB AFFAIR ELABORATE

Many Enjoyed Entertainment Provided at Columbus Club.

One of the most enjoyable social events of the spring calendar enjoyed by about three hundred persons, was held in the auditorium of the Columbus Club, last night, under the auspices of the Second Night Club, a unique and elaborate program being presented. Originality, beyond a doubt, was the keynote of the festivities and during the evening a number of pleasant surprises were presented to the pleasure-seekers by a large committee in charge.

Music furnished by "Al" Squires' orchestra was a noteworthy asset to the program of terpsichorean numbers, which lasted until 2 o'clock this morning. Luigi Spada, of Newark, assisted. During the intermissions various other novelties were introduced. Shadow dancing, selecting a May queen, "roasting" forty club notables, and a cake-walk were the predominant features.

The nomination and subsequent election of Miss Helen A. Hummel as Queen of the May furnished the greatest amount of merriment. This was completed in a most entertaining manner. Miss Hummel, together with Mrs. Miles Wilson, Mrs. Bruce and Miss Margaret McWilliams, were singled out as the trio nominated by all the attendants at a poll election. Contrary to expectations the committee announced following the vote that the candidates having the least number of ballots instead of those having the largest number, would be taken into consideration in selecting the queen. Miss Hummel was enthroned amid elaborate ceremonies and a coronation parade ensued. She gave out favors to her subjects and later joined in the festivities of her court.

Miss Theresa Mahoney won the big cake in the cake-walk event. This, however, proved to be another one of the many surprises, for when the lucky (or unlucky) winner attempted to cut a toothsome looking piece of pastry she found that it had been made of tin instead of dough.

H. P. Greenwood was in charge of the portraying of outstanding characteristics of the club notables. Forty slides, which were pictures of members, were thrown on the screen by Henry Bryniarski and Thomas Harding and Mr. Greenwood delivered a short oration pertinent to each character.

Refreshments were provided by a committee composed of Otto Linke and John T. Caulfield.

BENNETT BRITTON ON RETIRED LIST

City's Oldest Man, 102, Gives up Business After Twenty-three Years.

HEALTH IS STILL GOOD

Veteran of Civil War and One of Plainfield's Best Known Citizens—Twentieth Century Strain Too Great.

"The Ministering of the Gift" is the title of the pageant which will be given on the rear lawn of the Y. W. C. A. Friday night, as a fitting event for the closing season of the association before the summer session. One hundred and sixteen young women will take part in the huge production which visualizes the association and its potentialitties to all. The pageant portrays the adaptation of association principles to the life of the student, country, city and foreign young women; the fact that the Y. W. C. A. is among the most democratic women's organizations in the world today, how girls of a city are forced out of homes into "the crowded ways" of life and need the sheltering influence of the association; that the association believes in wholesome play, freedom and physical education and offers such through its clubs and classes; that the association opens the door of many avenues of service to young women of leisure; time and ability; that wholesome friendships have been formed bringing new joys and pleasures to many girls, and that underneath all forms of association

WELL KNOWN MAN EXPIRES SUDDENLY

Joseph Nelson, Falls Lifeless on Front Porch of Myrtle Avenue Residence.

Joseph Nelson, a member of the well-known Nelson family which lived for many years at West Front and Liberty streets, died suddenly this morning, after he had suffered a paralytic stroke or apoplexy as he was ascending the front porch of Mrs. J. Manning's home at 1046 Myrtle avenue. Dr. C. B. Lufburrow arrived in response to a telephone call, but found the man to be beyond medical aid. The physician was unable to determine just what had caused death, the symptoms showing both paralysis and heart trouble.

Mr. Nelson was a native of this city and was widely known. He was a brother to the late Edward Nelson, for many years ticket agent at the North Avenue station. He was about seventy years old and had lived a retired life for a long time. His only relative is a sister, Mrs. Margaret Gardner, of Auburndale, Mass. Word has been telegraphed her and until her arrival no arrangements for the funeral will be made. The body has been removed to Cole's undertaking parlors.

BECKER AGAIN FAILS IN N. Y. APPEALS COURT

Only One Judge Disagrees in Final Hearing in Lieutenant's Case.

Albany, May 25—The Court of Appeals today handed down a decision affirming the decision of the trial court in the case of Charles Becker, the former New York police lieutenant, convicted of instigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal in July, 1912. The court ruled that no evidence had been presented to show that Becker failed to receive a fair trial and that no new points were brought out which would warrant a third trial. The opinion was written by Justice Bartlett, with Justices Chase, Hiscock, Collins, Cuddeback and Cardo assenting. Justice Hogan disagreed.

MISS LE LACHEUR TO MAKE ADDRESS

Will Speak to Graduates of Muhlenberg Hospital Training School.

The twentieth anniversary and graduating exercises of the Nurses' Training School of Muhlenberg Hospital will take place at the Hartridge Auditorium, on Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock. Inasmuch as the nurse profession is distinctly woman's domain, the management has been particularly fortunate in being able to secure a woman representative of the profession to make the principal address of the evening.

The address to the graduating class and the pupil nurses will be given by Miss Bessie S. Le Lacheur, superintendent of the Bureau of Educational Nursing of the Department of Family Welfare. She was formerly superintendent of the Visiting Nurse Association, of Boston, Mass.

Graduating from the Massachusetts General Hospital, of Boston, and the Teachers' College of Columbia University, New York city, has fitted Miss Le Lacheur for her activities in the field of public health work. The increasing recognition and demand for this work in our towns and cities will add special interest to the opportunity offered at this time, to hear a message from an experienced worker.

The Alumni Association, the nursing staff, and pupils of the Training School will attend in uniform, to offer their felicitations to the graduating class of nine young women. The VanEps brothers will furnish the music, and dancing will follow the exercises.

The Training School committee comprises: Mrs. Noah C. Barnhart, Dr. A. F. Van Horn, Henry L. Hall, chairman.

NATIONAL AND STATE OFFICERS TO ATTEND

Local Division, Ancient Order Hibernians, to Observe Fortieth Anniversary.

Plans are complete for the celebration to be held by the local Division, A. O. H., on Thursday evening, in Knights of Pythias Hall on West Front street. At that time the local order will have reached its fortieth milestone of an active career.

The celebration planned will fittingly mark the anniversary of Division No. 4 and the presence of national and State officers will add to the enjoyment of the affair. Dancing to the air of Irish music and the singing of popular ballads by several members of the division will be features of the evening's program.

The following national and State officers will be present and will address the assembly: Edward R. Hayes, national director, of New Brunswick; James J. Sweeney, State president, Trenton; Jatrick J. McCue, Jr., State vice president, Rahway, Patrick F. Hayes, State secretary, Jersey City; Dennis J. Fitzgerald, county president, Elizabeth.

The clergy of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's Catholic churches have been invited, as have the Ladies' Auxiliaries, Nos. 1 and 5, of Plainfield, and No. 1, of North Plainfield.

New York, May 25—Letters of administration upon the estate left by Augusta Hedenwall, mother of Ruth Esther Hedenwall, of 29 Washington avenue, North Plainfield, have been issued to Alma Ekelund, sister, of No. 314 East Thirty-first street, by Surrogate John P. Cohalan.

A copy of the papers on file in the office of the clerk of the Surrogate's Court, shows, that when the decedent passed away at Bellevue Hospital on May 14, 1914, she left an estate here of merely $580.39 and is survived, also, by two other children, Francis Harry and Carl Clarence Hedenwall, both who are in the New Orphans' Home at Hastings on the Hudson.

ALLOWED TO GO FREE.

Thomas Quinn, of Hasbrouck Heights, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city police court this morning charged with disorderly conduct and insulting Mary Smith, a fourteen-year-old colored girl. He was under the influence of liquor when he committed the insult and in view of the fact that this was his first appearance in the local court he was allowed to go on a suspended sentence. Patrolman Samuel Kriney, one of the three new officers in the department, made the arrest.

ITALIAN KING AND KAISER AT FRONT

Troops Rapidly Being Concentrated on Goritz Frontier and in Northern Udine.

ITALY'S FIRST STROKES

Roumania May Enter War Soon, Hears London—Action in Belgium and France Between Sea and Arras—Cruiser Reported Damaged.

Rome, May 26.—King Victor Emmanuel and his staff arrived at an unnamed town near Bologna in northern Italy, near the headquarters of the army, today. The movements of troop trains continue on all raidroads concentrating troops on the Goritz frontier and in northern Udine. The Italian government has adopted the system of official statements of progress, which will be given out twice daily.

It is reported here that Emperor William has left Galicia for the Italian frontier to take personal command of the German troops operating against Italy, who are said to outnumber the Austrians.

Italy has delivered her first aggressive strokes on both land and sea. Italian cavalry crossed the Italian border in the Isonzo River district, attacked a strong enemy outpost and forced the Austrians to retire after a sharp engagement.

Official announcement is made that an Italian destroyer shelled the Austrian harbor of Porto Buso, at the head of the Adriatic, sinking an Austrian motor boat flotilla and destroying the quay, landing stage and military barracks. The enemy lost two men killed. The destroyer took forty-seven prisoners, among them one officer and fifteen non-commissioned officers, who were landed at Venice. There were no casualties aboard the destroyer.

The War Office expressed satisfaction today at the manner in which the sea and air attack by the Austrians on the Adriatic coast towns yesterday was repulsed. It was announced that during the Austrian bombardment of Ancona one German ship in the harbor was sunk.

London, May 25.—That the Rumanian Government is negotiating with the Allies and is seriously considering the advisability of entering the war was the information received here today in a despatch from Bucharest.

Italy's declaration of war has undoubtedly influenced Rumania's attitude. War is talked openly on the streets, and there is a tenseness in the air. There was a great military review Sunday, at which King Ferdinand and Queen Marie were present. The sight of the troops in their new field uniforms of khaki aroused great enthusiasm among the people.

A despatch from Rome received today by the Daily Telegraph states that Rumania is on the verge of joining the Allies.

Paris, May 25.—The French War Office gave out the following statement this afternoon:

"During the night there was considerable action between the sea and Arras. In Belgium, following a violent bombardment, a German attack attempted to debouch on the road from Langemarck to Ypres. It was quickly stopped. To north of Ablain the Germans made two attacks which were repulsed. To north of Neuville they launched four attacks which were stopped by our artillery. The enemy in these different attempts suffered very heavy losses. On the rest of the front nothing has been reported."

Constantinople, May 25.—The following official statement was issued here today:

"Early Sunday morning a hostile cruiser was severely damaged off Gaba Teper by our artillery. It was also struck by two bombs dropped by one of our aeroplanes. The damaged vessel was towed away. There was no action Sunday in the region of Ari Burnu or Sed Ul Bahr. In the fighting at Sed Ul Bahr on Saturday the enemy lost more than 4,000 killed and wounded. Enemy's ships on Sunday feebly shelled our infantry positions on both sides of the straits without results."

Berne, May 25.—Official announcement was made today that the German-Austro-Hungarian and Italian governments have pledged themselves to respect the neutrality of Switzerland.

JAPAN-CHINA TREATIES.

Washington, May 25.—Treaties concerning Japan's influence in the province of Shantung in Manchuria and in eastern Mongolia have been signed by the representatives of Japan and China at Peking, the Japanese embassy announced today.

DUNELLEN PLANNING TO CELEBRATE ON JULY 4

The Fourth of July celebration committee organized in the Borough Hall, last evening, in the following manner: Sports committee, Walter Muller, C. T. Voorhees, F. H. Fuller, G. S. Smith and S. M. Titus, exercise committee, J. G. Walton, E. B. Latham, Charles Coriell, Jr., J. E. Dix and W. P. Deering; fireworks committee, E. H. Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. George Voehl, of Washington avenue, entertained on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Austin, of Monticello, N. Y.; Miss Edna Sebring, of Plainfield; John Voehl, of Bayonne, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Knatz, Mrs. Kathryn McVey and Elliott Taylor, all of Plainfield.

LE ROY SMITH RECOVERS.

Le Roy Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smith, of Front street, has recovered fully from the effects of his ankle sprained four weeks ago while playing a game of baseball at Washington Rock, and has accepted a position with H. D. Van Dusen, the painter and decorator, of 378 North avenue.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR SON.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maier, of North avenue, tendered their three-year-old-son, Willie, a party in honor of his birthday, Sunday afternoon. Among those present besides the little fellow's brothers and sisters were Miss Mary Pfister and the Misses Agnes and Margaret Ronayne. After a most enjoyable afternoon a dainty repast was served and the party then broke up. Willie received many nice presents in honor of the occasion.

The monthly meeting of Defender Fire Company, No. 1, will be held in the Borough Hall, Thursday evening.

TO VISIT EXPOSITION.

William H. Taylor, proprietor of Taylor's Hotel, leaves next week, accompanied by his son, George W. Taylor, of Elizabeth, for San Francisco, Cal., to attend the Panama Exposition. They will be gone at least a month. This is said to be the only vacation of any duration that Mr. Taylor has taken in thirty years.

The store in the Linke building on North avenue, formerely occupied by Harry S. Titsworth, the grocer, has been rented to R. Goldstein, of the Bonx, New York, who will conduct a dry goods business.

WILL REMOVE TO PLAINFIELD.

Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Arnold, of Dunellen avenue, have made arrangements to move to Plainfield this week, where Dr. Arnold will engage in the practice of dentistry. Dr. and Mrs. Arnold have made many friends during their short residence here and their decision to move is noted with regret.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Walton, of Walnut street, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Moore, of Cranford, on Sunday. Mr. Moore is Mrs. Walton's brother.

Postmaster and Mrs. Henry S. Garretson spent Sunday near New Brunswick, visiting Postmaster Garretson's mother, Mrs. Gertrude E. Garretson. Mrs. Garretson will come to the borough for a visit the latter part of the week. Although 83 years of age she is hale and hearty and her ability to travel around and visit her sons, of whom she has seven, is considered remarkable.

PLANNING A TRIP.

Joseph Ramsey Fisher is arranging a trip of a month's or so duration through upper New York State and Canada. Mr. Fisher's health has been miserable since the first of the year and his numerous friends hope that he will be greatly benefitted by his trip.

TO GIVE A MUSICALE.

A musicale will be given in the Methodist Episcopal church, this evening, under the auspices of the Epworth League of the church by Archie La Rue, of New Market, assisted by Miss Cressingham, of Brooklyn. This entertainment is of a similar character to the one Mr. La Rue and Miss Cressingham presented so successfully in the First Baptist church at New Market some days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wickham, of First street, entertained Miss Belle Hayes, a commercial teacher at New Brighton, S. I., over the week-end.

TO REPEAT ENTERTAINMENT.

The play, "Country Folks," given so successfully recently by the Epworth League Society, of the Methodist Episcopal church, is to be repeated on Thursday evening, June 3, in Friendship Hall, New Market, for the benefit of the Daughters of Liberty. The committee in charge: Mrs. Firman H. Gise, Mrs. George T. Schenck and Mrs. H. S. Townley, is the same committee which so successfully arranged its initial conduction.

POSTPONE SOCIAL.

The dime social, which was to have been held by the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist Episcopal church, at the home of Mrs. D. M. Torrey, on Mountainview terrace, this afternoon, was postponed, owing to the sudden illness of Mrs. Torrey's sister, who is visiting her.

Mrs. C. C. Forbes, of New York, spent Sunday in the borough as the guest of her sister, Mrs. H. A. Wickham, of First street.

SECRETS ARE KNOWN.

The secrets of the B. G. Club are now in the possession of three Dunellen "secret service men." What has happened at the meetings of this mysterious club has heretofore had the curiosity of the Dunellenites thoroughly aroused. The minutes of their last meeting, which was held at the home of Miss Lillian Garretson, last night, are now in the possession of Dunellen's "detective agency." While it is true the damp weather had rather a bad effect on the sleuth's dictaphone, the man posted at the front window is luckily possessed of an extraordinary memory, it is said, and he was able to supply the parts missed by the twentieth wonder.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pryor Lockwood motored from Arlington to the borough, Sunday, and spent the day with their daughter, Mrs. Hicks-Barrow. Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood were accompanied by their daughter, Miss Grace, and her fiance, Samuel Russell.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Although still in an Albany hospital, it is reported that Dudley Babcock, of North avenue, is recovering from severe injuries sustained a number of weeks ago in a fall while engaged in surveying in the Adirondacks.

The pupils in School No. 1 are making plans for the holding of the annual Decoration Day exercises on Friday. Each class will have its separate exercises as the assembly room is not available. Civil War veterans will make their annual address to the children.

The Civil War veterans will speak to the children at the local school on Friday. Captain William Hand, who has been a regular visitor at the exercises for many years, will be present, and Robert Walpole, who has been kept away on previous years on account of illness, will be with him. Both men enlisted early in the war from this place.

Philip Jahn, marshal of the G. A. R. services in the 'Plains on Decoration Day, is planning to give the old veterans a rousing welcome on Monday. Besides having all the local school children and Boy Scouts in line, Mr. Jahn will have both the fire companies in the parade that meets the special trolley at the Park avenue crossing to escort the soldiers to the Baptist cemetery, where the graves of the dead comrades will be decorated.

Miss Marie Boise, of Plainfield, a former resident, has been visiting Miss Grace Thompson, of Martine avenue.

John Thompson, of Martine avenue, is on an extended business trip to the West Indies and points in South America.

The annual "open session" day and exhibit will be held in School No. 1 throughout today and during the evening. The special exhibit hours will be from 3 to 5 in the afternoon and 8 to 10 in the evening. Parents of the children are urged to be present sometime during the day. Parents who wish to attend during the day in order to see the school during session hours will have a better chance to see the work as it has been done by the pupils during the past year. This one day in the school year was inaugurated several years ago in order to give parents a chance to see what their children are doing, and in talking with S. Dana Townsend, supervising principal of local schools, last night he said that he would like every mother and father to be present as it helps the teachers to a large extent to become acquainted with them and learn of peculiarities of the children they would otherwise not know.

Arthur Kyte and Wallace York, who arrived in this country from France several days ago, are spending a few days with the Misses Kyte, on Martine avenue, before they start on the return voyage.

Vantine's The Oriental Store Chinese Rattan Furniture

VANTINE Canton Furniture is woven by hand in Canton, China, and there is not a visible nail in its entire construction. It is strong, durable and is unaffected by the elements. In fact, it is really benefitted when occasionally subjected to a complete drenching. Being the lightest furniture made, it may be easily moved, and the "hour-glass" designs may be placed on the lawn as satisfactorily as on the porch, as they have no legs to sink into the earth.

We import but one quality of this furniture—the best—and to avoid inferior substitutions, order direct from Vantine's. Vantine's Canton Furniture is sold only in the Vantine Store, and for the protection of our customers each chair, table, settee and stool bears this metal name-plate:

LEGISLATION WANTED TO GOVERN NEWSBOYS

Board of Education and the Mayor Favor the "Badge" Restriction.

In the form of "Special Message No. 4," Mayor Leighton Calkins placed the matter of licensing newsboys before the Common Council at its adjourned session, last night, acquainting the city fathers with the views of the Board of Education and recommending that some steps be taken to restrict the sale of newspapers on the city streets. Superintendent of Schools Henry M. Maxson has requested that an ordinance be enacted regulating such sales and it is understood that the Mayor is thoroughly in accord with the proposition, as are also several of the councilmen. The subject was referred to a committee and will be given careful consideration prior to the June beeting.

In placing the details before the Council, Mayor Calkins said:

"This matter is covered by the compulsory school-attendance law to a certain extent; that is, children are permitted to sell newspapers and engage in other light employment out of school hours, but not earlier than 6 o'clock in the morning nor later than 7 in the evening, provided they obtain from the Department of Public Instruction a permit known as an age and working certificate. In the opinion, however, of the superintendent of schools, the enforcement of the law by the attendance officer would be facilitated by an ordinance requiring newsboys to wear badges, the regulation to apply to the delivery of papers and to their sale in public places and on the streets of the city. The ordinance will not prevent children from earning money in any way already permitted by law.

"While opposed to legislation which needlessly interferes with individual freedom of action, I am of the opinion that children on the streets constitute a problem, a good portion of which will be disposed of if we can safeguard the newsboy. The badge requirement does not seem unreasonable, imposes no real hardship, and will be of value in keeping children off the streets who have no business there.

"I, therefore, recommend the enactment of an ordinance as requested by the school authorities. I suggest that the matter be referred to the public affairs committee, with a request for a report at the regular June meeting; and if such report is favorable, for the introduction at that time of an ordinance, in form satisfactory to the corporation counsel. The school authorities would like it if the regulation can go into effect in July."

BOY SCOUTS HOSTS AT ENTERTAINMENT

Troop 14 Gives Exhibition Drill at First Baptist Church.

The members of Troop 14, Boy Scouts, entertained their parents and friends in the Bible school rooms of the First Baptist church, last night. The scouts were first drilled by Ben. Harris, who has been assisting Scoutmaster Powlison, and under his direction the boys are showing great improvement.

Scoutmaster Bach presented the troop with a parade size American flag on behalf of the troop committee of the Bible school, which will make a fitting companion to the large troop flag which it received some time ago. The scouts conducted its business meeting, after which Red Cross Patrol gave a demonstration of "first air" ambulance work, and Peacock Patrol gave an exhibition of rescuing persons from a burning building. Eagle Patrol had a telegraph outfit set up which also came in for favorable comment.

Scoutmaster Powlison made an address in which he outlined the aims and ideals of the scout movement, giving the guests a clear idea of what scouting is doing for the boys, with particular emphasis on the scout oath and law which were given by Scouts Peck and Allen.

During a social hour refreshments were served by the scouts. There were about forty guests. Arrangements have been made to have the troop take an active part in the Memorial Day exercises in the Bible school on Sunday. Troop 14 was organized last November with seven boys. There are now twenty-four scouts enrolled, all of whom were present last night. Under the able leadership of Scoutmaster Powlison the boys have developed great interest and are rapidly coming into prominence as one of the best troops in the city, although one of the youngest.

1914—Irish Home Rule Bill passed British House of Commons, 351 to 274, for third time and became a law without the approval of the House of Lords.

FEEDING SCHOOL CHILDREN.

In one of the middle western states which has a large working class population and a high percentage of children, a bill is pending to have the school authorities provide lunches for the children, in much the same way that the school lunches are provided in Plainfield. The food is to be paid for by taxation, instead of having the children pay for what they get, as is the case with the penny lunches here. The Pittsburg Leader says that the plan has encountered opposition, the opponents claiming that the method would be "socialistic," but not for a moment pretending that the public cannot afford the small extra expense. Nether is mention made of the fact that it would be a Godsend to thousands of poor children, as has been found to be the case in this city, or that it will be easier for the teachers to instruct children whose thoughts are not about empty stomachs.

The parents of children who have been forced, through no fault of either, to attend school hungry, will not regard that reason as deadly. Neither, it is fair to say, will the hungry children. Nor will the mass of the American people whose hearts have bled throughout the winter at the reports of the armies of children who have gone to school hungry and returned home hungry.

Rather parents and children and the majority of the American people will be tempted to say if that is socialistic, let us have it, and the more the better. Parents of hungry children will not haggle much over the spelling of the name of the process of relieving the hunger of their children. Neither will the children. Relieve the hunger, and let the name take care of itself. Seeing that little children are fed is more vital than deciding upon a name for the feeding.

Housing conditions are rapidly being improved throughout the country because of careful study which is being made by organizations formed for the purpose of bettering living conditions for the workers. On Thursday and Friday of this week the third annual conference in housing in this state will be held in Passaic, and it is expected that there will be hundreds present from all over New Jersey. Acting Governor Edge will be one of the speakers and topics by well known authorities will include: "Housing Betterment," by Bernard J. Newman, secretary Philadelphia Housing Commission; "Informing the Tenant and Owner," by John J. Murphy of the New York Tenement House Department; "The Importaince of Public Organizations in Housing Propaganda," by Charles A. Rathbun, Senator from Morris county; "Housing a Basic Factor in Health Conservation," by Wm. C. Woodward, of Washington, past president American Public Health Association; "Relation of Housing to the Workman and His Work," by Arthur A. Quinn, president New Jersey State Federation of Labor, and "Management of Houses," by Miss Helen L. Parrish, of Philadelphia. Great good cannot fail to come from such a gathering.

If Plainfield doesn't look to the future on the park question, the time will come in the lifetime of many of us when the youngsters in some sections of the city will have to play in the streets for lack of other suitable places. The best possible investment that can be made of the taxpayers money will be to put it into convenient vacant lots, to be developed as the demand for breathing spaces increases.

As Uncle Henry Rogers says, it must have been an awful blow to Boss Barnes to learn after spending $100,000 this his reputation was not even worth six cents. Some people don't realize what others think of them until they get into a court of law, and as for a political libel suit being successful, everyone knows how impossible it is to get a judgment in an action of that kind.

The Wall Street Journal thinks that it sees a great revival of religion coming in Europe at the close of the war. Certainly Europe needs it. But after all, would it not be much better to have brought it about by the Billy Sunday method, rather than by killing off a million or two of the young men of the countries involved?

All the debates and mass meetings on the subject may do some good, but to the average onlooker, the voters appear to have made up their minds on the suffrage question. It has been before the public so long, through the action in other states, that the matter could just as definitely be settled tomorrow as it can in October.

Now, just for instance, let's suppose that Governor Fielder tells acting Governor Edge over the long distance phone from Frisco to Trenton today, just what he thinks of the Legislature recently adjourned. The telephone company would probably have to replace a lot of burned out wires before the talk was half through.

"Man dies of fright driving balky auto" says a headline. That's a new method of killing to be credited to the horseless wagons.

THE FORUM

THE POOR VOTERS.

The men of New Jersey are having a hard time during the Suffrage campaign for and against Votes for Women. Whenever a vote is to be taken on what is "of interest to women"—a broad term in these days—the women of the State appeal to the voters.

The Suffragists have sent a letter to every voter in Plainfield and North Plainfield and the Anti-Suffragists are now sending out letters. The Suffragists merely ask the favor of a reply. The Anti-Suffragists ask for a money contribution That is a mere detail.

The point is this: That the women are doing the only sensible thing they can do at the present time. They are appealing to the voters. Until the women are enfranchised it is clearly a case of the poor male voters!

IDA H. RILEY.

PROSPECTORS DICKER FOR DUNELLEN'S GOLD FIELD?

Developments over the week-end would seem to indicate that Lloyd Smith has completed his analysis of the mineral substance, claimed to be gold, which his father, G. Sumner Smith, of Grove street, Dunellen, s forwarded to him recently and that he has made a favorable report. When called upon at his home last evening, by a reporter and asked point blank whether such was not the case, Mr. Smith would only say he had yet to receive his son's report.

It can be positively stated, however, that a syndicate composed of John D. Kersey, H. S. Carpenter and Emil Malherbie, out of town men, has been quietly endeavoring during the past week to pick up the scattered shares of a local concern, the Dunellen Company, with the object, it is believed, of obtaining a controlling interest in the concern. The company was organized in 1907 for investment purposes. A. S. Coriell, assistant secretary of the Standard Oil Company, of California, is vice president of the company; Borough Engineer Churchill is vice president and other officers are J. R. Hamley and S. Todd Kennedy. The company has a broad charter and could engage in mining.

The operations of this syndicate are connected with Mr. Smith's discovery by the fact that they were seen to hastily leave in an automobile Sunday afternooon and enter his residence.

The deductions were made stronger last evening, when it was reported that an option had been obtained on a large portion of the Equator tract. While this report could not be confirmed, a marked stiffening in the quotations of the Equator property over the week-end would seem to establish a basis to the rumor.

Temperance
NEWS AND VIEWS
THE W. C. T. U.

William Jennings Bryan addressed two thousand five hundred people at Carnegie Hall, New York, on April 30 on the waste of the liquor traffic. Among other startling things he said: "Our drink bill is two and a half billion dollars a year. The value of last year's crop of cotton was $520,000,000, of wheat $878,000,000, of corn $1,700,000,000. We spend more than three wheat crops a year for intoxicating drinks, and fifty per cent. more than the entire corn crop for the year. Our annual drink bill would build 300,000 miles of macadam road sixteen feet wide and seven inches deep. It would duplicate the stock of all national banks and have $700,000,000 left over. It would build six Panama Canals. It would amount to three times as much money as is spent on all educational purposes.' Total abstinence cards were circulated in the audience and many signed them. Mr. Bryan wrote his name as witness to some of the cards. The meeting was under the auspices of the National Abstainers' Union. There is this record of total abstainers from strong drink in olden times. "Thus Melzar took away the portion of their meat, and the wine that they should drink, and gave them pulse." (Dan. 1:16.)

"Even if the war in Europe costs ten billion dollars," says Colonel L. Mervin Maus, of the Medical Corps of the United States Army, "if it destroys five million human lives and devastates the fairest countries of the world, it will be a small price to pay compared with the value of total abstinence among those nations for succeeding generations, and I feel that it will come to that in the national results of the war. This is not only a war of men against men, but a war against the greatest evil the world has ever known. The world has never awakened to this evil, but the war is bringing to the understanding of society the effects of alcohol upon the human mind."

In an interview in Washington, reported in the Portland (Me.) Evening Express, Colonel Maus told of conditions forty years ago and compared them with those of today. He said almost every officer drank then and so did the men. "It was customary for company commanders to give noncommissioned officers passes of from one to three days to go on a spree every pay-day. The post-traders and the canteens were centers of drunkenness. The best law ever passed concerning the army was the act of February 1, 1901, that barred alcohol from army reservations. We have now the least number of cases of inebriety and they are decreasing all the time. The probabilities are that 50 per cent. of the army officers are now total abstainers, 45 per cent. very moderate drinkers and not 5 per cent. are considered heavy drinkers. Forty years ago 75 per cent were heavy drinkers, 22½ per cent. moderate drinkers and 2½ per cent. total abstainers.

"I have advocated to the department that the men in the military, naval and civil services of the United States should be compelled by law to be total abstainers," said the colonel. "Government employes should not be allowed to drink during active service. I have advocated this for a long time and I hope that the day is not far distant when every officer's commission will bear a temperance clause. The experience of Russia, England, Germany, France and Austria has taught the heads of the governments that the use of alcohol and intelligent campaigning are incompatible. It is my belief that any man has as much right to take a hypodermic injection of morphine or cocaine as a drink of whisky."

Colonel Maus, who is said to have to his credit a longer term than any other man in the army, is about to retire at the age of sixty-four years. He has rendered invaluable service, not only in the army, but in the temperance work. His fearless, outspoken advocacy of total abstinence for the individual and prohibition for the nation has had much to do with the changed conditions regarding the use of alcohol in army circles.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Plainfield theatregoers will have the final opportunity tonight to see one of the biggest pictorial treats of the season at the U. S. Astor Theatre, when the big Selig drama, "The Carpet from Bagdad," with its Sahara sandstorm and other thrilling episodes amid scenes laid in the Far East, will be presented for the last time. So numerous are the absorbing situations in this play that it is difficult to determine the most gripping. Popular opinion, however, will select the sandstorm in which a caravan is lost in a howling sand gale in the middle of the Sahara. The actors in this scene nearly lost their lives when the sand overcame them. They were rescued by British troops in the nick of time. The Carpet from Bagdad" is from the pen of the famous novelist, Harold McGroth. The production is crowded with suspense and relates in a realistic manner the adventures of two young men and a beautiful girl, ever an absorbing topic.

"From the Valley of the Missing" will be presented at the Astor Theatre tomorrow and Thursday. This is an adaptation of the novel of Grace Miller White, who also wrote "Tess of the Storm Country" and other richly romantic novels. It contains plenty of plot and the action proceeds at leaps and bounds. The Brimecombs adopt a waif who grows to manhood in stature, if not in character, as Everett Brimecomb. The play is built aroung this character. The action contains much that is interesting to the lover of scenic beauty in motion pictures, including a circus and county fair; scenes taken in a real courtroom while a trial is in progress. And the twins who play the parts in the photoplay are real twins, having been born in Newark not many years ago

Friday, "The Lure of the Mask" will be the dramatic feature together with the usual acompaniment of high-class comedies and dramas.

BOY SCOUTS' PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

General Orders Covering Complete Program Announced to Scoutmasters.

General orders were announced this morning to all Scoutmasters in Plainfield and surrounding towns who plan to participate in the Memorial Day parade of the G. A. R., on Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The commissioner said he expected to have every one of the ten troops of Plainfield in line on that day and in addition he hoped to have the troops from Westfield, Dunellen, Scotch Plains, Bound Brook and Garwood in line, making close to 350 Scouts. As a special distinction, Scout Harvey Keiderling, of Troop 11, whose application for a hero medal from the National Court of Honor for saving the life of Pearl Pangborn, on Robins Circus day, is now being acted upon at New York headquarters, has been designated special mounted Scout aide to Captain Hand, who will be commander-in-chief of the parade. The special mounted Scout color bearer will be Charles A. Eaton, Jr., of Troop 5.

The commissioner's general orders follow:

"Scoutmasters are requested to call for Scout volunteers to help the soldiers decorate the graves of departed members of the G. A. R. on Saturday morning. Four Scouts for each cemetery are asked for. The cemeteries and the veterans to whom the Scouts will report at 10:30 a. m. are as follows: Hillside, I. L. McVoy and Dr. J. F. Berg; Evergreen, N. C. Pennington; St. Mary's, J. Unangst; Friends, Edward Vanderweg; Baptist cemetery, Scotch Plains, Captain William Hand and Robert Walpole; Presbyterian cemetery, North Plainfield, William C. Smith; Spencer's cemetery, H. Craig Smith.

"Scouts will assemble at 8:30 a. m. Monday morning, May 31, in the rear of the First Baptist church, right resting on Grove street and will march in the following order:

"Mounted Scouts, Keiderling, of Troop 11, and Eaton, of Troop 5; Mounted Scouts will take position at head of G. A. R. parade as aides to Captain Hand.

"Color bearers, Commissioner Allen E. Beals, First Deputy Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., Second Deputy Commissioner E. A. Sprowl; Troop 5 Fife and Drum Corps; Troop 5, John E. Richards, asistant Scoutmaster; Troop 7, Joseph A. Garner, Scoutmaster; Troop 8, Edwin Glaentzer, Scoutmaster; Douglas Davis, assistant; Troop 9, Dr. Raymond S. Stevens, Scoutmaster; troops from out of town (guests); Troops 9 and 10 Fife and Drum Corps; Troop 10, William R. Kriney, Scoutmaster; Russell Doeringer, assistant; Troop 11, Raymond Manley, Scoutmaster; Clinton Berrien, assistant; Troop 12, Alfred P. Palmer, Scoutmaster; Troop 13, Frank B. PATRONS PLEASED WITH NEW PLAN

MUSIC IS DELIGHTFUL

Symphony Orchestra Proves an Artistic Treat—Pictures Shown in Handsomest Stage Setting City Has Ever Seen.

Patrons of Proctor's Theatre, who braved the miserable weather yesterday, to attend the premiere of the new policy of high-class music and feature photoplays, are unanimous in their verdict that the initial program was a complete success. Full houses were in evidence both afternoon and evening and nothing but favorable comment could be heard as the crowds filed out.

The eight piece symphony orchestra in charge of Prof. Ernest Fleming, of Elizabeth, surpassed all expectations. The musicians were grouped in the left hand box in order to permit the full volumne of sound to be heard in all parts of the house. Rounds of applause followed the opening overture and a secondary burst of enthusiasm came when the curtain arose revealing a handsome setting that was a complete surprise.

A new picture screen has replaced the one formerly used and it was located in the middle of one of the handsomest stage settings ever seen in Plainfield. On either side of the screen are immense colonial pillars while in front in bold relief can be seen a lion's head fountain, throwing up jets of water without cessation. A fac-similie white fence runs off to the left of the columns, giving the spectators a comprehensive view of what appears to be the front of an old colonial house. In addition, potted plants and ferns are distributed along the full length of the stage, presenting a setting that is at once restful and attractive.

Professor Fleming's orchestra was liberal with its numbers at all performances, frequently responding to encores. The set program included classical and popular selections, affording the patrons a concert fully as meritorious as those heard during the winter at subscription affairs in the city's exclusive auditoriums Music lovers will find the Proctor Symphony programs a rare treat. Professor Fleming is himself a clarinet soloist and he has associated with him only performers who are soloists on their respective instruments.

The feature photoplay yesterday afternoon and last night was Bret Harte's story of "The Lily of Poverty Flat," with Miss Beatrice Michelena posing the leading role. It was enthusiastically received as were all of the other pictures. The program for this afternoon and tonight will include Miss Irene Fenwick in the five-part production, "The Commuters," from the play of the same name by James Forbes; the current episode of the $10,000 prize serial by Royal McCardle, "The Diamond from the Sky," two reels; the Mutual Weekly of Current Events, depicting the world's latest happenings as told in the newspapers, and a two-reel comedy, "Mike's Elopement." For tomorrow the headline film offering will be Tyrone Power in "Aristocracy," the play that held the boards in all the large cities of England and America for many years. This five-part film will be augmented by the two-reel dramatic sensation, "The Witch of Salem Town," featuring Mary Fuller; a two-reel comedy, "Ferdie Fink's Flirtation," and several other one and two-part photoplays. The concert by Prof. Fleming's orchestra will have a complete repertoire every day.

ST. MARK'S MISSION TO GIVE "SLEEPING BEAUTY"

Arrangements have been completed for the playlet to be given by St. Mark's Mission in the parish house of Grace church tomorrow afternoon and evening. "The Sleeping Beauty" promises to be a success from every point of view. Each performer has been drilled carefully and portrays his character in a remarkable style. The complete cast is as follows:

DUNELLEN WITNESSES.

Benjamin Cole and Benjamin Brakeley, of Dunellen, will be witnesses in the State's case against W. B. Irvine, of Jersey City, accused of fatally stabbing James McLaughlin, a fellow clerk in the New York offices of the Vacuum Oil Company last January. The Dunellen men were employed in the same office when the stabbing occurred.

ROD AND REEL

The channel bass—the fighting, tugging battler of the surf, has made his appearance along the Jersey coast. Several were caught last week near Fortesque, and on Saturday they had moved up to Avalon. It was at this place that last season's record channel bass, weighing fifty-five pounds, was taken.

Fishing at Budd Lake, Saturday, one angler in two hours fishing, landed four pickerel and three perch. One of the pickerel measured twenty-four inches, but others ran much smaller.

Fishermen aboard the Newark boats yesterday did well. Cod, ling, and whiting made up the principal catches, although a few nice-sized fluke and an occasional sea bass were caught. Most of the boats headed for Sandy Hook, and the remainder made the Rockaway bell buoy and the Mussel Beds their destination.

MRS. STOCKTON QUALIFIES IN MET. GOLF TOURNAMENT

Mrs. H. R. Stockton, of this city, qualified in the first sixteen of the annual metropolitan golf tourney held at Sleepy Hollow, yesterday. The local woman's score was 106, taking 51 strokes to go out and 55 in. The day was bad and good golf was impossible, all of the scores returned being high. In the first round match Mrs. Stockton will meet Mrs. Myra D. Patterson, of Knollwood. Miss Marian Hollins, of Westbrook, former Met. champion, won the qualifying medal with a score of 91. Miss Lillian B. Hyde, present Met. title-holder, was second.

Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, of this city, returned a score of 136, while Mrs. H. E. Manvel, of Westfield, made a 125.

The second game of the season between the North Plainfield and High Bridge High School baseball teams will take place tomorrow afternoon, at High Bridge, and a fight to the finish is predicted. The first game was played on Hyde Oval and the home team managed to get away with a 7 to 6 victory, although the visitors threatened to do damage in the ninth inning. Stahl will probably pitch, although Captain Smalley may send Dilts to the mound in order to save Stahl for Thursday. Dorland will oppose the local team. The players will leave on the 2 o'clock train.

PLAYER OUT OF GAME.

Phillip Mills, Plainfield High School's star center fielder, underwent an operation for appendicitis last Saturday night. He is reported to be resting comfortably today.

SIMONS-PEACOCK COUPLET SPRINGS A BIG SURPRISE

Miss Helen Peacock and Miss Mary Simons, two freshmen girl athletes of the Plainfield High School, have laid claim to the tennis doubles championship by defeating Miss Kathryn Stevens and Miss Ella Mumford by the deciding scores of 6-4, 6-2.

Not long ago this pair caused a sensation in the school by defeating Miss Dorothy Crane and Miss Margaret Eaton, the latter couple being accepted as sure winners. Miss Crane was last year's singles champion and it is thought now that these two maidens will give her a hard fight for the title.

PRINCETON TENNIS PLAYERS AT P. C. C.

Tennis Committee Arranges for Exhibition Match on Saturday, June 5.

The first exhibition tennis match of the season to be played on the Plainfield Country Club courts, will take place Thursday afternoon when a doubles match between Harold H. Hackett and Fred B. Alexander, former world's double champions, and Watson M. Washburn and Dean Mathey, of Cranford, are scheduled to appear. The players will arrive in this city about 3 o'clock and will be taken to the Country Club by automobile. Play will begin at 4:30. J. S. Myrick, president of the West Side Tennis Club, where the national championships are to be decided this year, will be present and act as umpire. He will also be a guest of the club.

The tennis committee has arranged with the Princeton College team to play here on Saturday, June 5. The team will be headed by Captain George M. Church, present intercollegiate title holder. He obtained this honor last season by defeating Champion R. Norris Williams, 2nd, of Philadelphia, who represented Harvard. Church is ranked sixth in the national list of players. Ludlow VanDeventer, of this city, who is a member of the Princeton team, will probably play on the Orange and Black team. Princeton will bring six players and matches in both singles and double will be played.

The committee is also trying to get Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the Norway champion, who has made such a sensational record in this country, to play on the local courts some time in the near future.

$20 FINES FOR TWO MEN AND OTHERS ARE FREED

Goldie Ferris, Nathan Gold, John Robinson and Ruben Bluenky, the four men arrested by Captain John J. Flynn and Patrolman Dennis O'Keefe at the carnival grounds Saturday night, were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning to answer to a charge of "jostling and disorderly conduct." Blueny and Ferris were fined $20 with the option of spending forty days in the county jail and the other two were given suspended sentences.

V. W. Nash, Jr., who appeared for the accused men, made a plea for leniency after entering a plea of non vult and on the strength of this admission Judge DeMeza gave two of the defendants the benefit of an existing doubt.

BISHOP WILL CONFIRM THIRTEEN CANDIDATES

The Right Rev. Paul Mathews, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey, will visit the Church of the Heavenly Rest tomorrow night to confirm thirteen candidates. Elaborate preparations have been made for the reception of the bishop and following the confirmation exercises he will be the guest of honor at a reception in the parish house, arrangements for this feature being in charge of Mrs. Michael Rimmer.

After administering confirmation on the thirteen candidates the bishop will deliver a sermon. The services will start at 7:30 o'clock. Special music will be a feature.

Y. W. C. A. PAGEANT

work lies its great spiritual intent—receiving the abundant life, by worship and Bible study, and giving it out by "ministering the gift." Preceding the open air performance which wil start at 8 o'clock, a membership supper will be served at 6:30, for which each member may purchase one ticket for a guest.

The pageant will open with a processional in which every character will take part, Miss Katherine Aller, the association spirt, leading, followed by Miss Helen Joy, the herald, four couriers, twelve students, six country girls, twelve city girls and four foreign girls. The first scene depicts the association in college life and shows a fragment of a vesper service at the Silver Bay Conference during which the welcome which the association gives to incoming students, the expression of its spirit of social service and the religious devotion which it evokes are shown. Part two represents the association in the open country with a county festival scene during which sixteen little girls participate in a Maypole dance. Part three introduces the association in the city in four episodes. The association spirit summons girls from different walks of life and they are taken to the "wonderful land of the young." Mrs. Guy Bender, portraying Pippa, dressed like a little Italian peasant girl, enters singing and mingles with the others. The second episode pictures the physical department of the association, the spirit watching the industrial girls departing and the entrance of Miss Elizabeth Wetherell, the spirit of play, who with a group of girls portrays girlhood in all its strength, growth and joy. The third episode shows the educational advantages in sewing, millinery, basketry, first aid to the injurey and cookery. As the girls of the various departments come into the foreground they are equipped with paraphernalia sugestive of different kinds of educational work. The fourth episode deals with Bible study—in the largest sense of the spiritual life underlying the whole. Part five represents the association in foreign lands, China, Japan, India and South America being the four countries shown. In the epilogue a charge is given by the association spirit to all who have taken part in the pageant, grouped to either side of her, namely, "that seeing ye have this ministry, ye beknit together in love, that we may be every one members one of another. Therefore come we together and renew our faith."

The young women taking part in the event are the Misses Katharine Aller, Helen Joy, Dorothy Jewett, Lucy Douglas, Elsie Debele, Florence Cornwall, Margaret Smith, Marion Emmons, Agnes Griffith, Ann Hull, Laura Smith, Elsie Kurzhals, Selena Cornwall, Helen Yates, Mildred Smith, Margaret Currin, Marion Avery, Dorothy Martin, Muriel Dunham, Peg Ewart, Margaret Brizzie, Elsie Wyckoff, Ruth Schwartz, Helen Parker, Genimi Harrison, Eugina Chargois, Adelaide Chargois, Eveline Chargois, Alice Pope, Mildred Dewey, Martha Drake, Gladys Davis, Marion Jordan, Estelle Homan, Mildred Bamberger, Pauline Fass, Selma Drellick, Doloris Barnard, Gladys Weisbecker, Clara Bush, Anna Johnson, Grace Mosher, Evelyn Tennyson, Alma Thomas, Ethel and Vera McCready, Dorothy Auten, Ethel Auten, Mildred Tier, Frances Neighbour, Dorothy Ross, Margaret Conway, Helen McCarty, Lavina Todd, Gladys Stites, Alma Allegar, Hazel Creveling, May Doughty, Charlotte Cox, Sylvia Givins, Emily Reiniz, Mary Leightner, Elizabeth Worth, Elizabeth Wetherell, Doris McCarrick, Marion Reed, Ida Hummel, Mildred McAulife, Edith Wickett, Ethel Blazier, Ellen Doughty, Yvonne Harrigan, Clara Smith, Marion Mair, Helen George, Nettie Steiner, Elizabeth Voorhees, Blanche Martin, Ruth Martin, Mrs. D. Trendel, Dorothy Brizzie, Adelaide Hull, Dorothy Seader, Gertrude Mair, Evelyn Manler, Mildred Brown, Fredericka Burke, Mrs. Guy Bender, Mary C. Brodie, Bertha Vaughan, Dora M. Loetzer, Isabel Scarborough, Georgia A. Rinker, Kathryn Sargent, Ruth A. Daray, Lena A. Jackson, Myrtle Fedderman, Mrs. I. W. Hawkins, Emily Coriell, Mrs. M. L. Schering, Matilda Coddington, Bertha Sedlacek and Mary Heidt.

The pageant committee is composed of Miss Margaret McCutchen, chairman; Miss Anna Campbell and Miss Margaret Townsend, costumes; Miss Ray Haris, decorations, and Mrs. William D. Murray, supper. Miss Margaret Hawkins will have complete charge of the musical portion of the program and the young woman has been untiring in her efforts to make the affair a success. Should the weather be inclement Friday night, the supper will be held, but the pageant will be postponed.

happenings of the day, both at home and abroad. He was born at Paterson, this State, on June 16, 1813, making him 102 years old next month. Mr. Britton was in the hotel business for the greater part of his life, conducting one at Sixth avenue and Forty-first street, New York, at the time of the outbreak of the Civil War. At this time he enlisted in Company B, First New York cavalry, when he was forty-eight years of age. After the close of the war, Mr. Britton settled at Scotch Plains, where he conducted what is now known as Lee's Hotel, continuing at that place until 1892, a period of twenty-seven years. During the year of 1892, he came to this city and opened his cigar store at West Front street and Clinton avenue, and continued in active business until today, when he is having his goods auctioned off that he may retire to private life.

Mr. Britton is a member of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association of New York, Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias.

For a long period of time the man of many years made a habit of taking walks covering anywhere from five to eight miles each morning, but of late years has been unable to follow his old custom. In his early life Mr. Britton used tobacco, but for more than a quarter of a century just passed, Mr. Britton has been a total abstainer from the weed. He has always taken an active interest in matters of civic importance, and while he retires to the simple life, expects to live up to his past in this respect. The passing of Mr. Britton from the business life takes from the limelight of local activities one of the most unique figures of the industrial world in thi ssection of New Jersey, and his great number of friends and acquaintances regret that the step has become necessary at this time.

MISS MARY E. MUNDY IS BURIED IN BROOKLYN

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 25.—Following an illness from appendicitis, from which she passed away at the Skene Sanitarium last Saturday, Miss Mary Ellen Mundy, a sister of Edwin and Daniel W. Mundy, of Plainfield, N. J., was buried today in the Mundy family plot in the Evergreens cemetery. Funeral services were held last night at the late home at No. 21 St. Charles place.

Miss Mundy, who was a native of Brooklyn, was the daughter of the late George Mundy, who was a widely known journalist and magazine publisher of this city. There also survives two other brothers, Arthur, of San Francisco and George W., of this city. Miss Mundy resided here all of her life and devoted a considerable part of her time and means to charitable endeavor.

WILL IS MADE PUBLIC

which she had willed to her husband during his life time, after which it was to revert to her people. One of these latter is Rev. Dr. Johnson, of Madison. Several other small bequests are mentioned in favor of the private secretary, and former business associates. After these matters have been taken care of and all bills paid, the residue of the estate is to be divided equally in three parts and given to Edward A. Vermeule, of North Plainfield; Fred Townley, of Sayreville, and Murray Townley, of Paterson. The Townley boys are grandsons of John D. Vermeule's brothers. Fred Townley is secretary of the Sayre & Fisher Company, South River. The will was drawn up and dated in 1910.

A hurried inventory of Mr. Vermeule's estate shows that he held $275,000 worth of stock in the United States Rubber Company and also had large holdings in the Goodyear Rubber Selling Company and the New York Rubber Glove Manufacturing Company; also stock in several New York banks. His realty includes several large pieces of property in Leavenworth, Kan., a number of apartment houses in New York and Brooklyn and practically all of York Cliffs, Maine. York Cliffs is an exclusive summer resort embracing five hundred acres of ground with an ocean frontage. It has been controlled by an incorporated company of which Mr. Vermeule was president. A fine summer hotel, costing $150,000 and known as Passaconnaway Inn, was built on the premises and beside owning two-thirds of the York Cliffs stock, Mr. Vermeule has a $50,000 mortgage on the hotel building. He also had a fine summer home at York Cliffs, which cost $25,000 to build a few years ago. All this property must be sold before the full value of the estate becomes known.

Beside settling up the John D. Vermeule estate, the three executors named must also settle the estate of Clinton Van Fleet. The latter, who died a few years ago, was also a native Plainfielder and was practically adopted by Mr. Vermeule when he was a young man. At the death of Mr. Van Fleet, his property was willed to his wife with instructions that it should be placed in the care of Mr. Vermeule at her death. Mrs. Van Fleet died a short time ago and Mr. Vermeule held everything in trust for Mr. and Mrs. Van Fleet's relatives. This estate is also worth many thousands of dollars. Mr. Van Fleet was associated with Mr. Vermeule in many of his enterprises and when the former died he was vice president of the York Cliffs Company and also vice president of the Goodyear Rubber Company.

FUNERAL OF MRS. KUNZMAN.

The funeral of Mrs. Hannah Leah Kunzman, of Plainfield avenue, was held from the late residence yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment was made in the Hebrew cemetery at South Plainfield.

CLAN MACKENZIE HOLDS SUCCESSFUL PACKAGE SOCIAL

Clan Mackenzie, Order of Scottish Clans, held one of the most successful "package socials" of the season in its rooms last night, the proceeds being for the sick fund organization. The large attendance included almost the full membership of Craig-a-Lea Lodge, Daughters of Scotia. Each woman brought a package and these were auctioned off to the highest bidders, the man securing a package eating the contents with the person who brought it.

During the evening Peter McKinnon, of Westfield, played the bagpipes and vocal selections were given by Mr. Boggie accompanied by Mrs. Boggie. F. P. Powers rendered piano selections and Scotch records were played on the phonograph in charge of Robert Murray. The affair was arranged by the amusement committee of the lodge while Chief William Spaulding acted as chairman during the evening.

HEALTH BOARD REQUESTS FUND TO EMPLOY NURSE

A resolution adopted by the Plainfield Board of Health was presented to the Common Council, last night, requesting that body to set aside an appropriation of $8,500 for health work in Plainfield during the ensuing year. The Health Board is desirous of instituting a fund for the maintenance of a nurse to take care of infant welfare work in connection with the Board's routine and $500 is necessary to establish such a feature.

Inasmuch as the Council fixed an increase in the appropriation for the nursing bureau this year the city fathers are not favorably inclined toward supplying an additional $500 to the Health Board and that body will be so informed by the clerk, who was authorized to communicate with the Board.

KING CONSTANTINE HAS RELAPSE; IS MUCH WORSE

Athens, May 25.—After showing considerable improvement which caused announcement that he was out of danger, King Constantine suffered a sudden sinking spell this afternoon. His condition became worse than at any previous time.

MORE LUSITANIA BODIES.

New York, May 25.—Five more bodies of Lusitania passengers are being brought to New York on the White Star liner Lapland due to arrive next Monday morning, according to cable advices received this morning by the line. The bodies are those of George R. Copping, Miss Catherine E. Willey, W. H. H. Brown and Miss Elizabeth Secombe. The fifth is that of a man named Lindsay, whose names does not appear on the local passengers lists of the Cunard Company. All were first cabin passengers.

AUTOIST FINED $10.

Charged with driving his automobile on West Seventh street, in the vicinity of John street, Sunday morning at a speed estimated by Patrolman Martin T. Welsh to have been twenty-eight miles an hour, Fred B. Tompkins, of this city, was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 by Judge DeMeza in the city police court this morning. He admitted driving at twenty-four miles an hour, which is in excess of the speed limit.

CARLSON—JOHNSON.

Miss Helga E. Johnson and Emil W. Carlson, both of this city, were quietly married on Saturday evening at the home of Nels Nelson, 506 Lee place, Rev. F. L. Greene, of Hope chapel, officiating. Through an error it was announced yesterday that Miss Johnson and Nels Nelson were married.

MAYOR CALKINS TO TAKE OUT LEAGUE MEMBERSHIP

The Common Council at its adjourned session last night, authorized Mayor Leighton Calkins to act as a committee of one and city delegate in the formation of a State League of Municipalities, more informally known as the Mayors' League of New Jersey. The city will pay the annual dues amounting to about $46.

The object of this organization is to bring the State's cities, towns and villages into closer touch for the study of municipal problems and the improvement of municipal administration. The idea is to have the mayors or other executives meet at various intervals for the discussion of maters of mutual concern.

PLAINFIELDERS NAMED IN NEW MACHINERY COMPANY

Articles of incorporation were filed in the office of the county clerk at Elizabeth, this morning, by the E. H. Mumford Company. The concern will manufacture machinery of all kinds and will erect a factory at Elizabethport, adjoining the new shipyard, which is to be located near First street.

The capital of the company is placed at $50,000, divided into shares at $100 each. The incorporators named are T. J. Mumford, of Plainfield, one share; Rose Skell Mumford, eighteen shares, and Howard Sinclair, Elizabeth, one share. Howard Sinclair is named as the company's agent.

ORDINANCE TO GOVERN SEWER MAIN "TAPPING"

An ordinance, designed to establish new regulations concerning the installation of sewer connestions, was introduced by Councilman Francis J. Blatz at last night's meeting of the Common Council and passed on two readings. The ordinance gives the sewer committee entire charge of the work and owners of houses contemplating the connecting of pipes with the mains must first make application to the city engineer.

Fixed rates for applications and permits have been mapped out and the applicants will have to adher to the new series of restrictions in the event of the favorable acceptance of the proposition on third and final reading after it is advertised.

NO CHANGE IN MEXICAN POLICY SAYS WILSON

Washington, May 25.—There is to be no change in the administration's policy in the Mexican problem, President Wilson told callers today. He denied with some asperity published reports that because of the report of Duval West, his special investigator of conditions in Mexico, an embargo would be placed immediately on the shipments of arms across the Rio Grande. Mr. West also was said to have told the President last night that the leaders of the various factions were more eager for loot than liberty, and that they could not be trusted. This the President also denied, adding that he had no reason for distrusting the motives of the leaders now battling each for what he deemed right.

SCHOOL HEAD DISMISSED.

New York, May 25—Mrs. Mary C. Dunphy, superintendent of the New York City Children's Hospital and School, on Randall's Island, was found guilty today of six of the eight charges on which she was tried. She was ordered dismissed by Acting Commissioner of Charities H. C. Wright. The order goes into effect today.

FIVE DEAD IN POWDER PLANT.

Wilmington, Del., May 25.—Five men were seriously injured this morning, in an explosion at the Du Pont Powder Company's plant at Carney's Point, New Jersey. The accident occurred in the dry house. The injured are now being brought to hospitals in this city by means of boats.

BROKE HIS WRIST.

While cranking an automobile in front of the postoffice last night, Fred Miller, a letter carrier, fractured his right wrist in two places and sprained the elbow. He was attended by Dr. Hervey Buchanan and was later removed to his home.

MAY BE SPECIAL SESSION.

Washington, May 25.—Visitors to the White House today shared in the belief that President Wilson was not so unalterably opposed as he has been to the idea of an extra session of Congress.

WM. S. HANCOCK DEAD.

Trenton, May 25—Former State Controller William S. Hancock died at Browns Mills today. Mr. Hancock was vice-president of the Trenton Potteries Company and president of the Acme Rubber Company.

Mrs. A. Conod, of Orange, returned to her home yesterday greatly improved after an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital on May 12. The operation was performed by Dr. Gesswein, her family physician.

PRESIDENT MISUNDERSTOOD IN MERCHANT MARINE TALK

Washington, May 25—Disavowal was made by President Wilson today that his speech to the Pan-American Commercial Conference yesterday, contained a warning that the Government would build a merchant marine if private capital refused to provide steamship lines for Latin-American trade. The President protested that he had the general situation in mind when he spoke, and that his words had been misinterpreted. He expressed the conviction that private capital would provide the shipping necessary. His speech, he said, was intended merely to point out the situation that existed and he said he had nothing new in mind when he made it.

BRIEF WAR NOTES

London, May 25.—A despatch from The Hague says that the government of the Netherlands has sent a note to Germany protesting against the sinking, May 7, of the Cunard Line Steamer Lusitania by a German submarine. The contents of this note are substantially the same as that in the American communication on the same subject. The lives of several Dutch subjects were lost when the Lusitania was torpedoed.

Amsterdam, May 25.—The German Reichstag will meet next Friday, May 28.

Washington, May 25.—President Wilson today signed a formal proclamation of neutrality in the war between Italy and Austria-Hungary. The announcement was in substance precisely like those issued on the outbreak of hostilities between the other warring European powers.

Ambassador Bakhmeteff, the Russian envoy, conferred at some length with Secretary Bryan today.

The Italian postal authorities today advised the U. S. Postoffice Department that until further notice the parcel post service between the two countries would be suspended because of the war.

CHILD ODDLY HURT.

Annie Berzac, three years old, of Dunellen, was received at Muhlenberg Hospital, this morning, suffering from a severe gash on the forehead. The child was playing about the kitchen of the parents' home and pulled a glass pitcher from a table. It broke as it struck her on the head and one of the fragments inflicted the injury. She will be kept at the hospital for a day or two.

AT THE EXPOSITION.

The following persons were registered during the past week at the New Jersey building at the Panama-Pacific Exposition: Mr. and Mrs. George D. Patten, of this city, and R. C. Regans and Ola H. Riffert, of Bound Brook.

Pictures In Gardens.

Above most other arts, landscape architecture is based on nature, and the art should be practiced on natural lines. The evolution of growing things, the development of distinct types of effect, although greatly varied, can be, and should be, made to bear the stamp alike of definite, though perhaps instinctive, ideas throughout the various kinds of landscape gardening, whether it be a park, an estate, a village garden or a window box. It should make a fine picture, no matter how small or how large.—New York Telegram.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

Novelized by Marvin Dana, author of "Within the Law," from the successful play by Daniel D. Carter

Copyright, 1913, by the H. K. Fly company.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Last Menace.

"YOUR retirement from public life for all time," Andrew persisted, with sinister enjoyment in the reiteration. "Come, come, Mr. Wainwright!" he went on, with malignant mockery. "When this little story is published abroad do you suppose the people of this state will have you, a dupe, a laughing stock, for the governor? I think I'll leave you to meditate on the situation. Or, perhaps," he suggested, "you would prefer to hand me now your resignation as a candidate for governor?"

Wainwright was thinking rapidly.

"Must you have your answer now?" he demanded.

"I will receive it any time before daybreak," the Master Mind conceded. "Suppose we set the time at 5 o'clock this morning."

"That will suit me very well indeed," Wainwright agreed.

"That hour makes a particular appeal to me," Andrew went on smoothly. "It was something less than four years ago, at about the hour of 5 in the morning, that my brother whom I loved sat in a stone cell—waiting—waiting for the dawn, the coming of which should end his life. So, now, I leave you—waiting for the dawn—and me!—waiting for the end of something you hold dearer than life, I think—the end of your public career. Until 5 o'clock, Mr. Wainwright!" The Master Mind wheeled quickly and went out of the room.

Alone together husband and wife gazed long into each other's face. He beat and kissed the tender lips. When the caress was done she spoke pathetically:

"Oh, Cortland, darling, what have I done to you?"

"There, there, dearest!" he answered soothingly. "You are not to be blamed in any way, not even by yourself. You were caught in the meshes of a devil. You had no chance against the vindictive sagacity of the Master Mind. Go to the telephone in my study," Wainwright directed briskly, with the precision of one who has exactly determined his course, "and call up 114—party J."

He kissed her again hurriedly, but very fondly, and put her from him.

Marshall returned.

"Creegan's miles away now, by the rate he was going," Marshall replied.

Wainwright snapped. "Find Parker. You'll have to rout him out of bed, I suppose. Have him wake up the Blounts and herd them together for an interview with me right away. You keep an eye out for Andrew that he doesn't interfere." Lucene's voice came down the stairway in a summons to her husband, and he hurried to answer. At the telephone in the study, where his wife had left the receiver lying ready for his use, he put it to his ear, and called:

"Is this 114—party J? Yes? Dr. Forbes. You? Ah, doctor, listen! This is important."

"Well, at least, that much has been arranged," he said. "Dr. Forbes has promised to come over here at once. Thank heaven, now we have a chance to win in this struggle."

"But I do not understand just what you mean to do," the wife exclaimed wonderingly. "You told him that Andrew had developed a strange mania, unmistakable symptoms of insanity; that you wished the man put under restraint for a period of observation. But you didn't tell the doctor the truth. And you will have to do that when he comes."

Wainwright shook his head.

"No," he said resolutely "I shall convince the doctor that the man is mad."

Lucene welcomed the distraction of movement, when Wainwright suggested that they should descend to the library, to await the appearance there of the Blounts, and the later advent of Dr. Forbes. Indeed, the two had hardly more than settled themselves in rather impatient expectation when Marshall entered the room, and behind him trailed Mr. and Mrs. Blount, and their putative offspring, Walter.

At once, when the others were within, Marshall, in response to a gesture from Wainwright, shut the door.

"Look here, Cortlandt!" Blount stormed, his big voice rumbling hoarsely. "What the devil does this fellow mean by routing us out of bed at this unholy hour of the night?"

Mrs. Blount, too, and Walter added their querulous complaints.

"Shut up—the lot of you!" Wainwright commanded fiercely.

Wainwright had turned his gaze full on the westerner at the beginning of the outburst.

"You were saying, Mr. Morgan"— he began.

Blount shrank as from a blow, and his ruddy face grew gray.

"Wh—what? What's that?"

Wainwright was explicit enough.

"I said, 'Mr. Morgan—Mr. Henry Morgan, to be exact—alias, Black Hank.'"

Blount mopped his forehead with a handkerchief that became quickly wringing wet with the perspiration that had gushed forth at this open mention of a name that made audible all his terror of the law's vengeance against him for many offenses against it. "I have no idea as to what you are talking about!" he answered.

Wainwright smiled with scorn.

"Perhaps," he remarked dryly, "your wife may prove more intelligent than you appear to be."

"Me? Why, the idea!" she cried hysterically. "Me? The idea!"

Wainwright regarded the excited woman with eyes in which there was no pity. His voice as he addressed her again was metallic:

"Yes, you, Sadie!"

The woman winced perceptibly.

"That is a respectful way for you to speak to your mother-in-law, ain't it, now?" she demanded indignantly, with a disdainful toss of her head. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Cortland. So you should. 'Sadie,' indeed!"

Wainwright permitted himself another smile.

"Yes, 'Sadie, indeed!'" he agreed whimsically. "I might say Milwaukee Sadie, in fact!"

"Oh, rats!" she cried. And, having so said, she flopped down into a chair which creaked complainingly. Between sobs her voice sounded lugubrious. "And just when everything was going so nice too!"

Walter thrust out his jaw in proclamation of the strong will power he did not possess and essayed a tone of rather haughty remonstrance.

"Say, Cortland, I am shocked and surprised—greatly surprised. Honest to God, I don't know what"—

Wainwright's eyes sparkled angrily.

"Oh, so you don't know, eh?" he said icily. "Well, I do, Mr. Slocum."

The collapse of the fellow was almost ludicrously swift. He could only mumble a feeble attempt at a question, while his gaze shifted furtively, downcast.

"M—Mister what?"

"Mr. Slocum," Wainwright retorted, with clear emphasis, that suggested no doubt as to the fact; "alias Diamond Willie."

Blount, criminal though he had been for most of his life, was nevertheless a man and possessed of a man's spirit. The westerner spoke with a certain plain sincerity that became him.

"Well, Mr. Wainwright," he said gruffly, discreetly relinquishing the more familiar form of address, "what are you going to do with us? Give it to us straight now. There's no use in beating about the bush. What are we going to get?"

There came a little lightening of Wainwright's face as he listened. His answer was prompt, but cryptic:

"It all depends."

U. S. GETS 32-KNOT DESTROYER.

Boston, May 25.—The destroyer Cushing, recently completed at Quincy, is being put through her speed tests off the New England coast today. In her unofficial trip she made in excess of the contract requirement of 29½ knots per hour for four hours continuously, and there was no attempt to force her. In fact, only 13,500 of the 20,000 horsepower which the Cushing is capable of developing was employed. It is believed the ship can easily make 32 knots an hour when forced to a reasonable limit. This will make her one of the speediest of destroyers.

THE SHEPHERDESS HAT IN MIDSUMMER GUISE.

The genuine shepherdess hat dips at the front and back of the brim. This shape is particularly fashionable this season and here is a charmingly pretty shepherdness chapeau, made of shirred white mousseline and embroidered net. A bow of Nattier blue velvet encircles the crown and the conventionalized roses which seem to weight down the brim over the eyes are in shades of pinkish lavender.

CLOTHES FOR THE SMALL BOY.

No. 8266.

A mother's clothes problem is not limited to the selection of her own wearing apparel; she is constantly obliged to plan the ever changing wardrobe of her growing children. The problem is made considerably easier, both from the point of view of expense and selection of clothes if a pattern catalog showing practicable and good looking designs can be consulted with the assurance that the patterns will accurately and easily make up. A design of this sort for the small boy taken from the Ladies' Home Journal Counter Book is No. 8266, shown above. It is a boy's Dutch suit, the trousers for which can be made to extend to or below the knees. It has full length sleeves, sailor collar ruffle neck. Size 2, 4, 6, 8. Size 6 requires 2 yards 36-inch material.

Health Notes

Published by the Plainfield Health Department.

A SEASONABLE WARNING! POISON IVY!

Poison ivy is the most common and dangerous poisonous plant which is to be found in this country. Contact with it has spoiled so many vacations and caused so much needless pain that a word of warning at this time is seasonable.

It may be recognized as a vine which trails over the ground and climbs fences and trees by means of a hairlike growth of false roots. It usually has three leaves on a stem, and occasionally there are five. The leaves are a brilliant green and when new are glossy and have a reddish tinge.

The small, greenish flowers are produced in June. The fruit is long, globe-like, gray-green in color and about one-sixth of an inch in diameter.

No known locality is at the present time free from it, for it will grow wherever it can find root space. It is quite ordinary to see fences entirely hidden from view by its mass of growth.

One should avoid its locality if subject to poisoning from it and even if one is not, no chances should be taken. When the vine is in blossom one should keep away as far as possible for the wind may carry the poisonous pollen some distance.

If you should come in contact with it, thoroughly wash your skin as soon as you can with water as hot as you can stand it, using plenty of ordinary yellow laundry soap. This will help kill the poison and may save you from a painful case of ivy poisoning.

There is probably no absolute cure, but a lead wash, a warm solution of blood root or of hyposulphite of soda may give temporary relief. In severe cases or when one is very susceptible to the poison, a physician should be consulted.

If there is any poison ivy growing near your home, report the matter to the Board of Health and steps will be taken to have it eradicated.

The vines may be killed by pouring a strong salt brine or a 50 per cent. solution of sulphuric acid on the roots.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH NOTES

The Forty Hours of Devotion will begin at the last mass next Sunday morning.

The second Sunday in June will be a memorable one to a large class of young children, who will receive their first holy communion on that date.

The T. A. B. S., of Plainfield, will hold solemn vespers in St. Mary's church on June 6. This will mark the climax to its celebration in honor of its forty-third anniversary.

The A. O. H., Division No. 4, are planning for a celebration on the 27th of this month, when, with the members of the Ladies' Auxiliaries, it will enjoy a banquet in honor of the fortieth anniversary of the local division.

The Social Club, of the I. A. B. Society, will hold a strawberry festival on June 28.

POLICE CHIEFS IN CONVENTION.

Cincinati, O., May 25.—Cincinnati is a bad place for crooks this week. Today a thousand chiefs of police from many sections of the country met for the annual convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs. Four days of business and pleasure have been arranged. Major Richard Sylvester, who recently resigned as chief at Washington, D. C., will preside.

An airship continually patrols over the Kaiser's capital. It is a fashionable fad in Berlin to take a flight in the patrolling Zeppelin.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Baby Moose In the Big Dark Woods.

"THE baby moose lived in the big dark woods," said daddy; "but, you see, he was just as well satisfied and a good deal better than he would have been in a cage in the zoo, for there was bright sunshine all about him and the blue sky overhead." Daddy was beginning the evening story.

"He was the homeliest little fellow you ever saw, but he looked pretty to his mother, like all babies. He had a couple of funny little bumps on his forehead, where a pair of big spread eagle horns would come later, and he had a great, big, fat hump nose. His nose was so big that when you looked into his face you couldn't see very much of it but nose. He had a pair of dark and rolling eyes, and he was all covered with rough, coarse hair, with a funny little short tail behind. Oh, he was a funny baby moose, all right, and so homely that it was a shame!

"But what did the baby moose care? He was homely, to be sure, but he looked pretty to his mother. He followed her about all day through the deep dark woods on four spindly, sprawly, scrambly legs that looked as if they would separate and let him right down on the ground every minute. But they didn't, and he just wobbled along somehow, following his mother through the deep dark woods.

"Moose are rather rude, rough animals, not at all the kind that feed on candy and popcorn. This little moose went around with his mamma browsing on the tender shoots of young trees mostly—that is, after he had grown some big ugly teeth so as to chew solid food. And this fare tasted just as good to him as sweetmeats do to you, Jack and Evelyn.

"These big dark woods where the baby moose and his mother lived were up in the state of Maine. There were miles and miles of the woods to ramble through, and the little moose when he grew to be a big moose lived a happy and contented life there.

"He used to stand on the shore of a great lake and bellow across the water, and you could hear the call for miles and miles. And then the bumps on his forehead had given place to great big horns, and he was so big—well, you wouldn't have wanted to meet him in the woods.

"Then one day, one sad, sad day, a being walking on two legs and carrying a long black 'something' in his hands came along. He pointed that long black 'something,' which was a gun, we know, at Mr. Moose. Bang! went the gun. Down went Mr. Moose. And now his big spread eagle horns adorn the wall of a famous hunting lodge up in the Maine woods."

Household Hints

ROLLS, ETC.

Finger Rolls—Scald pint of milk; while still warm add to it two level tablespoons butter; when just lukewarm, add one compressed yeast cake dissolved in half cup lukewarm water, one-half teaspoon salt, one egg beaten light, one tablespoon sugar, sufficient flour to make soft dough—about four cups. Beat five minutes, cover and stand in warm place two and one-half hours. When light, add sufficient flour to make a dough that will knead. Knead fifteen minutes, cover dough and stand it aside until it has doubled its bulk (about one and one-half hours); turn dough carefully onto board, pinch off pieces size of English walnuts. Roll out carefully into small finger-shaped rolls. Place in pan, brush with milk, let stand in warm place three-fourths hour. Bake in quick oven fifteen minutes; after baking ten minutes, draw pan to front of oven, brush rolls with tablespoon white of egg, one of water and one of sugar beaten together. Glaze in oven.

Popovers—One cup flour, one cup milk, two eggs, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Beat eggs slightly, add milk, pour into dry ingredients, stirring until free from lumps. Bake in greased muffin pans in hot oven thirty-five to forty minutes.

White Muffins—One tablespoon sugar, one tablespoon butter, one egg, one cup milk, pinch of salt, two cups flour, two heaping teaspoons baking powder.

Corn Muffins—Three-fourths cup corn meal, one and one-quarter cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt, four teaspoons baking powder (level full) one cup sweet milk, one egg, one tablespoon butter. Mix dry ingredients, add egg well beaten, milk and butter. Bake in muffin pans twenty minutes.

ICE CREAM EASILY DIGESTED.

Metchnikoff, the great French scientist, points out the peculiar fact that animals with the longest intestines live the shortest lives and animals with the shortest intestines live the longest life. The reason, he says, is that animals of long intestines, such as man, collect a greater amount of waste matter and so afford more opportunity for germ attacks.

Consequently, if we eat food that has the least waste and is the easiest to digest we will live far longer.

The value of ice cream is that it has little waste matter and that it is easy to digest. That is why invalids can eat ice cream when they can't eat anything else.

DANDELION WINE.

Four quarts flowers, pick off short; pour four quarts boiling water over them, let stand over night (or twelve hours), then strain, add juice four lemons, strain again the next day. Then add four pounds granulated sugar; let stand a week in jar; skim every day. Then put in jug or bottles, keeping open for a while; keep them filled so the top can be skimmed off. Should be six months old before using.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Silk Skirt Protector—To make silk petticoat last twice as long, take thin goods, such as lawn (or any thin, discarded skirt will do), line silk petticoat, follow seams as far as flounce and fasten at top of flounce. All strain is removed from silk and, as goods is thin, will not make skirt heavy or mar beauty of skirt.

Juicy Pies—Rub crust with white of egg before putting material in, then the juice won't soak through and make piecrust soggy.

To Fill Cracks In Plaster—Use vinegar instead of water to mix plaster of paris. The mass will be like putty and will not set for twenty or thirty minutes; push it into the cracks and smooth off nicely with a table knife.

INSOMNIA BANISHED NOW

To secure a good night's sleep in hot weather pour a hot water bag about half full of cold water. Screw top partly on, then with one hand squeeze upper part of bag until all air has been excluded. Now tighten the top and a soft, pliable pillow is obtained. Wrap this in a towel or slip inside the pillow-cases, and lay your head so bag will be at back of the neck. In a few moments the most cooling sensation will pervade your body and sleep will quickly follow.

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Nell was prostrated when they returned from Gardner, where they had been summoned as witnesses in the divorce proceedings of the Ellsons. Mrs. Morton put her to bed, got supper and was generally useful.

"Now, Dick, I am going to take Nell to the farm if she's able to travel tomorrow, and keep her there for the two weeks given that Ellson woman to get out of town. I hope, now that you are permanently rid of that disturbing element, that she can get some strength. There never was a woman who could succeed so well in keeping the whole town by the ears as this ex-wife of the doctor."

"That's a good plan," assented Dick. "Quiet and complete change will do her good and the talk will have had time to die down by the time she returns."

"The country is lovely now," continued his mother. "The line of old sugar maples that your father planted in the lane when we first went there is gay with color and the woods are at their best. Our grapes are good, too. You know we watered them all through the drought."

"I'll be down over Sundays to sample them; they are my favorite grape." Dick was stretched on the couch. It had been a hard day all around.

"Mother, whatever should we do without you?" he began, after a pause. "It seems as if it's been one thing after another, ever since we came west, to keep us in hot water, but you have always been on hand to put your shoulder to the wheel. I want you to know we appreciate it."

"I am glad I have been of use. I discovered long ago that I could not fit into life as an ornament," chuckled the old lady, with a pleased smile.

"What will the doctor do, board?" she asked after a pause.

"No, he has sent for a widowed sister, who has a little son. She will make a real home for him. He is very fond of children. I hope the poor man can find a few crumbs of happiness after the purgatory he has lived in for seven years."

"Where is she going?" Mrs. Morton indicated Mrs. Ellson. "My sympathy is with the inhabitants, wherever the place is."

"To her sister's, somewhere in the east, I believe," said Dick, adding: "She will take her purgatory with her wherever she goes."

Mrs. Parsons ran over during the evening to see how Nell was getting along and was delighted to find both her and the baby asleep.

"If she has a good night she will be able to go with me to the farm tomorrow," said Dick's mother.

"That's a splendid idea. The fewer people she sees now the better. The sympathy of the village is with her, but people are apt to say tactless things with no intention to hurt. I am planning to give an afternoon thimble party. That will afford a chance to have everybody understand just why she was named as the cause of Mrs. Ellson's divorce. They can talk the subject out and lay it away for all future time, I hope. I'll give this party while Nell is away."

"It will be well to have them get it out of their systems," said Dick wearily. "Can you tell me why women must do just so much talking before they can drop a subject?"

"Oh, men are not much superior," mocked the neighbor with a twinkle in her eye.

SERIOUS CLIMAX TO NIGHT OUTING

Taxi-cab Chauffeur and Two Women in Car That Hit Horse and Buggy.

WOMAN IS IN HOSPITAL

George Moore, Aged Eighteen, Alleged to Have Driven Car While Intoxicated—Hearing This Afternoon—Two Hurt.

What the police believe to be a "joy-ride," culminated disastrously for Arthur Moore, an eighteen-year-old taxi-cab chauffeur, at 11:40 last night, when he ran his car into a horse and buggy owned and driven by Mrs. Agnes Shad, of New Market, at Clinton avenue and West Seventh street. Moore is a prisoner in the city jail under a charge of "driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor," having been arraigned before City Judge William G. DeMeza in the police court this morning, and held in $1,000 bail for trial late this afternoon, when further developments are anticipated. City Physician Norman W. Currie examined the driver shortly after he was apprehended and is authority for the statement that he was intoxicated at the time the mishap occurred.

According to the police the smash-up came as the climax of three "joy-riding" and carousing in a roadhouse at New Market. Last night Moore invited Jennie Martial and Grace Philmore, of Watchung avenue, to join in a party. In a statement to a Daily Press reporter in his cell at police headquarters this morning, Moore said that the trip started about 8:30 and the time intervening between the departure from Plainfield and the crash on West Seventh street was spent at New Market and "along the road."

The police say that Moore was driving in a reckless manner and was entirely to blame for the accident. Mrs. Shad was thrown to the road and rendered unconscious. She was soon revived, however, and it was found that her wounds were only of a superficial nature. Grace Philmore escaped with a shaking up, but her companion was not as fortunate. The Martial woman was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, where it was said this morning that she had a fractured collar-bone and numerous bad contusions. Grace Philmore is locked up at police headquarters in default of $500 as a material witness in the hearing this afternoon.

Patrolman John Neylon reported the accident soon after it occurred and investigation directed the finger of suspicion at Moore, who was later taken into custody by Patrolman Roy E. Martin. The prisoner is eighteen years old and has twice figured in automobile cases in the city court during the past year. Several months ago his car ran over a boy riding a bicycle on East Second street, and he is also known to the police as a "speeder."

Acting-Chief John J. Flynn communicated with Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Dill at Trenton, this morning, and a representative of the State Department of Motor Vehicles will be in court when Moore is arraigned. Should he be found guilty of the charge of driving a car while intoxicated, Moore will have to spend at least thirty days in the county jail, there being no alternative for this offense. Thirty days is the minimum sentence prescribed by the law for such offenders and in only one instance has a defendant arraigned in the local police court been convicted of the charge.

In a statement made to a Daily Press reporter, Moore said that he was driving east on West Seventh street, when the accident occurred, at a moderate rate of speed. He claims that the car will not "make" more than twenty-eight miles an hour and he is certain that he was not going that fast. He denied the intoxication charge, both for himself and the women.

Acting on information furnished him this morning by Acting Chief of Police John J. Flynn, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Dill this afternoon, revoked the automobile license of Arthur Moore, the eighteen-year-old taxi-cab chauffeur being held at police headquarters for trial this afternoon, on a charge of driving a car while under the influence of liquor last night.

An inspector from the State Department of Motor Vehicles investigated the conditions surrounding the incident here this morning, and reported to the department head that "Moore was intoxicated when the accident happened."

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Rapalje, of Carlton avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Katharine Winifred Rapalje, to Frederick Martin Smith, of this city. No date has been set for the wedding.

SHIRTWAIST DANCE PLEASANT FUNCTION

Elks Entertain Large Gathering at Novel Event in Their Clubhouse.

Members and friends of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., were guests at a delightful reception and dance held in the Watchung avenue clubhouse last night, the function being the closing one of a bi-monthly series. Owing to the success of the venture it is not unlikely that the Elks' committee will conduct similar events throughout the summer months, it being semi-officially announced at the conclusion of last night's affair that another would be given in June. The large number of pleasure seekers present at the reception was evidence in itself of the popularity of the feature and many requests were made for a continuance of the feature that has now become an accepted part of the Elks' program.

The entertainment committee is composed of Walter Hamilton, William Mulvey, Harry DeMeza, Samuel Tavener and Everett Mapelsden. The entire clubhouse was turned over to the guests and a number took advantage of their first opportunity to inspect the spacious and elaborately furnished building.

Dancing, with music furnished by VanEps' orchestra, proved the leading feature of the evening and over 100 couples took part in this amusement. During the intermission refreshments were served by the entertainment committee.

The closing exent took the form of a "Lucky Shirtwaist Dance," drawings being made during the intermissions and the women holding the selected numbers were presented with appropriate mementos. Guests were present from this city, Westfield, Bound Brook, Dunellen, Elizabeth, Somerville and Cranford.

COLLEGE CLUB IS GUEST AT "OAKWOOD"

Clever Farce "Shakespeare's Heroines," One of the Features of Entertainment.

Through the courtesy of Miss Hartridge the members of the College Club were entertained at "Oakwood" yesterday afternoon. Mrs. A. B. Meredith, the newly elected president, conducted the business meeting, at which the principal topic discussed was the advisability of the club's co-operation in the project of establishing a college for girls affiliated with Rutgers. The club voted to join the State Federation of Women's Clubs and to continue the two scholarships of $200 each offered annually to graduates of the Plainfield or North Plainfield schools.

A clever farce, entitled 'Shakespeare's Heroines," which had been ably coached by Miss Helen Joy, was admirably presented by Miss Margaret McCutchen, Miss Elizabeth Ralston, Miss Margaret Buttfield and Miss Evelyn Wells. Among the guests were the senior and junior classes of the Hartridge School. The club at present numbers about one hundred and twenty women, representing twenty-five different colleges.

The officers of the association are: President, Mrs. A. B. Meredith; vice-president, Miss Helen Besler; recording secretary, Miss Helen Joy; corresponding secretary, Miss Rae Harris; treasurer, Miss Elsie Suffern.

WORK COMPLETED.

The work of listing every schoolboy in this city and borough, between the ages of 12 and 18 years, which was undertaken by the Boys' Council, of the Y. M. C. A., has been completed and this afternoon and tomorrow the members of the council, assisted by other members of the department, will distribute them instead of using the mails. If the work is completed before Friday night, a social will be held at the association for all those who took part. There will be about thirty-five boys present.

RYNDAM IN CRASH AT SEA IN NIGHT

Hit James J. Cuneo and is Returning to New York Badly Damaged.

PASSENGERS ALL SAFE

New York, May 26—Following a collision off the New England coast early this morning between the Ryndam, of the Holland-American Line, and the steamship James J. Cuneo, of the Cuneo Trading Company, the former vessel is limping into this port this afternoon, after having transferred her mails and passengers to the Cuneo from which they were taken to the battleship South Carolina of the Aalantic fleet, which was nearby when the accident happened.

A radio message from the South Carolina to Newport, R. I., states that vessel has on board 250 persons from the disabled steamer, which were transferred to her from the Cuneo. The South Carolina was first ordered to land her passengers at Newport, but later was told to convey the Ryndam to New York, as it is believed the vessel can reach this port in safety.

Most of the passengers on the vessel were Hollanders homeward bound and there were no prominent Americans on board.

The Ryndam, according to wireless messages received from the scene of the accident, was damaged aft of the engine room, and one hold filled with water while another was reported as rapidy filling. The cargo on board is valued at $1,000,000, and was a miscellaneous character, the principal item being 216,114 bushels of grain.

The steamship Ryndam left here at one o'clock yesterday for Rotterdam and collided with the steamship Joseph J. Cuneo, of the Cuneo Trading Company, off the New England coast at 3:40 o'clock this morning. The Ryndam was badly damaged and her crew and passengers at once took to the boats. Within a short while every person on board had been safely transferred to the Joseph J. Cuneo. The Battleship Louisiana, which has been taking part in the tactical war game, was near the scene at the time of the accident. She stood by during the transfer of the passengers, and may have aided in that operation.

The following wireless was first received from the captain of the Ryndam addressed to the Holland-American Steamship Company:

"Afraid will have to abandon vessel if water gets any worse. Mails taken off."

The Ryndam had twenty-four saloon, forty second class and twenty-five steerage passengers on board. She is a steamer of 1,527 tons and is 660 feet long. The Cuneo is a Norwegian freighter of 875 tons and is commanded by Capt. C. Aamddt and was under charter to the Cuneo Trading Company. She was outward bound from Boston to West Indies, but has put back to port.

A second message to the Holland-American Company from the master of the Ryndam says:

"Fifty miles from Ambrose Channel. Water still gaining. Engine room under control. Proceeding thirteen miles per hour. All passengers and 160 of crew on Cuneo. American squadron standing by."

NEW PETIT JURORS.

The following Plainfielders have been drawn for the petit jury to begin duty next Monday: Peter Neumann, John B. Groendyke, Harry P. Johnson, Howard Stewart, Daniel W. Martine, Levis N. Booth, Isaac Fertig, Simeon Cruikshank and Oscar F. B. Bruce. Those from Fanwood are Charles Elliott and John P. Clark. Out of sixty names drawn for the panel thirty-three are from Elizabeth.

CRESCENT COMPANY.

Crescent Company, No. 13, Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias, is to meet tomorrow evening at Flannery's Hall, East Third street, at which time plans will be made for the Memorial Day exercises of the order to be held next month. The organization will journey to Portchester, N. Y., Sunday, June 13, where the grave of Harvey Patterson, formerly of New Market, who was killed at the Westfield wreck several years ago, will be decorated. The exercises at the local and Scotch Plains cemetery will be held the following Sunday.

EMILE DREYER'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Emile Dreyer, who died suddenly in New York, Monday night, will be held at his late home, 148 East Front street at 7:15 tonight. The service will be in charge of Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and friends are invited to attend. Burial will be private.

BOARD OF ESTIMATE COMPLETES BUDGET

City's Share of School Expenses for 1915-16 Amounts to $114,350.

The final meeting of the Board of School Estimate was held last night and the items of the budget for the year 1915-1916 were definitely settled. The meeting was called to order by Floyd T. Woodhull, of the Board of Education and Mayor Calkins was elected chairman, and A. A. Tilney, of the Board, was appointed recording secretary of the meeting. The Board of Estimate has given the utmost consideration to every item in connection with school expenses and the total amount of the city's share is $114,350.

The members of the Board of School Estimate present at the meeting last night were Mayor Leighton Calkins, Floyd T. Woodhull, Richard A. Claybrook and Thomas F. Hylan. Every effort has been made on the part of school and city officials to conform to the demands of the present conditions in the matter of cutting down the cost of managing the schools during the coming year.

WATCHUNG COUNCIL MEMBERS TO ATTEND FLAG RAISING

Members of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, are completing arrangements to attend the flag raising which Bailey Council, of Elizabeth, is to conduct at 3 o'clock next Monday afternoon. The ceremony will be on an elaborate scale and councils from all over New Jersey will be present.

The Plainfield delegation will be in three sections, members of the fourth degree in full regalia, being at the head. The other members of Watchung Council will follow and the Second Night Club will bring up the rear. John Kyle will be marshal of the Second Nighters, each member wearing a natty summer uniform of white duck trousers, blue serge coats, straw hats, white gloves and canes. It is possible the Plainfielders will make the trip to and from Elizabeth by automobile.

The flag raising will include a patriotic program and will be followed by a reception and banquet for the visiting councils.

MOTHER STRANGLES TWO CHILDREN; SHOOTS SELF

New York, May 26.—Mrs. Charlotte O'Neil, 32, the wife of Francis A. O'Neill, a draughtsman employed by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, strangled her two children, Francis, 4, and Josephine, 1, with a rope here today. She then committed suicide by shooting with a revolver belonging to Mr. O'Neill. When Mrs. Herman Neider, a sister of the dead woman, arrived at the home of the latter, 311 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, to pay a friendly call, she found Mrs. O'Neil and her baby girl dead. Francis still was alive and by the prompt use of a pulmotor his life was saved. A third child, a girl of nine years, was at school when the tragedy occurred.

Athens, May 26—King Constantine is believed to be dying. The royal family has been summoned to his bedside.

BLAZE ON CIRCUS LOT.

While workmen were clearing up the circus lot below Leland avenue, yesterday morning, flames from a pile of paper they were burning set fire to a stack of hay and straw. The blaze became quite dangerous and residents from the neighborhood telephoned fire headquarters. No. 4 company was sent out to extinguish the flames. The hay and straw was that left behind by the circus people and had been stacked up by "Count" Van-Nest with the idea of using it later.

APPROACHING WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Bowlby, of 805 Park avenue, have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Gertrude Louise Bowlby, to Charles Mortimer Eoff, of Franklin place, which will take place at the home of the bride on the evening of June 16.

NO MARBLE FOR NEW POSTOFFICE

United States Treasury Department so Advises Postmaster A. E. Hoagland.

EXPLANATION IS GIVEN

B. R. Newton in Letter States That Limestone is Used in Many of the Largest Government Buildings, and Change Cannot Be Made.

Information submitted today by B. R. Newton, assistant secretary of the United States Treasury Department, at Washington, practically lays at rest the agitation promoted by the Board of Trade members and other interested citizens relative to the construction of a marble front postoffice in Plainfield instead of using the limestone provided in the contract.

Congressman John H. Capstick, of the Fifth Congressional district, has been assisting those at the head of the movement who argue that although the amount available under the appropriation is $120,000, the contract calls for but $84,000 worth of work. This covered the cost of erecting a postoffice of limestone and inasmuch as the Tennessee marble proposal was only $105,000 it was thought that the latter material could be secured, inasmuch as this sum was also well within the appropriation figure. The letter to Postmaster A. E. Hoagland follows:

"Receipt is acknowledged of your telegram and letter of May 19 protesting against the use of limestone for the exterior of the new postoffice at Plainfield, N. J., and asking that the work be suspended with a view of substituting Tennessee marble.

"In accordance with the present program in regard to materials, marble is not used for the facing of buildings in cities of the size of Plainfield, or even considerably larger. Buildings of such importance as the postoffice in Indianapolis, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, the State capital of Mississippi, and the Grand Central Terminal Station in New York city, are faced with limestone, which is considered a very satisfactory material. Even in the State of Tennessee from which the Tennessee marble comes, limestone was used in conection with the courthouse at Memphis.

"Since the limestone is considered an entirely satisfactory material for this building, and since to substitute Tennessee marble for it would cost approximately $18,000 more than the present contract, the department does not feel justified in making the change."

EXPECT GERMAN REPLY WILL COME IN THREE DAYS

Washington, May 26.—The State Department has been advised that an answer to the second note sent by the United States in the case of the American steamer William P. Frye is in course of preparation in Berlin. The notification from the German government that the sending of the case to a prize court was not intended as an answer or as a discourtesy to the United States has removed all trace of unfriendliness from the negotiations. The note in reply to the second American note is expected within the next three days.

GOVERNOR WHITMAN WILL NOT REMOVE COMMISSION

Albany, May 26—Governor Whitman refused today to remove the Public Service Commissioners of the First district. In arriving at this decision he found that the charges of misconduct made against the Commissioners were not sustained, and that no neglect of duty was shown. The Governor said, however, that the record shows that the Commission as not been as efficient in matters of detail and otherwise. "I have no doubt, whatever that were my actions reviewable," said the Governor, "that an Appellate Court would reinstate the Commissioners were I to remove them on this evidence."

CAMP LIST INCREASES.

Boys' Secretary Edwin Gaentzer, of the Y. M. C. A., has received word from State Secretary of Boys Work Charles R. Scott, of Newark, that the application list for the first section for camp has been closed, the section being filled. The second is also filled but there are ten vacancies in the third. The number of local boys to go has increased to thirty-eight and three leaders.

AMERICAN VESSEL NEBRASKAN TORPEDOED OFF IRISH COAST; AFLOAT AND MAY REACH PORT

CARRIED NO PASSENGERS OR CARGO AND WAS ON WAY HOME FROM LIVERPOOL WHEN HIT.

CAPTAIN AND CREW STICK TO THE SHIP

Commander Making Game Fight to Get Boat to Queenstown—Belonged to American-Hawaiian Line and Had Discharged Cargo at Liverpool—Crew of 40 Uninjured.

London, May 26.—Another American vessel was added to the list of victims of German submarines today, when the American-Hawaiian Line Steamship Nebraskan was torpedoed off the Irish coast. The vessel was still affoat at 2 o'clock this afternoon, trying to make Queenstown. She sailed from Liverpool for home Monday.

A later despatch from Queenstown reports the steamer Nebraskan passing that point and steaming 8 knots an hour.

First reports of the torpedoing were received here early this morning, and conveyed the information that the vessel was sinking, and the crew had taken to the boats. This was supplemented a little later the Admiralty reporting that the crew were still on board and Captain Green was trying to get the boat into Queenstown.

The Nebraskan carried no passengers. She had been chartered by the Atlantic Transport Company, and left Liverpool on Monday for Delaware breakwater, to await orders, having on board little or no cargo.

The despatch received at two o'clock this afternoon in this city from Queenstown stated that Captain J. S. Green had signalled that the boat was still afloat, but out of control, and he did not know whether he would succeed in reaching Queenstown or not.

The Atlantic Transport Company's interest in the vessel is said to have expired when she arrived at Liverpool with a cargo. She was then ballasted and started for home, carrying a crew of forty, including the officers. When struck, according to the first report received by wireless from Captain Green, the vessel was forty-eight miles west of Fastnet. He added: "Steaming to Liverpool. Water in lower hold. No one injured."

Washington, May 26.—Confirmation of the report that the American steamer Nebraskan had been torpedoed in British waters was received at the State Department today in a cable message from Consul General Skinner at London. The message read: "Admiralty reports American steamship Nebraskan, Liverpool for Delaware Breakwater, torpedoed 40 miles south by west of Fastnet. Crew in boats standing by. Weatner fine. No direct report."

It developed that the torpedoing of the Nebraskan is of particular interest to the Administration, inasmuch as the vessel was under contract to the Navy Department for transportation of coal from Norfolk to San Diego. The steamer was on its way to fulfill this contract, which called for the taking on of the cargo not later than June 4. The coal was intended for use of the United States fleet now off the west coast of Mexico. The putting of the Nebraskan out of commission is expected to be a considerable embarrassment to the Navy Department because of the scarcity of tonnage sufficient to carry the coal.

ST. MARY'S SOCIAL CLUB PLANS FOR A FESTIVAL

The regular business meeting of St. Mary's Social Club was held in T. A. B. Hall, on West Fourth street, last night, during which routine matters were discussed. Miss Emma Sullivan presided. Arrangements were completed for the strawberry festival which will be given Friday night at the hall and the committee in charge was appointed as follows: Miss Julia Leahy, chairman, and the Misses Kitty Ellis, Margaret O'Keeffe, Elizabeth Flynn, Florence Briscoe, Florence MacDonald, May Carney, Agnes Griffin and Katherine Boyle.

The committee has arranged a pleasing program of vocal and instrumental selections and dancing will follow. Prof. Squier's orchestra will provide music for the occasion. Membership cards were distributed to one hundred members last night and those who did not receive them are urged to communicate with Miss Sullivan at once.

VERDICT FOR FULL AMOUNT AGAINST CLINTON B. REPP

In an opinion returned by Judge Walter L. Hetfield, in the District Court, this morning, a verdict for the full amount was directed, in the suit of Elmer E. Bigoney against Clinton B. Repp, to recover $390.06 as the difference in price of sixty-five shares of stock in the Northern State Power Company, agreed to be sold by the defendant to Bigoney and which Repp refused or neglected to deliver.

The stock was to have been turned over to H. F. McConnell & Company and the plaintiff was forced to go into open market and make good for the difference in the amount between the price the defendant offered to sell the stock for and the market price, which amounted to $390.06. Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of the firm of Reed & Hetfield, represented by Bigoney and V. W. Nash, Jr., was counsel for the defendant.

"LADIES' NIGHT.

The observance of "ladies' night" at the Jr. O. U. A. M. Club on East Front street, which was postponed from last Wednesday evening, is to be held this evening. The committee in charge has spared no pains for preparing a most enjoyable evening for the women friends of the members. Dancing and an informal program will occupy the evening.

ITALIANS CONTINUE ADVANCE IN AUSTRIA

Take a Number of Small Towns With Little Opposition.

Rome, May 26.—The War Office today issued the following report from General Cadorna:

"We have occupied all the frontier pases near Cadorna. The enemy bombarded Conquemisurina without results during the night. We took Valiferno pass with the bayonet. The enemy is retiring everywhere, destroying bridges. Our aviators threw bombs upon the electricity works and railway stations at Monfalcone, sixteen miles northwest of Trieste. Our troops on May 24 occupied Forcella, Montozzo, Tonale, Fonte De Caffaro, Guidicaria, and the high defiles of the Brenta Valley. We made several prisoners."

Geneva, May 26.—Two Italian submarines attacked the Austrian ships near Nola, yesterday, fired eight torpedoes at merchant vessels and damaged an auxiliary cruiser, according

The Rev. W. T. Boult, pastor of the Congregational church at Bound Brook, addressed a well attended meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association in the Lincoln School yesterday afternoon. The speaker gave a very interesting talk on "Why Nations Should Not War and How to Obtain Universal Peace." Those who heard Rev. Mr. Boult were disapointed that a larger attendance was not present to hear him. As an assurance of peace he advocated the disarmament of all nations and the establishment of a court of peace and an international police to see that its decrees were obeyed.

Preceeding the Rev. Boult the second grade of the Lincoln School, Miss Mabel Bennett's class, sang two songs, "Katie Did" and "If I Were a Man."

A speaking tableaux entitled "Peace Victory" by six boys and two girls from the third grade of the Lincoln School, Miss Hardcastle's class, was much enjoyed.

STAKE FOR SEWERS.

Prospect avenue, from Walnut street to Centre street, was staked out for sewers, yesterday afternoon, by Assistant Resident Engineer Whitford and force and this morning grade was given. At this writing it was stated that the trench digger would commence operations there this afternoon. This will be the first street tackled by the trench digger on the south side of the track.

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS NOT TO PRESS STATE FOR MONEY

Somerville, May 26—The Board of Freeholders of Somerset county, at a meeting held at the Greater Cross-road roads yesterday, adopted a resolution agreeing not to ask the State of New Jersey to pay its share of a $58,000 contract for improvement of the contract until next year. A contract for the improvement was entered into with the J. L. LeCompte Construction Company, of Lakewood, but the State comptroller declined to sign it because, as he claimed, the State did not have the money to pay for the work. The contractor, who had been on the ground with his men and machines for about four weeks, claimed he was losing $125 a day, and the Freeholders were aroused to action.

The State comptroller, it is understood, has consented to the arrangement made by the Freeholders, and the work of improving the road will, it is expected, proceed without delay. The improvement will cover a three-mile stretch in the boroughs of Peapack and Gladstone.

The days shall come when your enemies shall compass you about and shall beat you flat to the ground, because you do not know the day of thy visitation." These were the opening words of Father John's sermon at St. Joseph's mission, last night.

"Our Lord wept when he said this, and why? Why did he weep on the greatest day of his earthly sojourn over the great city of Jerusalem with its countless souls? For years and centuries they had prayed their God to send down their Messiah and now He was actually among them, working extraordinary miracles to prove that He was the Messiah. But obstinate and stubborn in their deceit, they refused to receive Him as the promised one and the enemy came and beat that city flat to the ground because they would not recognize the day of their visitation."

Father John then addressed the congregation on the dangers of living in open rebellion against God, the dangers of the Christian soul in open disobedience to God's commandments. "We hear a great deal about conversion, about people saved. Conversion to God doesn't mean "hitting the sawdust trail." Conversion to God means much more than slang and travesty against religion. Conversion is a sorrow for the past and a firm determination to live up to the laws of the church. In order to do this three conditions must exist simultaneously. First, time, second, God's grace, and third, one's own free will. If you have no will power to power can save you.

"To those of you who are young and have barely tasted the joys of living; those of mature age and those scattered here and there with whitened hair, showing that the summer of life has passed and that winter has already dawned; I say to each of you, are you better tonight, are you nearer your God, is your life more noble, are your present ways of living more lofty and of a divine nature than they were the day of your first communion? If you are not, what have you been doing with the years that have elapsed? Surely you know that time is given us to prepare for eternity. Why do you put off until tomorrow? Who told you there would be a tomorrow? There is nothing in this world uncertain as time. The second condition was grace. No creature can merit grace. Grace is a free gift of God. The third condition is will power. Why is it that you won't be penitent? It is want of will power, want of strong manly courage and determination. If you cannot give up sin now when you are in full possession of your faculties, how can you give it up when it has become your second nature? Have you the strength of Christian manhood and womanhood?"

Preceding the sermon, last night, Father James gave the second discourse on "The Sacrament of Penance."

BROTHER OF LOCAL MAN LEAVES ESTATE OF $150,000

New York, May 26.—The first accounting of the estate left by Joseph S. Woodhouse, of this city, a brother of Robert C. Woodhouse, of Plainfield, which was made by the executor, was filed yesterday, in the Surrogate's Office. Mr. Woodhouse, who was forty-five years old, was an intimate friend of Theodore Roosevelt. He died on June 27, 1912, leaving a widow, two children, two brothers and a sister. He was the head of the Merchants' Agriculture Implements Company which he founded, and was director of the Coldwell Lawn Mower Company.

The will, executed August 7, 1906, named Claiborne O. Woodhouse, a brother, and W. H. Coldwell, of Newburgh, N. Y., executors and trustees. But in a codicil, executed April 9, 1912, the appointment of the brother was revoked without any written comments. In his report Mr. Coldwell states that since his appointment $205,827.48 has come into his hands and that he has paid out $55,541.55, leaving a balance of $150,295.93 which he has now on hand for investment and distribution, according to the will.

The widow and children are to receive the income from the estate but if the widow remarries her income is to cease and go to the children. On the death of each child leaving issue the principal of the trust fund created for him is to go equally to such issue, but if no issue then the estate is to be divided equally among the testator's two brothers and sister.

C. E. ANNIVERSARY.

The twenty-seventh anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Society will be held tomorrow night at Warren chapel. Rev. Ernest R. Brown, of Dunellen, will be the speaker on the occasion and reports of the year will be read. Following the routine business refreshments will be served. All interested are invited to attend.

AN END TO FUEL TROUBLES

INSIST upon Standard Motor Gasoline always and everywhere.

Veteran tourists will tell you that it is important to get not only good gasoline but the same gasoline every time you have your tank filled, otherwise you have to keep adjusting your carburetor.

Standard Motor Gasoline is absolutely uniform whenever and wherever you buy it. It is the same this week as last.

That is because Standard Motor Gasoline is a straight-distilled, homogeneous product—every drop like every other drop.

It is better to use, because it does away with carburetor adjustments and gives a smooth-running motor. It is cheaper to buy, because there are more miles in a gallon.

Look for the "Standard Motor Gasoline Service Station" sign. It shows where to get the best, most reliable gasoline and also the best, most reliable lubricants—Polarine oil and greases.

SEES PALESTINE AS WORLD SHRINE

Lord Bryce Describes Holy Land's Appeal to Man.

NO OTHER SPOT SO SACRED

Former British Ambassador Writes to National Geographic Society at Washington Interesting Notes on Little Country That Bulks So Large In the Hearts and Minds of All Men.

The demand for the complete neutralization of the Holy Land and its development as a shrine and museum for mankind lends deep interest to observations recently prepared by Viscount Bryce, former British ambassador to the United States, for the National Geographic society.

"Though the traveler's handbooks prepare him to find it small, Palestine surprises him by being smaller than he expected," writes Lord Bryce. "Taking it as the region between the Mediterranean on the west and the Jordan and the Dead sea on the east, from the spurs of Lebanon and Hermon on the north to the desert at Beersheba on the south, it is only 110 miles long and from fifty to sixty broad—that is to say, it is smaller than New Jersey, whose area is 7,500 square miles.

"Of this region large parts did not really belong to Israel. Israel had, in fact, little more than the hill country, which lay between the Jordan on the east and the maritime plain on the west. King David in the days of his power looked down from the hill cities of Benjamin, just north of Jerusalem, upon Philistine enemies only twenty-five miles off on the one side and looked across the Jordan to Moabite enemies about as far off on the other.

Small as Connecticut.

"Nearly all the events in the history of Israel that are recorded in the Old Testament happened within a territory no bigger than the state of Connecticut, whose area is 4,800 square miles, and into hardly any other country has there been crowded from the days of Abraham till our own time so much history—that is to say, so many events that have been recorded and deserve to be recorded in the annals of mankind.

"Palestine is a country poor in any natural resources. There are practically no minerals, no coal, no iron, no copper, no silver, though recently some oil wells have been discovered in the Jordan valley. Neither are there any large forests, and, though the land may have been better wooded in the days of Joshua than it is now, there is little reason to think that the woods were of trees sufficiently large to constitute a source of wealth. A comparatively small area is fit for tillage.

"Such wealth as the country has consists in its pastures, and the expression 'a land flowing in milk and honey' appropriately describes the best it has to offer, for sheep and goats can thrive on the thin herbage that covers the hills, and the numerous aromatic plants furnish plenty of excellent food for bees. But it is nearly all thin pasture, for the land is dry and the soil mostly shallow. The sheep and goats vastly outnumber the oxen.

Hallowed by Tradition.

"The scenery of the Holy Land, taken as a whole (for there are exceptions), is inferior, both in form and in color, to that of northern and middle Italy, to that of Norway and Scotland, to that of the coasts of Asia Minor, to that of many parts of California and Washington.

"If Palestine is not a land of natural wealth nor a land of natural beauty, what is it? What are the impressions which the traveler who tries to see it exactly as it is carries away with him? Roughly summed up, they are these: Stones, caves, tombs, ruins, battlefields, sites hallowed by traditions—all bathed in an atmosphere of legend and marvel. In no other country are there so many shrines of ancient worship, so many spots held sacred—some sacred to Jews, some to Christians, some to Mussulmans. Neither has any other country spots that still draw a multitude of pilgrims—not even Belgium and Lombardy, such a profusion of battlefields.

"From the moment that the traveler steps ashore at Jaffa, where he is shown the fabled rock to which Andromeda was chained when Perseus rescued her from the sea monster, and the ribs of the great fish that disgorged the Prophet Jonah, until he leaves some Palestine port for home, he is in a wonderful bewildering atmosphere which is steeped in legend and marvel. He wanders in the valley over which the sun and moon stood still at the command of Joshua, and thence every step of his wanderings leads him ever deeper into the maze of remarkable ancient history and tradition, religious association, and an environment of myriad phased mystic lore of centuries of accretion."

France Will Adopt Orphans.

All children in France made orphans by the war will become wards of the French government, the French cabinet has decided. They will be educated and otherwise protected and looked after according to a plan to be later decided upon.

NIGHT RIDERS OUT IN KENTUCKY, BEAT UP NATIVES

Lexington, Ky., May 26—Fifty masked night riders made a wholesale raid on the mining town of Graham, in Green county, early today. All telephone and telegraph lines were cut before the band descended on the town, and there was no warning of their approach. Several persons were severely beaten. A numerous sheriff's posse has gone to the scene.

TRAVELING SALESMEN TO VOTE ON SUFFRAGE.

New York Men Aid Women and Association Will Be Polled.

In their work for suffrage New York women have the interest and to a large extent the support of the Associated Commercial Travelers of America, according to Marc M. Reynolds, secretary of the organization. This, Mr. Reynolds says, is due to the fact that traveling men are working for their own right to vote and so are especially able to sympathize with the demands of the women.

"We are trying to have special provisions made so that the traveling man may vote though absent from home," explained Mr. Reynolds. "In five states of the Union such provision has been made, and we are now determined to get the same right for the men of New York."

Because of the analogy in their positions the question of woman suffrage came up at the last meeting of the Associated Commercial Travelers of America. A lively discussion resulted in a vote to poll the organization. Each of the 3,500 members is to receive a letter asking him to state his position in regard to woman suffrage. The result of this poll will be announced at the semiannual meeting in August.

"I feel confident," said Mr. Reynolds, "that the organization will go on record as indorsing woman suffrage."

There are no women members among the Associated Commercial Travelers, although it is estimated that there are about 5,000 women commercial travelers in the country. Whether women shall or shall not be admitted to membership is a much debated question in the organization.

"In certain lines women are better than men in our field," Mr. Reynolds admitted. "The women are doing good work and have come to stay in the business. We might as well make up our minds to that. In the same way I believe the time has come when women should have a part in our national life, and I think they are bound to get it."

HUERTA, HARLEM LANDLORD.

Dictator Puts Mexican Bonds Into New York Flat Houses.

By putting $300,000 in Mexican bonds into six Harlem apartment houses General Huerta has become a New York landlord, it is said.

The houses are six story structures at 117 to 143 West One Hundred and Forty-first street and 130 to 158 West One Hundred and Forty-second street. They cover part of the old Watt farm tract, which was sold two years ago by the Pinkney estate.

Title to the property was transferred not long ago to Francis C. Masson of Wilkinsburg, Pa., but when payment was made it was learned that he represented John De Kay, a close friend of Huerta. The $300,000 stands for the buyer's equity above mortgages aggregating $1,057,000. The bonds were part of an issue of $20,000,000 issued during the Huerta regime.

Not a home in this city but has its quota of discarded furniture, rugs, stoves perhaps, a wheelbarrow maybe.

A few cents for a Press want ad and some one who needs the very article that lies rotting in your garret will call and pay you for it.

You are better off—new owner is pleased—and the article itself is contributing to the reduction of the high cost of living.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Advice of This Plainfield Woman is of Certain Value.

Many a woman's back has many aches and pains.

Ofttimes 'tis the kidneys fault.

Many Plainfield women know this.

Read what one has to say about it:

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning avenue, Plainfield, says: "I endured much misery from backache, caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all and in the morning my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the least cold, it settled on my kidneys and any strain on my back made the aches and pains worse. I was treated by physicians, but their medicine didn't help me and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store, that I had any hope of getting rid of the trouble. They made me feel like a different person and I have never had any serious trouble since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Moore had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

BERLIN WAR STATEMENT

Berlin, May 26.—Southeastern theatre—The attack of the army of General VonMackensen is making progress. Southeast of Radmyno the village of Swiete was taken. East of Radymno the crossing of the San was captured. Further north our troops reached the district east of Laszki. Our booty in prisoners and war materials increases.

"Western theatre—A night advance by the enemy against our newly acquired positions west of Bellewaarde forest was easily repulsed. Northeast of Givinchy colored English troops last night captured a projecting part of our outpost trenches. Father south an extensive French attack commenced in the afternoon. It failed completely. In the region north and south of the Souchezy, Bethune highway, the enemy at first succeeded in penetrating our trenches, but our counter attacks regained the position. In the region south of Souchez several repeated strong attacks by white and colored French troops broke down completely before our entanglements.

"Eastern theatre—isolated and weak night attacks made by the enemy were repulsed by our troops."

ENTERTAINED FOR SISTER.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kline, of West Front street, last evening entertained about twenty friends in honor of Mr. Kline's sister, Miss Ethel Kline, of Atlantic City, who has been visiting in the city for the past few days. The evening was spent in bowling and dancing. Mrs. Kline made the high bowling score for the ladies, while Samuel Hochberger took the honors for the men. An elaborate collation was served at te conclusion of the evening.

WORK ON AIRDOME.

Work on the erection of the enclosure for the new airdome at East Front street and Watchung avenue, has been started, as has the flooring for the open-air motion picture house. Alexander Milne is the contractor. It is expected that the work will be completed by Friday night, thus giving sufficient time to give the finishing touches for the opening Saturday evening.

AIMS OF GERMANY.

It has been reported from time to time that the sympathies of the people of Sweden, Norway and Denmark are against the Allies, not from any love of Germany, but from a lively fear of warm-port-seeking Russia. It would be interesting to know what these Scandinavians, who occupy an uncomfortable position, now think of the alleged disclosure of the Kaiser's plan of a new German "confederation" to include Luxembourg, Belgium and all Scandinavia.

Captured German officers are reported as declaring that this is the German aim, which intends further the dismemberment of Austria in punishment of that country's "failure" in this war, part of Francis Joseph's empire to be included in the new Germany.

It is not likely that Bismarck would have sympathized with this alleged plan, for he once declared "Germany could never stand idly by and behold Austria receive a deadly or even a dangerous wound. The maintenance of that State is an absolute necessity for the balance of power in Europe, and in no circumstances could Germany afford to let its integrity be impaired." It will be observed that the iron chancellor's view was based on policy rather than on sentiment.

The present alleged aim to force Scandinavia into a Teutonic confederation would doubtless have appealed to him even if it involved drawing the sword against weak neighbors. He was by no means adverse to war when easy triumph was assured, as is clearly shown by the history of six years of his virtual rule. He wrested Schleswig-Holstein from Denmark in 1864 on the unfounded pretext that German subjects were being oppressed. In 1866 he engaged in war with a view to humble Austria, exalt Prussia and intimidate the South German States. In 1870 he piously deplored war but eagerly sought it after editing the Ems telegram to make of it a casus belli against France. Now he might indeed be glad to appropriate a slice of enfeebled Austria.

The captured officers referred to did not say what a triumphant Germany would do with England, but we may rest assured that the Kaiser is eager to become a second William the Conqueror and handle England more roughly even than did the first in the eleventh century. And it is not unlikely that if many of the England-we-hate" chanting Germans could have their way, they would even be disposed to wipe the "tight little island" completely off the map.

All reports that are brought back home by visitors to the Panama-Pacific and San Diego Expositions, indicate that they are the greatest affairs of the kind the world has ever known. At the same time the attendance has been most disappointing, especially at San Diego, where it is already said that the show cannot be a financial success. It is unfortunate that so much capital has been invested at such a time as this, for the war abroad has interferred to such an extent that it will be impossible to give an accurate idea of how great the loss will be until it is all over. After a long period of the greatest prosperity, it is said that the Pacific coast is suffering more than any other section of the country from the present depression.

Fifty years ago today, General Edmund Kirby-Smith, the last of the Confederate generals to lay down arms, surrendered in Texas. The doughty Floridian who held out for a month and sixteen days after Lee's surrender to Grant, was one of the first leaders afterward to enter upon a career of promoting peace throughout the South. A statue of the General is now being made in Jacksonville, to be executed in bronze and placed in the nation's hall of fame in Washington, as Florida's second contribution to the statuary of the country's notables at the capital. From Kirby-Smith's surrender until now there has been a continuous welding together of the people of the nation, so that today we are a unit in all matters of national interest.

An article in the current American Magazine, by an anonymous writer, says that the American people discriminate against the Jewish race even more than is done in Russia and Germany. In the same publication appears an account of the first Jewish governor elected in this country, who has recently taken office in Idaho. Certainly one or the other of the articles must be very ill-timed, and we are inclined to believe it's the one in which the writer is afraid to make himself known.

Mighty strange how little heed is paid to the crying demand for the restoration of some kind of a general fire alarm, to take the place of the whistle which was discontinued on January first. Some one will get killed as a result of the lack of any kind of warning apparatus at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, and then, of course, a tapper will be installed.

If the ordinance to regular newsboys, which has been proposed by Mayor Calkins, will keep some of the little shavers off the streets, it will be a good thing. There are some youngsters selling papers who should be at home.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

In your issue of 17th inst., S. S. Swackhamer lifts up his hands and voice to high heaven and invokes the shades of our illustrious Presidents in vindication of his belief that New Jersey should place the obligations of suffrage on woman. His ecstasy carries him away from logic and he fools himself with words.

It was easy to show the lack of oppositeness in all of his references and quotations to the question of woman suffrage. But you would hardly be willing to yield the necessary valuable space, so I restrict myself to two or three of those illustrations or appeals used by Mr. Swackhamer and most often resorted to by the suffragists.

He says, "I believe in absolute democracy." Well, there is no such thing as absolute democracy, never has been and never can be. We must be governed by representatives; and there has been no sign that woman is unwilling for man to represent her, well realizing that man's and woman's interest in legislation and administration are the same, that what she wants in legislation she will get when she wants it.

Mr. Swackhamer dwells at length on one of the war crys of woman suffrage, namely, "Taxation without representation." This constant iteration and reiteration of this slogan does not indicate clear thinking by the suffragists. It is not a case of taxation without representation. For man's interest and woman's interest in property are the same. You cannot legislate about property so as to affect the property of woman differently from that of man. But the suffragist says women property-holders have no protection against the men who have no property yet vote. If there is any real conflict of interests between the property owners and those who do not own property, property owners would lose in power by woman suffrage, because the proportion of property owning women is much smaller than that of property owning men, so that the proportion of anti-property votes would be increased by woman suffrage.

"I shall not stop to consider whether the enfranchisement of women is expedient or inexpedient," exclaims Mr. Swackhamer, "and to permit anyone to raise the question of expediency concerning such a proposition is to surrender a principle which lies at the very foundation of human rights." This would be very eloquent if applicable to the situation. Few, if any, deny the right of woman to the suffrage, and the only issue is, would it be expedient or inexpedient for woman to exercise that right? That is the only question. Whether woman is to be benefitted by the change, whether society is going to be benefitted. All these fine phrases about liberty, justice, equality are then utterly irrelevant and resort to them by intelligent folk must be construed as a confession of the weakness of their cause.

Let them tell us how or why doubling the vote of identically the same interests is going to better those interests.

L. J. ELLIS.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

In Monday night's editorial regarding the Frank case you have indeed expressed the wish of the majority of right-thinking people in branding Governor-elect Harris as narrow-minded, and expressing the hope that the case may be decided before he enters office.

Thousands of letters asking clemency have been received by Governor Slaton, who, however, may not be called upon to act as his term of office will shortly expire.

The total number of appeals now in the hands of the Governor is estimated at seventy-five thousand; the signatures run into millions, among them including civic bodies, public officials of such prominence in American public life as Myron T. Herrick, former ambassador to France; Philander C. Knox, of Pennsylvania, former Secretary of State; Chairman Walsh, of the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations; F. I. Delano, of the Federal Reserve Board; Senators Thomas Newland and Reed, Governors Brumbaugh, of Pennsylvania, Ferris, of Michigan; Hall, of Louisiana; Philips, of Wisconsin, and Mayor Ralph, of San Francisco, as well as the speakers of the Wisconsin Assembly and many others.

Of particular interest is the fact that the Legislature of Tennessee, the sister State of Georgia, shortly before adjourning, passed a resolution to memorize Governor Slaton to commute Frank's sentence.

The work of securing justice must not end with the commutation of Frank's sentence; friends and lovers of justice, Christians or Jews, should spare no efforts to bring the truth to light. It is too late now to attempt to analyze the methods of Frank's persecutors and the mob which hounded them on and whose mandates were obeyed under the fear of its threats.

What is to be done now is to help establish the innocence of the accused who has suffered facing such bitter injustice. Outside of Atlanta the call for justice has been heard all over the land.

The silver lining to this cloud is the attitude of the American people expressed through the petitions and above all through the newspapers.

In France, in spite of its military and reactionary leaders, finally acquitted and rehabilitated Dreyfus. The Russian Government, the most autocratic in the world, failed before the power of public opinion when the jury refused to convict Beilis.

Let us not believe that there exist, in the United States a community who will fall below the standard of France and Russia. It is impossible that such should be the case.

No compensation is possible for the suffering the accused has endured. What can and should be done is to vindicate the majesty of the law against the will of the mob, which, as Justice Hughes, of the Supreme Court, said is the same, whether exercised by members of that mob itself or whether its mandates are carried out by the jury.

Sincerely yours,
HENRY ROSENBAUM.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Daniel Frohman's magnificent five-part production of "Aristocracy," from the society drama of the same name by Bronson Howard, will be the feature film offering at Proctor's Theatre, this afternoon and tonight. Tyrone Power, who will be remembered by many Plainfielders for his wonderful work in "The Servant in the House," is seen in the leading role and has the support of a carefully selected company. Other dramas and several comedies are on today's program, while Professor Ernest Fleming's symphony orchestra will render popular and classical airs throughout each performance.

The announcements for tomorrow's offering at the theatre are headed by the five-part feature photo-play, "The Circus Man," with Theodore Roberts appearing in the title role. The production has been made by Jesse Lasky and is based on George Barr McCutcheon's story, "The Rose In the Ring." "The Circus Man" is a kaleidoscope of life beneath the great white canopy and shows all the love, thrills and charm of circus life. Mr. Roberts is one of America's foremost character actors and in the role of "David" he has an opportunity to display his versatility. Patrons of the silent drama who are fond of stories that deal with red-blooded men and wholesome action should make it a point to witness "The Circus Man."

In addition to the current episode of "The Exploits of Elaine," which are proving more popular with Proctor audiences after every installment, the program for Friday will include the five-part comedy drama, "The Incomparable Mistress Bellairs." On Saturday the feature will be Who's Who In Society?" the story of a simple, good-hearted Irishman who finds great difficulty in living up to his wife's ideal of a gentleman of leisure, who, in her own words, "should stay away from Casey's saloon and get soused like a gentleman in his own club." The comedy sparkles with unique situations, many of them hilariously humorous and some with a pleasant touch of drama.

REFUSED TO ACCEPT DR. KNOX AS PASTOR

Former Dunellen Preacher Transferred From Blairstown to Rutherford.

The official board of the Blairstown M. E. church has accepted the offer of Rev. Dr. J. C. Cole, superintendent of the Paterson district, to transfer the pastor, Rev. Dr. W. A. Knox, formerly of Dunellen, to East Rutherford, and substitute for him Rev. William Burd, now pastor of the Hillsdale church, in the church at Blairstown.

There has been trouble in the Blairstown church ever since the Newark Conference sent Dr. Knox back for another year and the official board had petitioned for a change and it was not granted. When Dr. Knox started in on this year's work the board again urged a change, adding that the church would not accept him as its pastor and many members severed their church relations as the result.

Dr. Cole, in speaking of the matter, said that the trouble at Blairstown nowise reflected on Dr. Knox. He said that the church wanted to advance a financial proposition to the pastor, that he, as district superintendent, could not accede to and that there had been some ill-advised talk of neglect of duty by the pastor incident to the latter's recovery from shock after having fallen from his bicycle. Dr. Knox was at Dunellen two years. He is sixty years old and has a wife and two children.

GERMAN HOARD STORED IN TOWER

Here the Kaiser Keeps a Great War Fund.

WHERE all the money is to come from with which the great war in Europe is being conducted is a mystery to many. Yet for just such a conflict as the present Germany has been preparing financially for years. And this hoard, which was known as the war chest, or war fund, was watched over carefully, but never spent. It is reported that the fund has been liberally drawn upon of late.

The beginning of the fund was in 1871, when Bismarck, having conquered the French, compelled them to pay a sum of many millions in gold to Germany. Thirty million dollars of this was laid aside for a nest egg, not to be touched until the next war came. In the meantime Germany went on accumulating money as well as training her army and building big guns.

In the Julius tower in the citadel of Spandau, in the province of Brandenburg, Prussia, this treasure is stored. Spandau is a town of several thousand people not far from Berlin, on the banks of the river Spree. It is full of powder factories, military schools, artillery bureaus and many other enterprises connected with the army and was once the home of one of the ancestors of the present kaiser.

In Spandau and about twelve miles from the Palace of Potsdam—the kaiser's residence—is the great fortress or citadel of which the most conspicuous part is the huge and massively built tower of Julius. It is made of solid blocks of basalt stone and its foundations lie far below the bed of the river. Grim and frowning, it rears itself far above the water, its gray stone walls of vast strength holding within their keep the purse of the Teuton.

The guarding of the tower is given over to the Fourth Grenadier regiment and a battery of the Third grenadiers, while stationed within the citadel is the Third train battalion, on duty in case there should occur a need of hastily moving it in case of emergency.

It is impossible for the outside world to know the exact amount, but it is variously stated at from $60,000,000 to $100,000,000 and is said to be in coins of 10 and 20 mark pieces, besides money in gold from France, England and Russia mainly. It is kept in iron chests on which are written the names and addresses of the generals and admirals of the nation. Certain sums are set aside for the commanders on certain frontiers, and also some are designed for secret spy service. In case of war, as at present, these packages can be immediately sent by military force to each commander, who knows at once just the amount to be expended in a certain time by his troops.

At specified periods during the year all this treasure is counted and weighed as well. This performance is undertaken with great ceremony in the presence of several army officers, each one being from a different part of the country and each being required to take an oath that he does not know his brother officers. These huge chests are also in the charge of a special officer, who is called upon to check up the accounts of the examining men, but this officer is not informed in advance of the coming of the counters, whose advent may be at an unexpected time.

The chests are in an immense stone chamber below the level of the river, so that in case of any danger of looting the place could be flooded. Entrance to the treasure room is by means of tunnels which open into a guardroom in which soldiers are ever on duty. Before each tunnel is a guard. Other sentinels walk up and down the halls constantly. Soldiers pass up and down the stairs.

Behind the entrance is a second guardroom, and there is a third on the roof, which keeps an outlook over the country. At different times during the night unexpected inspections are made of every part of the building. Nothing on earth, unless it is the czar, is as well watched as this treasure of William's, the war chest of the German empire.

—Hundreds are thinking as much about the inevitable home-hunt as about the great war. Let your "To Let" advertising help them.

SMOKELESS POWDER.

And One Reason Why Our Big Guns Are Made So Long.

Only 43 per cent of ordinary gunpowder is converted into gas when it explodes. The remaining 57 per cent is unconsumed residue, which we see in the form of smoke. With smokeless powder it is different. On ignition it is converted wholly into gas. A much greater volume of gas is produced, and the explosive effect is proportionately increased.

When the war with Spain broke out in 1898 the United States government did not have any smokeless powder. The Spaniards, on the other hand, had plenty of it and used it on both land and sea. Consequently the American besiegers at Santiago were unable to see the Spanish soldiers firing at them, whereas the enemy could see by the puffs of smoke just where to shoot. When Admiral Cervera's ships came out of the harbor and tried to escape, the vessels of the American squadron found it hard in the fight that followed to fire accurately because their view of the foe was obscured by the clouds of smoke from their own guns.

There are many kinds of smokeless gunpowder. One of the best known is the English cordite, which, when forced through holes in a perforated metal plate while in a plastic condition, takes the form of thick strings that look like brown rubber. The strings are cut up into short cylindrical pieces. You can safely hold a string of cordite in your hand and light one end of it; it will burn slowly with a bright flame.

A characteristic of smokeless powders is that they burn very slowly; on that account modern guns are very long, in order that all the powder of a charge may have time to be transformed into gas before the projectile driven by it leaves the muzzle of the weapon. The smokeless powder used by our army and navy is made by soaking nitro cotton in a mixture of ether and alcohol. It is thus converted into a plastic substance that may be molded or cut into any shape required. For small arms it is manufactured in a form resembling spaghetti—long strings that are chopped into little pieces and packed into the cartridges. For big guns it is made in long rods, which, after being perforated from end to end with a number of holes to insure quicker ignition, are cut into short lengths. That kind of powder, which might be called an explosive celluloid, is of a horny consistency. As in the case of other smokeless powders, the slowness with which it burns is owing mainly to its density.

The very cloth of the bags used to contain charges of gunpowder for the big guns has itself been made of smokeless powder—that is, woven of threads of exactly the same substance. That is an invention of the Germans. The bag thus becomes part of the explosive charge and when the gun is fired is wholly consumed.—Professor Charles S. Munroe in Youth's Companion.

Steller's Sea Cow.

An inhabitant of the northern seas which has disappeared is Steller's sea cow. When Bering's expedition was caught in the ice near the strait which bears his name his crew lived mainly on the flesh of this huge and stupid Arctic animal. It was larger than an elephant, full grown specimens being as much as twenty-five feet long and weighing five or six tons apiece. It had no teeth at all, their place being taken by great horny plates. The very last of these harmless monsters is said to have been killed by a Russian sealer in the summer of 1848.—New York Press.

Hard to Understand.

Arnold Daly says that once, when he was talking to Bernard Shaw, the latter admonished him, "If you wish to get on in the world never take anybody's advice."

"This," said Daly, "resolved itself into a paradox, for if I took Mr. Shaw's advice I was taking somebody's advice, and if I took somebody's advice then I should never get on, yet if I didn't take Mr. Shaw's advice I shouldn't get on, and—well, I came to the conclusion that Bernard Shaw was one of those people whom, as Lord Dundreary says, 'no feller can understand.'"—Baltimore Sun.

Wind Velocity.

The majority of people are unable to determine the wind's velocity. When the smoke from a chimney moves in a straight, vertical column it means that a one to two miles an hour breeze is blowing. A three miles an hour wind will just stir the leaves on the trees. Twenty-five miles an hour will sway the trunks; at forty the small branches will break, and it takes a mile a minute gale to snap the trunks of big trees.—London Answers.

Not Guilty.

It was 4 a. m., and Bilkins crept softly into the house and removed his shoes, but as he tiptoed up the stairs one of the treads gave a loud creak.

"Is that you, John?" demanded Mrs. Bilkins from above.

"No, my love," replied Bilkins. "It's the stairs."—Exchange.

Wedding Clothes.

"It is all right," remarked the observer of events and things, "for a bride to wear the dress her mother wore at her wedding, but it would never do for the groom to appear in a pair of his father's trousers cut down."—Yonkers Statesman.

'TIS HARD TO BELIEVE, BUT NEVERTHELESS IT'S TRUE, PLAINFIELD WHIPPED RAHWAY

The chances of the Plainfield High School baseball team for copping the Union county championship were given a boost yesterday afternoon, when the red and blue nine trimmed the strong Rahway High School aggregation at Rahway by a score of 7 to 4. The Rahway team was considered the favorite for the county honor, having defeated some of the strongest teams in this part of the State. This practically gives the local team the edge on the State championship, although that honor cannot be claimed until the end of the season.

This, however, is the first time the Ninth street boys have ever beaten their opponents in any sport, having played them in baseball, basketball and football. But yesterday's defeat was a very decided one and the winners outclassed their opponents in every stage of the game. The locals hammered Durand for sixteen safe bingles and made but two costly errors. Had they handled the stick as well in the pinches of the fifth and seventh innings as they did in the ninth, the score might have been several runs larger.

As has been their custom in the last three games, Plainfield won the game by a timely rally in the ninth inning, when all hope seemed lost. In the eighth frame E. Armstrong brought in one run which set the score in Rahway's favor by a margin of 4-3. When Linke, the local's new first baseman, came to bat he banged out a clean single, which was followed by another from Brick. Dunham then got to first on Schweitzer's error, thus filling the bases. Kyle, who had already driven out two singles, sent two men in with the winning runs by knocking a long twin-sacker.

Brick handled his batters in the best form he has displayed this year. He allowed but seven hits. Brick also starred with the 'big stick' for the first time this year, by lifting three pretty singles out of the reach of his opponents. Peacock and Mills were absent from the local lineup. Denny was put in centre-field and Apgar took his old position behind the plate. Linke was sent in for the first time this year to take care of the first sack and proved himself a "regular" ball player. He handled fifteen chances with but two slips and lined out two timely singles.

E. Armstrong knocked out a two-bagger in the early stages of the game for Rahway and carried two of the four of his team's runs across the plate.

NETHERWOOD A. A. TASTED VICTORY ON HOME GROUNDS

The Netherwod A. A. baseball team defeated Bruce's aggregation on the former's grounds yesterday afternoon, the final score being 17 to 13. The game was featured by heavy hitting on the part of the winners, nineteen hits being collected off of the delivery of Eggie, Hassel and Elmon.

The home team scored in every inning but the fifth. The Bruce artillery only made sevent hits. Henry, of the Netherwoods, made a home run.

BATTERY WANTED.

It is doubtful whether or not George Townley and "Hub" Stine, of the borough, will be able to play with the Alumni team against the borough High School nine next Saturday. Springfield Training School plays Williams College at Williamstown on that day and the local boys will probably be taken on the trip. However, there is a possibility of their being here to meet old comrades.

LOCAL TEAM ENTERED.

Philip and Ludlow VanDeventer, of this city, have entered in the annual doubles tournament to be held at the Elizabeth Town and Country Club on Memorial Day, Monday. They will be placed against some of the best combinations in this part of the country. The West Side Tennis Club has entered three teams.

MISS WILDEY DEFAULTED.

In the first round of the annual tennis tournament of the Morristown Field Club played yesterday, Miss Edna Wildey, of this city, defaulted to Miss Hilah C. French.

P. H. S. ATHLETES TOE MARK FOR MEETING

The Plainfield High School athletes will hold their annual interscholastic meet tomorrow afternoon at Parker Field. Over thirty contestants have entered fifteen events and the competition among them is keen.

Two new events have been added, the hammer-throw and the fifty-six pound weight throw.

Medals have been offered for the first three high point holders. Ribbons will also be given to the winners of the first three places in each event. The class getting the highest number of points will be presented with a large banner.

GAME POSTPONED.

The game which was scheduled to be played at High Bridge this afternoon betwen the High School of that place and North Plainfield High School, was canceled last night by telegraph by Manager VanCamp.

STILL ANOTHER GAME.

North Plainfield High School's first home game of the week will take place tomorrow afternoon when the Seton Hall "Prep" School nine will make its first appearance on Hyde Oval. These teams never met before this season and the first game, played in Orange, went five innings for a 1 to 0 verdict against the boroughites. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock and "Ernie" Stahl will probably occupy the box. This will be the third game in three days for North Plainfield and a game is also scheduled for Saturday.

TO ROLL FIRST GAMES.

C. F. Stout and William Banks will play their first match in the Elks' Two-Man Bowling Tourney tomorrow night, when they will meet the Hill-Waldorf and Vail-Nash, Sr., combinations. This team is the only team that has not yet played. The other matches scheduled for tomorrow night are Luthman-Long vs. Nash, Sr.-Vail and Waldorf-Hill vs. Long and Luthman. The Causbrook-McVoy team is leading the list with a record of three victories and no defeats.

BOROUGH BOWLING.

The following bowlers will take part in the Borough One Man Tourney play tonight: Luthman vs. Squires and Voorhees vs. Nate.

LEAL TEAM HAPPY DESPITE DEFEAT

For the first time in the memory of any of the present day local rooters, Leal School played baseball for ten innings yesterday against North Plainfield, on Crescent Oval, and the High School lads only pulled out by the skin of their teeth when "Marty" McDonough brought in the winning run of a 5-4 verdict on Dilts' two bagger.

Though the game ran to a tie and the scoring was small, the playing was void of excitement, being slow and uninteresting throughout. Voorhees, as usual, entertained the onlookers by his good twirling, giving his catcher thirteen putouts. Stahl also did good work in the box with nine strikeouts. Parmly, Voorhees and Lyon got two hits each from Stahl's delivery, while Dilts was the only man to draw from the Leal pitcher.

Smalley made four substitutions in the game and was only stopped by the lack of more "sub" material. McDonough took VanMater's place in right field, Kirch played the left garden for Hebert after the fourth inning, Dawe covered second for four innings, and Hirsch replaced Mead on first.

Dilts sacrificed VanDeventer across the plate in the first inning, and the boroughites did not score again until the fifth, when Mead and Townley came over on Smalley's drive through shortstop. The private school players tallied two in the second on Voorhees' two bagger and three errors, and tied the score in the sixth on Stewart's two-base hit and a single by Voorhees. Voorhees forced Dilts in in the ninth by two free passes to first, but Dickerson came back in the last half with the tieing run. McDonough started the tenth with a single to center, was sacrificed to second and came in on Dilts' two-base drive to deep right. Dilts stole third on the discussion over the decision on "Marty's" arrival at home, but was left on base. Dale and Parmly were caught on second and Stewart grounded out to shortstop.

SPORTING NOTES

Big Roger Bresnahan has put it all over the young speeders as a base stealer so far this season.

Vardon, Ray, Duncan and Mayo, the English golf stars, will be seen on American links this summer. The latest dope is they will be on hand for the open championship at Baltusrol on June 15.

Philadelphia claims a family of five fighters. Billy Moore is the latest addition to the group, which includes Frank, Pal, Reddy and Al Moore. Frank and Reddy are training for a comeback, while Pal, Billy and Al are mowing them down with frequency and dispatch.

Prize money totalling $1,500 will draw the trap shooters to Ottawa June 8, for the annual target events of the Dominion Trap Shooting Association.

The intercollegiate track meet at Philadelphia, Friday and Saturday, will bring together several thousand promising school athletes.

The use of the wireless in timing will be introduced at the regatta of the Mississippi Valley Powerboat Association, at Hannibal, Mo., July 5.

Northwestern athletes are training for the Rose Festival meet at Portland, Ore., on June 11. A five-mile race is included in the events.

Ted Meredith will take a rest from the running game, after the interscholastics on Saturday, and will do his training for the Frisco meet out on the coast later on.

Despite the New York offers for a bout, there is small chance of seeing Willard in action before next winter.

Joe Mandot and Red Watson are signed up to meet at Superior, Wis., on Friday night.

A Chicago judge hands a severe jolt to the golfers. He says that fifty millions of big round dollars are wasted on the game each year, not to figure on 500,000 working days which are wasted each month.

Old Honus Wagner may be all in but you never can convince the fans of it. The other afternoon he stole a few bases in Boston, and knocked down a few drives over second base.

Another effort is being made to start a national boxing organization, to curb unearned championship claims. The idea brings no enthusiasm from the mitt stars.

Eddie McGoorty is on his way to Australia, where he will meet Jeff Smith, Mick King and Les Darcey. Eddie made many friends in the Antipodes on his first trip.

ELECTRIC SPARKING.

Light on a Puzzle That Has Worried Many Car Owners.

It is a sad and common experience to men in motorboats, automobiles, etc., to find that something is wrong with the spark. Often it is the case that when the spark plug is taken out and tested in air it shows up all right, and will ignite gasoline poured around it, but when put back into position it will not work. This is a puzzle to a great many people today.

The reason lies in the simple fact that the spark, when it takes place in the cylinder, has to spark in compressed gas, and when in the air it doesn't. It is a well known scientific fact that the pressure of the gas determines how far a spark will jump under a given voltage. If the spark jumped a quarter inch in the open air and was placed in a vessel with most of the air pumped out, it would jump several inches; and, on the other hand, if placed in compressed air it would not jump more than a fraction of the quarter inch. Of course the thing to do in the circumstances is to get new batteries, and if so situated that that is impossible the two little terminals of the spark plug should be pushed closer together. Then the spark will pass in the compressed gas inside the cylinder.

If explosion does not take place then the spark is probably so small that it is wholly immersed either in air or in the gasoline vapor, and to have an explosion it must be immersed in a mixture of the two. The carburetor should then be tinkered with. The probabilities are that a part of the time explosions will take place and will be sufficient to keep up a forward motion at reduced speed.—Chicago Herald.

Literary Inspiration.

It is enough to stun and scare anybody to have a hot thought come crashing into his brain and plowing up those parallel ruts where the wagon trains of common ideas were jogging along in their regular sequence of association. A lyric conception hits me like a bullet in the forehead. I have often had the blood drop from my cheeks when it struck and felt that I turned as white as death. Then comes a creeping as of centipedes running down the spine, then a sudden flush and a beating in the vessels of the head, then a long sigh and the poem is written.—Holmes.

Sad Camels.

It is a well established fact that even young camels never play. They are born sad, and thereafter their life is one protest against being made to work, although work has been their portion since the beginning of the memory of man. How largely they have been domesticated from the earliest times we know from the statement that Job possessed 6,000 camels.—London Opinion.

The Feminine Financier.

"So she has broken the engagement! Did she give you back the diamond ring?"

"No. We are deadlocked. She says she will give me back the price I paid for it, but diamonds have doubled in value and that she is entitled to the profit."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Made Her a Fright.

"Mrs. Jones has a new hat."

"Well, you look mightily pleased about it."

"You just ought to see how it looks on her."—Houston Post.

In Distress.

"Why are you flying your flag upside down, Suburbs?"

"To let the neighbors know that the cook's gone and all invitations are off."—Philadelphia Ledger.

HISTORY IN RELICS

There's a Wonderful Exhibit In the National Museum.

A FAMOUS COSTUME DISPLAY.

Besides Uniforms of National Heroes, There Are Nineteen Gowns of the Wives of Our Presidents, Beginning With One of Martha Washington.

A recent report on the United States National museum gives an account of the origin and development of the division of history which will appeal to every American. The first building expressly erected for the National museum was not opened to the public until October, 1881, and from that date until the occupation of the new building, in June, 1911, it contained the greater part of the exhibits. Since the opening of the new building, however, the natural history collections have been removed there, leaving more space in the older building for the extension of the divisions of American history and arts and industries.

The division was originally organized to illustrate the history of the United States from colonial times by exhibiting such relics and memorials of noteworthy personages and events and the domestic life of the country as could be brought together into groups of objects representing the different periods. One striking feature in this connection is the unique American period costume collection of nineteen dresses belonging to the successive hostesses of the White House from the time of Martha Washington to that of a recent administration. These costumes are so exhibited on lay figures as to bring out the full effects of the gowns, although no effort has been made to reproduce the faces of the individuals. Several other dresses and a great number of accessories of apparel, including shawls, shoes, hats and bonnets, gloves, handkerchiefs, combs, fans and jewelry, are also on display.

Among the costumes and uniforms of American men shown are a uniform and dress suit of George Washington, a court suit of General Thomas Pinckney, the court dress and other attire of James Monroe and the uniform coat of General Andrew Jackson, worn at the battle of New Orleans.

Many memorials and relics of George Washington were purchased from the Lewis heirs and deposited in the museum in 1878, which, with sundry additions, now include some 400 objects.

Historical furniture which at one time or another was the property of men of national importance—Lafayette, Jefferson, Putnam, Hamilton, Gansevoort, Cooper and others—is displayed.

Colonial relics deposited by the national society of the Colonial Dames of America fill two large cases.

The printing press used in 1725-26 by Benjamin Franklin when a printer in London is specially interesting on account of its connection with this noted statesman, as well as its historical importance as regards the development of the science of printing.

Models of five sailing vessels connected with the discovery and early history of the United States represent a viking ship, such as the Norsemen used in their supposed early visits to this continent in about 1000 A. D.; the Santa Maria, flagship of Columbus; the Susan Constant, which brought the first permanent English colony to America; the Mayflower of the pilgrims and the United States frigate Constitution.

The war of 1812 and the Mexican war are represented by many swords, pistols, guns, medals, flags, uniforms and accouterments belonging to military and naval officers, among whom are Generals Brown, Ripley, Shields, Magruder, Paul, Morgan, Browne of the United States army, and Captain Lawrence, U. S. N. One of the most valued possessions of the museum is the star spangled banner of Fort McHenry, the inspiration of Key's immortal verses. This historic flag has been backed and repaired by an elaborate process, which insures its permanent preservation.

Associated with the civil war are memorials and mementos of many well known Americans—Lincoln, Grant, Lee, Sherman, Custer, Foote and many others prominent in that great struggle. The extensive Grant collection, occupying four cases, is especially interesting.

Among other prominent officers recalled by various mementos are Macomb, Hancock, Decatur, Perry, Biddle, Porter, Farragut, Wilkes, Phillips, Newcomb, Maury, Rogers and Meigs.

The historical development in science is shown by several individual exhibits illustrating the work of Henry, Morse, Field, Langley, Francis, Bache, Morton, Wharton and Baird, but most of the scientific apparatus is included in the division of mechanical technology.

A Difference.

"I thought they didn't allow waiters to take tips in this restaurant?" said the lawyer at the table.

"We don't, sir," replied the waiter.

"I saw that man at the next table give you a tip just now."

"No, sir, that was not a tip, sir; that was a retainer."—Yonkers Statesman.

The Key Ring.

The key ring symbolizes the old custom of handing over the keys of the house to the woman. This was more often a design used for the wedding ring and occasionally for the betrothal.

MANUAL TRAINING WORK EXHIBITION

Every Department in Plainfield High School to Be Shown This Week.

Preparations are being made by Charles Bostwick, supervisor of the Manual Training Department of the public schools of the city, for a demonstration of the work of the department under his charge. The entire work of the department will be covered in a most thorough manner and all who visit the High School gymnasium will be well repaid for their trip.

Among the interesting articles on exhibition will be the product of the young people in the elementary grades. Small baby napkins, little socks, handkerchiefs, neckties, baskets and weaving of little card cases, etc. Going into the department covered by the larger boys, in the wood working division, a splendid exhibition of the work accomplished is shown, at a most nominal cost. The boys have made screens for covering the windows in the domestic science department. There are also library tables, bookcases, ironing boards, tool holds, cabinets, etc.; many in most novel styles and showing a great amount of practical thought and care in the making.

In the arts and crafts department, which is attended by High School pupils only, is found most excellent work in metal work and basket weaving. One of the most artistic pieces of work in the basket weaving line was made by one of the young men in the junior department. While as yet this department has more young women than young men in it, it is becoming very attractive to the boys and the results of their work, as shown in the demonstration, are very gratifying.

The exhibition will be open tomorrow and Friday afternoon and tomorrow evening and teachers of the various departments will be present to discuss the work with visitors.

The personal of the department is as follows: High School domestic science, Miss Lucile Jackson; elementary domestic science, Miss Ruth Klein; High School and elementary domestic art, Miss Alice Lindsley; arts and crafts, Miss Mary Decker; free hand drawing, High School, Miss Anna Bennett; free hand drawing, elementary, Miss Ruth Sadler; High School and elementary woodwork, Henry F. Oesting; elementary woodwork, A. B. Cutler. Special classes, the Misses Nora B. Koons, Sarah A. Dwight, Helga Johnson, Sarah Coyle and Mr. Dix.

ASSEMBLYMAN HAMMOND ON HIS WAY BACK TO AMERICA

Bernardsville, May 26—Word has been received here by Mrs. Robert S. Stevens, a relative of his wife, the former Miss Mary Picton Stevens, of Hoboken, that Asemblyman Ogden H. Hammond, of Somerset county, is now on his way to America. He is on an American liner and expected to arrive Saturday in New York. Mrs. Hammond was drowned in the sinking of the Lusitania, but her husband, who became separated from her, was picked up and landed in an open boat.

Mr. Hammond has three children, who are with relatives in Hoboken. A memorial service for Mrs. Hammond will be held in Bernardsville soon after the arrival of Mr. Hammond at his home here. Mr. Hammond's cablegram did not say from what port or on what vessel he sailed.

WATCHUNG COUNCIL HONORS PAST GRAND KNIGHT DOYLE

Members of Knights of Columbus Councils from Westfield, Rahway, Elizabeth and Somerville combined with Watchung Council, No. 552, in Columbus Club auditorium last night in observing visitation night. Ceremonies appropriate to the occasion and similar to those held in other councils in accordance with the rotary program were held and following this observance a reception was held for the visiting knights.

During the course of the evening Past Grand Knight David B. Doyle was presented with a handsome gold watch, a mark of esteem bestowed on him by Watchung Council. Arthur Cannon made the presentation speech and the recipient responded with a few well chosen remarks.

TO PLAY IN WESTFIELD.

Charles W. Walker, formerly organist of the St. Stephen's church, of this city, will play for the first time in St. Paul's church, Westfield, on Sunday, June 6, where he has accepted a position. He left here to become organist in an Episcopal church in Albany. The members of the Albany church are planning a farewell reception to him next week.

DOG LICENSES DUE.

Owners of dogs in this city who have not taken out licenses for their canines should do so at once under penalty of arrest. The license fees were due May 20 and all those neglecting to look after the matter will be apprehended.

THE MASTER MIND

Copyright, 1913, by the H. K. Fly company.

"Mr. Wainwright, for God's sake, sir, give us the chance!" cried Blount.

"It is not impossible that I shall do so," was the answer. "Certainly I shall give you the chance you ask for—on one condition."

The weather beaten face of the westerner shone radiant.

"It is simply this," Wainwright went on, including the three in a searching glance. "I require the services of all of you just for tonight. I am about to put in operation a plan that will be materially assisted by your co-operation. You three must stand by me tonight. That is all of my condition. Afterward you will be entirely free to go where you will as far as I am concerned, and I shall give no information to any one concerning you, and I shall guarantee the like restraint on the part of Mr. Marshall here, since he has only come in contact with you and learned your identities while in my employ."

Marshall gave a grunt of reluctant assent, but consoled himself by frowning violently at these offenders against the law.

"It is necessary," Wainwright went on in a colorless voice, "that you should stand by me tonight against—him." A slight pause before the final pronoun gave it significant emphasis.

Each of the three gave a perceptible start, then rested rigid. It was Mrs.

"What are you going to do with us?"

Blount who put the general emotion of the criminals into a single word, uttered with an expression of horrified incredulity:

"Him?"

"Yes," Wainwright replied blandly, though somewhat astonished by the patent effect of the announcement on his proposed confederates, "I mean Andrew, as he calls himself, the man who brought you here." He looked from one to another of the trio before him.

"Well?" he exclaimed sharply after a long pause. His imperious look fixed on Blount and remained there. The westerner spoke hesitatingly.

"How do you mean?" he asked.

Wainwright proceeded with his instructions as though unaware of the apprehension under which the three were laboring.

"A gentleman will soon be here," he said briskly, "whom, I believe, you have all met already. In his presence you will continue to be what I have hitherto thought you to be. In other words, you are to appear in your familiar roles as my relations by marriage, as the family of my wife."

At this simple elucidation of the primary requirement, the agitated criminals plucked up a little more spirit. Walter voiced the feeling:

"Huh! That's a pipe!"

Wainwright continued with undiminished complacency in his manner:

"In addition to this you will hold yourselves in readiness, all of you, to substantiate, when called on, whatever I may say."

"Sure, we'll do that!" Blount exclaimed, cheerfully. "But you say it will affect him—Andrew?"

Wainwright nodded assent.

"Yes," he agreed, "it will be about him. I shall do the talking. You will understand fast enough when the time comes. All you have to do will be to follow my lead. There will be no trouble about it—there can be none."

Blount agreed, with emphasis, "We'll do just as you want us to, and that goes!"

Wainwright nodded his head in acceptance of the assurance. And then, very gently and slowly the door opened and Andrew stood smiling tolerantly on the threshold.

CHAPTER XVII.

At the Bar.

IN the interval of time that elapsed after his interview with Wainwright, Andrew had chosen to shut himself in the seclusion of the cupola room, where he held communion with his thoughts while awaiting the appointed hour for the rendering of his enemy's decision. As to what that decision would be the Master Mind had small doubt, nor did he feel any concern over the result should the improbable occur, and Wainwright refuse thus to give up his political career.

In such case the effect would be secured none the less.

There was no means by which Wainwright would be able, so far as Andrew could surmise, to prevent publicity. And publicity would be enough. The Master Mind would be at pains to secure the widest notoriety for the reports most likely to do his enemy harm. His work would be eagerly aided by Wainwright's political foes, who were many and powerful. The victim would become a laughing stock or an object of contempt. He could no longer command a following of loyally devoted followers.

It mattered not at all whether the reports concerning him should be the truth or garbled distortions. Either would be fatal to his high ambitions. The public could never again respect as their chief a man who had been so hoodwinked as to consort intimately with notorious criminals, to receive them into his household, to accept them as his closest relations, to make one of them his wife, whom, but for timely exposure, he would have made mistress of the executive mansion of the greatest state of the Union.

Andrew's complacency waxed as he considered the fact that his enemy could not escape out of the toils. There could be no ingenuity sufficient to extricate the captive of his plotting. Wainwright had only the option of abdicating from his position of leadership quietly and without scandal, abdicating absolutely for his lifetime or of being forced out ignominiously by public scandal. Of course he would resist to the utmost, but the ultimate effect of all resistance could avail naught. Even at this moment, doubtless, he was employing every resource of his excellent brain power in contriving some method of self defense. Andrew smiled at the thought. Let the poor prisoner of his wiles work his subtlest. It would only make the game more diverting, the end no less certain. The struggles of this hapless fly within the meshes of the web gave greater zest to the glee of the remorseless, gloating spider, which watched and waited contentedly for an end that was certain.

BOROUGH P. T. A. MEETING.

The last meeting of the year of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the Somerset School at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. A large attendance is desired as there will be important business transacted.

WILL GIVE LECTURE.

Dr. T. L. Johnson, Union county superintendent of public schools, will give a lecture before the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association on Thursday evening, June 3. Parents and children are invited.

Miss Elsie Campbell, instructor of history in the North Plainfield High School, returned to school this week, after a week's absence. She was detained at her home in Short Hills with illness.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

CLOTHES FOR SUMMER SPORTS.

Nos. 8775-8927.

Whether one spends the vacation at home or at camp, a stout dress for "roughing it" will be an almost indispensable part of a girl's wardrobe. However, in the warm months, such a dress must be light and comely as well as able to withstand the wear and tear incident to recreational activities. A dress that fills the bill perfectly is cut by Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8775-8927 and is shown above.

The blouse waist and skirt are both box plaited, the waist opening in front, and having applied box plaited sections forming pockets. Sizes 32 to 42, 36 requiring 2½ yards of 36-inch material or 2 yards of 42-inch material. The skirt is made in 4 gores with slightly raised waistline, being with or without a hip yoke. Cuts in sizes 22 to 36 waist measure, requiring in size 24, 5⅜ yards of 36-inch material.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Ten Questions.

By Alice Stone Blackwell.

If equal suffrage is a bad thing why has it spread from the State that first adopted it to ten neighboring States, all adjoining one another?

If the majority of the people anywhere are dissatisfied with it, why is there no move to repeal it?

If it leads mothers to neglect their children, why is the lowest infant death rate in the world found in New Zealand?

If it increases divorce, why did Colorado grant 935 divorces the year before women were given the ballot and only 597 the year after?

If it is demoralizing, why did only 62 out of 624 ministers and editors in the suffrage States replying to Julia Ward Howe's letter of inquiry give an unfavorable opinion?

If the majority of women are opposed, why have only about one per cent. of the women in the United States joined the widely-advertised National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, according to that association's own figures?

If the majority of women are opposed in Massachusetts, where an active anti-suffrage association has been gathering signatures of women against suffrage since 1895, why has it succeeded in twenty years in accumulating the names of only about three per cent. of the women of the State?

Among the millions of citizens in the enfranchised States, why have the opponents of equal suffrage thus far failed to find a dozen respectable men who assert over their own names and addresses that it has had any bad results?

From the largest Chamber of Commerce to the smallest sewing circle, why has no organization of any kind in a suffrage State ever passed a resolution condemning it?

Unless most people like it after they have experience of it, why do opponents warn us that, once granted, it can never be recalled?

"RIGHTS" OF FRANCHISE.

The franchise and the "right of franchise" does not depend upon the individual's ability to bear arms. If so, hundreds and thousands of men who vote would at once be disfranchised, for thousands are not fit, in any sense of the word, to bear arms. The franchise does not depend upon ownership of taxable property; if so, thousands of men would be disfranchised at once and thousands of women would be given the power to vote. The franchise does not depend upon the individual's ability to serve upon juries; if so, thousands would be disfranchised, for thousands now voters are not capable and are not allowed to sit upon juries.

The franchise does not depend upon the individual's ability to serve in elective or appointive positions; for thousands who vote are not capable of being elevated to public office. The franchise does not depend upon the capacity or inclination of the individual to become interested in public affairs, for thousands who have the right do not have even enough interest in public affairs to vote. At the same time, thousands of intelligent, capable, deeply-interested women cannot vote. The franchise does not depend upon the literacy test; for thousands are allowed to vote who cannot even write their names in the poll books. At the same time, there are thousands of trained and highly educated women who are denied the ballot.

The franchise or the right of franchise does not depend upon position as head of a family, the unit of society and of government; for thousands vote who are not married, and there are thousands of vagabonds registered on poll lists who are dependent upon society. At the same time there are thousands of women whom circumstances have put at the head of families, yet they are denied the privilege. The franchise and the right of franchise should not depend upon sex, unless it is understood that democracy depends upon sex. This is a government of the people, by the people and for the people. It is not presumed that only males are "people"—women "things."

It is quite time that the voters and [illegible] Upon what in this civilized country does the "right of franchise" depend? Is franchise a common privilege or a special privilege? This country is supposed to frown upon "special privileges," of any kind whatsoever.—Elizabeth Journal.

He "Ba-a-a-d" Just as Long as He Could.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Baby Lamb And the Joyous Springtime.

"ONCE upon a time there was a baby lamb that the stork brought in the joyous springtime," daddy told Jack and Evelyn, anxious for the evening story.

"This little lamb was all fleecy and downy and cunning, and it had the funniest 'ba-a-a' you ever heard, which sounded like its mother's, only not nearly so loud and higher and shriller, just as a little baby's voice reminds you of its mother's a little.

"It had the cutest white, woozly, sleazy, bunchy wool, and its eyes were round and dark, and its face was awfully foolish looking, something like a baby camel's, but without the sneering expression, and it had four teetery tottery legs upon which it rambled around in a sort of aimless way with its dear mother, Mrs. Ewe.

"Its father, Mr. Ram, didn't pay much attention to Baby Lamb that was born in the joyous springtime and wandered on the green hills with its mother, Mrs. Ewe. Indeed, no: Mr. Ram was a very important old gentleman with big curved horns, and he was cross, too, and would chase little children who came into his field.

"But Baby Lamb didn't pay any more attention to his father than Mr. Ram paid to him. Baby Lamb was content to ramble about the green hills with Mother Ewe, and he had a lovely time.

"He loved the joyous springtime so! He loved the green of the grass and the leaves of the trees and the shadows, so cool and dark, that stretched from away out under the trees. And he loved the cool breezes that blew on the hilltop.

"And he was so happy, was Baby Lamb, that he 'ba-a-a-d' just as loud as he could 'ba-a-a,' and he leaped into the air with all his four legs bunched stiff, the way little lambs do, and you should have heard the children laugh! Children have always laughed at little lambs' gambolings ever since the lamb followed Mary to school one day, which was against the rule, you remember, and made the children laugh and play. Oh, he was a happy little lamb with Mother Ewe up on the green hilltop in the joyous springtime!

"After awhile what do you suppose happened? Why, up in his forehead two little bumps appeared. They bothered the little lamb a good deal. Maybe it was something like cutting teeth. But they grew and grew anyhow, and now he has been a cross Mr. Ram for some time. And if you see him you had better keep out of his field.

"Good night, now, kiddies. Run along to beddie."

Household Hints

WASHING CREPE DE CHINE WAISTS

Crepe de chine waists in all delicate tints may be beautifully laundered, and still retain their original shades, if a small piece of crepe paper, two or three shades darker than the shade of the waist, is put in the rinsing water (the same as you would bluing) and allowed to tinge the water.

FADED GREEN BLINDS RENOVATED

When your blinds have become faded and flimsy at the bottom, remove them from the roller and stitch a hem for the stick. Remove the stick and tack bottom of the blind to the roller, thus reversing your blind. Now over the outside brush a little linseed oil. This restores the color. Next give the inside of the blind a thin coat of white paint, let it dry for about six hours, then give another thin coat, and do not roll up until thoroughly dry. This makes your blinds firm and stiff again and they will last a year or two longer and will look as wel las a new two-toned blind.

REMEMBER WHEN COOKING ONIONS

In the cooking of such vegetables as onions and cabbage where the odor is offensive, which is particularly true in apartments, if vinegar is kept boiling on the stove during the cooking it will destroy all odor.

FAKE SAUSAGE

One cup grated chocolate, one cup granulated sugar, three teaspoonfuls vanilla, one-fourth pound almonds, one-half cup powdered sugar, two whites of eggs.

Blanch and chop almonds into fine pieces. Crush sugar with a rolling pin on a baking board, and grate the chocolate. Beat up whites of eggs in a sauce pan, then heat them over fire and stir with a spoon until warm. Add chocolate, sugar and almonds, and stir until mixture is hot. Remove from fire, add vanilla, pour hot mixture on the powdered sugar and knead it on baking board. Form into one large sausage or several smaller ones. Allow to dry for twelve hours, then slice and serve.

This is a very delicious sweetmeat and much fun can be had by serving these fake sausages on a platter at a meal where there are guests.

PAD FOR BABY'S BUGGY

Take one large bath towel, fold once and stitch three sides together (making a square slip), then crochet any simple stitch all around with heavy white cotton and put on blue or pink picot edge. Take square piece of rubber sheeting, bind it with bias tape, slip inside the case, and you have a serviceable as well as nice looking pad for baby's buggy.

SILK SWEATERS SUMMER FAD

Long, knitted sweaters of silk are one of the luxuries the well-dressed woman will have this summer. These come in colors and white. One model recently noted was of silver gray and was to be worn with a corduroy walking skirt, exactly matching the shade of the silk.

THE TABLE

Beef Loaf—Four pounds beef, one pound veal and pork, one-half pound bacon, one-half pound suet, one large onion chopped fine, one egg, one cup rich milk, two-thirds cup ground bread crumbs, pepper and salt to taste. Grind beef, veal, pork, bacon and suet all together; add other ingredients, mix well, form into a loaf, bake two hours in oven in roaster. Be sure the meat is good. Always go to the butcher and buy the meat, then have butcher grind it, and it is sure to be good.

German Dandelion Salad—Two quarts dandelions washed and cut in pieces, two onions sliced, salt and pepper, mix. Have ready three slices bacon fried brown and cut in small pieces, to which add pinch of flour, sugar and one cup vinegar. When cool, pour over dandelions and garnish with hard boiled eggs. Sliced boiled potatoes may be added.

Fairy Cream Cake—Two cups sugar, two-thirds cup butter, one cup milk, 2¾ cups flour, one-fourth cup cornstarch, three even teaspoons baking powder, whites of seven eggs, vanilla to taste. Cream butter, add sugar, beating well, then egg, flour with cornstarch and baking powder. This makes two cakes.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Elaborate plans are being made for the senior subscription dance to be given in the auditorium, Saturday evening.

Tomorrow at recess a picture of the entire student body of the school will be taken in a group. This has been made possible by a recent invention, the revolving camera.

RECEIVE GERMAN PAPER.

Henry Welle, of the Y. M. C. A., today received several German papers from his parents who live in Germany. They were mailed on May 3, being twenty-three days on the way.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"How peaceful everything is with the blue haze settling over the trees. I have just soaked in strength with the glorious sunshine all this week."

Dick had just reached the old homestead to spend the week-end, and was lazily swinging Nell in the hammock under the apple tree. "You'll find it peaceful at home, too; everybody I meet — and of course I meet more people when boarding than when living at home—is so kind. Really, everyone goes out of his way to speak and be pleasant. It does me so much good to know you need not dread coming home."

"I do just the same," came half-audibly from the hammock. "I probably will not mind it so much after a few days, but the first cold plunge——" The sentence trailed off into silence. "After that bath of fire at Gardner," she continued after a pause, "I suppose I should not mind anything else, but I believe it made me thin skinned."

"Don't be foolish, dear." Dick bent over her earnestly. "Doctor says nearly every one of his patients has expressed disgust over the letter Mrs. Ellson sent, and I do not believe one of them thinks you gave her any grounds to sue for a divorce. You see, knowing the doctor they could not believe the stories. Mrs. Ellson has shipped what goods she intends to take and is spending Sunday with her friends, so she will be gone when you come back. I have engaged her maid for you when you return."

"I'm almost sorry. I dread having her around," said Nell.

"You must get strong; then, if you wish, you can let her go."

"When is the doctor's sister coming?" asked Nell, sitting up.

"Very soon now. Mrs. Parsons is planning a reception for her."

"I am going to ask mother if I may invite the Scotts out. They motor everywhere, and it would be a lark to have them come here and bring the Parsons. It would be great to have a barn dance; hang Japanese lanterns and set the victrola going. We could serve something that would not make much work for mother. I'll ask her about it tomorrow."

Dick was silent. He wondered if Nell's influence would reach far enough to enable her to give a dance on the farm.

Mrs. Morton was pleased with the plans for an autumn party until the dancing was mentioned.

"No one is going to dance on my premises. I can't help what you do in your own home, but there will be no dancing or card playing here," she said with set lips. "Why don't you invite them out to dinner?" she asked, after a silence. "They can go back by moonlight; the nights are prettier than the days in the fall. They could go nutting in the woods after dinner. The grove along the river is the prettiest place I know around here."

And so it was arranged; and when the party arrived the following Saturday the rambling old house and grounds were turned over to their entertainment and a sumptuous dinner appeased their appetites, made ravenous from riding in the crisp air.

SUFFRAGISTS RECEIVE ENCOURAGING REPORTS

Reports Show An Increase of Over One Hundred in Favor of "Votes for Women."

The monthly meeting of the Plainfield Equal Suffrage League was held yesterday afternoon at suffrage headquarters on Depot avenue. There was no speaker or other entertainment provided as the business of the league required a full afternoon. The report of the enrollment committee showed an increase of over a hundred voters who have declared in favor of votes for women during the last month. Thirty-one voters, in replying to the "voters' letter," had said that they were opposed. Eleven had pronounced themselves neutral. The diminishing number of neutrals is the most remarkable things about the report.

The last meeting of Mrs. Greeley's class in parliamentary law and speaking was held yesterday morning at the summer home of Champlain L. Riley on Watchung avenue. After the meeting luncheon was served on the lawn and Mrs. Greeley became toastmistress, calling upon Mrs. Witmer, Mrs. Allan Cowperthwaite and Mrs. A. B. Jones and Mrs. William Taylor for speeches. Mrs. Taylor, having voted in Kansas, was the envy and admiration of the other members of the class. Mrs. Witmer told of the new encouraging and surprising experience of having men come into headquarters seeking information. Not long ago both men and women in Plainfield seemed to dismiss the whole subject with a shrug as if to say: I never saw a woman vote, I never want to see one, and I can tell you anyhow, I'd rather see than be one.

"Times are changing—people are evidently thinking it may be that votes for women are really coming on October 19, 1915," said Mrs. Witmer. This, at all events, is the opinion of Mrs. Witmer whose study of the situation in Plainfield has been very thorough.

A PRETTY GOWN HAVING AN ATTRACTIVE SKIRT MODEL.

The gown shown here may be prettily developed in either voile or of soft silk if a more elaborate frock is desired. The skirt is the noticebaly distinctive feature of the model. The front portion hangs over the side in apron effect and is slightly shorter, showing an under petticoat of pleated lace. If this frock is developed in silk the yoke should be of self-toned chiffon, also the sleeves, the main portion of the bodice and the little vest being of the silk. The skirt has a ruching on the lower edge of the chiffon. If, however, voile is the material used both skirt and blouse should be of that material, the vest and sleeves in a contrasting color of the same, preferably white. Voile is used for the ruchings. In both instances lace is used for the shoulder drapery, collar and petticoat.

MARY WASHIEN.

Mary Washien, the nine months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Washien, of Grove street, died at Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday. The funeral will be held at the parents' home tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

to a despatch from Allbach.

Northern France, May 26.—The British troops last night repulsed a fierce German attack in the region of Richebourg and Lavoue. The Germans vigorously bombarded and destroyed a part of the British wire defenses, and then attacked in force. They had reached the British trenches when the Canadian and Indian soldiers swarmed out with bayonets and met the enemy in the fiercest hand-to-hand fighting that has occurred recently. The German hold on La Bassee is weakening and the German line is slowly straightening.

It is reported that the Kaiser is expected soon to visit the Yser front, indicating that a new offensive there is probable.

Paris, May 26.—The French War Office gave out the following statement this afternoon:

"The checks inflicted upon the enemy yesterday in the region of Angers and at a point north of the heights of Lorette determined the Germans to come back with an attack of extreme violence, but we were successful in retaining all our gains. At the end of the day we occupied almost entirely the position near Buvar, where we gained a footing in the afternoon. Here we are maintaining ourselves under violent fire. At the same time we gained ground on the heights to northeast of Lorette and captured a trench in the environs of Souchez.

"From the rest of the front no reports have been received. During the day of May 25 our aviators bombarded the enemy all along the front."

Lugand, Switzerland, May 26.—The Bavarian and Prussian ministers to Italy have installed themselves and their staffs in the Grand Hotel in this city. It has been discovered that Italians who have been naturalized as Swiss citizens are still held liable for military service by the Italian government, while Switzerland considers them liable to service in her army. The situation promises to give rise to friction between the governments.

Malta, May 26 (via Rome).—It is understood that in consequence of the entry of Italy into the war new dispositions have been made of the Allied fleet with a view to co-operate.

Venice, May 26.—The duke of Aosta, cousin of King Victor Emmanuel and commander of one of the Italian armies, was hurt today, when thrown from his automobile near Mestre.

Amsterdam, May 26 (Central News Cable).—The Turkish forces on the Gallipoli Peninsula are being re-inforced by troops withdrawn from the Caucasus front, according to a despatch from Constantinople by way of Berlin.

London, May 26.—A news agency despatch from Copenhagen states that indignation is growing over the torpedoing of the Minerva, and that the Danish government has formulated a protest which will be presented to Berlin.

CO-EXECUTORSHIP

The man who makes his wife his sole executor unthinkingly places upon her in a time of acute mental distress a burden almost too heavy to be borne, but when he names her in conjunction with a competent trust company he knows that while she will retain the supervision of the estate, the trust company will attend to all the details.

This Company is a specialist in the management of estates. Consultation on the subject is invited.

POLICE SEEKING FOURTH AUTOIST

HELD FOR MIDDLESEX

Woman and Chauffeur Taken to Dunellen to Await Trial June 3—Martial Woman Makes Signed Statement to Flynn—Bail Fixed High.

Arraigned before City Judge William G. DeMeza in the police court yesterday afternoon, charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Arthur Moore, eighteen years old, was turned over to the Middlesex county authorities who were represented in court by Justice of the Peace Rene von Minden, of Dunellen. Immediately after the filing of proper papers with the local authorities, Justice von Minden took the bench in the city court and held Moore in $1,000 to await trial in the Borough Hall, Dunellen, Thursday morning, June 3, at 10 o'clock. Grace Philmore, who was in Moore's car at the time it struck a horse and buggy owned and driven by Mrs. Agnes Shad, of Samptown, was held in $500 bail as a material witness. Jennie Martial, another member of Moore's "joy-riding" party, is in the hospital suffering from a broken collar-bone and she will also be committed as a witness as soon as her condition is such as to warrant her removal from the jail. Moore and the girl were subsequently taken to Dunellen and locked up last night.

Moore is alleged to have been the leader of a "joy-riding" party which consisted of himself and the two women, Tuesday night, and is said to have imbibed freely at a New Market ho-

WILLIAM A. BARSE TAKEN INTO CUSTODY BY POLICE

William A. Barse, who comes originally from Washington, D. C., was arrested at a South Plainfield factory yesterday afternoon on a capias from the Union county prosecutor's office charging him with "false pretense." The offense is said to have been committed here about a year ago and the man vanished immediately afterward.

Since that time efforts have been made to locate him in Washington and other places without result. He came to Plainfield again three weeks ago and was taken into custody by Sergeant Maurice Higgins.

FIELD DAY FOR FARMERS ON SOMERVILLE ESTATE

New Jersey farmers will take part in a monster State Field Day to be held under the auspices of the State Board of Agriculture at the Raritan Valley Farms, Saturday, June 19. President J. S. Frelinghuysan is interested in the proposition and has offered the use of his spacious grounds near Somerville for the occasion.

Addresses will be made by Dr. H. W. Collingwood, editor of the Rural New Yorker, one of the ablest agricultural writers in the country; an official from the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., and others.

UNIQUE ONE-CENT SALE.

Weiss' borough drug store will tomorrow conduct the most unique sale ever held in the city, when standard toilet and drug preparations will be sold at one cent each. The plan has been successfully tried in other cities, and Mr. Weiss is entitled to the credit of introducing the idea here. The plan is to sell one of a large list of standard articles, which are listed in an advertisement elsewhere in today's paper, at the regular price, and then a second one at the uniform price of one cent. In a number of instances, purely for the advertising value, Mr. Weiss will let the goods go at a loss. Included in the articles offered are the famous Rexall remedies, toilet articles, stationery, shaving supplies, brushes and candy.

SPRING SONG RECITAL.

The annual spring song recital given by the pupils of Mrs. McNeill Hopcraft will be rendered at her studio in the Babcock building tonight. An interesting program has been arranged and listeners are promised an evening of fine vocal solos. The following young people will take part: Miss Adele Freeman, Pasquale Caruso, B. Harrison Fahn, Miss Irma Good, Miss Edna Burdick and Miss Bessie Gunzelman. Mrs. Earle Cleveland and Mrs. F. B. Ball will be the accompanists for the occasion.

H. L. FINCH ENGAGED TO MISS MARY BAKER

Wedding of Popular Couple Will Take Place in the Fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Baker, of 8 East Seventy-fifth street, New York, today announced the engagement of their elder daughter, Miss Mary Farquhar Baker, to Henry LeRoy Finch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Finch, of Park avenue, this city. The wedding will take place in the fall.

Miss Baker, who is well-known here, made her debut about two years ago. Her father is the president of the Bank of the Metropolis, New York city, and she has always been interested in church and philanthropic work. She has also been a conspicuous figure in the runs of the Watchung Hunt Club and is fond of outdoor sports.

Mr. Finch is prominent in Plainfield and New York society. He is a member of the Watchung Hunt Club and like Miss Baker, is interested in church work, being a member of Grace church and an officer of the Sunday-school. He has three brothers, former Assemblyman Edward R. Finch, of New York, who married Miss Mary L. Delafield; Rufus C. Finch, who married Miss Adelaide Gardner, of New York, and Norman R. Finch, a student at Yale. The Misses Marie Louise and Charlotte T. Finch are his sisters.

UNABLE TO PROVE THAT CARNIVAL OWNED WAGON

In a suit brought in the Plainfield District Court, yesterday, by George Sacks, of Springfield, L. I., against the Levitt-Meyerhoff Carnival Company, Inc., for $500 damages alleged to have been done to his automobile through colliding with one of the carnival wagons at South avenue and Berckman street, on the night of May 16, a jury returned a verdict of no cause for action, yesterday afternoon. It was brought out in the trial by Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of the firm of Reed & Hetfield, attorneys for the carnival company, that W. H. Carhuff, a local expressman, had the contract for conveying the carnival equipment from the freight-house to the grounds at West Front street and Grant avenue, and Robert Newton Crane, counsel for the plaintiff, was unable to convince the jury that the wagon alleged to have caused the accident belonged to the defendant concern.

Sacks was driving his automobile on South avenue and smashed into a wagon left standing at the side of the thoroughfare. The vehicle was unprotected by lights and as a consequence Sacks brought suit through his counsel against the carnival owners, being personally convinced that the vehicle belonged to those parties. An attachment was levied against the carnival and the suit of $500 followed. Winfield S. Angleman represented Carhuff's interests.

PLANNING NEW REFORMED CHURCH AT IRVINGTON

The Classis of Newark of the Reformed Church in America will meet in the North Reformed church, Newark, on Wednesday, June 2, to consider the report of the church extension committee in reference to building a new church for the members of the Florence Avenue chapel, Irvington.

Rev. J. Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church, is chairman of the committee, the other members being Rev. Dr. C. H. Stewart, of the North Reformed church, Newark; Rev. Albertus T. Broek, of the Clinton Avenue Reformed church, Newark; H. E. Ogden, of the First Reformed church, Newark, and Joseph H. Mundy, of the Clinton Avenue church. The committee visited Florence chapel on Tuesday and is ready to make a favorable report.

SEWING MEETING.

The Loyal Band Bible class of Trinity Reformed church, of which Henry Seader is teacher, met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Stephens, of Scotch Plains. The gathering was in the nature of a sewing meeting. A social time followed, during which musical selections were enjoyed and refreshments served.

LIFE OF ST. PATRICK.

The life of St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, will be shown in motion pictures at the Columbus Auditorium Saturday evening. The affair will be under the auspices of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus.

Mrs. Clinton F. Firstbrook, of East Second street, is spending a few days visiting friends at Wharton.

BISHOP VISITS HEAVENLY REST

CONFIRMS CLASS OF 16

Reception to Prelate and His Wife Follows in the Parish House—Special Program of Music is Rendered.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Paul Matthews, of the Episcopal diocese of New Jersey, visited the Church of the Heavenly Rest last night for the first time and confirmed a class of thirteen candidates presented by Rev. C. H. Mallery, the rector, and one candidate from Holly Innocents' church, Dunellen, presented by Rev. A. S. Phelps, rector of that church. The Bishop and his wife, who accompanied him, were both given a cordial reception and the congregation was so large that all were unable to get inside the edifice.

The service was very impressive, the Bishop preaching the sermon from the text: "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ and the love of God and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost be with us all overmore," 2d Corinthians 13:15. He emphasized the need of the love of God, the grace of Christ to live the Christian life and the companionship of the Holy Spirit.

Following the sermon the Bishop confirmed the following as members of the local parish: John Kriney, Lewis Kriney, William Petersen, Harry Williams, Lawrence Sutton, Miss Ethel Brentnell, Miss Clare Mallery, Miss Eva Chamberlain, Miss Marjorie Stutz, Miss Marguerite Winkelholz, Miss Evelyn McMullin, Miss Ethel Rodriguez, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jeffery, and Mrs. Robert Jackson; also Miss Barbara Bieler, of Dunellen.

During the service William Beers sang as an offertory solo, "The King of Love My Shepherd Is."

The church was attractively decorated with palms and cut flowers loaned by the Misses Forster. A reception to the Bishop and his wife was held afterward in the parish house, during which ice cream and cake were served under the direction of Mrs. Michael, Rimmer, Mrs. Juan A. Babcock, Mrs. James Chamberlain and Miss Julia Praed. Bishop and Mrs. Matthews were entertained while here by Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stevens.

"THE SLEEPING BEAUTY" IS ENJOYED BY MANY

Zenaide Anderson, made a charming Princess in "The Sleeping Beauty" given last night by St. Mark's mission at the Grace church parish house. A large number of parents and friends of the participants attended and were most generous in their applause to the youthful thespians, who exhibited unusually clever acting. Robert Watson in the role of the gallant Prince made a decided hit.

The other participants and their respective parts were as follows:

TO GIVE A PLAYLET.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold an "at home" tonight at o'clock in the church parlors. There will be a playlet by the young folks entitled "Volunteers Before and After." A quartet will sing and Mrs. Heath will render a soprano solo. Refreshments will be served at the close of the program. A most enjoyable evening is promised and a large attendance is hoped for. The public is invited to attend.

ALL-DAY PICNIC.

The Graded Primary Teachers' Union is holding its annual picnic at the First Baptist church today. The members gathered at 10 o'clock and are spending the day in a social way, features being an informal program. At noon all sat down to dinner, the repast being prepared by a committee from the union.

RESCUE MISSION.

Rev. Charles M Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church, will speak at the meeting of the Rescue Mission tonight. Special music will feature the service.

THRILLING BATTLE WITH COPPERHEAD

Heroic Measures Saves Life of Max Houch From Attack of Large Reptile.

As the result of a thrilling encounter which he had a few days ago with a copperhead snake, Max Houch, a farmhand living at Berkeley Heights, is confined to his home from the effects of poison injected by the reptile. The fact that he adopted heroic "first aid" measures himself and secured medical attendance as soon as possible is all that saved his life.

Houch was walking home a few evenings ago and came upon the copperhead stretched out on the road. Securing a stick, he aimed a blow at the raised up head but missed. The next instant the snake sprang from a hurried coil and landed full upon Houch's arm, twisting its body about him. Before he could tear it loose it had bitten him twice in the hand. Houch finally managed to get the reptile to the ground where he quickly dispatched it by crushing its head with his heel.

As soon as the danger of further attack had been removed, Houch cut pieces of flesh from his hand at the point where the poison had been injected. He also sucked the wounds and crudely cauterized them by holding a match flame against the exposed parts. With all possible speed he hurried to the home of Dr. Lieber, a New York physician, who has a summer place at Berkeley Heights, where proper treatment was accorded him.

Before Doctor Lieber could stay the progress of the poison, the arm had swollen to almost twice its normal size from the hand to the shoulder. Houch was also made deathly ill and has since been confined to his home. The fact that he adopted such radical preventatives to allay the poison is undoubtedly all that saved the bite from killing him. He is a young man and recently had been working on the Woodbrook farm on lower Park avenue, blasting out tree stumps. The snake he killed was a full grown one, measuring a trifle over three feet in length.

JUNIOR CLUB'S FRIENDS ENJOY A "LADIES' NIGHT"

Members of the Junior Club conducted the regular monthly "Ladies' Night" at the East Front street clubhouse, last night. Fully one hundred women friends were present and enjoyed the diversions of the building, which include pool playing, cards and other games. An informal program of vocal and instrumental music was provided, Mrs. Millard Bellis presiding at the piano and members of the club rendering solos. Refreshments were served in conclusion.

The affair was directly in charge of the club's house committee, of which William J. Firstbrook is the chairman.

LARGELY ATTENDED MEETING AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH

The mid-week service of the Grace M. E. church, held last night, was largely attended, over one hundred and thirty being present. A large choir rendered special music and an interesting discussion was held on the second petition of the Lord's Prayer, "Thy Kingdom Come." Tomorrow night the annual social of the Sunday-school will take place in the church. Parents of the scholars are invited to attend. An interesting program has been arranged.

The adult probation class will meet in the parsonage tonight. The subject of the pastor's sermon for next Sunday night will be, "The Struggle With the Serpent."

OPEN SATURDAY NIGHT.

Owing to the fact that Monday next will be a holiday and the bank closed, The State Trust Company will be open on Saturday evening from 9:30 to 10 o'clock for the accommodation of such of its customers who may wish to make their deposit then rather than carry it over until Tuesday.

MISS RUDY TO SPEAK.

Miss Ella Rudy, a recently returned missionary from China will speak tomorrow at the German Reformed church, corner Duer street and Craig place, at 3:30 and 7:15. All friends of missions are invited to hear Miss Rudy, who is an unusually interesting speaker.

FIRE TAPPERS TO WARN THE PUBLIC

Councilmanic Committee Plans to Install Them at Two Important Corners.

WILL OFFSET DANGER

Need of Some Sort of Signal Fully Demonstrated When Apparatus Came Upon Crowd Following Circus Parade—Ready in Two Weeks.

Realizing the need of warning people at Park avenue and Second street and Watchung avenue and Second street at the approach of fire apparatus, the fire committee of the Common Council has decided to place high tension tappers at both these points. Estimates have been secured from several companies relative to the cost and the contract will be let within the next few days. It is probable that the tappers will be ready for use in about two weeks.

Councilman John H. Cose, who was empowered by the committee several weeks ago to complete all arrangements for the service, said today that the necessity of some sort of warning at the corners mentioned had been realized ever since the city gong was discontinued and plans were gotten underway shortly after the first of the year. Two kinds of tappers have been considered, those known to the trade as "make and break," which give the box pulled by numbers, and the style which rings continuously. The former is the more expensive, but Mr. Cose is in favor of it and his decision will undoubtedly be ratified by the rest of the committee. The expense of installing the two will be about $150 each. Newark, Jersey City, Elizabeth and several other large cities use the continuous ring at important corners but by putting in the "make and break" Plainfielders will be able to tell which way the apparatus is going when it reaches Park avenue or Watchung avenue. A majority of the citizens have memorized the locations of the boxes and as soon as the taps are counted off they can figure out the department's movements with unvarying accuracy.

The fire committee has gone on record as being opposed to the replacing of the steam gong, but agrees with the citizens that the Park and Second street corner especially and the Watchung and Second corner, comparatively should not be subjected to accidents. There is always a heavy traffic of vehicles and pedestrians at both these intersections and in the event of an alarm those whose view is cut off by the corner buildings have no realization that the firemen are coming until almost full upon them. A vivid illustration of this fact was witnessed last week when the apparatus rushed down Second street as thousands of people were surging about the thoroughfares directly after the Ringling circus parade had crossed Park avenue going westward. No one knew which way the apparatus was going when it reached the corner and a majority of the people were unaware that there was a fire until the auto vehicles were only a few hundred feet away.

PUBLIC SERVICE EMPLOYES ENTERTAINED AT RECEPTION

Under the auspices of the Dunellen Public Service Social and Athletic Club a well attended reception and dance was held in Wayside Park, last night, the merry-makers including Public Service employes and their families and friends. Dancing was the principal feature of the evening's program and refreshments were served during the intermissions.

Music was furnished by Naylor's orchestra and the committee in charge made a report at the conclusion of the function stating that the affair was a financial success.

AN APPROACHING MARRIAGE.

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Vera Rockwell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Vandenberg Rockwell, of Brooklyn, to Frank A. Neal, of this city. The wedding will take place at the parsonage of the Church of Our Father, Brooklyn, Tuesday night, June 1, at 7 o'clock. Immediate relatives of the two families will be the only guests. Mr. Neal is a son of the late Frank S. and Mrs. Harriette A. Neal, of 556 West Front street, and has a wide acquaintance throughout the city and borough. Following a brief wedding trip the couple will make their home in Plainfield for the present.

TEXAS JUDGE DEAD.

New York, May 27—An appraisal of the estate left by Harriet S. Niles, of New York, aunt of Harriet G. Clark, of 1003 Park avenue, Plainfield, made by a transfer tax State appraiser, on file today in the Surrogate's Court, shows that when the deceased passed away on March 13, 1914, she left an estate valued at $9,135.47.

Deducting expenses for funeral, administration, debts, etc., the net value of the estate is shown to be $7,531.80. The will was executed on October 28, 1914, and among the bequests was on of $3,390.90 to Harriet G. Clark, of Plainfield; $500 to Dr. Joseph O. Niles, a brother; to four nephews, each $250; to the Presbyterian Boards of Home and Foreign Missions, each $500; to William B. Wadsworth, of Plainfield, "who had been so kind and generous in the management of the business of my niece, Minnie," $250. The rest of the estate, $1,390.90, goes to Jennie N. Trowbridge, a niece, of New York. James A. Trowbridge, of New York, is the executor.

DR. W. NORMAN GUTHRIE COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Dr. William Norman Guthrie, a university professor, and formerly an Episcopal clergyman, and widely known throughout the country as a man of letters, has been secured as the speaker for the Hartridge School commencement on Friday morning, June 4, at the Hartridge Auditorium on West Seventh street.

Dr. Guthrie was born in Dundee, Scotland, and in 1889-90 was assistant professor of modern languages at the University of the South, and professor of modern languages at Kenyon College in 1892-3. He was ordained to the Protestant Episcopal ministry in 1893 and was missionary in charge of Christ church, Kennedy Heights, 1893-4 assistant Church of the Advent, Cincinnati, 1894-6; lecturer comparative literature University of Cincinnati, 1898-1900, and since that time has been engaged in writing, lecturing and teaching.

ST. MARY'S SOCIAL CLUB PLANS STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL

Final arrangements have been made by the committee of St. Mary's Social Club for the strawberry festival to be held tomorrow evening, in T. A. B. Hall on West Fourth street. The event promises to be very successful as the committee has made elaborate plans for the festival. There will be an entertainment, refreshments and dancing, music for which will be furnished by Squires' orchestra.

The committee in charge comprises the Misses Julia Leahy, chairman, Kitty Ellis, Margaret O'Keefe, Elizabeth Flynn, Katherine Boyle, Katherine Griffen, Mae Carney and Florence Brisco.

COLDEST MAY 27 IN 45 YEARS SAYS WEATHER MAN

New York, My 27—This is the coldest May 27 experienced in the United States for 45 years, according to Local Forecaster Scarr. The next coldest day in history for this season was May 29, 1902, when the thermometer dropped to 46 degrees. It was five degrees lower today.

WHAT A PRESS AD. DID.

Miss Viola Higgins, of Stone street, lost a silver mesh bag on Cnatham street, Tuesday afternoon. She inserted an ad in the classified columns of the Daily Press, which was seen by T. J. Faith, of Roselle Park. The latter found the bag and it was quickly restored to the owner. Another evidence of the fact that Daily Press classified ads. are valuable mediums.

FRED STONE INJURED.

New York, May 27—Fred Stone, member of the well-known theatrical team of Montgomery and Stone, and six other persons, including one woman, were badly hurt early today when two big touring cars sideswiped each other on Queen's Boulevard, Long Island City. The accident occurred near Packard street.

TO PLAY AT FESTIVAL.

The members of the Dutch Arms Band, of this city, will play at a church festival at South Branch, tonight. The trip will be made by autobus and the party will leave Trinity church at 6:15 o'clock.

GO SLOW IN THE NEBRASKAN CASE

Government Officials Not Sure It Was Torpedo That Hit U. S. Vessel.

MORE AERIAL RAIDS

Zeppelin Attacks English Seacoast Town and Fleet of Aeroplanes Make 100-Mile Raid on the Rhine Valley.

Washington, May 27.—Just what action will be taken by the United States Government in the matter of the steamship Nebraskan being torpedoed by a submarine or hitting a mine cannot be determined until after a thorough investigation as to what actually caused the accident. Several reports regarding the Nebraskan were received by the State Department today. Consul General Skinner at London transmitted a message he had received from Captain Green, master of the steamship Nebraskan by wireless, which came by way of Lands End.

The message from Captain Green said: "Nebraskan passed Fastnet Rocks, Tuesday at 4:33 p. m., from Liverpool, bound to Delaware Breakwater in ballast. At 8:24 p. m., when the steamer was about 48 miles west by south from Fastnet she experienced a violent shock, followed instantly by terrific explosion from bursting hatches and throwing hatch beam cargo derricks and twisted iron into air. The crew immediately took to boats. After standing by ship one hour we returned on board. At 10:30 p. m. started for Liverpool. At 1:25 a. m. met two armed trawlers, sent by the Admiralty in answer to our wireless call and one has been in attendance ever since. It was dusk when

In addition to initiating eight candidates and receiving two propositions, Plainfield Lodge of Elks transacted a large amount of business at its regular meeting last night. Plans were commenced to have a big delegation of members attend the State convention at Atlantic City in September, and a committee composed of John H. Cose, Dr. C. L. Crist, George W. Pope, Chauncey F. Stout and William Mulvey was appointed by Exalted Ruler Prudhon to complete the details. The committee wants to have a delegation of 200 Plainfielders represent the lodge in the big street parade which is to be a feature of the gathering.

Another committee composed of Chauncey F. Stout, Francis J. Blatz and Vincent W. Nash, Jr., was appointed to arrange for the annual flag day exercises of the lodge, scheduled for June 14. This celebration is observed by all Elkdom and includes a program of addresses, songs and patriotic music. The entertainment committee reported that the "Lucky Shirtwaist Dance" held Tuesday night was a gratifying success and there is a strong possibility of a similar affair being conducted the latter part of June.

COUNCIL CONFIRMS CHARGE AGAINST PATROLMAN DARCY

Following a discussion on charges made against Patrolman John Darcy, of the Westfield police department, last night, the Common Council of that place confirmed the allegations and it is probable that the officer will be notified of his dismissal in the near future. He has been under suspension since last Tuesday, and in speaking with a Daily Press reporter, this morning, Chief O'Neill said that he would have nothing further to do with the man as an officer, claiming that he was not fit for service.

The specific charge lodged against Darcy at this time is for being off his beat for two hours on the night of May 10, but fifty other complaints have been filed, according to Chief O'Neill. He is alleged to have been guilty of various acts of indiscretion involving Polish girls who are employed as servants in fashionable houses along his beat. He has been a patrolman in Westfield for four years.

Special Display and Demonstration

THIS WEEK OF WARNER BROS.

"Redfern" Corsets

See our window display and come in and have a talk with Miss Coralie Steele, who is here from New York to fit and demonstrate the "Redfern."

A Sensible Standard Corset.

We like the "Redfern" Corset because while always up-to-date they are rarely freakish or extreme. They are designed for the woman of taste who wishes comfort and fashion in her corset; our new models, Nos. 6905, 6086, 6ag5, 6091, 7041, 6833, just received, are no exception.

The ground top clasp gives easy freedom above the waist and at the same time affords the support necessary below; it is correctly boned to shape with fashionable comfort.

DUNELLEN

DUNELLEN'S GOLD BUBBLE BURSTS, DREAMS VANISH

Dunellen will be no second Klondike; its beautiful fields, spacious lawns and well shaded streets are not to be trenched nor its subterranean soil honeycombed by miners looking for gold. In other words the gold bubble has ourst. The bubble was punctured late last night when definite announcement was made that the mineral substance mixed with soil obtained from the Equator tract located in the western part of the borough, which was forwarded by G. Sumner Smith to his son, Lloyd Smith, of New York city, for analysis, was not gold but mica.

Mr. Smith is taking his disappointment very hard and this morning he was reported as lying prostrated at his home.

The aftermath of the whole affair is that while some of the boroughites who had entertained dreams of becoming millionaires over night are with difficulty readjusting themselves to a life with no better prospects than moderate circumstances, others who could not believe that gold had really been discovered are breathing easier over the fact that the bubble has been punctured before property rights were invaded by crazed gold seekers and subsequent violence committed.

Sixteen delegates from the local P. O. S. of A. attended the county meeting of the order at Old Bridge, Tuesday evening.

J. H. Schneidler, of Washington avenue, spent Tuesday in New York city, Long Island City, Verona, L. I., and Glendale, L. I., on business.

Miss Hazel VanAlstyne, of Jackson avenue, has resigned her position in the printing establishment of the Weekly Call and returned to her home in the Thousand Islands.

Robert Schworer, of Main street, is suffering from a sprained wrist, the result of falling from his wheel on Tuesday.

RETURNS TO ONTARIO.

H. A. Althoen, of Mountainview Terrace, has returned to Hamilton, Ontario, where the Hamilton Cotton Company which employs him as a salesman, is located, after spending three days at his home. President Young, of the Hamilton Cotton Company, was lost with his wife when the Lusitania went down. They were going to England to visit a son in a hospital who was wounded while fighting under the Union Jack in France.

BASEBALL GAME.

Troop No. 1 will play the Plainfield High School Juniors on Maurer Oval Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ayers, of Walworth, Wis., are visiting Mr. Ayers' cousin, Thurman Ayers, of Center street.

Rumors are in circulation to the effect that the B. G. Club will disband.

The monthly meeting of the Defender Fire Company will be held in the Borough Hall tonight.

PLANNING REMOVAL.

The cellar for the parish house of St. John's church, which is at present located on Washington avenue, but is to be moved to First street, is being dug under the supervision of M. A. Gallagher. The parish house is to be moved in order to make room for the magnificent new church of the parish. Work on the new church will be started, it is said, shortly after the parish house has been moved.

MAY LOSE SIGHT.

Mrs. Forman G. Neighbour, of Mountainview Terrace, who recently underwent two operations in Muhlenberg Hospital, is reported to be doing nicely. It will probably be many days, however, before Mrs. Neighbour will be able to leave the hospital. Her left eye, which was operated on for glacoma, is still bandaged and Dr. Ard has not informed any member of the family as to whether he will be able to save its sight or not.

BUSY SHIPPING CARS.

Raymond Tynan, of Greenbrook road, who is employed at the Saurer Motor Works, has been kept busy of late in motoring completed cars to New York to be shipped to the allies. On Sunday he drove a completed truck to New York and on Monday and Monday night he took two more. The plant of the company is going night and day and its stock known as International Motor common and preferred, which is listed on the New York curb, looks very attractive at present quotations.

Councilman and Mrs. Richard M. Ryan have made arrangements to spend the week-end and holiday at Stamford, Conn., the guests of their daughter, Mrs. G. Elston Lowrie, Jr.

Frank Doyle, of North avenue, will give up his position in the Cashin cash grocery on the first. Mr. Doyle has accepted a position on the bridge gang of the Central Railroad.

IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

Frank Ayers, of Prospect avenue, and J. G. Burdick, of Center street, had far from a pleasant experience at 7 o'clock yesterday morning while on their way to work in Mr. Ayers' Hupmobile capeau, when Mr. Ayers, who was driving, lost control of his machine, which darted across the road and smashed into a tree. The accident happened on Seventh street near Clinton avenue. Mr. Burdick was cut about the face by flying glass and had one of his arms slightly hurt. Mr. Ayers, strange to relate, was not even scratched. The two gentlemen left the machine, which had a smashed radiator, fender and wheel, along the side of the road, and after notifying a garage by telephone to take care of it proceeded to the Queen City and their respective tasks of the day.

INSPECTOR RESIGNS.

S. R. Strickland, of Second street, has resigned his position as one of the borough inspectors in order to return to his old job on the Central Railroad. One of the best signs of the day is the fact that a good many of those who were laid off from their allotted tasks on the railroad on account of hard times are at present receiving invitations to return. This indicates that the business of the railroads is becoming decidedly more brisk and everybody knows that when the railroad business picks up that other business picks up correspondingly.

Bound Brook.

The ball team of the Young Men's Association will go to Far Hills on Saturday afternoon, for a game with the Far Hills team.

At an adjourned meeting of the Board of Education of the Borough of Middlesex held on Monday night, a motion was passed to ask the taxpayers for $3,000 to purchase a school site at Washington Heights, near Harris Lane, lot to be 610x200 feet.

A special meeting of the Bound Brook Motorcycle Club will be held in the club room on Main street, this evening, when a three days' trip, taking in Saturday, Sunday and Decoration Day, will be discussed.

RURAL AMERICA.

Our Country as It Was in the Time of George Washington.

The America of Washington's day was primitively, racily rural. The country outnumbered the city thirty to one. It outvoted and outinfluenced the city. The country was countrified without urban qualities or dependencies. Not even the cities themselves were citified. Philadelphia, the greatest of them all, with the finest shops, the best houses, the most extravagant people, was but a poor, small triangle of houses, with its base on the Delaware and its apex stretching timidly toward the west. Its people, though reputed gay and luxurious, went early to bed, rose early and were without the opportunities and distractions of modern urban life. There were no great factories, no armies of workmen, no extended commerce, no horse cars, no omnibuses, no sharp differentiation of the city into business and residence sections. Like envious New York and aspiring Boston, Philadelphia was still half rural.

A great city was not desired nor even contemplated. To "the fathers" the very conception had in it something unwholesome. A city was a dwelling place of turbulent, impious, ignorant mobs, of a congregation of "unproductive" artisans, wastrels, criminals, Sabbath breakers. It was a blister on the social body, a tumor which absorbed the healthy juices. The city was vaguely associated with royalties, courts, armies, beggars and tattered, insolent, rascally mobs; the country was the cradle of republican virtue and democratic simplicity. Jefferson, having in mind the squalid agglomerations of the old countries, congratulated America on being rural. De Tocqueville in the thirties believed that the absence of a great capital city was "one of the first causes of the maintenance of Republican institutions."—Walter Weyl in Harper's Magazine.

SHIP CANALS.

Each Has Troubles of Its Own That Require Constant Care.

Leave any ship canal alone for even a year and it would no longer be fit for navigation. Within five years a small boat would be unable to go through it.

The United States has anxieties over the Culebra cut in the Panama, but not more so than the Germans over their waterway, the Kiel canal, for the ground through which the latter is cut is in most places nothing but peat—rotten black stuff which keeps on breaking up and falling back into the canal.

Also the bottom continually "bumps up," thus lowering the depth of the passage. The craft that use the Kiel canal have to crawl along. They say that if a cruiser were to make a dash through at top speed it would take a year and several millions of money to remedy the damage done by her stern wave.

Each canal has its own special troubles. That of the Panama is landslides. Many have taken place during its construction. Many more will have to be dealt with in coming years. It is estimated that if the dredging work on the Suez were abandoned within less than ten years the Turks or any one else could cross it dryshod. On both sides of the canal stretch miles of dry desert, from which every wind that blows lifts the sand in edging spirals and carries it in great clouds. A single storm may drop a thousand tons of sand into one mile of the canal.

Of late years a great quantity of trees have been planted along the banks in order to prevent the sand from drifting into the water, yet even so great steam dredgers are always at work scooping from the bottom the blown in sand and dumping it along the shore. Another trouble of those in charge of the Suez canal is caused by fresh water springs, which burst up in its deep bed and pile the sand in ridges. —Exchange.

Master of Many Tongues.

Elihu Burritt, the "learned blacksmith," was born in Connecticut in 1810. Burritt taught himself French, Latin, German, Italian, Greek and Hebrew while an apprentice at the forge and in early manhood mastered Sanskrit, Syriac, Arabic, Norse, Spanish, Dutch, Polish, Bohemian and Turkish. Chinese and minor languages were acquired later until he was able to read, write and speak in sixty different tongues.

Some Burned Letters.

Sir Walter Scott once made an itinerary of the borders, in the course of which he wrote a lawyer friend in Edinburgh a close and realistic account of everything he heard and observed, every quaint location and droll custom. But the stupid heirs of the recipient of these priceless epistles consigned them to the flames and thus rendered what would have been a charming book impossible.

Pleasant Employment.

A Matter of Location.

LARGE DELEGATION GOING TO CHICAGO

At Least 150 Jerseyites Will Attend Endeavor Convention in July.

New Jersey will be represented at the Chicago 1915 International Christian Endeavor Convention, July 7-12, by about one hundred and fifty delegates. The State transportation department is very much encouraged at the number of inquiries for reservations. Music will be one of the big features of the convention and Prof. H. Augustine Smith is already at work drilling the wonderful adult chorus of two thousand singers, and the children's choir of five hundred voices. This feature alone will attract thousands of people to Chicago, notwithstanding the exceptional program of international speakers, and a corps of Christian Endeavor experts who will have charge of the many conferences. A booklet describing the special New Jersey tours, with rates and other valuable information, may be obtained from the State transportation agent, Arthur E. Warner, 37 DeHart place, Elizabeth. Reservations should be arranged for immediately.

The Endeavorers of New Jersey are enthusiastically endorsing the plan to bring the International C. E. convention to New York city in 1917. County unions and individuals have sent numerous letters and telegrams to Dr. William Shaw, general secretary of The United Society of Christian Endeavor, at Boston, urging the trustees to favorably consider New York's request for the 1917 convention. Having the convention so near will be a great opportunity for Jersey Endeavorers and the various unions should do all within their power to co-operate with the New York 1917 convention committee in their effort to bring the convention to that city.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Plainfield people who were unable to attend the "Billy" Sunday meetings at Philadelphia or Paterson, will have an opportunity of seeing the famous evangelist at Proctor's Theatre, Saturday afternoon and night. He has posed for the "movies" and the only authentic pictures in which he is shown will be exhibited in this city on that date only. The film shows "Billy" in his characteristic moods, those that have swayed thousands of people in all parts of the country and which have produced all manner of comment. They also show scenes in and about the tabernacles where he has spoken to audiences of as many as twenty-five thousand. The picture will be presented at Proctor's and only on the date mentioned.

The program at Proctor's Theatre for tomorrow, outside of the symphony concert by Prof. Ernest Fleming's orchestra of eight pieces, will be headed by the five-part photoplay, "The Incomparable Mistress Bellairs." The screen numbers will also include the current episode of "The Exploits of Elaine" and several two-reel comedies. The feature production for this afternoon and tonight is the five-part drama, "The Circus Man," while for Saturday the four-part comedy, "Who's Who in Society" will be the main offering. "The Incomparable Mistress Bellairs," which is to be the feature photo production tomorrow is based on the book by Agnes and Egerton Castle and produced by Harold Shaw. It is a refined comedy of the best type and a more entertaining film would be hard to find. One interesting situation follows on the heels of another and interest is held until the finals. Altogether it is one of the best offerings at the theatre this month. The part of Mistress Bellairs is rendered very capably by Miss Edna Flugarth. The acting, photography and costumes are far above the originary.

—It pays to use the advertising columns of The Press.

BILLY SUNDAY AT PATERSON.

Billy Sunday, the evangelist, has closed his seven weeks' campaign in Paterson, and from the outside it looks as if he had accomplished much. His final meeting attracted 12,000 persons, and afterward he started for his home in the West for a well-earned rest. The net result of the Paterson campaign is 15,480 trail hitters, and Sunday received a free-will offering of $28,436 or more. From a distance, or from hearing Sunday only once or twice, it is hard to judge of his work, but the Paterson Press, a decidedly fair and independent newspaper, in summing up all the campaign, says.

It may be truthfully said that the general belief among our citizens—and this not alone among those who had accepted and practiced the Christian faith before this campaign began—is that there was behind the movement a divine purpose and inspiration that no human power could have resisted. That this seven weeks of excitement with their daily varying but always thrilling incidents will leave Paterson standing on a higher plane of righteousness than it has ever occupied before is not to be doubted.

From the purely mercenary or worldly standpoint, the Press says, that the way our city has deported itself throughout these exciting episodes has won for it a reputation throughout our land that would have been cheaply purchased at a cost of millions of dollars, is also certain. No one will venture hereafter to deride or discredit the name of Paterson.

From which it may fairly be concluded that the Sunday visit to Paterson was a great success, which will no doubt be duplicated when he comes to Trenton again early next year to conduct a campaign in the Capital City. The man is a great power for good.

Talk about State pride! The stunt that was pulled off in Pennsylvania yesterday leads them all for an example. Fully half a million men in all parts of the Keystone State, including Governor Brumbaugh, are said to have put on overalls and handled the pick and shovel as volunteers for one days' work on the highways. It was "Good Roads Day" by proclamation of the Governor. Automobiles owners aided in taking the volunteers to the points of improvement and construction, and wealthy men who did not want to get into the dirt themselves hired squads of laborers to take their places. If something of the kind were done in New Jersey there would be less complaint about bad roads than is the case now. Governor Fielder might take a tip from the Pennsylvania example when he comes back from California, and try the same plan here in New Jersey.

In view of the explanation given Postmaster Hoagland by the United States Treasury Department, we suppose that the good citizens of Plainfield will have to be content with a limestone postoffice. At the same time the thought will not down that we were mighty foolish to wait for that extra $50,000 appropriation. Had it been realized that even with the money available it would not be spent, the citizens would probably have said to go ahead with the work two years ago, when the matter of a delay was put up to them in order to get an additional $50,000.

What has happened to the unterrified Democracy in New Providence? There being no patriots in the party willing to work for two cents a name taking the census, it has been found necessary to advertise for a man for the job.

Things certainly seem to be stirred up in the New York white light district. And the evidence brought out in the Kelly case indicates that there needs to be a pretty thorough house cleaning along Broadway.

If it turns out that the Nebraskan was hit by a torpedo, as the British Admiralty says, the Germans will have a harder time than ever framing that delayed answer to the note on the Lusitania matter.

Prompt action by Motor Vehicle Commissioner Dill in revoking the license of a joy rider, after an accident early yesterday morning, should result effectively in stopping the practice in this city.

If someone could find a way to make woodpeckers work union hours they would earn the everlasting gratitude of a good many residents of the city who like to sleep after 4:30 in the morning.

So far as temperature and general weather conditions are concerned April and May seem to have become badly twisted this year.

BERGEN'S RULING WILL PROLONG MURDER TRIAL

New Brunswick, May 27—A ruling by Justice Bergen, in New Brunswick this morning, during the trial of the ten "deputies" for the murder of Alesandro Tessitore, a fertilizer plant striking employe at Roosevelt last January, will permit the introduction of evidence showing that acts of violence were committed on the morning of the day the slaying is alleged to have taken place. This ruling led Attorney General Westcott, who is conducting the prosecution, to declare that the State would be compelled to call hundreds of witnesses in rebuttal, prolonging the case for weeks.

During the trial yesterday afternoon one witness, a sixteen-year-old boy, positively identified nine of the accused men as having formed a part of the gang of "deputy sheriffs" who did the fatal shooting on January 19.

CLAIMS BIG VANDERBILT TAX.

New York, May 27.—The State of New York will fight any contention that the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt was a non-resident, and that therefore his vast estate is free from the transfer tax. Some $1,600,000 in one lump sum is in view, and the amount might run as high as $3,000,000. The estate is valued at $40,000,000 as a minimum. Although it was generally believed that Vanderbilt had become a resident of Newport, the State claims him as a legal resident. Just how seriously Rhode Island would contest the claim is not considered, for there is no such tax under the laws of Rhode Island, and it is doubtful whether a legal fight would be made to substantiate the claim that he was a Newporter.

CARNIVAL AT PITTSBURGH.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 27—The National Guard of Pennsylvania opened here today the largest, most complete and most spectacular military carnival ever attempted in this State, under the auspices of the Board of Trade. The volunteers will make a three-day display of the arts of war. Dress parade, guard mount, signal drills, showing the wireless, heliograph, flag signalling, field telephone, laying of telephone wires in time of war, etc., cavalry drill and artillery drill. The hospital corps will demonstrate first aid work. In addition to the field work, patriotic exercises will take place, at which it is hoped Colonel Roosevelt will speak.

CHIEF TALKS TO BANKERS.

San Francisco, May 27.—Dr. Edward Ewing Pratt, chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, in the Department of Commerce, will take the place of Secretary Redfield, who was unable to come to the convention of the California Bankers' Association. Mr. Pratt will be the principal speaker. The bankers' convention opened this morning and will continue until Saturday.

CARE OF A WATCH

Uncle Sam's Experts Will Tell You All About It.

WINDING IS ALMOST AN ART.

It Should Be Done Cautiously and With the Strictest Regularity—Even the Size of the Watch Pocket May Affect the Accuracy of a Timepiece.

Do you know how to handle, carry and wind your watch properly? Do you know at what time of the day you should wind it, the pocket in which it is best to carry it and the position in which you should leave your watch at night or when it is not in use?

These are some questions which Uncle Sam will answer for his 100,000,000 nieces and nephews or such of them as are the possessors of pocket watches.

Instructions as to the use and care of watches are given in a publication issued by the bureau of standards. They are based on conclusions reached by scientists after careful tests and on the practical experience of some of the leading watch manufacturers of the land.

The importance of handling a fine watch carefully and of winding it regularly is known to almost every one. But rules for the proper treatment of watches always have varied greatly, and it is for this reason that the bureau of standards investigated the matter and prepared standard instructions which it advises owners of watches to follow.

The bureau, in its set of rules, first cautions against allowing a watch to fall or receive a severe jar, either of which is liable to injure the mechanism, especially in the bending of a pivot or the breaking of a jewel. The mere fall of a watch to the end of its chain or the jar it may receive when the article of clothing in which it is being carried is thrown down or dropped may cause serious injury to the movement. Even the sudden motions or jar of jumping on or off a street car may injure it seriously.

Likewise care should be taken to keep a watch from becoming magnetized by proximity to electrical apparatus, although the troubles from this cause are being reduced by the present type of construction of dynamos and motors. The watch case should be opened as seldom as possible and then only in places where there is little chance of dust getting into the movement. A broken watch crystal should be replaced promptly, even if the watch has a hunting case.

Concerning the importance of winding a watch regularly the bureau of standards states:

"Even the delay of an hour in the time of winding may cause considerable variation in the rate in some instances. The winding should not be done jerkily, but steadily and not too rapidly, and its conclusion should be approached carefully to avoid injury to the spring or winding mechanism.

"It is generally regarded as slightly better to wind the watch in the morning than at night, as the large variations of the balance under the tight spring will perhaps give more uniform results with the movements and jar of the watch during the day than if the balance wheel were subjected to the lesser tension twelve hours after winding. The difference is, however, not so important as the regular winding of the watch.

"The pocket in which one carries his watch, the size of the pocket and the kind of watch chain or fob used have a more important effect on the uniformity of a watch's rate than is generally realized. In a large pocket the watch is apt to turn to the right or left by various amounts, giving irregular rates, unless one adopts some method of holding it upright. Perhaps the best method to prevent a watch turning in this way, other than actually pinning it in place, is to keep the watch in a chamois or kid watch bag, such as may be obtained from jewelers, in correct size to fit one's pocket. The watch cannot turn in this if of the proper size, and the friction of the bag in the pocket prevents it turning. The bag also protects the watch and keeps it cleaner."

The care of the watch at night or when it is not in use is another important item concerning which the bureau of standards states:

"At night or when the watch is not in use it is desirable to leave the watch in the same position as during the day, and preferably in some place where it will not be subject to any great temperature change. If it is desirable to leave the watch in a horizontal position during the night for the sake of compensating any considerable gaining or losing of the watch in the pendent up position during the day the same precaution to avoid marked temperature changes should be observed, and the regularity with which such a change of position is carried out may be as important as regularity of winding."—Washington Star.

Nothing Precipitate.

"Of course not. I kept him waiting for his answer nearly a whole minute."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

"CONTRITION" THEME OF THIRD SERMON

Father John Pictures the Torment of Everlasting Punishment.

"Contrition" was the third condition Father James took up in the short instruction on the "Sacrament of Penance," preceding the sermon at St. Joseph's mission last night. One of the largest congregations the church has held attended the mission services and Father John preached one of his strongest and most powerful sermons. His subject was "Hell." He took his text from the words of the prophet Isaiah: "Which of you dwell in everlasting burnings?" In part he said:

"Many people in this age of enlightenment discredit and ridicule the idea of a Hell, as foolish and an untruth. They will not accept the Scripture and the lesson that has been handed down for 2,000 years. There are many that say, God would not dare to cast a soul into Hell after creating it. Ah, God is merciful. Yes, even more merciful than these 'goody good' people can imagine; but God is also a God of justice and possesses the attribute of indicative justice.

"Yes, there is a Hell. A Hell in which the soul is eternally damned, where it is forever separated from God and everlastingly in torment. Hell is not a red hot fiery furnace, nor a melting pot of red hot tongs and oiled pads. Ah, no, Scripture tells us no such thing. Have you ever been seriously ill? So ill that you could not lie on your back, on your side and were forever restless, when nothing seemed to help but torment all the more. That is a fragment of an idea of what Hell is. A continual torture and torment of the soul. You may ask what do men do that they deserve Hell. Look about you in the world. Here in our own country, there are thousands of embezzlers made rich by their victims who live in poverty and suffering; thousands of men and women living every day, deep in vice; men and women who refuse absolutely to use the free will that God gave them and in open rebellion hold there is no God or Hell. And yet you ask me why do men deserve Hell."

SCHOOL EXHIBIT A NOTABLE EVENT

Pupils of Mountainside Make a Creditable Showing at Annual Affair.

A notable occasion in the history of the Mountainside School took place yesterday afternoon. Though consisting of only two rooms, this school has won a reputation throughout the State for the excellence of its work in manual training and in domestic science. The two rooms were filled with parents, pupils and visitors. A display of cake, candy, bread, salad and jelly was furnished by the girls.

There were also dressed dolls, aprons and other articles in the sewing line. On the boys part there were tables, stools, baseball bats, book shelves, mallets and other kinds of woodwork. An interesting fact was that nearly all the material used was secured in the vicinity of the school. Even the turning lathe was made by Janitor Hansen, whose enthusiasm and co-operation in the work has been invaluable.

Addresses were delivered by Assistant Commissioners of Education Lewis H. Carris and J. J. Savitz, County Superintendents A. L. Johnson and H. C. Krebs, and President Osborne of the Board of Education. S. Frederick Smith, instructor of music, gave an exhibition of class work in singing, using the entire school. Refreshments were served by the pupils. Principal Cathers and his assistant, Miss Johnson, were highly complimented by all present for the excellence of the exhibit.

STATE MOTOR VEHICLE COMMISSIONER IS NEUTRAL

Trenton, May 27—The State Motor Vehicle Department issued a proclamation of neutrality yesterday in the war between trolley companies and jitney operations.

"This department will be the tool of no corporation, but will force a strict obeyance of the law from every one," was the way Commissioner Dill put it.

The case before him was a complaint of the Trenton and Mercer County Traction Corporation that G. P. Gibson, a chauffeur, had driven a jitney owned by John VanNest, past a standing trolley car. No one appeared to prosecute and Gibson denied the charge. He and other jitney men said the trolley companies were trying to put them out of business. The defendant was discharged.

MRS. STOCKTON WINS OVER FORMER CHAMP

Defeat of Miss Marion Hollins by Local Woman, a Great Surprise of Tourney.

Miss Marion Hollins, medal winner of the qualifying round in the annual women's metropolitan championships being held over the Sleepy Hollow course, was defeated yesterday afternoon, by Mrs. R. Reeve Stockton, of this city, 5 up and 4 to play. Mrs. Stockton won the match on the fourteenth hole, playing that hole perfectly. The defeat of Miss Hollins, at one time the title-holder, was a great surprise, and Mrs. Stockton earned the right to meet Miss Lillian B. Hyde, the present champion, today. This will probably be the feature match of the day.

Miss Hollins outdrove the local woman but on the greens Mrs. Stockton excelled, and it was her fine putting that won for her. At the fifth Mrs. Stockton lost the hole because her spoon, which was slippery, flew out of her hands and the ball went to the hazard. At the turn Mrs. Stockton was 2 up, going out in 44, while Miss Hollins' score was 46.

The only other local women playing was Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, in the second round of the fourth sixteen, and she was defeated by Mrs. H. N. Wagner, of Haworth, 5 up and 4 to play.

Mrs. Stockton and Miss Hollins returned the following cards:

HOBOKEN AGGREGATION WINS IN NINTH ROUND

The Hoboken F. C. defeated the Chemisgrove All Stars, yesterday afternoon, by a score of 6 to 2. Both teams made many errors, the winning combination being guilty of a dozen. Moicey made six of them, but redeemed himself in the first by hitting safely five times, twice making circuit clouts.

Cliffy and Peddlegear were the opposing pitchers and for eight innings the game was close, the score being 2-all. In the final round the Hoboken batters pounded in four runs.

LEAL-P. H. S. MATCH OFF.

The Leal-P. H. S. tennis match, originally scheduled to be played at Parker Field, yesterday, has been postponed until next week. The next interscholastic match will be staged Saturday morning at the Park Club, when Leal meets North Plainfield.

—Write a better "To Let" advertisement than is printed today, and see how quickly you'll find a tenant.

MUCH INTEREST IN BIG TENNIS MATCH

World Famous Players at P. C. C. Late This Afternoon.

The tennis players who are to play an exhibition doubles match at the Plainfield Country Club this afternoon will arrive here on the 3 o'clock train from New York and will be taken directly to the club in automobiles. The match is scheduled to start at 4:30 o'clock, but may be a little late because there is a possibility that Harold H. Hackett, one of the players, will not be able to be here on the 3 o'clock train, having an important business engagement in New York.

If this is the case several singles sets will be played until his arrival for the big match. The courts are in fine condition, and a large crowd of spectators is expected by the committee. Team matches will be between Harold H. Hackett and Fred B. Alexander, for four years world's champion in doubles, and Watson M. Washburn and Dean Mathey.

TWO GAMES FOR TABS.

The T. A. B. baseball team is scheduled to play two games this week, one with the Garwood A. A. nine, Saturday afternoon, on the Avon Park grounds, and on Sunday afternoon with the Harrison Club of this city.

PARKS VS. SAURER JRS.

The Park Avenue Baptist baseball team will meet the Saurer Jr. aggregation on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon.

BAPTIST BASEBALL CARD IS ANNOUNCED

Manager H. W. Downes Has Arranged a Pleasing List for Former Champs.

Manager H. W. Downes, of the First Baptist baseball team, announced a revised schedule for the season, all dates being filled up to July 17. The manager has other games pending which will carry the team through the entire season. The next game will be with the Hope Chapel aggregation on the West End avenue field, which is the home diamond of the Baptists, next Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. On Monday the Clinton Avenue A. C. is booked and on July 5 the team will go to Rahway and play the team from the New Jersey Reformatory.

Practice will be held tonight and Earl Pearson, ex-captain, will be out to "warm up." "Cliff" Randolph has also promised to attend practice and give the players a few pointers, possibly some batting practice. The schedule follows:

TWO TENNIS MATCHES FOR N. P. H. S. RACQUET TEAM

The North Plainfield High School tennis team has two more matches to play this week, one with Cranford High School at the Park Club tomorrow afternoon, starting at 3:30 o'clock, and an interscholastic match with Leal on the Washington avenue courts Saturday morning. This match will probably begin at 9:30 o'clock. This will be the second meeting of the season for these teams, Leal taking the first series 3 to 2.

North Plainfield will have to get the majority of points in the match with the private school team in order to remain in the running for the Collier trophy, as the boroughites now hold last place in the standing. The following players will take part in the match: Leal—Steward Lyon, captain; Chauncey Stewart and Clarence Garrigues; N. P. H. S.—Hoyt Tomkinson, captain; Sherman Chandler, Sidney Dunning, Roy Force and Tom Ball.

DOUBLE BILL FOR BAPTISTS.

Manager Downes, of the First Baptist baseball team, has arranged for a double header to be played on Memorial Day. In the morning, Saurer will play at the West End avenue grounds against the Front street nine, and in the afternoon the Clinton Avenue A. C. will meet the church boys.

HIGH SCHOOL BALL SQUAD ON LONG TWO-DAY JAUNT

The Plainfield High School baseball team will make a two days' trip this week, starting tomorrow afternoon, when it is scheduled to meet the Easton High School nine at that place. The following day the representatives of the Ninth street institution will journey to Bethlehem and play there.

Coach Ralph Patch will accompany the team and the following squad will probably go: Captain Bennie Rosenson, Bill Peacock, Roy Apgar, Arthur O'Leary, Bill Victorson, Art Kyle, Carlton Dunham, Sheldon Coudray, "Tone" Denny and Arthur Brick.

"RUS" BEATTY MAY BETTER SIXTEEN-POUND RECORD

Russell Lawrence Beatty's intercollegiate record of 48 feet 10¾ inches for the sixteen-pound shot put, which he has held for some time, is in danger of being broken at the fortieth revival of the intercollegiate championships scheduled to be held at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Saturday afternoon. Beatty, himself, is the favorite for first honors in this event and it will be no big surprise if he should heave the ball further than ever before. Beatty formerly lived in this city and attended the Leal School. He first took to putting the shot at the local Y. M. C. A.

He is now attending Columbia College and will represent that institution Saturday. There are about a dozen other records in danger of falling, including John Paul Jones' one-mile mark of 4:15 2-5.

TOTALS 69 RUNS.

The largest baseball score of the season was made yesterday when the Harmony Triffs defeated the Plainfield Stars by a score of 44 to 25. The winners made 36 hits to opponents 12 and the error column totalled 12. The score by innings follows:

Harmony Triffs—

POLICE SEEK FOURTH AUTOIST

tel. His car struck the wagon at West Seventh street and New Market road, in Middlesex county, while the party was returning to this city. After Mrs. Shad was thrown out of her wagon, Moore stopped and picked her up and hurried to Muhlenberg Hospital. When he arrived at that institution the Martial woman was found to be the more seriously injured of the lot and she was kept at the hospital, while Mrs. Shad was able to go to her home later in the night. The accident happened at 11:40 o'clock and the police have rounded up several witnesses, one of whom says he passed the "joy-riders" on the road shortly before the incident occurred and that the girls yelled to him in hilarious voices to get out of the way. Acting-Chief of Police John J. Flynn secured sworn statements from all witnesses yesterday and these will be turned over to the Middlesex county prosecutors.

Moore had no opportunity to enter a plea yesterday, because of the fact that the local authorities had no jurisdiction in the case. He maintains his claim that he was not intoxicated despite the fact that City Physician Norman W. Currie has made a report that substantiates the allegations of the police. Arraigned before Judge DeMeza, Moore appeared little the worse for his twenty-hour detention behind the bars. He is a clean-cut youth and was nattily dressed, wearing a spring suit, orange colored neck tie and silk socks of an orange hue. He brought his hat and mackinaw into court with him, evidently believing that he would be released from custody. His license was revoked by State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Dill yesterday morning, on the same charge. Harry Burke, of New Brunswick, an inspector in the State department, appeared in court yesterday, and will prosecute the case at Dunellen.

William Abbott, manager of the Plainfield Cab Company, by whom the boy was employed as a chauffeur, visited the youth in jail this morning, and in an interview with a Daily Press reporter said that he would spend his last cent to get the boy his liberty, being firmly convinced that he is innocent of the charge against him. Mr. Abbott loaned the boy the Mitchell car in which the ride was taken and speaks highly of him as a driver, despite the opinion advanced by the police, to the effect that "he is not a fit individual to hold a license." Swackhamer & Bird have been retained as counsel for Moore.

When interviewed by a Daily Press reporter in her cell at headquarters, Grace Philmore said that she was ready to tell all that she knew concerning the outing, declaring that she would shield no one who had brought her into this "mess." She is indignant over her detention as a witness and is expected to make certain admissions that will have a decided bearing on the case.

Queried concerning the identity of a fourth member of the party the Philmore girl was emphatic in her denial of this fact. It is the opinion of the police that another man was with the three persons under arrest and the Martial woman is said to have admitted to a hospital nurse when she was first admitted to the institution that a "Mr. Naylor" was on the "ride." In the statement made to Flynn yesterday the woman failed to mention this.

Moore was released this morning following arraignment in the Borough Hall, Dunellen, under $300 cash bond furnished by Clifford Applegate, of this city. The fact that cash was offered as security was taken into consideration by Justice von Minden and he subsequently reduced the bail from $1,000 to $300. Efforts are being made this afternoon to secure the necessary bond for Grace Philmore, who is at present detained in the Dunellen lockup. It was intimated this afternoon that $250 in cash would be accepted as bond in her case and in default of the security she will be removed to the Middlesex county jail at New Brunswick pending trial.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Manager Frank G. Hall, of the U. S. Astor Theatre, announced today that Miss Pauline Frederick, in the screen triumph of the season, "The Eternal City," will open an engagement at the U. S. Astor next Monday and Tuesday. This is beyond question one of the most artistic pictorial dramas yet converted to the screen. It is based on the far-famed novel of that name by the British publicist, Hall Caine, and the screen version follows the book closely. It remained for the picture, however, to emphasize the impression made by the novel and later by the play which ran many months in New York several years ago.

Miss Pauline Frederick, who last season played in "Outcast," has long been a favorite with Plainfield theatre-goers. It will indeed be pleasant to see that she accomplishes the playing of the famous role, "Donna Roma," with all her nerve and spirit. Her facial eloquence enhances considerably the realism of the picture and does the incidental music required of the house orchestra. The play contains numerous views taken amid the beauties of modern Rome.

In presenting this big film, Frank G. Hall, manager of the U. S. Astor Theatre, is adhering to his policy to show to the discriminating theatre-goers of Plainfield only the best motion pictures obtainable.

"The Valley of the Missing," will be shown again today, having opened a two-day engagement to capacity audiences yesterday. It is a play of engrossing interest throughout.

Tomorrow, "The Lure of the Mask," with a powerful and fascinating plot, will be shown.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.

The quarterly conference of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church was held in the Epworth League rooms, last night, after the regular mid-week service. District Superintendent Rev. Dr. Frederick J. Hubach presided and the general routine business of the conference was transacted.

"MODESTY" THE THEME.

Rabbi H. L. Martin will speak on the topic, "Modesty," at the weekly meeting of Temple Sholem tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company for today is as follows: 9 a. m., 51 degrees, 11 a. m., 61 degrees; 1 p. m., 66 degrees.

Week-End Holiday Sale of Women's Summer Clothes

1,145 New Linen, Cotton and Silk Dresses and 1,075 Wash Skirts at Mid-summer Prices

We say "Mid-summer" prices because we never would expect to sell—and never have sold—at the start of the Summer holiday season, dresses at these extraordinarily low prices.

It was our good fortune to obtain the opportunity first. Manufacturers always think of Wanamaker's first when they have an opportunity for the public. An unlooked for occurrence compelled the maker to dispose immediately of his newly made-up Summer stocks.

695 Linen and Cotton Dresses at $4.75

With linen practically at a premium and with the week-end holiday at hand, women will not have to think twice of what this opportunity means. For your guidance we will tell you that the maker's prices of these dresses were $6 to $8.50.

Seven styles of French linen—some all in plain colors; others with colored coatees and plain white skirts.

300 Jap. Silk Dresses, $5

This is the lowest price at which we have ever sold a dress of this kind. And cool, light-weight silk dresses like these are a necessity in every Summer wardrobe.

Ten styles; black, blue and few white.

150 Crepe de Chine Dresses, $7.50

And—1,075 Wash Skirts at $1 and $1.50

No Summer holiday sale could be complete without them. Styles for all outdoor needs—linen, rep, pique, ratine, linene.

explosion occurred. Flags had been hauled down."

Corroborative reports were received from Ambassador Page and from Consul Frost at Queenstown regarding the Nebraskan accident. The Ambassador said he had been advised that the Nebraskan was making progress toward Liverpool with British patrol vessels standing by to render aid if necessary.

"I am sending a naval attache to Liverpool to examine the ship," the cablegram concluded.

There is doubt that an inquiry will establish whether the Nebraskan was deliberately torpedoed or whether the accident was caused by a mine. The fact, too, that the flag had been lowered before the accident likewise raises a question that may prove troublesome.

Neither the White House nor the State Department would discuss the Nebraskan affair. No action in the case will be taken until a thorough examination of the vessel is made.

London, May 27.—A German Zeppelin made another raid over the east coast during the night. The big dirigible appeared over Southend on Sea, Essex, late last night, and dropped several bombs. Little damage to property was done, but one woman was killed as she was alighting from a tram car, and another woman and a boy were injured. The Zeppelins fled when anti-aircraft guns were turned upon them.

The Danish steamer Betty, of 2,000 tons, was torpedoed and sunk in the North Sea, yesterday. The crew all escaped and landed at Tyne this morning.

The coroner's jury today brought a verdict of suicide in the inquest into the death of Anton Knepferle, the naturalized American citizen who hanged himself last week in Brixton Jail, after the second day of his trial on a charge of espionage.

Paris, May 27.—A fleet of nineteen French aeroplanes raided the Rhine valley of Germany today, carrying the attack 100 miles inside the German border, says an official report by the War Office. The communique states that all German counter attacks along the northern end of the battle front have been repulsed. At La Wigshafen, in Bavaria on the Rhine, the great plant of the Sadischeaniline Chemical Works was destroyed by French aviators.

Belgian troops yesterday evening repulsed two German attacks north and south of Dixmude. The first was stopped short by a counter attack and the second was repulsed by the fire of their artillery. At various points on our front there have been artillery duels, notably at Rheims and in the Vosges.

Petrograd, May 27.—Caucasus headquarters transmits the following report to the War Office: "On May 24, in the direction of the Black Sea littoral there was the customary artillery firing. In the region of Karaderbent our troops repulsed an attempt of the Turks to assume the offensive. During this fight 200 cossacks charged the Turks and sabred two entire companies. Our troops occupied Mirandaub.

Geneva, May 27.—Two Italian submarines torpedoed an auxiliary cruiser as she was leaving Pola and compelled her to return under tow of vessels, which came to her assistance.

Amsterdam, May 27.—The Austro-German army, pushing its way across the River San, western Galicia, has reached the line of the railway between Przemysl and Lek.

Lugand, May 27.—Drastic measures to prevent German spies operating in Italy are being taken by the police in all cities and towns in Milan, this morning, a crowd mobbed a German-owned hotel, the Metropole, where suspicious lights had been seen. The police arrested one youth suspected of having placed the lights.

Dublin, May 27.—Relatives of Micshal O'Leary, the sergeant of the Irish Guard who was dubbed the "bravest man in the British Army," because of his feat in capturing a German position single-handed at Givinchy, have been notified that he has been killed in action.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

Atlantic City—Maids and matrons who would be in the fashion this summer must remodel the bathing costumes of a year ago. Following the present vogue for both street and evening gowns, skirts of bathing garb are to be exceedingly full. Some of the bathing costumes here contain two or three times as much material as the form-fitting skirts of last summer. The latest bathing costumes also have pockets. Satin will be the most popular fabric for bathing suits this season.

Versailles Ky. — Miss Matilda James, of Paris, Ky., will be crowned Queen of the May in the annual fete at Margaret College, on Saturday. Martha Shelby, of Danville, and Sarah Puryear Edwards, of this town, were chosen maids of honor. The commencement exercises will begin next Tuesday.

Devon, Pa.—The full staff of ladies who are to act as judges on Monday at the big Devon Horse Show has been selected. Mrs. Bessie Dobson Altemus, of Philadelphia, heads the judges of ponies, and Mrs. Charles A. Munn, Jr., of Radnor, with Mrs. Charles Randolph Snowden, of Bryn Mawr, will judge the polo ponies. Miss Helen DuPont, of Delaware, heads the judges on saddle horses. Mrs. Richard P. McGrann with two other ladies, will judge the harness horses. The hunters and jumpers will be judged by Mrs. William L. Hirst, of Haverford, and her committee. The veterinary inspector of the day will be Miss Ethel Moore, of Colorado Springs, Col.

St. Louis, Mo.—An unusual religious demonstration will take place in the new St. Louis Cathedral on Sunday, when some 5,000 Catholic young women will join in "an act of reparation to the Blessed Virgin for her desecrated and deserted shrines in the countries at war." No attempt will be made for a procession, but the Catholic women will fill the big cathedral for the special service. Archbishop Glennon will be the speaker.

Philadelphia—A group of a hundred Philadelphia girls, known as the Rising Sun Committee, has promised to raise $10,000 within a year, to establish a children's ward in St. Luke's Hospital, at Tokio, Japan. The girls will hold a Japanese fete tonight as the opening of their campaign.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Martha Cook residence hall for women at the University of Michigan will be completed this summer. It promises to be one of the finest dormitories for women in America, costing approximately $350,000. It is the gift of the Cook family of Hilldale, Mich., six members of which have attended the university.

Washington—Frequent reports are reaching the girlhood friends of the former Leiter girls, Miss Daisy and Miss Nannie, showing that they are both standing loyally by their husbands in their war troubles and aiding materially in relief work. The former Daisy Leiter is Lady Margaret, Countess of Suffolk and Berkshire. During the winter she joined her husband in India, where he is serving as the colonel of a Gloucestershire regiment. Before going to India she turned over to the government the family mansion at Charlton Park, where she had installed hospital cots and two surgeons at the expense of her own purse. Mrs. Colin Campbell, formerly Miss Nannie Leiter, was not far behind her younger sister in her notable war work, not in devotion to her husband's cause. She followed her husband to France while his regiment was fighting on the frontier. The wounded members of her husband's regiment are being cared for at the Campbell Wiltshire place. The Campbell seashore home, at Port Regis, has also been placed at the disposal of the government as a convalescent home.

BRINGING MORE BODIES.

New York, May 27.—On the American liner Philadelphia, which left Liverpool yesterday, are the bodies of eight Lusitania victims as follows: First class, A. L. Hopkins, Mrs. R. D. Shymer, Mrs. Henry D. Macdona, all of New York; Mrs. H. J. Veser and W. S. Hodges, Jr., Philadelphia, and Mrs. F. A. Rogers, Toronto. Second class William Colbert and Mrs. Delia Condon, New York.

PANAMA LINER COMING.

San Francisco, May 27.—The steamer Finland, the first passenger vessel of the Panama-Pacific Line from San Francisco to New York through the Panama Canal, left port today with 450 passengers and a full cargo.

KING IMPROVED.

Athens, May 27.—King Constantine's condition shows some improvement, said the official bulletin today.

THE MASTER MIND

Novelized by Marvin Dana, author of "Within the Law," from the successful play by Daniel D. Carter

Copyright, 1913, by the H. K. Fly company.

The Master Mind confirmed his satisfaction in the triumph of his scheming by reviewing the events that had led through sure stages to this culmination. His heart was again stirred with the familiar, stabbing pain of his loss as he thought of the brother whom he had so loved, unjustly done to shameful death. Yet somehow, now in the hour of his victory, there was something less poignant in his emotion than ever hitherto. Andrew marveled at this with a curious feeling of alarm over his own lack of sensibility. He could not understand how the great passion of his life should be thus lessened. True, there had been years intervening since first death broke in on love and turned its vital forces into hate against another. Yet the mere passage of time could not explain this change, for his hate had not moderated in the same period. On the contrary, it had increased even, never losing aught of its virulence, rather adding always to it. Still, Andrew puzzled over this startling problem. It was inconceivable that in the moment of conquest the very motive itself of all his struggles to this end should show a weakening. It was inconceivable, indeed—nevertheless it was true. The Master Mind felt a sickness of heart as he searched himself anew for some clew to an understanding of the thing that had come to pass, for he knew that somehow his own soul had betrayed him.

The thoughts of the Master Mind turned presently to Lucene. The subject was strangely distasteful to him now, yet he held to it, as if its fascination were superior to a will hitherto indomitable. He recalled his first purposes concerning this girl, the project of making her available as a weapon against his enemy. He had never faltered in that purpose. His first plan had been accomplished in its entirety—save the consummation, and that was now at hand and sure beyond peradventure of doubt. But, while the primal intention had been thus achieved, there had been so much more—oh, vastly more! He had become the creator of a radiant personality where had been only a very pretty, illiterate waif. He had caused the delicate fashioning of a woman refined and beautiful far beyond the ordinary. He had found delight in his responsibility toward her. He had had pride in a result that had not been save for his direction. The gratitude of the girl warmed his heart. The warped egotism of the man did not permit him accurately to gauge the depths of his injustice toward her in making her life a pawn in his game of hate. On the contrary, he was able by some singular quirk of intelligence to take full satisfaction for himself in all his favors to her and to disregard almost completely the ultimate ruin of her life that must be his handiwork. He failed utterly to appreciate his own guilt toward her where the very development of her nature which he had wrought would make her final grief most dreadful, an anguish infinitely beyond the capabilities of torment possessed by Maggie Flint. I have said that he failed utterly. That is not quite true. He failed, indeed, but not utterly. Sometimes an instinct toward the truth flashed on him, but he shut his mental eyes to such illumination. He preferred the darkness rather than the light—that chiefest sin—and the might of his will gave to him as he chose.

But tonight the Master Mind found it difficult to hold his eyes shut. Since he had seen the wife in her agony over what had come to pass through his machinations he was unable to ignore as before this wretchedness of his making for her. He could not escape realization of what all this must mean to her.

In his perception now he learned, too, as never yet in the years of association with her, how dear she was become to him. He altered no whit in his resolve of vengeance on the man whom he held responsible for his brother's death, but at least he was forced to admit the torment it must inflict on her and as well the distress to himself that her suffering must cause.

In his novel appreciation of the ill she must undergo he suddenly saw his own feeling for Lucene in a new light. For long he had known that she was dear, that he cherished her fondly, that she was, in truth, more to him than any other person in the world. But not until tonight had he grasped in full degree the intensity of his regard. He understood now that he had for her a pure passion—that of father, mother, friend, lover. In a second of illumination the Master Mind knew why his love for the dead brother burned less hotly in this hour. It was because the flames of his heart were all blazing at the shrine of this girl, Lucene. A new love had put out the old. There was left only hate of that first love.

And was hate itself left in all its former savagery? The Master Mind shrank appalled from that question, which offered to make a mock of all his toil. He thrust it from him, shuddering. He jumped up and strode to and fro in a revolt against all things.

Then presently he recollected his energies, set firm control over his emotion and determined to go forward undeviatingly as if none of these strange things had entered at the eleventh hour to turn the apples of vengeance to Dead sea fruit. So, with a curious listlessness that was foreign to him, but with no least weakening of his purpose, he descended the stairs, went to the library door, opened it gently and stood on the threshold, smiling tolerantly on the assembly before him.

It was Wainwright whom Andrew first addressed, speaking in accents of cynical amusement.

"Ah, I see! You are engaged in that occupation so familiar to those of your profession, tampering with the witnesses. It must seem to you quite like old times, I fancy. You can almost fancy yourself district attorney again." Then his gaze went to the three criminals, who refused steadfastly to encounter his eyes.

It was Blount who afforded an unexpected diversion. He stood up and faced the Master Mind angrily.

"You've got no kick comin'," he snarled. "You ain't been on the level with us. See?"

Andrew assumed a manner of patience.

"How so?" he inquired.

Walter broke into the conversation.

"Huh—you!" he ejaculated, wrathfully. "And with a Pinkerton right here in the house every day."

Andrew, however, received the triple accusation with equanimity.

"Have you as yet," he asked generally, "suffered any evil consequences from the presence of this Pinkerton in the house?" Of a sudden he threw off the pretense of mildness. His eyes flamed; his mouth drew into cruel lines. His voice was grating, surcharged with menace. "And so you think you can desert me with impunity, do you? You—desert me, at the bidding of this man here!" He made a contemptuous gesture toward Wainwright. "Oh, you poor, blind worms!"

"Well, what could you expect?" Walter exclaimed. "You double crossed us, didn't you?"

"No, I did not," was the impetuous reply. "Why"— Andrew checked himself abruptly, as if disdainful of yielding to anger because of such as these rebellious tools whom he despised. "But I'll not attempt to reason with fools," he continued arrogantly. "In three words, I could make you see that no one on earth could save you from the consequences of my wrath—least of all this incompetent protector whom his own folly has provided for you, Mr. Wainwright. But you have made your own beds—now you shall lie on them. Understand that, please! I have said it—I, the Master Mind."

Of Interest to Women and the Home

AN OLD PARTY FROCK CHARMINGLY REMODELED.

The waistcoat jacket of navy blue taffeta gives the smart, modern note to this dainty afternoon dance frock, remodeled from a party frock of last season. The original satin skirt, cream in tone, was draped with white-embroidered tan-colored net. This handsome bordure net has been used to make the long sleeves, and four panels on the skirt, each lengthened with a black net frill. Between cream satin and bordure net is a drop of black net on which are slanting flounces of navy taffeta like the jacket.

The Partnership.

"My father and I know everything
In the whole wide world, we do!"
My little son nodded his curls at me;
"Just everything, mother—true!"

"Then tell me, Sir Brag," I teasing said,
"Where, in the world so wide,
I can find the country of Yucatan?"
He answered with unmoved pride:

"That one is father's to tell—it's hard;
The easiest are mine; but we
Together know all that there is to know!—
Ask one that belongs to me?"

From the child's innocent lips I learned
A lesson of trust and rest;
What matters the mysteries yet unsolved?
The problems of life unguessed?

One knoweth—I have no need to know;
One careth who best can care.

Our Neighbors' Eyes Upon Us.

Miss Myrtle Garrison, of Columbia University, began an article on Open Air School by saying that "New Jersey is now in the midst of a period of great educational activity, as the result of a full social consciousness concerning the public education of the State, is not only a well recognized fact but a much discussed fact in her neighbor States."

Our Lessons.

Every mother should know that in giving the children to her care, God is teaching her life lessons just as valuable to her as those which she tries to give the child. She can, from her wide view-point, mark the path for his journey. She can point out the goal and show the way to reach it.

Physical Care.

All mothers should take a special course of training in the care of babies. They ought to understand the machinery of the body as a chauffeur does his automobile, so as to keep it in good working order. Half the miseries of life come from inattention to the machine we carry around with us from birth to death. The mother should be able to start the baby right in this important matter. In Oregon a bureau of information on the care of children is conducted by the State Congress of Mothers to enlighten parents, help them to see their responsibility and the importance of giving to the State a better race of boys and girls. On certain days a nurse demonstrates the proper care of the babe. Complete samples of a modern layette for the new born babe is exhibited, informal talks are given to mothers on subjects covering the period from birth to school age, the parents are taught something of the science of eugenics, which means the right of children to be well-born, guidance is given on the sex problems and the importance of right living is discussed.

Mental Drugs.

The New York Times' "Review of Books" has the following on objectionable reading: "Public opinion averse to the circulation of books of bad tendencies and magazine literature of an obnoxious sort can be exerted most effectually if the books are left unsold on the booksellers' hands and the magazine publishers are brought sharply to understand that filth does not pay. * * * The author of a book of immoral tendency is culpable, and the publisher shares his culpability. But blame also is due to people who read the book, discuss it and encourage others to read it. He who touches pitch is defiled, and the idea that some of us are immune from defilement is erroneous." The druggist who sells dangerous drugs to irresponsible persons is sent to jail. The publisher of literary poison should be dealt with also.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Ghosts Daddy Saw In the Mist.

The Ghosts Turned Into Motorcars.

"OH, daddy, there aren't any ghosts!" cried the kiddies as daddy told them he was going to tell about the ghosts he saw in the mist.

"Don't believe your old daddy?" he cried, giving Jack and Evelyn soft little pats on their pretty round red cheeks. "Well, I'll just convince you that I saw any number of them one day when I went for a walk in a great big park one misty spring morning.

"There isn't a nicer time in the world to walk than in the rain or mist, kiddies. The earth looks so clean and the air feels so fresh as it blows against your cheeks that you feel just like shouting with joy because life is so good and you are so happy.

"Well, that was the way I felt this morning in the mist as I started for my walk, and it was at the very entrance to the park that I first began seeing the ghosts.

"Straight ahead of me were two wraithlike looking creatures. 'Why,' I said to myself, 'I wonder what this means?'

"I hastened to the spot, and what do you think, kiddies? Two white statues bathed in mist were standing there, just as they had stood for years, but the mist had made them seem like ghosts to me.

"Then as I stood there objects began to fly past me. I couldn't see any road. I couldn't see what they were, so curiously I wandered away from the statues to discover what these other ghosts, which, by the way, were black, might be."

"Black ghosts! He, he!" giggled the kiddies.

"Well, they were black," insisted daddy, "but pretty soon I came to a road which had been hidden from me by the mist, and then the ghosts turned into motorcars, wheeling swiftly past me on the road, coming out of the mist I knew not whence and vanishing into the mist I knew not where.

"Why, kiddies, the whole park was filled with ghosts—ghosts of trees from which came the lilting songs of ghostly birds and ghosts of tiny lakes upon which floated beautiful ghostly white swans.

"Then something happened. Through the mist, coloring it with violet and pink and all the shades of the rainbow, shot golden arrows from the quiver of the sun, and in an instant the mist had vanished, and the ghosts went with it."

"Oh, daddy, that must have been a pretty sight!" cried Evelyn.

"It was, very," agreed daddy. "And now I know two sleepy kiddies who must skip to bed."

BY MRS. DE. LEONARD

The big touring car was full when the Scotts, Mr. and Mrs. Parsons and the children, Nell and Dick were all packed in with bags and baskets to hold the nuts that they hoped to get. The distance to the bit of woods along the river was not great, and as the roads were hard and smooth, all were soon set down under the trees, glorious in their vivid coloring. The children scampered over the fallen leaves like squirrels; the men shook the nuts from the few hickories and walnuts, and the still woods echoed to gay laughter and the shrill voices of the children.

When the pigmy harvest was stowed away in the machine, to the disgust of the squirrels peeping around the branches or scampering over the ground, Mrs. Scott spread her rug over a bed of leaves and called to her friends, "This is too fine to leave; come and enjoy it with me." While the women rested, the men strolled along the bank of the stream, throwing stones into the water while they discussed the war.

"Where is Eleanore, I wonder," asked Mrs. Parsons, looking up and down the river.

"She's with the men, I think," said Nell, rising.

"I see Robert with his father, but she is not with them. Really, Roger is so absent-minded, I am uneasy when the children are with him. He forgets he has any children."

She was interrupted by a piercing scream that sent the women flying over the ground, and made the far flung battle line vanish in smoke.

"It's Eleanore—the river," gasped Mrs. Parsons, as she ran.

All reached the edge of the little bluff in time to see the child rise to the surface, utter one frantic scream and sink from sight. Mr. Parsons dashed his coat on the ground and sprang into the water, while the others watched in breathless silence from the bank. When he caught her in his arms as she rose the second time and started for the shore, Dick ran for the rug to wrap around her. The child was unconscious, but the mother was quieted when she bent over the limp little figure and found her heart beating almost normally.

"If we can keep her from taking cold she will be all right," said Mr. Parsons, the water dripping from every part of his person.

While Mr. Scott ran to the car for another rug, the child opened her eyes and began to cry.

"Come on to the car," said Dick. "I know the people half a mile from here. We'll get a warm drink for Eleanore and borrow some dry clothes for you to ride in." And picking up the crying child he led the way.

Garments were furnished for Mr. Parsons, and the motherly old lady brewed catnip tea and poured down hot milk, until the little girl's cheeks were pink. "I've no children's clothes, but we'll strip off these wet things and wrap her in a sheet and blanket, then the heavy rug will keep the little dear as warm as toast." And the kindly soul bustled out of the room.

When the child was comfortable the machine was loaded up, and they rode away, followed by the kindly good wishes of the old couple at the gate.

"Now put her right to bed," said Mrs. Morton, with her customary decision. "She must not be moved tonight. Just run the machine in the carriage house and all of you stay; we are not cramped for room."

"This is a regular house party," laughed Dick, as the men smoked on the moonlit porch.

"And I am the gallant of the occasion." Mr. Parsons rose and bowed to the crowd in trousers a foot too long for him.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

GEO. B. WEAN, City Clerk pro tem.
Plainfield, N. J., May 24, 1915.

AN ORDINANCE

To Regulate the Use of Sewers in the City of Plainfield and the Making of Connections Therewith.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The Committee on Sewers shall have the direction and control, subject to the orders of the Common Council, of all sewers and appurtenances in the City, and of the construction, maintenance, repair and use of the same.

Sec. 2. No person shall make any connection with any sewer or sewer connection in the City of Plainfield or open any manhole, lamphole or flushtank, or clean or repair any sewer connection, except with the written permit of the Engineer in charge of Sewers (hereinafter called the Engineer), or his authorized representative. The applicant for a permit to make house connections shall, at the time of making application, deposit with the City Treasurer or with the said Engineer (by him to be deposited with the City Treasurer), the following sums:

If the connection has already been laid to the curb line, the sum of one dollar; if the connection has not been laid to the curb line, the applicant shall deposit such additional sum as the Committee on Sewers may from time to time determine, said additional sum to be approximately the average cost of furnishing the materials and doing the work of constructing 4-inch cast iron house connections from the sewers to the curb lines, said cost to be ascertained by advertising for bids for furnishing the materials and doing the work. For this sum the connection will be laid by the City Contractor from the sewer to the curb line.

Where openings are made in brick or similar permanent pavements, an additional charge of three dollars and seventy-five cents ($3.75) shall be paid for each square yard of such pavement to be replaced, which amount shall be paid at the time the permit is issued. Where openings are made in concrete pavement, the charge shall be two dollars and ten cents ($2.10) per square yard in addition to the one dollar permit fee.

Sec. 3. No more than one building shall be connected with the sewer through one connection without a special permit from the Department of Health.

Sec. 4. No trap shall be placed on any connection between the sewer and the building.

Sec. 5. No surface, underground or rain water shall be allowed to enter any sewer or house connection, and no vault or cesspool shall be connected with any sewer or house connection.

Sec. 6. No person shall permit or cause to enter or flow into any sewer or appurtenance, any hot, corrosive, suffocating inflammable or explosive liquid, gas, vapor or substance, or any substance which may injure said house connection or sewer or shall tend to form deposits or obstruct them; provided that the provisions of this section shall not apply to water from ordinary hot water boilers.

Sec. 7. All stables, garages, ice cream factories, milk depots and similar establishments, in which floor drains are to be connected with the city sewers, shall be provided with catch basins or sand traps to receive and retain all sand, dirt and other refuse which would tend to clog the house drain or sewer. The catch basin or sand trap shall have a cover of ample size which can be easily opened and the sand and refuse must be removed at sufficiently frequent intervals to keep the deposits below the bottom of the outlet pipe.

Where any sand traps now in use are, in the opinion of the Engineer, incapable of performing the work for which they are intended, they shall be removed and new sand traps shall be constructed in accordance with the requirements of this ordinance and these specifications, within sixty days after receipt of notice from the Engineer to make such change.

Sec. 8. All garages, industrial establishments and other buildings from which gasoline or oil are liable to flow into any house connection or sewer, shall be provided with properly constructed separators of ample capacity to intercept the gasoline and oil and prevent them from entering the sewer.

Gasoline or other volatile oils shall not be permitted to drain into the house connection or sewer.

Sec. 9. All work done in making connections to sewers and all materials furnished therefor shall conform to the requirements of the specifications annexed hereto and adopted herewith and entitled "Specifications for the Construction of Drains or Connections to Sewers in the City of Plainfield, N. J."

Sec. 10. Any person or corporation violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding ten days for each offense, or both such fine and imprisonment.

SPECIFICATIONS FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF DRAINS OR CONNECTIONS TO SEWERS IN THE CITY OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Inspection.

All work and materials shall be subject to the inspection of the Engineer or his representative, and all improper work shall be reconstructed, and all materials which do not conform to the requirements of the specifications shall be removed from the work. In no case shall any work be covered until it has been inspected and approved by the Engineer or his representative.

Location.

The proper location for the connection will be given at the time the permit is issued and no deviation from this location shall be made and no opening shall be cut into a sewer without special permission from the Engineer or his authorized representative.

Precautions.

All excavations, piles of materials and other obstacles incident to the work must be protected with barricades and lights to prevent accidents.

Excavation.

All macadam stone or other paving material removed in excavating the trenches shall be piled by itself, and after the completion of the work shall be relaid and the street left in as good condition as before being disturbed. In case the stone is wasted, or if the trenches settle, the contractor shall furnish new stone and restore the surface to the proper grade at his own expense.

Excavation shall be made in open trenches and no tunneling will be allowed except by permission of the Engineer.

In case the ground in the bottom of the trench is soft or spongy, it shall be excavated to such increased depth as the Engineer may direct, and shall be refilled with gravel or other suitable material, thoroughly rammed.

House Connections.

House connections shall be constructed of four inch cast iron pipe, strong, tough and of sound, even grain, weighing not less than 13 pounds per linear foot, and coated inside and outside with hot coal tar varnish. Larger pipes shall not be used except by special permission.

In laying the iron pipe, gaskets of clean, sound oakum or jute, braided or twisted, and tightly driven, shall be used to pack the joints. The best quality of pure, soft lead, suitable for calking, shall be used, and the depth of lead shall not be less than one inch. Before running the lead, the joints shall be carefully wiped out, and shall be run full at one pour. If the gasket becomes wet before time for pouring, it must be removed and a dry gasket inserted in its place. The joints shall be thoroughly calked by competent and experienced men, and when finished, the lead shall be flush with the face of the socket and the joint shall be absolutely tight.

Grade.

No connections with the sewers shall be laid with a less inclination than one-quarter of an inch to the foot except by special permit and at owner's risk.

Pipes to Be Clean.

All rubbish must be removed from the pipes before they are laid, and the open end of the pipe must be protected to prevent the intrusion of dirt.

Pipes to Be Plugged.

When the pipe is not connected to the soil pipe at once, the upper end shall be closed with a cemented or leaded plug.

Refilling.

The lower part of the trenches shall be refilled with the best of the excavated material, and no filling shall be done above the pipe until the material around it shall have been thoroughly tamped. The remaining portion of the trench shall be refilled in horizontal layers not exceeding nine inches in depth, each of which shall be well rammed. The earth must not be thrown into the trench faster than it can be distributed and properly rammed. During filling, the number of men ramming shall not be less than the number of men filling. All extra material and rubbish must be promptly removed after the completion of the back-filling.

Sand Traps.

Sand traps shall be constructed in accordance with the plans on file in the office of the City Clerk and under the direction of the Plumbing Inspector of the Health Department.

Gasoline and Oil Separators.

Gasoline and oil separators shall be installed under the supervision and subject to the approval of the Plumbing Inspector of the Health Department.

SMART BUNGALOW APRON.

No. 8888.

One of the things for which a great many women have felt a need is a pretty yet serviceable morning dress for use in the bungalow. Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8888 has met this demand admirably, for it is not only easy to make, but it is perforated for a variety of styles, allowing a very fall latitude for individual taste in its construction. It opens at the side front, and can be made with or without belt and pocket. Length of apron in center-back is 51 inches. Sizes 32 to 44. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards of 27-inch material, 3¾ yards of 36-inch or 3¼ yards of 42-inch material, and ½ yard 36-inch contrasting material.

DR. COOK AGAIN ON THE JOB.

San Francisco, May 27—Sympathizers were on hand here today to give a rousing send-off to Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the dethroned Arctic hero, who announced from Chicago that he would sail from San Francisco today and attempt to climb Mount Everest, in the Himalayas, the highest mountain in the world. Dr. Cook has decided to get back into the hero game, and therefore no mountain is too high for him.

INAUGURATE COLLEGE PRES.

Fargo, N. D., May 27—The inauguration of Dr. John W. Hansel as president of Fargo College will take place today and tomorrow. President Henry C. King, of Oberlin College, will be the principal speaker at the inauguration. Leading educators of the Northwest will take part in the ceremonies.

RECOVER BATTLE FLAGS.

Marion Ind., May 27—The tattered battle flags carried by the famous Tenth Indiana Regiment in the Civil War will be reclaimed by Governor Ralston today. The old flags were recently found in Washington by Mrs. Isabell W. Ball, an associate editor of the National Tribune, the organ of the G. A. R. Mrs. Ball wrote to Governor Ralston announcing her discovery, and Governor Ralston has announced he will receive the flags from the hands of Mrs. Ball at the State Encampment of the G. A. R. here today.

PROPOSALS FOR CONCRETE ARCH BRIDGE.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Borough Hall, North Plainfield, Somerset County, N. J., by the Joint Committees of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Somerset County and the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, at 11:00 a. m., on Friday, May 28th, 1915, for the following described work:

New reinforced concrete bridge over Green Brook at Grove Street, between the City of Plainfield and the Borough of North Plainfield.

Plans and specifications for this work may be examined at the office of the County Engineer of Somerset County, Somerville, N. J., also at the office of the County Engineer of Union County, 120 Broad Street, Elizabeth, N. J.

Each bid must be accompanied with a certified check for $500.00, as required by the specifications as a guarantee of good faith.

The Joint Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids as may be deemed best for the interests of the Counties of Somerset and Union.

CO-EXECUTORSHIP

The man who makes his wife his sole executor unthinkingly places upon her in a time of acute mental distress a burden almost too heavy to be borne, but when he names her in conjunction with a competent trust company he knows that while she will retain the supervision of the estate, the trust company will attend to all the details.

This Company is a specialist in the management of estates. Consultation on the subject is invited.

TRAINED NURSES GIVEN DIPLOMAS

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM

Closing Exercises Held at Hartridge Auditorium — Address by Miss Bessie Le Lacheur, of New York—Reception and Dance Features.

Nine young women who have completed the prescribed course in the Training School for Nurses at Muhlenberg Hospital were graduated with honors at interesting exercises, held at the Hartridge Auditorium last night. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, who joined in congratulations to the graduates. George P. Mellick, president of the Board of Governorss, was in charge of the program of exercises, which opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church.

The speaker of the evening was Miss Bessie Le Lacheur, a director of the New York Nursing Bureau, who talked on "The Widening Field for Nurses." After referring to an article in the American Journal of Nursing, written by Henry L. Hall, of this city, in which he quotes Dr. Cabot, of Boston, in which he said that "the shortness of the nurse's working life is due to one-sidedness far more than to the long days and short nights which it entails." Miss Le Lacheur said in part:

"Is this true? If so, why? and what are we going to do about it. I hear the statement again and again, we want criticism, we want facts. We cannot correct our mistakes unless we know them. It is a common statement 'that nurses are a narrow lot.' They are simetimes said to see nothing but health or disease; that all a nurse sees in a human being is a physical body; that she is so absorbed in her work she sees no other.

"We do not pretend that this narrowness is confined to nurses alone. One finds it in many workers in various fields. It is possible no body of workers is free from it. Our question is, are we, as nurses, more absorbed in our work than is good for our work? My answer, after considerable thought and observation is, Yes, most of us are, or have been, one-sided. When the nurse enters the training school it is almost like entering another world. It often means practically an actual cutting off from the outside world for three years. I am speaking of the old ten to twelve-hour day with which I am familiar.

"My message to you is that whether in institution, private nursing or in public health work, our work is more effective, more valuable, if done with the knowledge of how it fits in with the rest of the world's work, and that it is possible for us to get and keep this wider outlook.

"First, in the training school shorter hours are needed; second, bring in other outside interests for the nurse while she is in training; third, offer elective courses in the third year; fourth, urge her not to neglect reading the daily papers, and good special magazine articles might be recommended by the teachers.

In all branches of public health work we are not, and can never think of ourselves as isolated workers. The whole success of the nurse in public health depends on her recognition and her co-operation with other social forces working for community and family welfare."

Mr. Mellick, who presented the diplomas to the graduates, extended a hearty welcome to those present. He said that the past year had been a particularly interesting one because of the activities at the hospital. He referred to the popularity of the new private room pavilion and the children's ward and many other alterations and conveniences, which makes more perfect the care of the sick. Mr. Mellick then gave a few statistics.

During 1914 the records show 18,104 patient days, and during the past year there were 21,010, an increase of 3,000. There were 1,135 operations this year, an increase of 130 over last year, and in the out-patient department there were 4,400, an increase of 2,335. The average number of patients at the hospital last year was 58, the maximum, 86. Mr. Mellick said that the course of training had been improved and brought up to a higher standard.

Mr. Mellick then presented diplomas to the following graduates:

Miss Adelaide K. Sutphen, Hempstead, N. Y.; Miss Cornelia C. Conover, Trenton; Miss Harriet Connelly, Pennington; Miss Lillian A. Cortelyou, Somerville; Miss Lillian M. French, Ontario, Can.; Miss Alice A. Nelson, Martinsville; Miss Elsie McCullough, New Market; Miss Dorothy Underhill, Watchung; Miss Isabelle C. Knox, Plainfield. Miss Knox and

MEMORIAL SERVICE PLANS ARE COMPLETE

An enthusiastic meeting of Crescent Company, No. 23, Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias, was held last evening at Flannery's Hall, East Third street, with a large representation of the membership present. Full and detailed arrangements for the various memorial services to be held next month were made during the course of the session.

Following the usual custom of several years' standing, the organization will go to Portchester, N. Y., to hold the memorial service over the grave of Harvey L. Patterson, formerly of New Market, who was killed in the Westfield wreck of January 23, 1903. The local lodge men will make the trip Sunday, June 13, by automobile, and will be entertained at dinner upon their arrival by the Knights of Pythias of that city, who will also assist the local men in the services. Mr. Patterson is buried at Rye cemetery, just outside of Portcheater. The arrangements for this service with the Portchester Knights were made by Harry Werner, who went to the New York town last Sunday.

The services at the local, borough and Scotch Plains cemeteries will be held on the afternoon of Sunday, June 20, when the local company will be assisted by Unity Company, of Elizabeth, who will attend in a body. The graves of the departed brothers will be marked with Pythian and American flags prior to that date. The company has arranged to attend divine service with the two other lodges of the city at the First Presbyterian church, Sunday evening, June 6. The latter service will also be attended by Lodge of the Castle, Somerville, and Somerset Lodge, of Bound Brook.

A smoker and social hour followed the formal session, short addresses of a fraternal nature being made by Captain J. E. Flannery, Colonel Charles McGinley and Harry Werner.

WARREN CHAPEL C. E. SOCIETY CELEBRATES

Twenty-seventh Anniversary is Observed With a Pleasing Program.

With representatives present from a number of the societies of this city, the Christian Endeavor Society, of Warren chapel, celebrated its twenty-seventh anniversary at the chapel, last night. There was a large attendance and the program was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. George Hoagland, president of the society, presided, and the pastor, Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, led the devotional exercises which preceded the forgram. Alvah Dunham, of the borough, rendered a bass solo, accompanied on the piano by his sister, Miss Marielle Dunham, and Miss Try Mattox entertained with a recitation entitled, "The Last Hymn."

Miss Ethel McGonagel, secretary, read her report of the year's work. Louis J. Stites, treasurer of the society, made an annual report, showing that more than $400 had been raised by the society during the past year for all funds. Mr. Hoagland introduced Rev. Ernest Brown, of Dunellen, who gave an inspiring talk on "Christian Endeavor."

Following the program an informal time was held and refreshments were served by the social committee, of which Miss Viola Higgins is chairman. The rooms were decorated with white blossoms and presented a most attractive effect. The decoration committee consisted of Miss Viola Higgins, chairman Miss Ruth Easton, Miss Edith Wheeler and Albert VanWinkle.

The societies of Hope chapel, Evona chapel, Temple Baptist and First Presbyterians churches were represented.

EXHIBIT SHOWS MARKED SKILL

Much Enthusiasm Evidenced in Display of Work at the Plainfield High School.

A FINE DEMONSTRATION

The Ability of Boys and Girls to Do Practical Work is Seen in the Large Number of Useful Articles in All the Grades.

Doubts entertained by many that the public schools are not teaching the youth of today the practical lines of work necessary in later life were dispelled yesterday afternoon and night, when the work done by Plainfield pupils was exhibited in the spacious gymnasium of the Plainfield High School. Beginning with the fifth grade and ending with the senior year in High School, a thorough demonstration of the various classes of work taken up is exhibited. Much enthusiasm was manifested by friends and parents in the demonstration, and the remarkable skill of the boys and girls in the manual and industrial arts.

In the primary grades much of the manual training is wood work. Here the boy is given a chance to learn the handling and manipulation of tools, and how to make simple, but at the same time practical and useful articles, a knowledge of which will be of value later. Among the articles exhibited in this department are the different stages in the making of coat hangers, shelves, match holders, files etc. In the seventh and eighth grades the pupils are given an oportunity to enter more difficult lines, such as foot-stools, book-racks, folding tables, etcc. A great many pieces of furniture are made in the

THINK EDGE HINTED AT 1916 CANDIDACY

Remarks Made by Acting-Governor at G. O. P. Meeting Arouse Interest.

Featured by a large attendance and enough enthusiasm to encourage the speakers to prophesy great things for the party at the 1916 polls, the dollar dinner of the City Central Committee of Elizabeth was held at that place, last night. Acting Governor Walter E. Edge was the lion of the occasion and during the course of his speech he made one remark that was considered to be a mark of his ambitions by those who heard it. This came when he referred to the duties that had fallen to his lot during the past few days as acting-Governor, and said that there was nothing in the obligations the position entailed that need frighten one. This was taken to mean that his eyes are turned toward the Gubernatorial chair rather than toward the United States Senate.

Charles H. Stewart was toastmaster and seated at the speakers' table were Acting-Governor Edge, of Atlantic City; Acting Adjutant General William T. Read, of Camden; former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth; former Judge Robert Carey, of Jersey City; former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of Plainfield; Assemblyman Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, and State Senator Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford. A large delegation of G. O. P. supporters from this city accompanied Mr. Ackerman to Elizabeth.

FREEMAN AS AD. WRITER FOR THE ROTHBERG STORE

William C. Freeman, for many years advertising manager of New York newspapers, but now an advertising specialist in the Metropolis, has written an advertisement which appears in today's Daily Press. Primarily it was prepared for Samuel Rothberg, but it is as much a boost for Plainfield as a shopping centre as it is for the Rothberg store. It preaches civic pride, along with some of the reasons why people should buy in Plainfield, and especially at the Rothberg store. The advertisement is so unique for this city, and so typical of the modern business methods of the man who has inserted it, that it is well worth careful inspection by every reader of the Daily Press. It will be found on page 5. This is the second time Mr. Freeman has written an advertisement for the Rothberg store, the former having appeared a little over a year ago.

ROUNDEY MIX-UP TAKES NEW TURN

Woman Held in $2,000 on Four Indictments Today in Union County Court.

PERJURY IS CHARGED

Pleads Not Guilty on All Four Counts—Stockton Out of Case—McCarter and English Her Attorneys.

As a sequel to the abrupt termination of her $25,000 alienation suit in the Union county courts last Friday, when she failed to put in an appearance to press her allegations against the woman she named as a defendant, Mrs. Florence E. Roundey was this morning arraigned before Judge James C. Connolly in Elizabeth, to answer to four different indictments found against her by the grand jury. At the request of Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of the local law firm of Reed & Hetfield, the grand jury ordered a probe of the mysterious conditions involved in Mrs. Roundey's charges, and the counts were subsequently found against her.

Two of the indictments charge the woman with endeavoring to secure subordinated testimony, another the subordination of pejury, and the fourth alleges perjury directly. She entered a plea of not guilty to all four charges, and Judge Connolly fixed bail at $500 in each case, making a total of $2,000 for bond.

Since the termination of the alienation suit, when Judge Speer dismissed the case, Mrs. Roundey has moved from Plainfield, and her present address is unknown. The law firm of McCarter & English, of Newark, has been retained by Mrs. Roundey to defend her. Up to this time she has been represented by Richard Stockton, of Newark, but he has apparently severed his conection with the Roundey entanglement.

While nothing definite has been learned as yet concerning other principals in the case, it is understood that further charges are being prepared, and it is not unlikely that additional indictments will follow.

Mr. Hetfield announced at the time the Roundey alienation suit was thrown out by the court that "he would see the matter to a finish and punish every individual who had a finger in the pie." This is the initial result of Mr. Hetfield's actions, and his investigation has been a thorough and convincing one.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS MEMBERS IN NEW YORK

Members of the Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, will be guests of Amsterdam Council in New York city, Sunday, when the ceremonies connected with the exemplification of the third degree will be held. A large number of candidates will be introduced to the mysteries of the Columbians and the local delegation will assist in the degree work.

The trip to and from New York will be made in automobiles and the Plainfielders, as well as representatives from other New Jersey councils, will be entertained by the Metropolis brothers following the ceremonies.

POLICE CHIEFS TO MEET IN 1916 IN THIS STATE

Police Chief Kiely, who is attending the annual convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs at Cincinnati, yesterday, had the satisfaction of being informed that the 1916 meeting would be held in Newark, in connection with the observance of the 250th anniversary of that city's charter.

Michael Regan, chief of police in Buffalo, N. Y., was elected president at yesterday afternoon's session. The committee appointed to confer with the International Association of Sheriffs and the International Association of Special Agents of Railroads relative to joining a new organization known as the Federation of American Peace Officers, submitted a report approving the idea, and recommending that the chiefs join.

WELCOME NIGHT HELD.

"Welcome Night" was observed in the Columbus Club, last night, a large number of members and friends enjoying an informal program of bowling, billiards, dancing and vocal selections. This affair was held in connection with the usual Thursday night open-house plans.

NO COURT SESSIONS.

All cases scheduled to be tried in the city police court, this morning, were postponed until tomorrow morning by Judge William G. DeMeza.

WAR HEROES ARE GUESTS OF HONOR

G. A. R. Members Attend Exercises in Local Public Schools Today.

PATRIOTIC ADDRESSES

Patriotic Observance in Accordance With Annual Custom—Speakers at Various Institutions—Special Programs of Music.

Appropriate Memorial Day exercises in the public schools of city and borough were held this morning and afternoon. Members of the Grand Army visited each institution and gave short addresses to the pupils. Patriotic songs and recitations composed the main portion of the program. William S. Tyler visited the local High School, while Captain William Hand and P. B. Goodfellow visited the North Plainfield High School. Each made an address. The program of the exercises in the schools were as follows:

Plainfield High School—"To Thee, O Country," entire school; "The Recessional;" poem, "The Illusions of War," by Vernal Williams; oration, "Washington," by Curtis Dall; original senior oration, "What America Has Done for Peace," Miss Margaret Eaton; songs by school, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Where the Flag is Full of Stars;" oration, "Patriotism," Archbishop Ireland, by Robert Moyer; oration, "Homes of the People," by Clifford Tildon; address, William S. Tyler; song by entire school, "The Star Spangled Banner."

CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Macauley, of Scotch Plains, Observe Happy Event.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Macauley, well-known residents of Scotch Plains, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home in that place, Tuesday night, when a dinner was given in their honor. Owing to the recent death of William F. Reynolds, a grandson of the couple, the affair was a quiet one.

The couple was married in Plainfield, Rev. Dr. Bond, then pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. The bride was Miss Margaret Bates, a native of Scotland, who came to Scotch Plains in 1860, while Mr. Macauley removed to that place in 1855. They have lived there ever since. The couple is highly respected and have many friends.

Mr. Macauley is a carpenter by trade and for many years was foreman for John Bornman, the contractor. The couple have five children, Mrs. William Reynolds, Samuel, Albert, George and Warren Macauley.

WILBUR LOST POCKETBOOK; TWO ARE TAKEN PRISONERS

Under suspicion of having stolen a pocketbook that belonged to Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, from a North avenue restaurant, yesterday morning, Richard Pallin, of Mountain avenue, is being held a prisoner at police headquarters to await a hearing tomorrow morning. John Lacey, of Harmony street, was also arrested and is being held to ascertain what he knows concerning the matter.

Mr. Wilbur dropped his pocketbook when leaving the restaurant and did not discover his loss until he reached the railroad depot. He then returned and found that Pallin, who was the only man in the place when he left, had disappeared. Wilbur met Pallin on Front street later in the morning, and after questioning both him and Lacey, who was with him, decided that they knew something about the pocketbook and had them arrested. On being searched at police headquarters Pallin dropped a razor from his clothing and is also being held on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

IMAGINATION GAVE MAN A BAD FRIGHT

Sewer Engineer Thought Copperhead Bit Him When Nail Pierced His Foot.

E. Franklin Lowe, a rodman in the engineering corps on the borough trunk sewer job, stumbled across a copperhead snake in the course of his work at Greenbrook road and West End avenue, yesterday morning. Having the natural animosity of a human for anything in the reptilian class, he made for it with a stick but failed to kill it at the first onslaught. The snake quickly prepared itself for a counter attack and might have made some trouble but for the lucky intervention of a laborer. The latter jumped forward with a shovel and severed the snakes in halves.

One of the many men on the job who witnessed the little encounter was I. O. Shafer, a member of the engineering staff on the sewer job. He had barely turned away after the copperhead was killed when he felt a stinging pain in his right foot. The thought flashed through his mind instantly that the snake had been accompanied by a mate and that it had bitten him through his shoe. Shafer let out a terrific yell that brought a rush of assistance just as he fell to the ground in a semi-faint. His associates noticed that what he thought was a snake bite was in reality a jab from a viciously sharp nail that stuck upright in a board. Nevertheless, between the thought of dying from poison and the pain of his injury, Shafer was in need of medical attention. He was hurriedly removed by automobile to Dr. A. H. Dundon's office, where treatment was accorded him.

The injured man fully recovered later in the day, but it is probable that the nail puncture will bother him for a week or more. He was able to return to work, but is compelled to use a cane in getting about.

ARTHUR E. SMITH WAS LOW BIDDER

Will Probably Get Contract to Build New Bridge on Grove Street.

Arthur E. Smith, of this city, will probably be awarded the contract for the new Grove street bridge, the bids of which were opened at a meeting of the Somerset county freeholders and a committee from the Union County Board, composed of J. Hervey Doane and Mr. Jones, held in the borough this morning. The successful bidder's figure was $7,373, the lowest of all the fourteen received. Burke and Bonham, with a figure of $8,386.30, was the only other local bidder.

The bridge will be a concrete arch, similar to Washington avenue bridge, which was built about five years ago. The bids were as follows: E. A. Smith Plainfield, $7,373; P. A. Hickey, Somerville, $7,991; Burke & Bonham, Plainfield, $8,386.30; Harrison & Hall Paterson, $11,562; Whittaker & Deal, $10,942; Cehaler Cement Company, $8,271; F. R. Long Company, $12,500; Ferro Concrete Company Harrisburg, Pa., $8,844; Charles Winans Company, $10,675; F. W. ALLIED ARMIES REPORT SUCCESS

TAKE MEN AND GUNS

Turkish War Office Says Forces of That Country Have Increased Activity in Mesopotania—Two More Boats Sunk.

Paris, May 28.—Gains for the French at both ends of the battle line are enumerated in an official communique issued by the French War Office today. Fortified houses, trenches and other defensive works of the Germans at Ablain, St. Nazaire, were captured by the French in a series of violent assaults against the German lines south of the Lorette Hills. Four hundred German soldiers and 12 machine guns were taken by the French on Thursday and further captures were made today. The French have renewed their attacks in the forest of Le Pretre, between the Meuse and the Moselle, where they took 60 prisoners yesterday. Ablain is about 8 miles north of Arras, and lies west of Souchez.

Petrograd, May 28.—The latest report from Grand Duke Nicholas says:

"We engaged the enemy successfully in the region of Shavli. We made progress southwest of the Murawjewo-Shawli line and on the lower Dubissa, repulsing the enemy near Rosijeny. In Poland on the Bobr front during night of May 25-26 the enemy bombarded with heavy artillery in the region of the fortress of Ossowiec. In the direction of Opatow, southwest of Ivangorod, the enemy has begun attacks with great force.

"In Galicia on May 25 and the night of May 25 26 the enemy delivered attacks along our whole front between the upper Vistula and the left bank of the San. He was repulsed everywhere. The stubborn battle on banks of the San between Przemysl and the Lubaczowka River, as well as between Przemysl and the great marshes of the Dneister continues with great intensity."

Rome, May 28.—The following communique was given out by the Italian War Office today:

"An artillery duel is progressing between our fortifications and those of the Austrians along the border of Ayrol and Trentino. We have extended farther northward our occupation of Austrian territory above the junction of the Chinese River. Alpine troops engaged upon the frontier of Carnia are progressing, making many prisoners. On the Friuli frontier we occupied Gradno. On the night of May 26-27 a flotilla of hydro-aeroplanes bombarded several Austrian positions."

Constantinople, May 28.—Turkish forces operating in Mesopotomia have increased their activity in the vicinity of Korna, at the junction of the Tigris and Euphrates River. On Wednesday night an attack made by boats manned by volunteers took two English positions. These are being held.

London, May 28.—The British steamer Cadeby, of 1,130 tons, has been torpedoed off Wolf Light by a German submarine. She was bound from Oporto, Portugal, to Cardiff, Wales. The crew and four passengers were landed at Newlyn on the Cornwall coast today.

Stockholm, May 28.—The Danish steamer Ely, of 1,747 tons, struck a German mine in the Baltic on Wednesday, and sank off Soederarm. The crew was rescued.

Geneva, May 28.—Thirty persons were injured when a train filled with refugees bound for Innsbruck, Austriafi from the Italian frontier, collided with a freight train today.

NO PAPER MONDAY.

Following the usual custom, the Daily Press will not be published on Monday next, in observance of Decoration Day. The business office will be closed all day, except for the posting of baseball scores. 5 28 2

A Battle That Made History.

One can read the European War with greater interest and intelligence after seeing our own greatest battlefield at Gettysburg. A visit at low cost of $2.50 is made possible by New Jersey Central excursion, Sunday, May 30. Special train leaves Plainfield 12:46 a. m.; Grant Avenue, 12:48 a. m.; Clinton Avenue, 12:50 a. m.; Dunellen, 12:54 a. m. Return at 3:00 p. m.—Adv.

PATRIOTIC EXERCISES.

The members of the W. G. Holton Council are requested to meet at the lodge rooms at 7 o'clock Sunday evening, to attend the patriotic service in the Methodist Episcopal church. Other patriotic organizations which will attend this service are the Daughters of Liberty and the P. O. S. of A. The Rev. Dr. W. C. Ramsey, the pastor of the church, has prepared an appropriate sermon for the occasion. A special feature of the service will be the presentation of an American flag by W. G. Holton Council to the Sunday-school.

Miss Florence Stemler, of Plainfield, has resigned her position with Frank Margentino to accept a position in Westfield.

Edward Herlich, of Dunellen avenue, has given up his local electrical contracting business and accepted a position on the Central Railroad.

Scout Troop, No. 1, will play the Plainfield High School Juniors on Maurer Oval tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The annual strawberry and ice cream festival of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held on Thursday evening, June 10.

Edward MacCorkle has resigned his position at the plant of the Levgar Structural Company to accept a position in his home town, Berlin, Conn.

Miss Cornelia Van Benschoten, of Prospect avenue, is visiting in Arlington.

Mrs. Mary Kingsbury, of Jersey City, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. George W. Churchill, of Washington avenue.

The Apgar Construction Company has been awarded the contract of erecting a seven-room house for Morris Hegeman at Conover's corner.

S. M. Kookogey, of New Market road, motored to Morristown yesterday, in his recently acquired touring car to be examined for his license.

Frank Cashin, the North avenue cash grocer, is the father of a boy, who arrived at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Rev. E. R. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church, addressed the twenty-seventh anniversary celebration of Warren chapel at Plainfield, last evening. A large delegation of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the church accompanied their pastor.

TO ATTEND WEDDING.

Harrison E. Giddes and E. Jasper Maurer will attend the wedding of Isadore Smoleninsky to Miss Ethel Cohen at 296 Grand street, New York city, tomorrow evening.

Walter Nelson, formerly employed on the civil engineering staff of the Central Railroad, will be in charge of the county work soon to be started on the Dunellen-Stelton road.

Fred Corlell, of Main street, has recovered from his attack of scarlet fever, and is now able to be out.

Miss Kathryn Samson, of New Market road, is able to be out and about following a several days' confinement to her home as the result of a pin entering her foot.

John Fedderman, who recently gave up his office in the Dunellen Shoe Repairing store, has rented floor space in the tonsorial parlors of C. Rifino and F. Di Lonardi on North avenue.

CHAS. STARKER CHIEF.

At the monthly meeting of Defender Fire Company, No. 1, held last evening, in the Borough Hall, Charles Starker, of Washington avenue, was elected chief to succeed the late J. Newton Apgar, and W. S. Frederick was elected as a member of the New Jersey Firemen's Relief Association. Among other business was the decision to test all of the hose of the company next Friday.

Mrs. Stanley Krom, of Fenfield place, continues to improve slowly.

This section will be represented in the automobile racing world on Decoration Day, when Percy Lambert, of Willow Grove, will drive in the Olympic Park races at Newark. He will probably drive in three of the races on the card.

Harold Knight, of New York, has been in the borough for several days, where he formerly resided, visiting W. W. Outwater, of Tillifson road.

Casey Lambertson, of Fourth street, will cover third base for the Westfield Cubs tomorrow, when they play the Westfield Y. M. C. at Garwood. Joe Alberts, another local diamond artist, will probably cover the same position for the Rahway A. A., it being his first time with that team. Eugene Lidgate, of North avenue, will play his first game in the Tri-County League tomorrow afternoon, when he does backstop duty for the Hackensack team.

After warming the bench of the Worcester team for several weeks, Frank Hand, the only local boy in the minor leagues this year, is getting a chance to show the fans of the New England League what he can do in the way of catching. He has ousted a veteran from the job, and besides playing errorless ball, he is pounding the pellet hard.

The Rev. Reymond E. Marshal will conduct the prayer meeting in the Methodist church tonight.

It has now been ascertained that the Christian Endeavor camp will reopen on the mountain in back of the Plains on July 1 to remain open for that month and August. The plan adopted last year of having children at the camp only from Union county will probably be adhered to again.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hatfield, of Stout avenue, have been entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Luther Banks, and son, of Plainfield.

Measles seems to be prevalent among the younger children in the borough this spring, as about a dozen have been reported as being ill.

Miss Martha Elder, of Newark, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jones, of Paterson road.

Mrs. John Walsh, of Garwood, was in the borough yesterday, where she formerly resided. Several New York parties are looking at the Fanwood Hotel, on Martine avenue, which was formerly operated by Mr. Walsh, and who at present owns it, and it is probable that the property will shortly change hands.

Plains & Fanwood.

The first banquet of the Sunshine Weavers, of the Baptist church, was held in the Scotch Plains Memorial Parish House, last night, and proved to be one of the most pleasant local events of the season. Mrs. Kennelly, of Cranford, who is well known here, talked to the girls on the missions, and Maud Davis, of Montclair, also made an interesting address. The Rev. J. Madison Hare, pastor of the Baptist church and Mrs. Hare each had a few words to say in the course of which Mrs. Hare touched on the growth and good work the society has done in the few months it has been organized. About fifty members and their friends enjoyed the excellent dinner prepared by the women of the church and served in the "gym," which was prettily decorated for the occasion.

Miss Edith Lidgate and her brother, Sidney, left this morning for New Canaan, Conn., to spend Decoration Day with their aunt, Mrs. William Baxster.

John A. Thompson, of New York, is visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hudson Thompson, of North avenue.

If there are children in your family, you have no more important duty than to protect them from impure milk.

Wood Brook milk stands always high on the list of the Board of Health Reports on milk. (Copies mailed on request.)

Bound Brook.

The Middlesex Union Sunday-school will lay the cornerstone of the new chapel tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, with appropriate exercises. Rev. P. C. Bascom, of Bound Brook, Rev. Harold E. Green, of South Bound Brook, and Rev. T. E. Vassar, of the New Market Baptist church, will make addresses. Mrs. Giles, of Beechwood Heights, will sing.

The Bound Brook baseball team and the Y. M. A. team will play two games on Decoration Day. The morning game to be played on Y. M. A. Oval, South Bound Brook at 10:30 o'clock. The afternoon game to be played on Pierce Oval, East Bound Brook, at 3:30 o'clock.

South Plainfield.

Charles Thornton is the owner of a young colt born a few days ago. The colt's father, Walter Hal, has a track record of 2:04, and its mother, Sheldon Lady, a record of 2:25. Mr. Thornton has named the colt Lady Hal.

Dr. James Nelots, a prominent physician from New York, has had plans drawn for the erection of a one-story bungalow, where he will make his summer home. The dwelling will be built on his property on the Heights and Dr. Nelots expects to have his home finished and his family moved by July first.

Rev. J. J. Allen and William Lee have each purchased an automobile.

Russell Ripgee has returned home after spending a few days with his grandmother in Easton.

Daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller and Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips, yesterday.

A number of people from this place gave a strawride and stopped at the "Tom Thumb Wedding" in New Dover, last night.

Westfield.

An axle of a motor truck belonging to Martin Cook, of Bound Brook, broke yesterday morning at North avenue and Elm street, partly blocking the busiest corner of the town until the load was removed. It was declared by those who examined the broken axle that it had been sawed nearly one-third through and the saw cut plugged up.

A special election is to be held in Westfield Tuesday, June 1, to appropriate $13,000 to finish the new high school. There is considerable opposition to giving the Board of Education the additional amount.

Negotiations are underway today to settle a strike called on the new Westfield High School Monday because of non-union plumbers on the job.

The Board of Trade has engaged the local band to give concerts one evening each week during the summer at the Washington School Park.

German Valley. and Chester

Mrs. Isaac Parker, of Hampton, is spending this week with her niece, Mrs. John W. Jarvis, of Hill Top Rest.

Mrs. Ranson Beam is entertaining for a short visit her grand-daughter, Miss Edna Crater, of Lake Hopatcong.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Willis, of North Branch, are at William Bird's, to remain over the week-end holidays.

Miss Elsie Hoffman, of Newark, is visiting her aunt, Miss Beulah Hoffman.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barkman are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Ida Riley, of Newark, for one week.

A delegation from this place went last night to Hackettstown to attend a district meeting of the Jr. O. U. A. M., of Warren county, held in the rooms of Monitor Council. State and county officers were present.

NEW AGREEMENT WILL DO AWAY WITH SEWER DELAY

Following a length discussion at the meeting of the Joint Sewer Commission, Wednesday night, Mayor Robert Clark, of North Plainfield, moved that a form of warrant be provided for the right-of-way committee, and that when such warrant is made payable to a land-owner and signed by the full commission it shall be honored by the treasurer of the joint sewer commission. This was adopted. This action disposed of a question opened by Eugene M. Laing, one of the commissioners appointed to secure rights-of-way, who claimed that some arrangements should be made whereby his committee could settle with property owners as soon as an agreement was reached as to price.

John Wescott, attorney for the Waudwell-Wingate Company and Atlantic Construction Company, contractors for the joint sewer trunk line, appeared before the meeting and stated that his firms are continually held up because the sewer commission has failed to secure the necessary rights-of-way through private properties.

PARENT-TEACHER ASS'N TO CONDUCT A MARKET

The final meeting of the year of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association was held in the Somerset School yesterday afternoon, with a majority of the members present. Mrs. W. O. Taylor, the new president, presided and announced the standing committees for the coming year. The chairman of the various committees follow: Mrs. J. H. Buchanan, new membership; Mrs. A. E. Kenney, reception; Mrs. E. D. Hutchinson, entertainment; economic, Mrs. M. H. Ewart; D. Fred Aungst, question box; Mrs. Warren Townley, chaperone; Mrs. L. D. Townley, visiting; Mrs. W. N. Woodland, legislative; Mrs. F. E. Bach, hygiene; Mrs. P. E. Wisch, literature. Mrs. Guy D. Peck, vice-president, was appointed chairman of a special committee, which will devise means for raising funds for the recreation hall.

A report was made regarding the progress of that fund, and the total is now $190, of which $98 is in the children's fund. The association will hold a strawberry festival at Fairview avenue and Somerset street, Thursday night. A market will be held in the yard of the Somerset School every Saturday morning, where the children will bring their vegetables, which are raised for the contest, to be sold. This will continue throughout the summer.

NO PAPER MONDAY.

Following the usual custom, the Daily Press will not be published on Monday next, in observance of Decoration Day. The business office will be closed all day, except for the posting of baseball scores. 5 28 2

FLEETS AND ARMY IN DARDANELLES

The Ancient Hellespont Is Well Fortified Against Attack.

In a land and sea of romance and tragedy, encompassing almost more of those elemental and emotional atmospheres than any other of similar radius, is the strait of the Dardanelles, otherwise the Hellespont.

The forty-five miles of the strait connecting the sea of Marmora with the Aegean sea are not only protected by old, but also by new forts and by those more modern and Satanic inventions, floating and submarine mines.

Not only is the Hellespont strongly fortified with big guns both on the European and Asiatic shores, but east of the sea of Marmora is the yet narrower strait of the Bosporus, seventeen miles long, connecting the Turkish sea of Marmora with the big Black sea, which the Russians practically control. The Bosporus is also imposingly fortified and mined, and vessels forcing the Dardanelles would be compelled to force the strait to make an opening from the waters of the Grecian archipelago or of the Aegean sea to the Black sea and to lay siege to Constantinople on the European side and the twin city of Scutari on the Asiatic side.

The entrance of the allied British and French fleets into the Dardanelles reopened the long disputed question of the relative strength of fleets and fortifications. The allies evidently expected to settle this question earlier, and considerable criticism has been aimed at Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, by the London press for the conduct of the Dardanelles operations. It is asserted that the earlier attempt to force the strait without the assistance of land forces should never have been attempted. It is also pointed out that even should the narrows be forced unless there was a powerful army ready to occupy the Gallipoli peninsula the moment the fleet passed into the sea of Marmora the Turks and Germans would immediately close the strait behind it, and thus the warships would find it difficult to fight their way out again. Hence the tactics have been changed, and a powerful army has been landed at the Dardanelles.

Miss French each received a prize in gold for excellent work, and Miss Mildred Sellery, of Kingston, Ont., of the intermediate class, also received a similar prize. All of the graduates were showered with flowers. Henry L. Hall, chairman of the committee in charge of the Training School, presented the graduates with their pins.

The rest of the evening was given up to sociability and dancing, music being furnished by VanEps Brothers. Refreshments were also served. In addition to the graduates and other members of the Training School there was present a large number of the members of the Alumnae Association in uniform.

MRS. JOS. EDGAR SINGS AT WALDORF ASTORIA

Mrs. Joseph Edgar, of West Sixth street, sang in two parts of the soiree musical and dramatic, given last night at the Waldorf-Astoria, by Mme. Marie Cross Newhaus. Mrs. Edgar is a pupil of the latter and the selections she rendered on the occasion were Micaela's song from Carmen by Bivet and also Titania's Cradle" by Lehmann. The compositions of the following authors were rendered at the affair: Massenet, Lemaire, Wagner, Gounod, Chopin and Moszkowski. The soiree concluded by a chorus of pupils singing excerpts from "Les Cloches de Corneville," by Planquette.

Mrs. Edgar, who is well known in musical circles in this city, New York, Boston and New Brunswick, will sing at the Second Reformed church in New Brunswick on Sunday; also on June 5 she will sing at the First Reformed church, of New Brunswick.

GIRL GETS BAIL.

Bail furnished by Peter Schneiderwind, of Dunellen, caused the release of Grace Philmore, the girl being held by the Middlesex county authorities as a material witness in the case of the State against eighteen-year-old Arthur Moore, the local taxicab chauffeur, charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor Tuesday night. Cash bond for $300 was given.

GOD SHOWS MERCY BY HIS PATIENCE

Father John Says There is Hope for the Deepest Sinner if Contrite.

Father John gave another stirring sermon at the mission in St. Joseph's church, last night, the congregation being visibly affected. He took as his text the words of David, "The mercies of the Lord I will sing forever, because His mercies are above all his other works." He told the congregation the consoling qualities of these words uttered by David, even for the lowest sinner.

"The mercy of God is not only infinite, but above all his other works," said Father John. "There is no passage that appeals to the human heart as does this passage of David. Ah, the experience of it. Because he had experienced the powerful influence of God's infinite mercy and he was kept pure for the rest of his life. Perhaps many of you have sinned, and, like David, perhaps, your minds have become darkened and you have drifted away from God. Perhaps some of you see your condition as you never saw it before. Perhaps you are discouraged. This is not surprising. That is the work of the devil, who tells the soul that nothing is going to happen if it commits sin, until the soul falls into the habit of sin deliberately. But if you have inward contrition, inward sorrow for your sins, you may hope to receive God's mercy. God only uses his justice when we compel him. There is no human tongue that could tell you of the mercey of God. God shows his mercy by his patience. The mere fact that God has been patient with you shows his mercy. Read Scripture, there you will find many examples of God's mercy. Even the deepest sinner has hope if there is that contrition and sorrow. Outward apperances count for nothing, tears are often deluding, but it is your own heart that tells whether you are sincere in your sorrow and firm in the resolution to amend your ways and keep out of the occasion of sin."

"The Purpose of Amendment" was the condition Father James dwelt on in the series of talks on "Penance." Father James will deliver the sermon tonight.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. A. B. Darby, of Grove street, has returned home after spending some time at Galen Hall, Wernersville, Pa.

Miss Mabel Conover, of Jackson avenue, the borough, who is ill, is said to be improving.

F. V. L. Jones, of Evergreen avenu, is spending some time at Bay Head.

L. F. Barrett, of 82 Franklin avenue, have removed to 206 Grandview avenue.

The Y. M. H. A. Sunday school will be opened Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, at the association rooms, 204 West Front street. Parents of children are cordially invited to attend the opening.

Not a home in this city but has its quota of discarded furniture, rugs, stoves perhaps, a wheelbarrow maybe.

A few cents for a Press want ad and some one who needs the very article that lies rotting in your garret will call and pay you for it.

MAY 28TH IN HISTORY.

1576—First newspaper begun in England, the Liverpool Times.

1672—Famous naval battle of Southwold Bay, between Dutch Admiral De Ruyter, with 75 ships, and combined fleets of France and England, 130 ships, under the Duke of York. The damage was severe, and the Dutch retired to the coast of Holland.

1841—Canton, China, capitulated to the British; paid $6,000,000 in one week as ransom.

1912—Congress passed a resolution of thanks to the officers and crew of the "Carpathia" for rescuing the survivors of the Titanic disaster.

THE STATE CENSUS.

Plainfielders will do everything they can to aid the census man when he comes around early next month. All want to do their share to boost the city by seeing that every person is included in the list. Every household will be visited by one of the local men under the direction of Supervisor P. J. Reville, and we hope to be able to record that the city and borough combined total well over 30,000 inhabitants.

When the government census was taken in 1910 Plainfield had 20,550 people and the borough 6,117. The directory publishers estimated when that publication was put out a few months ago that the population of the city alone was 22,500. In the North Plainfield section, while there has undoubtedly been a growth in the last five years, it was not so great as it will be in the next five years, after the sewer is completed, and especially if consolidation is brought about.

In all sections of the city there have been many new dwellings erected and occupied since the government census was taken, and the pessimistically inclined say that this means nothing, because there are so many old houses unoccupied. While the latter assertion was true a few months ago, there has been a general improvement in the renting situation, and the time is not far distant when there will be little or no complaint along this line. And of course, with improvement showing, the census will not suffer.

But in order that Plainfield may show every person, we hope that the census men will receive the heartiest co-operation of every resident of the city. Some of the questions may seem personal, but all are necessary to the complete record. What the census taker will want to know will be the name, color or race, sex, date of birth, age at last birthday; whether single, married, widowed or divorced; place of birth, place of birth of father and mother; number of years in United States; whether naturalized; the occupation of each person ten years of age or over; whether he or she can read, write or speak English; whether a child is in school, and name of school, public, parochial or private and whether the home or farm is owned or rented, free or mortgaged.

FUTILE METHODS.

As proof of the failure of the German sumbarine warfare it is pointed out that ever since it started there have been an average of 200 boats a day leaving British ports to pass through the zone where the submarines were operating. The World's Work for June contains an interesting article, which shows how futile would be the effort to stop commerce were the Germans to keep up the work at the same rate that it was carried on from February 15 until the torpedoing of the Lusitania on May 7. In those 78 days German mines destroyed five ships in the zone, three were mined or torpedoed, one was burned, and the submarines succeeded in sinking 81, or a total of ninety vessels in all. Of these 63 were British, five French, and three Russian. The rest sailed under neutral flags—American, Norwegian, Dutch, Swedish, Greek, and Danish.

If this record was Germany's best answer to England's policy of starvation, it was a failure. Ninety ships destroyed in 78 days is at the rate of 1 1-6 ships a day. In 1912 Great Britain had 3,386 sailing vessels and 9,672 steam vessels engaged in coastwise and foreign trade, or 13,058 vessels in all. To destroy these at the rate of 1 1-6 a day would require 11,257 days, or 30 years, 10 months, and 7 days, and of course new ones would constantly be put into use. In foreign trade alone, Great Britain had 242 sailing vessels and 4,128 steam vessels (4,370 in all), and to destroy these at the same rate would require 10 years, 3 months, and 27 days.

The fire committee has decided, to a certain extent as a result of the campaign carried on since the first of the year by the Daily Press, to install fire tappers at Second street and Park avenue and West Front street and Park avenue. The action on the part of the committee is taken in response to a unanimous public demand for the warning signals, which has been thoroughly appreciated by the members of the committee ever since the big fire whistle was discontinued on January first. The cost of maintaining these alarms will be small, when the additional safety which they afford is taken into consideration. The committee is certainly to be congratulated upon its action in the matter, and they will have the satisfaction of knowing that the danger of accident to pedestrians from fire apparatus at these two corners will be practically eliminated.

The day we celebrate on Monday will be the topic of tomorrow's contributed editorial, which will come from the pen of Plainfield's most popular citizen, William N. Runyon. In view of the daily demands upon his services for speeches and other duties brought about as a member of the Legislature, we consider ourselves fortunte in being able to get him to write at this time.

The wholesale liquor dealers in New Brunswick have asked the city commissioners to cut the license fee for that class of business from $600 to $300 a year. Why not take a tip from Plainfield and raise the fee to $900 and grant half as many licenses as at present? The city and dealers would both be better off.

One of the Democratic newspapers says the State needs a business administration. It voices the sentiment of about ninety-eight per cent. of the people.

It doesn't necessarily follow that a fat man is popular because he is asked to go on an automobile ride. He may be needed for ballast.

THE LATEST WAR NEWS BY WIRELESS

WILL FORM BRANCH OF SECURITY LEAGUE

Local Men as Committee Invite Citizens to Join the Organization.

Plans are nearing completion for the formation of a local branch of the National Security League. Those interested are sending out today the following circular letter:

"In view of recent events in Europe, many of our thoughtful and patriotic citizens have been much disturbed by the indication from the Congressional hearings at Washington that there are grave deficiencies in our military and naval strength and that these bear a distinct menace for the future. These citizens believe that the facts should be brought to the attention of the country at large and that conservative and efficient plans should be adopted by which the dignity and safety of the United States may be maintained.

"Believing that a responsibility rests upon each one of us, it has been suggested that a local branch of the National Security League be organized by those in our community who may be interested in this course. Through such an organization more efficient expression of these views may be given and efforts made to secure appropriate action.

"It is understood that the National Security League is in no sense an attack upon the present administration.

"If you are in sympathy with this plan, will you kindly communicate at once with C. L. Slocum, 502 Central avenue, or with any one of the undersigned? You will then be later notified of the steps to be taken to effect such an organization."

The local committee consists of the following: Charles E. Aaron, W. R. Codington, E. M. Daniel, 2nd., T. O. Doane, L. J. Ellis, E. F. Feickert, Leslie R. Fort, Guy H. Hillman, P. S. Kiely, Allen B. Laing, Alexander Milne, William Newcorn, Charles A. Reed, William N. Runyon, S. W. Rushmore, F. E. Serrell, C. L. Slocum, D. C. Smalley, W. L. Smalley, Frank H. Smith, W. R. Townsend, M. C. Van Arsdale, Lamar Van Syckel, O. T. Waring.

The National Security League was organized some time ago for the purpose of conducting a country-wide campaign to convince Congress that the people of the United States really want adequate preparedness against war. It is entirely non-partisan and opposed to militarism. Joseph H. Choate and Alton B. Parker are at the head of the League as honorary president and honorary vice president. S. Stanwood Menkeen is president.

If a sufficient number of replies to the above letter are received, a meeting will be arranged, at which the organization can be effected.

FRENCH LINER ASHORE.

Paris, May 28.—The French liner La Champagne ran aground today on the French coast, off St. Nazaire. All her 900 passengers were later landed at St. Nazaire.

La Champagne was one of the crack steamers of the line about fifteen years ago, and since that time she has not run to New York. The steamer ran between St. Nazaire and Colon and West India ports.

U. S. CRUISER AGROUND.

Washington, May 28.—Captain Oman, of the United States cruiser North Carolina, today, reported to the Navy Department that his vessel is aground, but uninjured, inside the outer harbor of Alexandria, Egypt. The cruiser Des Moines has arrived to aid the stranded vessel.

STRIKE VOTE IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, May 28.—Representatives of the 11,000 surface lines employes met last night and decided to take a strike vote. The balloting to enforce the demands for increased wages will start at 6 o'clock Saturday morning, and continue until 6 o'clock Sunday morning.

RACE POSTPONED.

Indianapolis, May 28.—The 500-mile automobile race, which was to have been held here tomorrow was postponed until Monday on account of the weather.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company for today is as follows: 9 a. m., 58 degrees; 11 a. m., 68 degrees; 1 p. m., 75 degrees.

KING IMPROVING.

Athens, May 28.—An official bulletin issued today indicates improvement in the condition of King Constantine.

An Impersonation and An Interpretation

Written by William C. Freeman

¶ During the time it takes you to read this advertisement, just consider me as being Sam Rothberg—your fellow-townsman—who has grown up among you—who believes in his home town—who appreciates your support—who would rather be considered a worthy citizen of Plainfield than to be the biggest and most successful man in any other community.

¶ I know Sam Rothberg. I believe I can impersonate him, for a short time, anyway, because his ideals and mine harmonize. He believes, as I do, that a man should regard it as a supreme duty, in whatever he undertakes, to serve his community faithfully—to deal honorably with his fellows—to add, as far as he is able, to the good name and fame of his home town, and to co-operate in its development.

¶ I think you will agree with me that Sam Rothberg is vitally interested in the progress of Plainfield—that, in his humble yet aggressive way, he contributes a big share toward the growing sentiment among you to stand together and make of Plainfield a fine, self-supporting, prosperous community, which will be highly regarded by every other community in the State, and looked upon as a big factor in county, municipal and State affairs.

¶ I am sure I correctly interpret Sam Rothberg when I tell you that he lives Plainfield, dreams Plainfield, acts Plainfield, advertises Plainfield all of the time—that he will give to Plainfield all there is in him to give—that he expects to live his whole life among you—that he considers his own success as secondary to that of his home town—that he will always do everything he can to centre the support of the people of Plainfield in the business institutions of Plainfield.

¶ All he asks in return is his share of the business given to Plainfield merchants generally. And this share he will take care of by rendering satisfactory service—giving the people reliable merchandise, as well as a character of merchandise that cannot be excelled in any other community in the country.

¶ As I am Sam Rothberg for the moment, I want to tell you a few things that my heart prompts me to say.

¶ I moved into my permanent business home a few weeks ago. This was made possible only because of the assistance of men who believe in me. It illustrates the fine co-operative spirit of Plainfield. There are men here ready to help their fellow citizens. That contributes to the development of this community. Personally, I am very appreciative and very grateful.

¶ To go back as proprietor to the building in which I worked for ten and one-half years learning the business of outfitter to men—is a sentimental gratification to me as well as an inspiration to be of greater service. It adds more responsibilities, but additional responsibilities are always an incentive to greater achievement.

¶ The support given me by the people of Plainfield is most encouraging. My business has grown very substantially in the past fourteen months.

¶ A little over a year ago, I printed an advertisement in the Plainfield newspapers which helped people to form a better idea of what I am trying to do in a business way. It increased my business. It also helped other merchants, because it influenced many Plainfield people to think more seriously about buying their necessities from Plainfield merchants.

¶ I recall a telephone message which came to me immediately after the appearance of the advertisement, which said:

¶ "Sam, I am more convinced than ever that I should do my buying in Plainfield. I am going to start right away by buying a top-coat from you."

¶ He came to my store and bought the coat. It pleased him. It gave him style and quality and wore well. The coat did all that was claimed for it and he has been a regular customer of my store ever since.

¶ The many evidences of appreciation that I receive from customers encourages me to keep my stock of Men's Wearing Apparel up to high-water mark in quality.

¶ The best to be had in the ready-to-wear-market is none too good for Plainfield men. In selecting merchandise for my customers, I take counsel of manufacturers who are well known creators of styles—whose methods preclude all possibility of the production of inferior qualities.

¶ The merchandise I sell is always standard and mostly trade-marked. I like to feel that my own guarantee to customers is backed up by that of reputable manufacturers. There is never any doubt in my mind about the service that the merchandise I sell will give to customers.

¶ My initials—S. R.—while standing for Sam Rothberg, also stand for STYLISH-RELIABLE as applied to all articles of men's wear that I sell, and I do sell "most things men wear."

¶ Those of you who know my store intimately must appreciate that there is something beside "business" in its atmosphere. There is not everlastingly dominant but one interest—a desire to sell you something and then dismiss you. No, there is something more than that back of the business I am building.

¶ My conception of business is to make people feel at home in my store—to let them take all of the time they wish in looking over my stock—to help them with suggestions—to assist them in selecting wisely—and, above all, to so satisfy them that they will always want to come back.

¶ My stock is very complete always. It must measure up to a high standard. The prices are adjusted on a basis to give me a fair business profit, and they are maintained to all alike.

¶ I sell a suit at $12 that is the very best to be had at that price in any store anywhere in any big or little community.

¶ The same thing is true of a suit at $25, or any other price.

¶ No matter what you buy from me, please remember that its quality, its style, its service, are all guaranteed.

¶ I really do not understand any policy but one, and that is—never take advantage of customers and try to sell them "something just as good."

¶ I usually have in stock what my customers want. If I have not, I will get it for them. I try to anticipate the tastes of Plainfield men. I see most of them from time to time. I try to determine what they like, and what looks well on them, and I complete my stocks accordingly. No man can trust his own judgment as to what other men want to wear—a consensus of opinion is what counts.

¶ The business man in a community like Plainfield has an advantage over the business man in a big community. He knows most of the people in his home town. He is more familiar with the things that appeal to them. He is better able, in consequence, to select his stock so that it more completely meets the requirements of individual customers.

¶ I am trying to conduct a personal service business—to study the wishes of my customers—and to always have in stock a sufficient variety of styles to satisfy their ideas and tastes.

¶ My business address is 206 WEST FRONT STREET, where I will be glad to see you at any time.

¶ This ends my impersonation and interpretation of Sam Rothberg.

Now, let me say something to you Plainfield folks that I hope will sink deep: If every one of you do your part in standing by Plainfield as a city, by making more of it than a mere place in which to eat and sleep--by taking real civic pride in its development--by spending with your home merchants a greater portion of your income--by supporting your banks and trust companies, building and loan associations, etc.--you will encourage your fellow citizens to do more than they are now doing to put Plainfield on the map, not as a suburb of New York, but as a progressive, individual community with a fine reputation for progress and enterprise. I want to repeat what I said in a page advertisement I wrote for Sam Rothberg last year: When you go anywhere and register in any hotel in a resort or city where business or pleasure may take you, be proud enough of your home town to register--"John Jones, Plainfield, N. J." and not "John Jones, New York City."

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

N. P. H. S. ALUMNI TILT ON TOMORROW

Annual Affair Will Begin at 3:30 O'clock on Hyde Oval.

Ten North Plainfield High School graduates, representing classes from 1906 to 1914, will don baseball togs tomorrow afternoon and face the borough High School team at Hyde Oval. Many of the oldtimers who will be seen in action have not touched a ball for years, while others have been playing and are in good condition. The Alumni nine has bested the boroughites in the annual game for the past four years.

Three members of last year's High School team will play, but the battery has not yet been decided upon. Bailey will do the backstop work. Stahl will do mound duty for the school team and Miller will probably handle the indicator. The teams will probably line up as follows:

N. P. H. S.—VanMater, rf; VanDeventer, cf; Dilts, ss; Hebert, lf; Conroy, 2b; Townley, 3b; Meade, 1b; Smalley, c; Stahl, p.

FORTIETH COLLEGE MEET.

Philadelphia, May 28—For the 40th anniversary meet of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America, which began this afternoon on Franklin Field, the executive committee has provided a new silver trophy cup which cost nearly $1,000. The cup stands 2½ feet high, and in design is similar to the one which Cornell permanently won last year. The new cup is the third given by the association, the other two having been won by Yale and Cornell. There is keen competition in the camps of the athletes gathered here to see which college will have the honor of having its name first inscribed on the new trophy. The meet promises to develop new records, for the various preliminary meets have all been fast.

ALLOWED ONE HIT.

George Eddy, George Townley's pitching partner on the Springfield Training School baseball team, only allowed the Vermont team one hit at Springfield yesterday, and won a 4 to 0 verdict. Springfield made four bingles.

T. A. B. VS. GARWOOD.

A hot battle is anticipated at the Avon Park grounds tomorrow afternoon, when the Garwood A. A. and local T. A. B. nines will come together.

P. H. S. '16 TO PLAY.

The baseball team of the junior class of Plainfield High School is scheduled to meet the Dunellen Scout nine at Dunellen tomorrow afternoon.

CONSISTENT TENNIS GIVES DOUBLES MATCH TO VETERAN ALEXANDER-HACKETT COMBINE

Witnessed by one of the largest galleries of tennis enthusiasts that ever saw an important match in this city, Harold Hackett and Fred B. Alexander took three out of four sets of stirring doubles from Watson M. Washburn and Dean Mathey by scores of 6-1, 8-6, 4-6 and 6-4. Hackett and Alexander, champions of the United States in 1907, 1908, 1909 and 1910, easily asserted their superiority in the opening set, and from that point until the ninth game of the third set, held the upper hand in a style that made them popular favorites. Dean Mathey, the Cranford boy, who, paired with George M. Church, played the world-famous duo of McLoughlin and Bundy for the championship of Newport last summer, was a team in himself, and had he had a partner of equal merit there is little likelihood but that he would have been on the bigger end of the score when the exhibition culminated. Good tennis under ideal weather conditions, was served up in all four sets. A slight breeze and the cold atmosphere on the crest of a hill made the setting of high order for the contestants, but was a trifle uncomfortable for the spectators.

Hackett and Alexander set the white sphere humming in a whirlwind fashion, taking every game but the third in the initial set, although three of the issues went to deuce, the first, fifth and sixth. Mathey and Washburn tightened up slightly in the latter stages of the set and forced the playing. In the second set a battle royal was staged, fourteen games being necessary to gain a two-point advantage for the winners of the opener. In repeating their triumph the former U. S. champions won the second, third, sixth, eighth, tenth, twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth sets, the third, seventh and thirteenth going to deuce. In the ninth a series of rapid-fire returns brought the crowd to its feet, and Mathey and his partner received a round of applause for their gameness in forcing the issue. An apparent let-up in the work of Hackett and Alexander gave the rival pair an opportunity to slip over a 6 to 4 victory in the third set, thus making a fourth essential.

After sending the U. S. title pair down to defeat in the third set, Washburn and Mathey started off at a speedy clip in the fourth, opening the set with a victory. This was followed by three successful defeats, and from that point until the finish the champions were well nigh invincible. The issue waxed warm in the latter stages, and every game was a hot combat.

Yesterday's exhibition was a case of two graduates of the old school of tennis lining up against a pair of less experienced notables of the coming generation. The playing of Hackett and Alexander indicated that they were well used to being paired up, and they took and received with a clock-like precision. Hackett, by his back court playing and smashes at the net, won point after point for his side, and his consistency, together with Alexander's cunning in the pinches, produced many sensational plays. Alexander shown with his speedy cuts, and his pretty placing caught the opposition off guard on numerous occasions. Even in the third set, when defeat was served up to them, the veteran duo performed in a steady, clean-cut and convincing style. From the time the first ball was hit until the tenth game of the fourth set was rolled off Hackett and Alexander maintained the same easy-going pace, and this feature baffled the younger racquet wielders. Hackett, who hails from Harvard College, exhibited much of the form that earned for him the captaincy of the American team that went to England in 1913 and brought back the Davis cup. Alexander, who has been ranked as high as No. 3, and who is at present at No. 8, possessed a rare ability to back up his partner and smash back Mathey's serves.

The Cranford player, who, by the way, sported the colors of Princeton not many years ago on the tennis court, labored under a disadvantage from start to finish. He was paired with a man who was playing indifferent and inferior tennis, and was forced to do the bulk of the battling himself. Washburn failed to impress the spectators as a player of sufficient strength to carry American standards on the team selected to go to San Francisco next month, under the leadership of R. N. Williams, 2d, to play the Pacific Coast men. In fact, if he played as he did in the opening set yesterday, the Eastern team will probably be overwhelmed. Early locating his territory as a weak spot, Alexander and Hackett made him a veritable target for cross-fire slams, and his bewilderment caused him to make many futile cracks that sent the ball into the net or to the outside of the chalk marks.

Mathey's serving was a feature of the afternoon. He was without a doubt the most consistent starter of balls, and he gained many points for his team by sending his spinners into the strikers at a clip that made returns impossible. Like Hackett, he attempted a number of ground shots while close to the net, but had little success in this department. His long suit was battling at close range, and his quickness and expertness at handling his racquet made him a hard man to exchange with. He relied little on his partner, and it was plainly evident in the third and fourth sets that he had set out to win single-handed, and this sudden change of attitude fell like a bomb into the oposition camp.

S. W. Merrihew, of the Plainfield Country Club, officiated at the match, and was also instrumental in bringing the performers to this city.

N. P. H. S. EXPLODES TWO WEEKS' SLUMP

Home Players Score 9 to 6 Victory Against Seton Hall.

The second game this season between North Plainfield High School and Seton Hall Preparatory School, of Orange, was played yesterday afternoon on Hyde Oval, and resulted in a 9-6 score in favor of the home players.

Oscar Dilts pitched his first full game of the season for the boroughites, and showed up well, allowing but eight scattered hits and passing but three men. He held the opposing team to one run up to the eighth inning, but slowed down in the last two sufficiently for the visitors to bring in three in the eighth and two in the ninth.

Townley and Dilts each secured two hits, and Dilts featured on the fielding side of the game with seven neat assists.

SAURER TEAM WILL PLAY NEWARK STARS

Game Scheduled to Be Played on Parker Field Tomorrow Afternoon.

Brit Martin's Saurer baseball team is due to meet the Newark All-Star outfit on Parker Field tomorrow afternoon. The aggregation that hails from the New Jersey metropolis comes with a fine "rep," and the local ballists will have to show their best in order to get away with the verdict.

This will be the second home game for the city champions, the initial tilt being a defeat at the hands of the strong Elizabeth A. A. Warry McLoughlin will occupy the mound, and all of the regulars, including Martin, will play. The Saurer positions will be filled by the following men: Pitcher, McLoughlin; catcher, Bergen; first base, Garretson; second base, Martin; shortstop, Jaeger; third, base, Strathern; left field, Wilson, center field, Miller; right field, Dixon.

S. S. LEAGUE RIVALS TO MEET TOMORROW

Hope Chapel and First Baptist Teams to Play at West End Avenue Field.

Old Sunday School League rivals are due to hook up tomorrow afternoon when the First Baptist and Hope Chapel teams come together on the West End avenue field. This will be the first meeting of these aggregations this season. Dick Schott will occupy the mound for the Fourth street nine and will be opposed by Patterson or Ungaretti.

The lineups:

First Baptist—Savidge, lf; Patterson, rf or p; Beekman, 3b; Barnes, 2b; Randolph, 1b; Compton, c; Banks, cf; Downes, ss; Ungaretti, p.

Hope Chapel—Walls, 3b; Thorne, cf; Grisley, 2b; J. Heron, ss; E. Luthman, 1b; Hand, c; Overland, rf; T. Heron, lf; Schott, p; N. Luthman, p.

LOCAL TALENT WILL PLAY ON TRI-COUNTY CIRCUIT

Eugene Lidgate, of Fanwood, is scheduled to play with the Hackettstown team of the Tri-County Baseball League, in the opening game against Washington at the former place, tomorrow. Lidgate has been playing with the Hoboken team all season, but will get into faster company in this circuit. There will be a number of former Plainfield Pets playing on the Hackettstown aggregation, including Joe Marter, outfielder; Bill Stallings and Wally Cosgrove, one time captain of the Plainfield team. Stallings has been playing first base on the same team with Lidgate.

Two players who are also known to local fans will play on the Washington team. They are "Red" Grimes, the sensational outfielder of the old Somerville team, and Ed Conti, who covered third base for Bound Brook at one time. Tommy Mullin, of this city, may cover the shortstop position for the Washington club.

INTERSCHOLASTIC TENNIS.

The tennis teams of North Plainfield High School and Leal School will meet in their second interscholastic encounter of the season on the courts of the Park Club, on Washington avenue, tomorrow morning, at 9:30 o'clock.

PARKS' HOME GAME.

The Park Avenue Baptist baseball team will meet the Saurer Juniors, at Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon, at 3:30. Van Zandt and Moulton will be the battery for the home team.

P. C. C. GOLF MATCH.

The married men and bachelors are scheduled to play a match at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow afternoon.

MILE RELAY WAS FEATURE OF MEET

Seniors Win Event in Interclass Athletic Contest on Parker Field.

In the P. H. S. annual interclass athletic meet, held at Parker Field yesterday afternoon, the junior class won out over the seniors by taking the mile relay race. All the events were closely contested and some very good times and jumps were recorded. This meet was held as a practice event for the athletes who intend to enter the Central New Jersey meet on Decoration Day.

Runyon, Peacock and Daniels were the main point winners for their classes, getting the first, second and third medals in the order named. The mile relay was the feature of the meet. Upon this rested the class decision and the banner. The Juniors won the run and the Seniors came in third.

The summaries:

100-yard dash—Peacock, '15, first; Runyon, '16, second; Schenck, '16, third; time, 10 4-5 seconds.

220-yard dash—Peacock, '15, first; Schenck, '16, second; Jeter, '18, third; time, 25 seconds.

440-yard run—Daniels, '17, first; Peacock, '15, second; P. MacDonough, '17, third; time, 55 seconds.

880-yard run—Daniels, '17, first; P. MacDonough, '17, second; Trowbridge, '16, third; time, 2 minutes 14 1-5 seconds.

Running high jump—Runyon, '16, first; Peacock, '15, second; Daniels, 17, third; height, 5 feet 2 inches.

Running broad jump—Runyon, '16, first; Daniels, '17, second; Peacock, '15, third; distance, 20 feet 11 inches.

12-pound shot put—Chamberlain, '15, first; Runyon '16, second; Daniels, '17, third; distance, 34 feet 2 inches.

Hammer throw—Chamberlain, '15, first; Peacock, '15, second; Schenck, '16, third.

Pole vault—Runyon, '16, first; Franke, '17, second; Greene, '15, third; height, 10 feet 6 inches.

Discus throw—Runyon, '16, first; Rosenson, '15, second; Peacock, '15, third; distance, 128 feet.

Mile run—Daniels, '17, first; O'Donnell, '18, second; Schenck, '16, third; time, 5 minutes 58 3-5 seconds.

The classes' points scored follows: 1916, 38 points; 1915, 36 points; 1917, 30 points; 1918, 2 points.

The individual points scored follows:

INSIDE A VOLCANO

Looking Down Into Kilauea's Lake of Boiling Lava.

LIKE A PIT OF LIQUID FIRE.

A Play of Flaming Colors So Dazzling in the Darkness of the Vast Crater That It Terrifies the Spectator—A Veritable Fountain of Fire.

According to all the rules of school geographies, a volcano ought to be situated on top of a mountain; it ought to throw out stones and ashes and molten lava; its crater should be in the shape of an inverted cone, and should emit terrifying noises; periodically it should overwhelm a village or two. Kilauea, on the island of Hawaii, conforms to none of these specifications. It has thrown out neither stones nor ashes since it annihilated the army that was marching against Kamehameha, almost a hundred and fifty years ago. It retains its lava within its own crater, which is not shaped like an inverted cone. The sides are from 100 to 700 feet high and 7 85 miles in circumference, and the floor covers 2,650 acres. The volcano seldom makes terrifying noises—at least of the kind heard in imagination by a schoolboy. Thousands of people descend into the crater annually, and not one has ever been injured.

The walk across the floor of the crater, about two and one-half miles, is over a hard lava bed, more or less up and down, since lava hardens quickly and remains as it flowed, in great ropes and ripples. A few yards from shore—one comes naturally to call the bank "shore"—a ragged crack is crossed by a wooden bridge. At the time this crack opened, a large party was in the crater. They stayed long because they were delighted with the unusual activity of the lake and had no idea that this activity extended beyond the pit of fire until at last they started to go back to the hotel.

It was night, and as they approached the northern bank of the crater their lanterns suddenly revealed a huge fissure directly across their path. Already molten lava was bubbling up at the bottom. They followed the edge of the crack, keenly conscious, undoubtedly, as they turned to keep parallel with the crater wall, that they were on the inner edge. At last they found a spot where the lava had split unevenly, leaving a projecting ledge on which it was possible to stand, and so to jump to the other side. The whole experience, with the thought of sinking to the fires beneath or of being overwhelmed by the lava slowly rising in the fissure and the utter helplessness of their situation, was enough to test the most fearless.

Kilauea is really an enormous quiescent crater with an active inner pit. This cavity is, perhaps, 1,000 feet across, and its precipitous sides lead down to a lake of molten lava several acres in extent, sometimes higher, sometimes lower in the pit. This is Halemaumau, which is commonly translated (although incorrectly), "the house of everlasting fire." It is certainly the house of the goddess Pele.

By daylight the lake of fire is a greenish yellow, cut with ragged cracks of red that look like pale streaks of stationary lightning across its surface. It is restless, breathing rapidly, bubbling up at one point and sinking down at another; throwing up sudden fountains of scarlet molten lava that play a few minutes and subside, leaving shimmering mounds that gradually settle to the level surface of the lake, turning brown and yellow as they sink. As darkness comes, the colors on the lake grow so intense that they almost hurt the eyes. The fire is not only red; it is blue and purple and orange and green. Blue flames shimmer and dart about the edges of the pit, back and forth across the surface of the restless mass. Sudden fountains paint blood red the great plume of sulphur smoke that rises constantly.

Sometimes the spurts of lava are so violent, so exaggerated by the night, that one draws back terrified lest some atom of their molten substance should spatter over the edge of the precipice. Sometimes the whole lake is in motion. Waves of fire toss and battle with each other and dash in clouds of bright vermilion spray against the black sides of the pit. Sometimes one of these sides falls in with a roar that echoes back and forth, and mighty rocks are swallowed in the liquid mass of fire that closes over them in a whirlpool, like water over a sinking ship.

Again everything is quiet; a thick scum forms over the surface of the lake, dead, like the scum on the surface of a lonely forest pool. Then it shivers. Flashes of fire dart from side to side. The center bursts open, and a huge fountain of lava twenty feet thick and fifty feet high streams into the air and plays for several minutes, waves of blinding fire flowing out from it, dashing against the sides until the black rocks are starred all over with bits of scarlet. All sensations are submerged in a sense of awe. This vision of the earth building forces at work is a picture so overpowering that it is burned into the memory for all time.—"Hawaii, Past and Present."

BLUNDERS IN BATTLE.

Cases Where Troops Have Fired Upon Their Own People.

It was at Beacon hill during the Boer war that there happened one of the saddest incidents in the history of the British army. The East Surrey were in a hollow between two hills creeping up the valley. The West Surrey regiment, half a mile away, caught sight of the crouching figures and took them for Boers.

In a moment a heavy volley rang out, and it was not until an officer, realizing the mistake, rushed out in front of the West Surreys that the firing ceased.

A nurse, writing afterward from the Estcourt hospital, said it was pitiful to see the West Surreys coming in one after another, bringing cigarettes, dainties, any present they could find, for the wounded men, then, hearing their groans, turn away, saying: "God forgive us! This is our work!"

One of the strangest cases of troops firing upon their own people occurred in Roumania in the year 1885. At that time Roumania was in a very disturbed condition, and bands of robbers—regular banditti—prowled over the country, raiding the villages and farms. The largest of these bands made its headquarters in the forest of Rhodope and gradually increased until it became 300 strong. It spread terror through the whole countryside, and at last the government sent a body of troops to hunt it down.

The robber band was located on top of a mountain, and the colonel in command of the troops split his forces and sent half up each side so as to attack from two points simultaneously.

A thick fog fell, and the robbers took advantage of it to sneak away quietly by a path known only to themselves. The troops, unaware of this maneuver, continued their ascent, and the two bodies, each crawling along under cover of rocks and brushwood, met at the top. They at once opened fire and fought desperately for a whole hour before the mistake was discovered. Eighty were killed and 300 wounded.—Philadelphia Ledger.

GOOD NATURED ELEPHANTS.

Peculiarities of Some of the Herds of West Africa.

In 1905 I found myself near the Inzia river, an important affluent of the Kwilu, flowing through a fertile region which is infested by herds of elephants, a source of constant anxiety and frequent losses to the inhabitants.

In a country like this, where he is not hunted by man in the ordinary way and the only means for his destruction are cruel but easily avoided pitfalls, the elephant is decidedly good natured. We were told by the mission boys at Pana that in the rainless season, when their usual haunts are dried up, the elephants frequently wander near the river and attack the plantations. The natives try to drive them away with sticks!

"But it is no good hitting them or throwing stones at them," I was told. "They generally refuse to take any notice. Sometimes a mother with a calf will turn on us and chase us for a hundred yards or so, but no real harm is meant and the animal is not really angry, for all the signs of fury—spread ears and raised trunk—are absent. All the same, we do run away, although we know there is no danger. One day a boy fell when thus pursued, but the elephant only threw sand on him."

As I have myself seen a man just pushed out of the way by one of these good natured monsters, when the animal had more than enough provocation to kill him, I was inclined to accept this account as true.—Wide World Magazine.

Poaching an Egg.

The food value of an egg is enormous, but an invalid tires of eggs served in the ordinary way. Here is a method involving some trouble, but worth it for the sick person's sake. Break an egg into a flat dish of cold water and let it remain covered with muslin for twelve hours. Then pour the water off very gently indeed, so as to prevent the egg going with it. Now poach the latter in boiling water, adding just a tiny pinch of salt. This, nicely served, can be eaten by any one, for it melts in the mouth literally. Two might be cooked, for done in this way one egg is not much.—Buffalo News.

Devilfish.

Devilfish weighing up to 200 pounds are sometimes caught in Japan. These fish are amphibious. They are often seen wabbling on their tentacles like giant spiders in search of patches of sweet potatoes. The natives kill them with clubs. In the water they are caught in jars lowered to the bottom, which the octopus enters, thinking them a good retreat from which to catch its food.

Proverb Didn't Apply.

Mrs. Brown was in the kitchen helping Nora, the cook, prepare supper.

"It's an old saying," she remarked to Nora, "that 'too many cooks spoil the broth.' What do you think?"

"Sure, mum," she replied, "there's nothing to worry about. There's only one cook here."—National Monthly.

One Way Only.

"I always pay as I go," remarked the careful individual.

"Lots of fellows do that who don't save enough to pay their way back," added the mere man.—Judge.

ATTRACTIVE EVENTS AT PARK GOLF CLUB

Season's Schedule is Announced Today by Golf the Committee.

The golf committee of the Park Golf Club today announced its principal schedule of events for the season, which includes play for the President's cup, the Spring and Fall championships, club championship, Oakwood cup, and in addition play for an Officers' challenge cup. Charles B. Morse is the chairman of the committee. The principal events and conditions follow:

President's cup, offered by C. W. McCutchen. Competition every Saturday and holiday, morning or afternoon, from May 8 to October 30. Club championship for the Hydewood cup, offered by Louis K. Hyde—Spring championship—qualifying round on May 29 and 31, first and succeeding rounds to be played on successive Saturdays.

Qualifying round of 36 holes, scratch medal play, open to all active and associate members. Competitors making eight lowest scores will qualify at match play, 18 holes, in the first round. Winners of the matches in the first round will qualify for match play, 18 holes, in the semi-finals and winners in the semi-finals will qualify for final round match play, 36 holes.

Fall championship — qualifying round on September 4 and 6, first and succeeding rounds on successive Saturdays. Conditions the same as Club championship—October 9 and for the spring championship.

16. Winners of the Spring and Fall championships will meet in a round of 36 holes, scratch, match play.

Officers' challenge medals—qualifying round May 29 and 31. Challenge matches will be played on Saturdays and holidays up to and including November 2. Qualifying round of 18 holes, scratch, medal play, open to teams of active or associate members whose combined handicaps shall be at least 36. Team with lowest "best ball" score will be the first holders of the medals.

Oakwood cup, offered by Louis K. Hyde, competition on any Saturday or holidays, between May 29 and November 2, selected scores, scratch, medal play, 18 holes, made on any day of play.

Holiday cup, Memorial Day, members' handicap competition, 18 holes, medal play. Approaching and putting contest, mixed couples, open to members and guests.

TELLIER AND REID ON P. C. C. COURSE

Louis Tellier, of the Canoe Brook Club, and Wilfred Reid, the new Seaview professional, who will meet "Marty" O'Loughlin, of the Plainfield Country Club, and "Jack" Hobens, the Englewood "pro," in a thirty-six hole match on the local links tomorrow afternoon, went over the course yesterday afternoon, familiarizing themselves with the line of playing and incidently indulging in their final workout before the big match, which will be contested for a purse offered by P. C. C. members. Reid and Tellier both exhibited rare form and their playing was the subject of considerable commendation from a large "gallery" of enthusiasts. No cards were kept.

Hobens expects to arrive in Plainfield this afternoon, and will go over the course with his Plainfield teammate. "Marty" is instilled with plenty of optimism and said yesterday that he was playing better at the present time than he has at any other time in his career. Sunday he did the course in sixty-nine, which is considered excellent when the condition of the links on that date is considered.

The morning round of play will start at 10 o'clock and the afternoon round at 2:30 o'clock. All of the players are widely known and the match will probably attract many spectators.

ENJOYED AN OUTING.

The Young People's Society of the German Reformed church enjoyed an outing last night, the destination of the trip being Saengerbund Grove. Twenty-five members of the society accompanied A. W. Hauck, who led the party. Refreshments were served, the cooking being done over camp fires which the young people built.

NO PAPER MONDAY.

Following the usual custom, the Daily Press will not be published on Monday next, in observance of Decoration Day. The business office will be closed all day, except for the posting of baseball scores. 5 28 2

FOUR BOROUGH MATCHES.

Four contestants took part in the borough one-man tourney last night, and some good matches were rolled. Miller, Snyder, George Conover and Jack Connolly rolled with the following results:

Miller	139	122	155
Snyder	156	167	124
Snyder	151	179	153
G. Conover	162	147	177
Miller	118	168	153
Conshay	126	155	103
Connolly	161	146	150
G. Conover	186	147	147

FUNERAL OF JOSEPH NELSON.

The funeral of Joseph Nelson, who died suddenly Tuesday morning from heart failure, was held yesterday afternoon at the undertaking parlors of G. W. Cole & Son, 200 West Second street. The service was in charge of Rev. E. C. Conover and was attended by a gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was made in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery. Mr. Nelson's only surviving relative, his sister, Mrs. Mary Gardner, of Auburndale, Mass., was unable to attend the funeral on account of serious illness.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield branch of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage will be held in the rooms of the Public Library, Wednesday morning, June 2, at 10:30. The election of officers will be held at that time, and the yearly reports of the various officers and committees received.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

HOW SAVINGS GROW.

Ben Franklin's Proof That "Money Is of a Prolific Nature."

After publishing his "Poor Richard's Almanac" for twenty-five years and giving thirty-two years more as thrift teacher of his country Benjamin Franklin put into his will a provision to demonstrate the power of accumulated savings.

To the cities of Boston and Philadelphia he left $5,000 each. The money was to be put out at interest and allowed to accumulate for a hundred years. At the end of that time, he figured, each city ought to have $650,000. He directed that at the end of the hundred years $500,000 should be invested by each city "in public works which may be of most general utility to the inhabitants." The rest should then be put at interest for another hundred years, when the accumulation should be divided, one-quarter to the city and three-quarters to the state.

When the first hundred years were past Boston found that she had $660,923 to her credit from the Franklin fund. Taking $500,000, Boston established a training school for mechanics. The remaining $163,923 was put out at interest again.

Philadelphia's experience with the original fund of $5,000 was about the same as Boston's.

Now, Franklin figured that at the end of the second hundred years, when the fund is to be distributed, each fund ought to amount to about $20,000,000. But Boston's fund at the end of the first hundred years exceeded Franklin's estimate by $13,923. So here's a problem:

If Boston handles the fund as successfully in the second hundred years as she did in the first how much in excess of $20,000,000 will it be?

Franklin's demonstration was impressive: $5,000 will go into $663,923 how many times? Nearly 133 times. Wasn't he amply justified when he said, "Money is of a prolific nature."

What sort of a demonstration can you make?—John Oskison in Chicago News.

THE LAWYER'S FABLE.

It Took the Sting Out of His Opponent's Florid Oratory.

A barrister who was possessed of an abnormally loud voice was making an eloquent address to a jury. His case was fairly strong; he was much in earnest, and his trumpet tones made the rafters ring. In a hurricane of sound he closed his argument and sat down. The jury looked serious and thoughtful and were evidently much impressed. The opposing barrister had a face like a hatchet and a thin low voice—the exact opposite of his learned friend. When it became his turn to address the jury he began:

"As I listened to the rather thunderous appeals of my learned friend I recalled a fable which I heard in my youth. A lion and an ass entered into a compact to slay the beasts of the field and share the spoil. They divided the work; the ass was to go into the thicket and bray and frighten the animals out, while the lion was to lie in wait and kill the fugitives as fast as they appeared. Well, the ass sought the darkest part of the jungle and, lifting up his awful voice, brayed and brayed and brayed. There never was heard such a fearful din.

"The ass was quite intoxicated with his own uproar and thought he'd return to see what the lion thought of it. With a light heart he went back and found the lion looking doubtfully about him, pale in the face and trembling in every limb. 'What do you think of that for braying?' said the exultant ass. 'Don't you think I scared them?' 'Scared them?' repeated the lion in an agitated tone. 'Why, you'd have scared me if I didn't know you were a jackass!'"—London Graphic.

The Kings of Denmark.

The dust of the Danish kings is kept in a great cathedral at Roskilde, an old town twenty miles from Copenhagen. Every year the entire royal family always pay a visit to Roskilde in obedience to an ancient custom. On one of the pillars are marks showing the height of Peter the Great, Nicholas, the Iron Czar; Alexander III. of Russia, the king of England and many other kings. The cathedral was built in the eleventh century. It has two mighty towers, which can be seen at a long distance. The oldest grave is that of King Harold I., who died in 987.

Feeding by Law.

A law to punish by imprisonment persons found guilty of overfeeding was actually promulgated in France during the reign of Charles IX. when the cost of living reached an unprecedentable height. It was then ordained that no person should eat more than three courses at a meal, the amount to be served at each course being also prescribed. Heavy fines were imposed for any breach of this law.—Pall Mall Gazette.

J. D. SPICER IS EIGHTY-ONE TODAY

One of Plainfield's Former Business Men Observing His Natal Anniversary.

Joseph D. Spicer, of West Fifth street, who is one of Plainfield's oldest and best-known citizens, is today quietly observing the eighty-first aniversary of his birth. Although the fact is known to but few of his friends, he has been in receipt of congratulations from many places, and scores more will be extended when the event becomes known.

Mr. Spicer was born at Hopkinton, R. I., on May 28, 1834, his family having been prominent in that section for several generations. He came to Plainfield in 1865, and in the fall of that year, with his brother-in-law, Richard A. Ross, started at Madison avenue and West Third street, what was afterward one of the largest planing and scroll sawing mills in this section. Madison avenue was then known as Mechanic street, and the original building is still on the corner, having recently been occupied as a portion of the Spicer Manufacturing Company's factory. When Mr. Spicer first opened up his planing business a part of the building was used as a grist mill, and many of the older farmers in the suburbs of Plainfield brought their products to it.

In 1867 the mill was rented to Joseph A. Hubbard, E. W. Thall and Thomas A. Rogers, who continued the business, while Spicer & Ross removed to South Bound Brook. Mr. Ross is still located at the latter place. Another change brought Mr. Spicer back to Plainfield in 1870, when he formed a partnership with Joseph A. Hubbard, under the firm name of Spicer & Hubbard, which prospered and grew rapidly until March, 1900, when Mr. Hubbard withdrew. Mr. Spicer continued operating the mill alone for aonther month, when he met with an accident that almost cost him his life, and which forced him to retire from business activity. There are hundreds of Daily Press readers who will recall the mishap. Mr. Spicer, in company with John D. Runyon, then manager of the Boice Runyon Company, was walking along a balcony built over the entrance way of the Park avenue lumber yard. The weight of the men caused the supports to give way and both were hurled to the ground, a distance of about twenty feet. Mr. Runyon died from his injuries three days later, while Mr. Spicer was confined to his bed for several months. He finally recovered sufficiently to get about, but found it impossible to successfully manage his mill, and disposed of it in 1901. The building was rented for several years by the William H. Rogers Silver Plating Company, and later was purchased by the Spicer Manufacturing Company, the present owner, and since that time Mr. Spicer has led a retired life. He still lives in the house he built in 1872 at West Fifth street and Arlington avenue. He is still able to enjoy outdoor life, and thoroughly enjoys a daily walk about town, which affords him an opportunity to exchange topics of the day with his old friends.

Of the 145 business men, excluding those in professional circles, who were conducting places in Plainfield at the time Mr. Spicer came here, ten beside himself are now living. These are: William H. Shotwell, John Darling, J. A. Hubbard, Charles H. Randolph, Richard A. Ross, William G. Morse, Abraham Angleman, Guillermo Thorn, J. W. Codington and Harrison Codington.

SYSTEM IN OPERATION HERE SEVERAL MONTHS

Telephones on every table in the store, so that patrons may telephone orders to the desk, is the scheme adopted in a Western confectionery to give quick service. Patrons who wish ice cream or soda sit down at any table and promptly telephone their wishes to the order clerk at a central desk. This clerk writes the order on a slip and records the number of the table from which the call came. The order is then filled and delivered by a waiter.

The same telephones are available for calls through the city telephone exchange; and it is not uncommon for a person at one telephone to have a conversation by wire with some friend at another table in the other end of the store.

The above story appeared in last week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post, but the writer evidently did not know that Plainfield is just as progressive as the Western part of the country. For several months a similar system has been in operation at The Ritz confectionery on West Front street, where it has given entire satisfaction.

THE MASTER MIND

CHAPTER XVIII.

A Lunatic.

AT that name the three criminals blanched and trembled. Abruptly, then, they knew why it was that they had been so subservient to the man of mystery—it was the inevitable tribute of the outlaw to the chief, the instinctive yielding of homage from their kind to the supreme in crime. It never occurred to them to doubt the truth of his revelation. Wainwright had avoided any explanation to them concerning Andrew's identity.

"Don't be frightened by a name," he cried, sharply. "Why, you're as silly as children scared by the bogey man. He has determined already to throw you to the wolves. But if you still stand by me, between us we shall send him where he can no longer injure you or me or any other human being."

It was evident that the force and conviction with which Wainwright presented his plea were not without a considerable effect on the alarmed trio.

"It is really a farce," Andrew said. "And you actually expect to do this thing, to dispose of me thus completely, with the aid of these persons here assembled—this imposing array?" He pointed scornfully at the trio of criminals, who winced despite their new access of courage. "Well truly I am interested," he continued, jeeringly, "I am, in fact, so much interested that I am disposed to give you all the assistance in my power. And let me add, Mr. Wainwright, that I await your pleasure in this proceeding with all the more anticipation of agreeable entertainment because I know out of my own experience how accustomed you are to dealing with crooks to further your own ends."

"I venture to promise that you will not be disappointed," Wainwright rejoined, with mordant emphasis. The entrance of Parker halted him, who said:

"Dr. Forbes is here, sir."

Now a little gleam of triumph shone in Wainwright's eyes, which Andrew, watching narrowly, detected.

"One moment, Parker," Wainwright directed. Then he regarded the Master

Marshall Moved to a Place Near the Door.

Mind for an instant contemplatively. "It is not yet too late for you to withdraw," he suggested. "I give you that option." Yet he had no hope of winning thus easily, and the result justified his lack of confidence, for Andrew ejaculated only a single word, insolently:

"Proceed!"

Andrew moved to an inconspicuous position by the wall across the room from Wainwright. His manner was wholly unconcerned, save for a mere flickering light of anticipation, which Lucene observed apprehensively. Marshall moved to a place near the door, in obedience to Wainwright's order. The others remained as they had been, but all exhibited something of new alertness, for now, at last, the crisis was come. Soon the door was opened by Parker, who stood aside to permit the entrance of Dr. Forbes. The physician advanced quickly to the master of the house, who, with Lucene, rose to greet him.

Dr. Forbes bowed acknowledgment of Lucene's invitation to a seat, as she herself returned to her chair, but he chose to remain standing, while he glanced about the room over the ill assorted group with an expression of professional expectancy.

"What is the trouble?" he questioned.

"As a matter of fact, doctor," Wainwright explained, "we've had rather a lively evening—or night, I might better say—here in the house. The thing has been a bit bothersome, taking it first and last. I shall give you the full details as to all that has occurred in due course; but now it would take too much time. The upshot of the whole matter is that we've got a lunatic in our usually quiet and respectable home. Naturally, we want you to take him off our hands."

"A lunatic, eh?" he said. "I had hardly anticipated anything of the sort, since I have some acquaintance with you all. Some stranger, I suppose."

Wainwright shook his head emphatically.

"No," he said decisively, "not a stranger—not by any means a stranger." He raised his arm and pointed toward Andrew. "There he is!"

The physician's first astonishment now became an unqualified amazement, as his eyes followed the direction indicated by his friend's gesture.

"What—Andrew?" he demanded.

Wainwright nodded regretfully.

"Yes," he said.

Andrew himself was standing motionless, in a posture of particular humility. His eyes were downcast, his hands were clasped as if in mute appeal. The expression of his countenance was shamefaced, with a feeble, varying smile of deprecation. Dr. Forbes surveyed the unexpected patient for a full minute, scrutinizing the dejected attitude, the disconsolate face.

"Is he violent?" he asked first.

"Well, no; he hasn't shown any symptoms of a violent sort as yet," Wainwright admitted. "But, as is natural, I think Mrs. Wainwright is afraid he may get dangerous at any moment, and I must confess for my own part that I, too, feel nervous concerning the matter. Lucene has noticed that he has been acting very oddly for some days. I've been so busy with the work of my campaign that I failed to pay much attention to him myself. But the others of the family, being less occupied, have observed his peculiar actions, and tonight the thing came to a head."

"Ah, I see!" the physician remarked noncommittally. "Now, Cortland, I wish you to explain to me as accurately as your untrained mind will enable you to do the exact details of the disorder displayed by our unfortunate patient here."

"Why, as to that," was the answer, "the poor man seems to have the most extraordinary notions about the character of my wife's relatives. That would be strange enough by itself. But it is worse than that. His delusion even goes so far that he has the like monstrous ideas about my wife herself in spite of the fact that hitherto he has appeared devoted to her service, and there can be no doubt that he himself actually believes these absurd hallucinations. My brother-in-law, I believe, was the first to notice this feature of his insanity. Perhaps you would wish him to tell you himself." Wainwright fixed his glance imperatively on Walter and addressed him by name, with a veiled note of menace in his tones. "Please tell Dr. Forbes what Andrew said about you."

"Who, me?" she gasped.

"Oh," Walter explained jauntily. "I've noticed the old chap looking kind of queer for several days now!" He turned toward Blount boyishly. "You remember my speaking to you about it, don't you, dad?"

"Why, yes, son!" he replied. "Now, let me see, that was"— He paused meditatively as if searching his memory.

"It was the day before yesterday at luncheon. I spoke of it as soon as Andrew was out of the room," Walter declared glibly.

Blount grunted affirmatively.

"That's right, son," he agreed. "That was the time you spoke of it, and then you had it out with him, you know."

"Yes," Walter resumed. "Why, he actually had the nerve to accuse me—me of being a jewelry thief!"

"Indeed!" Forbes ejaculated.

"Yes, and what's more," Walter added, encouraged by his success thus far and becoming recklessly audacious, "he had the collosal nerve to say he knew I had done time in Sing Sing."

"Um! Singular!" the physician commented.

"He said things to dad too. Tell what he said to you, dad."

Blount crowded back his fears.

"Why," he exclaimed, "the fellow called me a bank burglar!"

"Most extraordinary!" Forbes declared.

Blount shot a glance toward his wife. "You heard him, Sadie," he said, with a significant inflection.

Mrs. Blount, standing beside Lucene's chair, started.

"Who, me?" she gasped, alarmed.

Blount scowled at her.

"Yes, you! I say you heard him. Didn't you? Sure you did—sure you did!"

When she observed the mandatory stare of her husband she deemed it the part of prudence to do his implied bidding.

"Oh, yes—I remember now," she said airily in her rich voice, in which was no tremor. "Sure I heard him. And you just ought to have heard what he called me. The very idea!" Her face set in lines of virtuous indignation. "Oh, doctor, really it was too terrible! Why, he had the audacity to say that I was a—a shoplifter from Milwaukee! And all I ever knew about Milwaukee was what I've read in the beer advertisements!" she exclaimed again indignantly.

FOR A LITTLE GIRL OF SIX.

A quaint little poke shape of the old-fashioned leghorn has been simply trimmed to produce this bewitching little bonnet for a child of six. The only trimming for this is black velvet ribbon used as a band about the hat, passing under the chin to be tied with loops and ends at the left side. Bunches of arbutus with feathery foliage trim the outside of the hat and one little bunch is tucked under the brim against the hair on the left.

MODISH GIRL'S DRESS.

No. 8446.

Very modish, indeed, have been the many designs brought out this year for young girls. Particularly do the high waists become the innate daintiness and innocence of these small bits of feminine humanity. One of these dresses, cut by Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8446, epitomizes the new styles at once conservatively and delightfully. The slightly raised waistline smacks of the so-called popular Empire dresses and harmonizes very nicely with the rest of the gown. The skirt is made in two pieces. Sizes 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12. Size 8 requires 1¾ yards 36-inch material.

DEDICATE COLLEGE GATE.

Hyattsville, Md., May 28.—The Founders' Gate at the Maryland Agricultural College and Experiment Station will be dedicated tomorrow. Officials of Maryland will attend, and Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of the Department of Agriculture, will speak on "The New Phases of Agriculture." A procession will form before the exercises and proceed to the new gate on the Baltimore-Washington boulevard. President Harry J. Patterson, of the college, will welcome the guests and accept the gate.

ORATOR FOR NEW CITIZENS.

White Plains, N. Y., May 28—Naturalization Day will be impressive in the sitting of Judge Morschauser of the Supreme Court today, for the justice has secured the services of an orator for the occasion. Colonel Ralph E. Prime, of Yonkers, the oldest member of the local bar association, will address the candidates for citizenship papers, on the history of the Stars and Stripes and the ideals of American citizenship.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How the Turtle Played Hide And Seek Snapped at Them Quite Angrily.

"I WILL tell you kiddies tonight how the turtle played hide and seek," said daddy to Jack and Evelyn, beginning the evening story.

"This turtle lived in a pond in the center of a meadow, and he had a lovely time, as turtles go. He used to sit on a log and sun himself and he would keep his round, beady eyes open for flies, and when they would come buzzing near him he would open his jaws and snap them up, just like that, quicker than you could say 'Jack Robinson.'

"This turtle was all covered with a hard shell, as turtles are, and he could pull himself all into his shell, as turtles can. This turtle's shell was very pretty, being spattered all over with bright yellow spots. Some turtles' shells are striped, you know, but this one was all spots.

"Sometimes the turtle would swim around in the clear water and have lots of nice fun and exercise, for turtles enjoy swimming more than people do, for it is their natural means of going about—that is, the water turtles. There are land turtles, too, but this story is about the water turtle who played hide and seek.

"This is how he came to do it: He swam from his log to the shore one day to see what he could see, and he climbed up on the green bank and looked about at the green grass and the green trees, and then along came some children, romping through the green meadows.

"And then the turtle began to play hide and seek. He stopped crawling, and when the children ran up to him with shouts of glee he gave them one look with his beady eyes, and then he drew all inside his shell so that all they could see of him was that shell with the pretty spots. And they poked his shell, and once in awhile he would push out his head and look at them, and he would draw it back just as quick. And he would run out a little claw and pull it back just as quick. And the children were very much amused.

"Then the kiddies thought it would be a fine thing to poke him gently from the bank into the water again and watch him swim. But when they tried that they discovered that the turtle had a mind of his own. He refused to be poked into the water and snapped at them quite angrily.

"By and by the children went away. And I think the turtle had as much fun as they did with the game of hide and seek.

"But now you kiddies are sleepy, and you must play hide and seek with the pillows," urged daddy, and the children scampered away.

By Mrs. Eva Leonard.

After Nell returned from the farm the lovely autumn days followed each other in peaceful succession. So great was the change that followed the exciting events of the summer that Nell said one day to her friend, "I really wish something would happen; Fairport is certainly dead."

"Happen," echoed Jo Parsons, "I should think you would be thankful for a respite from happenings."

"Oh, just something mildly pleasant to ruffle the monotony of the days," laughed Nell. "I certainly am grateful for the cessation of hostilities." The letter that came next day seemed like an answer to her wish.

"Oh, Dick," she exclaimed, waving the missive, "It's from Olive Dunn. She is coming to visit us. It seems ages and ages since I saw any of the girls and I care more for Olive than any of the others. She's coming to see my baby, she says. I can't believe it."

"Come here and quiet down," laughed Dick, seating himself and holding out his hand. "Let me read it. You are too excited to be reliable," and he drew her to his knee and read the joyful tidings.

"Next week. Good work! She couldn't come in a better time. The weather is cool enough to be comfortable. That's one thing this middle west can do for you in the way of climate—give glorious falls. Then the Scotts are still here and Mrs. Hutchison is gone; what more could you ask for?"

"I don't ask for anything but Olive. I must run over and tell Jo Parsons the news this afternoon, and we will plan what we can do for her entertainment."

It was a very excited, enthusiastic little woman that stood on the platform in front of the hideous old red depot, waiting for the train from the east. The sun was going down in an angry red. Only the leaves on the poplar trees quivered in the sharp still air.

"Why, Nell, you are trembling; are you cold?" asked Dick, taking her arm and walking her up and down the platform.

"No; only excited," she beamed up into his face. "You don't realize what this means to me. My early life was as completely cut away as if it had been an amputated arm or leg, and now I'm to see Olive. I wonder if she'll find me changed."

Dick put back his head and laughed, unmindful of the group of men leaning against the side of the depot.

"You needn't laugh, Dick Morton. No one could live through what I have the last eight months and be the same. Of course the change may not be noticeable, but I feel so much older. It seems as if I must look different."

"You are such an amusing little woman," he whispered, as they turned at the end of the long platform, "that I'd kiss you if it wasn't a public place."

"You'd better not," she laughed. "Oh, there comes the train," and they moved down the platform.

Only four passengers alighted, and Nell rushed up to a tall, dark girl, exclaiming, "Oh, Olive, it's you; it's really you!"

The girl held her off at arm's length. "What's Kansas been doing to my little friend? You're thin, Nell—and—and——"

"Oh, she is all right," interrupted Dick, shaking her cordially by the hand. "She just needs an old friend to put a little new life into her. Shall we walk up to the house? I blush to introduce you to the frowsy old buss. I'd rather guard you from breaking your bones on our board sidewalks." And they walked away, Nell holding tight to Olive's arm.

"JERSEY NEXT" IS SUFFRAGE SLOGAN

Men Send the Car "Voter" Through the State.

"New Jersey Next!" is not only the slogan of the unenfranchised half of the people of the state, but also the warcry of hundreds of New Jersey men who want their mothers and wives, their sweethearts and sisters, to walk side by side with them as citizens with equal rights.

The men of New Jersey have decided it is time they gave active help in the campaign to put New Jersey on the suffrage map. Accordingly, the Men's League For Woman Suffrage, of which Champlain L. Riley of Plainfield is president, has bought a little yellow car, which is to be used all over the state to reach the voters.

The car is to be manned by Miss Eva Ward, who is to act as field worker for the New Jersey Men's League. She is now setting forth on a lonely pilgrimage to cover as many of the twenty-one counties of the state as time and the auto will permit.

"We are calling the car 'Voter' because it has been given to the campaign of voters of the state," explained Miss Ward, "and we are interesting ourselves principally in the politicians. The editors of the New Jersey papers say that they want to know what the politicians are going to do about woman suffrage. So that's one thing we are going to try to find out. You see, 'Mohammed is going to the mountain.' Fortunately New Jersey is not too large a state to be covered. I am taking the 'Industrial Directory,' because as often as possible I am going to stop outside factory gates in lunch hours and talk to the men directly and give them literature. I don't mean to lose one single speechmaking chance.

"We are neutral on all questions but suffrage, and here we show our colors all the time, for 'Voter' has a brilliant yellow campaign dress. In each town on the tour there are men who stand for suffrage and who will help in the work of the campaign. The car will act as a kind of peripatetic office, carrying all the equipment for action, and I shall have to be at different times all of a secretary-chauffeur-typist-speaker organizer-reporter. The Men's League is cooperating with all the women's organizations, and we are hoping to do much useful scouting for them."

The league has many noted members, and numbers of leading politicians are among the active workers in the campaign, among them Attorney General Westcott, Sheriff Eugene Kinkead, Congressman Hamill, Senator Charles O'Connor Hennessy and the Hon. Everett Colby. Among the vice presidents are the Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman of Plainfield, Mayor Victor Mravlag of Elizabeth, ex-Governor John Franklin Fort of Orange, Colonel George Harvey, Linton Satterthwait of Trenton, the Rev. Edgar S. Weirs, Montclair; Jesse Lynch Williams, Princeton; Captain Albert N. Wood, U. S. N., retired; William Hard, Montclair, and John Cotton Dana of Newark.

LITTLE ANTI-ANTIDOTES.

Anti-suffrage.

"Women will either divide on issues in the proportion that men do, in which case they but double the vote without affecting the result, or they will vote in opposition to men, in which case they nullify men's votes."

Antidote.

John Smith will either vote as Bill Brown votes or he won't. If he votes as Bill does he merely doubles the vote. If he votes contrariwise to Bill he kills Bill's vote. Which shall be disfranchised, Bill or John?

Anti-suffrage.

"As to women voting, the situation," says Miss Lucy Price, "would be that of a business concern in which the partners' interests and work were exactly the same. If this were the case the business would soon fail."

Antidote.

Well, how would you like to be a partner in a business where your interests and work were exactly diverse from your partner's? If, for instance, he made gunpowder while you made nursing bottles? And specially how would you like it if, in this diversity of work and interests, he could have his say about how the business should be run and you had no say at all?

College Women Trouble the Antis.

It is now unusual to find educated women of the present generation who are opposed to the enfranchisement of their own sex, but suffragists were somewhat surprised when this was admitted by a leading anti-suffragist of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

This lady startled her audience recently by saying:

"Poughkeepsie has suffered from its proximity to a woman's college. The college students, who seem to be all suffragists, used to come over and demonstrate their enthusiasm in Poughkeepsie under the rule of President Taylor. Now that Dr. McCracken, an ardent suffragist himself, is in charge they keep their enthusiasm on the campus."

Labor Committed to Suffrage.

The American labor movement stands committed for equality of opportunity, for equal work, whether performed by men or women. It also stands for equal rights before the law, and that implies equal suffrage in the selection of those who shall administer and execute the law.—Samuel Gompers.

Moral Force, According to Edison.

From the laboratory of Thomas A. Edison comes this statement: "I beg to say that I am in favor of woman suffrage. Woman is by far the best of humanity, the greatest moral force in the world."

ONE IN EVERY FIVE.

One woman in every five in the United States already has the right to vote for president.

Will you add the women of New Jersey to this number in November?

A Consistent Mother to Her Son.

You're twenty-one today, Willie,
And a danger lurks at the door.
I've known about it always,
But I never spoke before.
When you were only a baby
It seemed so very remote,
But you're twenty-one today, Willie,
And old enough to vote.

You must not go to the polls, Willie,
Never go to the polls.
They're dark and dreadful places
Where many lose their souls;
They smirch, degrade and coarsen,
Terrible things they do
To quiet, elderly women—
What would they do to you!

If you've a boyish fancy
For any measure or man,
Tell me and I'll tell father,
He'll vote for it if he can.
He casts my vote, and Louisa's
And Sarah and dear Aunt Clo;
Wouldn't you let him vote for you?
Father, who loves you so?

I've guarded you always, Willie,
Body and soul from harm;
I'll guard your faith and honor,
Your innocence and charm
From the polls and their evil spirits,
Politics, rum and pelf.
Do you think I'd send my only son
Where I would not go myself?

—Alice Duer Miller.

Danish Women Win Full Suffrage.

On June 5 the king of Denmark will sign a bill conferring full suffrage on the women of Denmark.

For seven years all Danish women who are taxpayers have had a vote for all officers except members of parliament.

Equal suffrage spreads from one country to another in Europe as it spreads from state to state in our own country. The women of Norway have full suffrage, while there is an immense popular majority for equal suffrage in Sweden. Full suffrage in Sweden has been delayed only by the vote of the upper house, which is nonelective.

Equal Pay In Scotland.

Women are being employed on Glasgow tramcars run by the corporation's committee. The initial experiment had been so good that after hearing a report upon the women's work the general manager was instructed to go ahead and employ as many women as he found necessary. The women are being paid 27 shillings, same as the men, and the hours and general conditions are to remain as they were when men worked alone on the cars.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

CHIC PARISIAN FROCK.

Elaborate Afternoon Gown From Across the Waters.

BEAUTIFUL IMPORTED GARMENT.

In spite of the war Paris finds time to make wonderful frocks for the American importers, though Dame Rumor says her women are not wearing many gorgeous frocks during this terrible war. However, here is a sample of the handiwork of one great Parisian couturier who designs frocks even in the trenches.

Wavy goldenrod satin is draped in this instance with silk net which has an elaborate braiding of tan soutache. A girdle of the satin shows beneath the bolero bodice, which is also made of net and braided. Smart boots of two shades of tan leather are worn with this dress, and a parasol in blue and tan is carried. A hat of blue is trimmed with daisies, completing this interesting costume.

DOMESTIC KINKS.

New Methods Used in the Household Learned From Professionals.

Window washing is one of the tasks dreaded by many women, especially the outside of the windows, which are hard to reach. Notice the men who make a profession of window washing, who wash the windows of large stores, and see that they have developed several excellent washers, chief of them being the type which utilizes the so called rubber "squeegee" for drying the panes of glass.

This consists of a galvanized container of triangular box shape which will hold over a quart of water. At one edge of this box is fitted a pad of absorbent felt. At another edge is a rubber squeegee. The whole is equipped with a short metal handle, into which a long wooden handle is to be fitted. When in use the container is filled with water, to which are added a few drops of ammonia or alcohol. The pad is then allowed to soak and the whole device moved vertically up and down the window. When the window has been so washed the other edge of the device is turned toward the glass and the rubber squeegee used, which practically dries the panes of glass. This is the first device of the kind which adapts the commercial washer to the home.

Another kind of washer with points of advantage is a tonglike device fitted with bunches of chamois at each end. These are dampened and the tong fitted over the window casing so that one chamois operates on the outside, the other on the inside pane. This is particularly good in the upper stories, where it is dangerous to sit outside or impossible to reach the windows by any handled device. In cold weather either alcohol or kerosene will prevent water freezing as it is used on the windows.

GUEST ROOM FANCY.

While the careful hostess will not overload her guest room with a horde of useless trifles that will not fit any other place in the house, she will appreciate this latest novelty in a dainty guest room accessory and may hang it with a free conscience on the dressing table for her next feminine visitor. It is a light tinted chiffon bag, a shapeless affair gathered on to a ribbon covered embroidery hoop. In it are piled perhaps a dozen individual powder puffs of softest cotton. Each bit of fluffiness is tied with a piece of narrow ribbon of the color chosen for the bag, and a jaunty bow offers a comfortable way of holding the diminutive puff when in operation. The real practical value of such a dainty bag lies, of course, in the fact that a guest returning from various pleasure jaunts more or less soiled as to face and fatigued as to body will relish a clean bit of cotton for applying the refreshing bit of alcohol, powder or rouge.

—Classified advertising does not work miracles—it merely brings logical results. And these are more to be desired than miracles.

For the Children

Princess Marie, Daughter of the King of Belgium.

Probably not many American children will feel envious of Princess Marie, daughter of the king and queen of the Belgians. Until last August she was a care free, joyous little girl, but since the dreadful war broke out the people of Belgium have suffered greatly, as all little folks who are old enough to read already know. King Albert and Queen Elizabeth were forced to flee from their native land, and of course the royal children went with them. Princess Marie is the youngest of the family. She is only eight. She has two brothers, Prince Leopold, who is fourteen years of age, and Prince Charles, who is twelve. Prince Leopold, heir apparent to the throne, has recently joined the Twelfth Belgian infantry as a soldier. King Albert is fighting with his troops, while Princess Marie and her mother and other brother are living in France.

Trade Pantomimes.

This is a variation of the old game of "dumb crambo." The players divide themselves into two parties, called "the masters" and "the men."

After consultation the men agree upon some trade or occupation which they are to illustrate in dumb show. The masters must guess from their motions what trade they have chosen, and to help them in this they are told the first and last letters of the word describing it.

For instance, the men decide upon the word "gardener," and, giving the letters "g" and "r," they stand in line, and each performs a gardener's work —planting seeds, mowing with a scythe, digging with a spade, weeding, watering, etc. Not a word is spoken and but one guess allowed to each master. If one guesses correctly the men "lose their job." If no one discovers the trade the word is told and they proceed to act something else. If the masters fail twice to guess the word the men "strike" and "quit work." The masters then become the men and must take their turn at pantomime.

"What Am I Doing?"

Six, seven, eight or more players take their seats in a straight row. Behind them the person chosen to lead the game takes his stand. Placing himself exactly behind the player seated on the top chair, he then begins to conduct himself in the most absurd manner possible—for instance, making some ridiculous grimace, shaking his fist or any other comical antic that may suggest itself to him. After doing this for a minute or two he says to the player seated before him, "What am I doing?" Should the unfortunate individual be unable to answer correctly he must stand up and, until permission be given him to desist, must imitate in silence the antics the nature of which he was unable to discover. More frequently than not the guesses are quite wide of the mark; consequently the spectacle is most laughable when five or six of the company are all occupying the enviable position above described.

To Take Impressions of Plants.

Burn a common cork till reduced to a powder, add a teaspoonful of olive oil, mix into a thick paste. Now paint the veiny side of the leaf with camel's hair or black sable brush, lay the leaf carefully on a piece of clean paper, painted side down, subject it to a strong and even pressure by placing it in a book under a weight for about a quarter of an hour, then remove the leaf carefully from the paper. Very veiny leaves are the best.

Heard in the Nursery.

"I thought you were very much attached to the book," said the stuffed dog to the picture that had once ornamented the cover of the book.

"I was," said the picture, "but Dora cut me out."

THE next time you have your tank filled—look in the strainer. Standard Motor Gasoline shows no trace of sediment. Inferior fuels often leave a heavy residue of dirt and foreign matter.

Standard Motor Gasoline is a straight-distilled refinery product, not a "blend" or a "mixture." It is absolutely homogeneous, every drop like every other drop. It is uniformly quick-starting, whether you are running on the top of your tank or near the bottom.

Standard Motor Gasoline costs no more by the gallon—less by the mile. It is the same "Standard Gas" that careful motorists have always insisted upon.

THREE DAYS IN ONE

This Queer Condition Lasts Half an Hour Every Day.

A FREAK OF CHANGING TIME.

When It Is Noon on Monday In London, Tuesday Has Just Begun at Cape Deshnef, Siberia, but Sunday Has Not Yet Ended at Attu Island.

Three days can exist at the same time! It sounds impossible, but it is nevertheless a fact that when it is very late Sunday night at Attu island it is Monday noon at London and Tuesday morning at Cape Deshnef, Siberia!

If one travels westward one loses a day in going round the world. If one travels eastward one gains a day. Could one travel at the rate of 15 degrees a day one would lose exactly one hour each day. In twenty-four days the circuit would be complete.

Inasmuch as sun and earth are constantly revolving and day merging into night, Sunday passing into Monday, etc., it is obvious that at one point on the world's surface an arbitrary line must be set, to the east of which is one day, to the west of which is the next day. This immediate "jump" of a day regulates the calendar for one circumnavigating the globe.

This "international date line," as it is called, passing north and south and dividing our world into two equal parts, is the one hundred and eightieth meridian and crosses the Pacific ocean—where, fortunately, there is very little land—taking a slight bulge outward to include Siberia, and one the other way to include Attu island, which belongs to Alaska geographically. The map will show this. West of this line is Monday and east of it is Sunday.

When it is noon on Monday in London Tuesday has already begun at Cape Deshnef, Siberia, but Monday morning has not yet dawned at Attu island. Nearly half an hour of Sunday still remains there. We are thus confronted with the paradox of three days coexisting at the same time.

We must remember that every day begins at midnight. If we could travel round the world at the same rate that it travels, beginning our flight at noon, it would be perpetually noon all the way round! Yet we should lose a day.

While at any particular point on the surface of the earth a day is twenty-four hours long, every day, as a matter of fact, lasts forty-eight hours—sometimes even longer. This seems another contradiction. Yet it can be explained.

Any given day, say Christmas, begins (as that day) immediately west of the 180th parallel. One hour later Christmas day begins 15 degrees west of the date line, two hours later 30 degrees west of the line and so on round the globe.

Those living just west of the date line would have enjoyed twelve hours of Christmas when it reached England, eighteen hours when it began in the United States and twenty-four hours (a whole day) when it began in Alaska. Already Christmas had existed twenty-four hours on this globe, but having just begun in western Alaska it will last there twenty-four hours longer.

We have just seen that each day lasts for forty-eight hours. As a matter of fact, a day lasts in some places more than forty-nine hours. This is because of the irregularity of the date line previously mentioned.

Let us begin an imaginary journey from Cape Deshnef, Siberia, at midnight. As midnight sweeps westward successive places see the beginning of the day. When the day begins in London it has been that same day at Cape Deshnef twelve hours and forty-five minutes.

When this same day arrives at Attu island it has been twenty-five hours and twelve minutes since it began officially at Cape Deshnef. Since the day will then last twenty-four hours at Attu island, before it is spent forty-nine hours and twelve minutes will have elapsed from the beginning of that day until the time it closes.

Thus three days can exist at one time, as before explained.—Hereward Carrington in New York World.

Poor Literary Pay.

Dr. Johnson is commonly reckoned as a successful author, yet he received for many of his compositions a comparatively small sum. His most profitable undertaking was the Dictionary, for which he asked £1,575 and received more. But the task occupied his time for seven years.—Pearson's Weekly.

Necessary Precaution.

"Life is just one long and rocky road."

"Of course. It is constructed that way purposely in order to keep nine-tenths of the human race from lying down and going to sleep."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Worker and Worked.

"So you worked your way through college? Your father must be proud of you."

"Not much! He's the man I worked."—Boston Transcript.

Some Dreams.

Archie—Papa, what is meant by "the stuff dreams are made of?" Papa (absently)—Paint, powder, padding and false hair.—Judge.

Never add the burden of yesterday's trouble to that of tomorrow. The one is past; the other may never come.

An Open Letter to Business Men Who are Party Line Telephone Subscribers

We wish to call your attention to certain advantages of Individual Line Telephone Service, in order that you may have an opportunity to consider its use in connection with your business.

Individual Line Telephone Service provides:

1. One line to the Telephone Central Office for your exclusive use.
2. A telephone that you can use at all times without the delays that occasionally occur when you share your line with others.
3. A telephone that your customers can reach at all times except when you or your representatives are using the telephone.

This one-subscriber-on-a-line service costs only a few cents more a day than you now pay for your Party Line Telephone.

Our Commercial Office will be glad to supply further particulars.

Library Notes.

Furnished by the Directors of Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room.

(Published Every Friday.)

THE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A law department of the Plainfield Public Library was founded some years ago through the gift of the late Colonel Mason W. Tyler. Recently, Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, as a memorial to her husband, presented to the library his complete law library.

Through these two gifts Plainfield now has a public law library which compares favorably with similar libraries in any cities of equal size throughout the country, but the trustees realize that the justification for its existence and for the labor and expense of maintaining it and of keeping it up to date, is the actual service which it renders to the lawyers who practice or reside in Plainfield. The trustees naturally wish to increase the use of the law library, and for this purpose they are sending to each lawyer whose name they have been able to ascertain, who lives or practices in Plainfield, a letter enclosing a partial list of the important law sets contained in the library, and a list of questions by which they hope to ascertain from the lawyers themselves, the best means of increasing the use and usefulness of the library. They realize that there is no way of accomplishing these purposes as well as through the co-operation of the lawyers themselves.

As it is possible that the trustees have not been able to secure a list which includes each one of the lawyers in the city, the partial list of the important sets contained in the library above referred to and the questions which the trustees would like answered, are appended, and any lawyer who fails to receive a personal inquiry would oblige the trustees by answering the attached questions and addressing the answers to the trustees of Plainfield Public Library. The following is a partial list of some of the important law sets, and which it is the hope of the library to maintain in complete form:

U. S. Supreme Court Reports.
N. J. Reports—Law, Equity.
N. Y. Reports—Court of Appeals. Hun.
Atlantic Reporter.
Laws of N. J.
Compiled Statutes of N. Y.
Consolidated Laws of N. Y.
American and English Enc. of Law, 2d Edition.
Enc. of Forms.
Enc. of Practice.
N. J. Digest.

The following are incomplete:
Cyc.—35 vols.
Law Report Annotated.—1st series and 2d series through vol. 26.
Annotated Federal Statutes.—11 vols.
American Reporter, and American State Reporter—through vol. 20 of the latter.

The questions are as follows:

I. In view of the fact that the funds applicable to maintaining the law department are necessarily limited, what books would you suggest purchasing and in what order?

II. Are you interested in organizing a committee of the lawyers of Plainfield to act as an advisory committee regarding the purchase of books, or making of rules and recommendations for the use of the library?

III. Is the present location of the law library sufficiently convenient, and would another location so largely increase the convenience and use of the library as to justify any considerable addition to the expense of maintenance? Would you favor an organization of the lawyers which would undertake to bear all or a part of the expense of a change of location?

EXHIBIT OF SCHOOLS

industrial department that are used in the High School. An excellent example of this was a work table completed for the domestic science room at a total cost of $2, which otherwise would cost at least $6.

In the High School manual training department more advanced and intricate pieces of furniture are made. The boy may purchase wood at a low figure and make his own articles. Much praise was expressed for a three-piece library suite, completed by Guy Snyder in half a year, and consisting of a Morris chair, library table and couch.

The High School arts and crafs classes have courses in basketry, jewelry, medal and leather work. Basketry seems to be quite popular, and many beautiful Indian designs are woven in the baskets. Waste baskets, serving trays with wooden bases and flat reed baskets form the principal part of this exhibit. Desk sets of metal and leather, leather card cases, silver rings, are all articles of beauty as well as usefulness.

Although many girls take up the former lines of work, cooking, sewing, painting and drawing form an important part in the feminine curriculum. In the primary classes elementary stitches are studied and applied to simple problems, as iron holders, doll dresses, dish towels, aprons and caps and other simple garments. In the advanced classes the girls make their own dresses, estimating the cost, before beginning work, and in very few cases the cost exceeds $2, and the majority average $1. Each is finished carefully even to the smallest detail. The food on exhibition, from the cooking department, is very tempting, and if it were not under glass cases there is a question as to whether it would remain for the entire exhibition. Canning, preserving, making, jelly, pickling and practical preparation of simple dishes are all an important part of the lessons.

The various teachers in their respective classes are as follows: High school domestic science, Miss Lucile Jackson; elementary domestic science, Miss Ruth Klein; High School and elementary domestic art, Miss Alice Lindsley; arts and crafts, Miss Mary Decker, free hand drawing, Miss Anna Bennett; free hand drawing, elementary, Miss Ruth Sadler; High School and elementary woodwork, Henry F. Oesting; elementary woodwork, A. B. Cutler; special classes, Miss Nora R. Koons, Sarah A. Dwight, Helga Johnson, Sarah Coyle and Mr. Dix.

The work of the special classes, that is classes of pupils who are normally below par, shows unusual ability in basket weaving, metal work and book binding.

Taken as a whole, the entire exhibit is conducted on a large scale, and those unfamiliar with the work the schools of Plainfield are doing for the young men and women have an excellent opportunity to familiarize themselves with the departments and the teachers. The demonstration will close this evening.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

"Billy" Sunday, the famous evangelist, who has just concluded a four weeks' campaign at Paterson and who is the most talked of man in America today, is coming to Plainfield tomorrow. His local appearance will not be in the real flesh and blood, but in accurate and intensely vivid moving pictures, to be shown at Proctor's Theatre, tomorrow afternoon and night. Manager Sanderson has procured the only authentic two-reel film that "Billy" has ever posed for, showing him in his most characteristic attitudes and expounding his doctrines to thousands of people. To those who have been unable to see him at Philadelphia or Paterson, the pictures are the next best thing as audiences everywhere have been thrilled even by his photographic self.

The continuation of the newest serial, "The Goddess," will be shown at the theatre tomorrow, and in addition to this and several comedies and Paramount Travel Pictures, the patrons will be given a four-part feature comedy production, "Who's Who in Society?" While it is essentially a comedy, the story contains many touches of the dramatic which grip the interest and hold the attention from the beginning of the first reel to the tail-piece at the end of the fourth. It has been executed in typically Kleine style with a cast that would do credit to a comic opera.

Dan Moyles, who starred so successfully as "Officer 666" both in the original play and the Kleine film version, is the chief fun-maker. He is ably supported by such well known thespians as Will H. Powers and Kate Sergeantson. Powers will be remembered as the leading comedian of Ziegfeld's follies of '07, '08 and '09, and as Anna Held's comedian for several seasons. Kate Sergeantson has been well known up and down Broadway for many years, having played leads with some of the greatest English and American artists. Bella Connor and Edward Lester are also names familiar to American playgoers. To put such an expensive cast into a four-reel comedy is thoroughly characteristic of the Kleine policy and in line with the precedents set by those elaborate farces, "Officer 666" and "Stop Thief."

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — SCOOP'S SCENT IS GETTING WARMER — BY "HOP"

A. O. H. CELEBRATE 40TH ANNIVERSARY

Excellent Speeches, Dancing and Intrsumental Music Features of Event.

Local Division, No. 4, Ancient Order Hibernians, fittingly celebrated its fortieth anniversary in Knights of Pythias Hall, last night, with an appropriate program comprising speeches, dancing, vocal and instrumental music by members and their women friends of Auxiliaries No. 1, of North Plainfield, and No. 5, of this city.

The exercises opened with a short address of welcome and a brief resume of the history of Division No. 4, the chairman, John F. Casey, Sr., being the speaker. Mr. Casey told many interesting facts relative to the manner in which the first members of the Hibernians conducted their meetings. There were then only seven members and they met in the basement of the late F. Casey's residence on West Third street. If one of the select seven was absent the rest went out and "scouted" for him.

According to the chairman's report the A. O. H. has, in the forty years of its existence, taken in $32,000 and disbursed for charity, sick and funeral benefits, $29,500, leaving a creditable balance of $2,500. Of the charter members, only one is living. He is Edward McCann. His regrets at not being able to be present were read. Dennis J. Fitzgerald, of Elizabeth, county president, made a few appropriate remarks, leaving, as he said, "plenty of room for the rest."

Patrick Hayes, of Jersey City, State secretary, was the next speaker, and he took for his topic, "Hibernians of the State." He concluded his remarks by saying: "We take our hats off to no one, to no race; and we always aim at the top." Following Mr. Hayes was the State president, James J. Sweeney, of Trenton, who, in a brief, yet forceful manner, congratulated the local division for the good work it has done. He told of the organization of the A. O. H. Its purpose, he said, was two-fold; first, to preserve the faith in Ireland; second, to protect the priests, who were being hounded by English soldiers.

The chaplain, Rev. B. M. Bogan, was the next speaker and in his usual masterly style congratulated all present and recalled many instances in which the Irish showed their loyalty to "Faith and Fatherland." Father Bogan's father lived in Ireland at the time when it was necessary for the Irish priests to celebrate mass in hiding. If they were caught, their life was the penalty.

It was the greatest joy to Father Bogan's father, to be allowed to carry the altar-stone and stand as lookout in those days. "Union in Ireland is welcome," said Father Bogan, despite the stubborn resistance of the Ulster party, whose tactics have not been of the best at any time." This was his firm conviction and he compared the local Hibernians with the Irish nation: "United we stand, divided we fall." "It is very evident that Ireland and the Irish are standing and are not very likely to soon fall," said Father Bogan.

National Director Edward Hayes, of New Brunswick, in an eloquent speech exhorted the members of Division No. 4, the banner division of Union county, to keep up to its fine reputation, both as a fraternal and a patriotic organization. "This year," said Mr. Hayes, "we celebrate the 275th anniversary of the organization of the A. O. H. in Kilkenny, Ireland, and the 80th anniversary of its establishment in the United States." He re-quoted Father Bogan's remark, "American, first; Ireland, next."

Forty white roses, emblematic of the forty years of the existence of the division, were presented to the members by Mrs. Clarence Waldron, president of Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 1, Plainfield. John Casey, Sr., accepted these in the name of the members and said that he knew it would have been a great joy to his father, had he been alive, to receive the forty tokens of esteem, from the women of Auxiliary No. 1, of Plainfield.

It was with regret that it was learned that the county vice president, Patrick J. McCue, Jr., owing to his having a previous engagement to speak at a similar celebration as this in Montclair, was unable to be present.

Music for dancing to National and Irish airs was furnished by Allen Squire's orchestra, and the Irish ballad, "When It's Moonlight In Mayo," was sung by Miss Mary A. Donnelly. Refreshments were served continuously throughout the evening.

The committee in charge was as follows: P. S. Flatley, chairman; Michael L. Griffen, Patrick Griffen, James J. Kyle, Timothy Cullinan, Frank Cullen, John F. Casey, Sr., John J. Gallagher, Joseph Diver and Thomas Farrell.

The officers at the time of the organization of the division were: Patrick Casey, president; P. J. Flannigan, vice president; Patrick Kiely, secretary; Charles McCann, treasurer; David Roach, financial secretary. The present officers are: Thomas Farrell, president; Joseph Diver, vice president; James J. Kyle, financial secretary; John J. Gallagher, treasurer; Timothy Cullinan, recording secretary; Michael Regan, sentinel; Peter McShea, sergeant at arms.

CHRISTIAN FIELD

The decorations in the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest at the reception to the Rt. Rev. Bishop Paul Matthews, held Wednesday evening at that place, were in charge of Mrs. Michael Rimmer, the Misses Alice and Elizabeth Forster, and Mrs. Juan Babcock, being assisted by Mrs. James Chamberlain, Mrs. Charles Corbin, the young girls of the confirmation class and Sunday-school.

If the man who says, "I can't afford to advertise" will look over the list of big concerns that were LITTLE concerns before they started to advertise, he will be more likely to say:

"I can't afford NOT to advertise.

The Press is Plainfield's best advertising medium because its circulation is among the people who make and spend the most money.

—It pays to use the advertising columns of The Press.

CO-EXECUTORSHIP

The man who makes his wife his sole executor unthinkingly places upon her in a time of acute mental distress a burden almost too heavy to be borne, but when he names her in conjunction with a competent trust company he knows that while she will retain the supervision of the estate, the trust company will attend to all the details.

This Company is a specialist in the management of estates. Consultation on the subject is invited.

ATHLETES READY FOR THE PISTOL

Fourteen Schools to Be Represented in Monster Meet Here Monday.

150 WILL TAKE PART

Biggest Affair of Its Kind Ever Held in This Section—Promoted by Plainfield High School Track Team.

The most pretentious athletic meet ever staged in Plainfield will be run off at Parker Field at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, Decoration Day, when the annual Central New Jersey Intersholastic championships, better known as the Union county meet, is held. Upwards of one hundred and fifty ambitious young athletes, each trained to the hour, will participate in the various events on track and field. Fourteen schools will be represented.

Interest in the meet this year runs high, inasmuch as the track and field team of the Plainfield High School has made an enviable record this season in the many events it has participated in throughout the State.

In Ralph Runyon, who holds the pole vault and high and broad jump records in the interscholastic classes, Plainfield boasts of a young athlete who has set his marks at such dizzy heights that managers of track teams of many of the big colleges have made overtures to him to matriculate at their respective institutions upon the completion of his studies in the High School here. With a mark of eleven feet nine inches for the pole vault; five feet eight inches in the high, and twenty feet eleven inches for the broad jump, Runyon is a performer that any university would be proud to enroll in its freshmen group of candidates for its track team.

In all fourteen schools will be represented at Monday's meet. These include the Plainfield High School, Roselle High School, Roselle Park High School, Westfield High School, Rahway High School, St. Benedict's Preparatory School, Newark; Phillipsburg Parochial School, Phillipsburg; Bound Brook High School, Somerville High School, Bayonne High School, Orange High School, West Orange High School and Summit High School.

Plainfield will be represented in the various events with such consistent performers as William Peacock, whose hundred-yard sprints have landed him first over the tape in many hard fought contests; Peyton Schenck, manager of the Plainfield High School track team, in the 220-yard sprints, and William Daniels, the quarter and half mile runner, in the events of these classes.

Those in charge of Monday's meet are elated over the success they have had in bringing such a fine galaxy of athletes to Plainfield. The greatest number of track and field men ever assembled here at a previous meet was at the Amateur Athletic Union meet held last Fourth of July when one hundred and forty entrants competed.

The cups that are to be awarded are especially handsome, and besides the cups medals will be awarded to men who earn places in the various events in which they compete.

There will be five track events, the hundred, 220 and 440-yard dashes and the 80-yard and mile run. In the field events there will be the pole vaul, high and broad jumps and the shotput.

The entries follow:

440-yard Run—C. Fisher, Bound Brook; W. Milnes, Rahway; H. Brennan, P. Eastman, G. Clark, H. Lockwood, W. Shorter, Orange; Griffiths, Summit; Conklin, Benedict, Wheeler, Roselle; P. Schenck, W. Daniels, H. Clawson, F. Chamberlain, P. McDonough, Plainfield; G. Koch, C. McCraith, T. Tully, St. Benedicts; Daybock, Muller, Warton, Bayonne.

One-half Mile Run—C. McGoughan, West Orange; G. Prove, Bound Brook; W. Milnes, G. Bartlett, Rahway; G. Clark, H. Lockwood, H. Brennen, W. Shorter, G. Redfern, Orange; Kahn, F. Lovenburg, King, Underwood, Summit; Wheeler, Baker, Roselle; W. Daniels, W. Jeter, B. Miller, M. Trowbridge, E. Crone, Plainfield; C. McCraith, T. Tully, J. Nulty, St. Benedicts; Cracler, Maccumker, Marcon, Matle, Bayonne.

One Mile Run—C. McGoughran, West Orange; R. Amerman, Somerville; D. Rychman, J. Jones, D. Wilson, R. Brown, Rahway; G. Clark, G. Redfern, W. Shorter, Orange; R. T. Cairns, Westfield; Baker, Unger, Roselle; P. Schenck, W. Jeter, M. O'Donnell, H. Clawson, M. Trowbridge, A. Franke, J. Causebrook, Plainfield; C. McCraith, T. Tully J. Nulty, G. Hoppen, St. Benedict's; Maccumker, Regan, McCarthy, Cohen, Bayonne.

High Jump—R. Lukens, Rahway; R. Eastman, E. Trabold, F. Schorn, BOY SCOUTS WILL HOLD ENCAMPMENT

Following Memorial Day Parade Instruction in Camp Work Will Be Given.

At a meeting of the scoutmasters of the Boy Scout troops of this city at the Y. M. C. A., last night, arrangements were completed for a division encampment for the troops of this city, Bound Brook, Dunellen, Westfield, Scotch Plains and Garwood, following the parade with the G. A. R. veterans on Monday.

More than 200 Boy Scouts will be in line when the boys escort the Civil War veterans to the two cemeteries to pay homage to the heroes who have passed on. This does not include the number of scouts who will be here from out of town. The scoutmasters are desirous of having the inter-troop encampment for the purpose of practicing the boys in mass formation, for giving them some experience in camp arrangement, and inter-troop signalling. Accordingly these instructions were posted:

Scoutmasters will assemble their boys at their respective headquarters at 8:30 Monday morning. They will have inspection of equipment and short preliminary drill and then march to the rear of the First Baptist church, Front and Grove streets, arriving there not later than 9 o'clock. Troops move to fall in G. A. R. procession from the Troop 14 headquarters, Front and Grove streets, at 9:30.

Equipment: Scouts will bring meat, eggs or frankfurters to cook in camp. Also sandwiches, cocoa, condensed milk or milk in bottle, equipment for making fire without matches and vegetables for scout stew. Provision will be made for leaving camp equipment at the First Baptist church until after the parade. Troops will then return to church, accoutre with camp equipment and proceed to camp site. Hike will be not more than one mile from the First Baptist church. Scouts will bring their signalling flags, wireless outfits, bridge building equipment, staffs and full field equipment, including flags and fifes and drums. Scouts desiring to attend the athletic meet at Parker Field will be excused. Break camp at 4:30.

Scouts will march in parade with their staffs. At the grave, where the services are held, scoutmasters will form scouts in a circular single file with staffs held in hands, forming a cordon about the veterans, enclosing the firing squad of Company K, N. G. N. J.

RAY FULLER WILL MARRY MISS MARION MORTIMER

Miss Marion C. Mortimer and Ray Fuller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd D. Fuller, of 1029 Arlington avenue, will be married at the home of the bride's brother, Francis R. Mortimer, of 1029 Prospect avenue, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will perform the ceremony and the couple will be unattended.

The bride will be attired in a travelling gown and the newlyweds will leave tonight for the West on a honeymoon trip. A reception will follow the wedding.

WM. H. EMMONS TO WED MISS DE FOREST

Miss Helen DeForeest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt G. DeForeest, of Potter, and William H. Emmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Emmons, of this city, will be married this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride-elect's parents by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church. The wedding will be a quiet one and only the relatives and close friends of the couple will be present.

The couple will be unattended. After a short honeymoon the couple will reside with the bride's parents at Potter for the summer, and next winter will remove to New York. Mr. Emmons is engaged in the flour business in New York.

PLAINFIELD DEFENDANTS ENTER NOT GUILTY PLEAS

Elizabeth, May 29.—Donald Wallace pleaded not guilty to three indictments in the Court of Quarter Sessions, yesterday, all charging immoral offenses. His trial was fixed for June 1 and bail in the sum of $750 on each indictment was asked.

Isadore Finkel pleaded not guilty to assault and battery in Plainfield and will be tried June 2. An "intent" charge was also included, and the Prosecutor demanded $1,000 bail, which was furnished.

PAGEANT PROVES PLEASING AFFAIR

"The Ministering of the Gift" Presented on Association Lawn.

ELABORATE COSTUMES

Varied Program Represents Every Department of Activity Including the Young Men in College Life—Will Repeat Entertainment.

An audience of two hundred persons witnessed the pageant, "The Ministering of the Gift," presented on the spacious lawn of the Y. W. C. A., last night, and all were unanimous in proclaiming it one of the most successful events of the year. The audience was seated on the rear veranda of the association, facing the clearing around which the young women entered.

The processional opened with the entrance of all participants in the following order: Miss Katharine Aller, the association spirit, dressed in the national association color, a robe of royal blue; four couriers, in white, wearing insignia ribbons of the same blue; twelve students, representing the schools and colleges, in cap and gown and ribbons to indicate by color and college name the colleges whose associations are affiliated with the National Board; six county girls, in green liberty capes, carrying flowered staffs; twelve city girls, representing the city associations, in white shirtwaists and duck skirts, each wearing a scarf, and four foreign girls, depicting the four countries in which the National Board supports work, namely, China, Japan, India and South America.

The association in college life pictured a fragment of vesper service at the summer conference in which the delegations from different colleges entered, some wearing middies and white duck skirts, and carrying basketballs, tennis racquets, note books, Bibles, megaphones; some wearing tramping skirts and boots, sweaters and carrying walking staffs, and some in light dresses and scarfs as the girls dress for dinner at the conference. The delegations mingled to indicate a representative conference gathering, after which all marched around the association spirit, singing.

The association in the open country, pictured a May day festival, during which the couriers enter with a Maypole, wound with pink streamers and erected it in the middle of the lawn. Then the little girls of the association gave a Maypole dance.

The association in the city was presented in four episodes, the general, the educational, physical and Bible and mission study departments, during which drills, symbolic water dances, games and Sargeant's Frieze of the Prophets, representing the Old Testament, and Christmastide representing the New Testament, were illustrated.

The association in foreign lands showed the girls costumed in the countries represented and mingling with the other members of the association.

In the final epilogue each participant circles around the association spirit with a candle, lights it from a torch held by the latter, and group to either side of her, singing the hymn of lights, and concluding with the "Recessional," the entire assemblage joining in the singing.

Owing to the success of the affair many requests have been received for a repetition of the pageant and in order to give those who did not have an opportunity to view it last night, the committee has arranged to present the "Ministering of the Gift" next Friday night, June 4.

Much of the success of the entire presentation is due to the untiring efforts of the different committees who worked diligently for a number of weeks and last night's result showed the effort was not in vain. The following had charge of the various committees: Miss Margaret McCutchen, chairman of the entire pageant; Miss Anna Campbell and Miss Margaret Townsend, costumes; Miss Ellen Burke, exterior decorations; Mrs. Charles Hyde, interior decorations; Mrs. William D. Murray, supper; Miss Margaret Hawkins, piano, and Whitney Frazee, cornet.

The supper was served at 6:30 and was in buffet style. The interior of the association was a great bower of flowers, vast numbers of ferns, iris, rhododendrons and other spring flowers being used in the decorations.

NO PAPER MONDAY.

Following the usual custom, the Daily Press will not be published on Monday next, in observance of Decoration Day. The business office will be closed all day, except for the posting of baseball scores. 5 28 2

JUNIOR LEAGUE IN THREE-ACT COMEDY

"Breezy Point" Given for the Benefit of St. Peter's Lutheran Church.

The entertainment given last night in Debele Auditorium under the auspices of St. Peter's Lutheran church, of the borough, was enjoyed by a large audience and the affair was very successful. A three-act play entitled "Breezy Point," was the feature of the program and this was presented by a cast of fourteen girls of the Junior League of St. Peter's Lutheran church, of New York city, which is the mother church to the borough congregation, which started as a mission.

The play was well given, the members of the cast being well trained for their respective parts. After the performance was over ice cream was sold and the proceeds will go into the church fund. Dr. Richard Moldenke, of Watchung, is entertaining the girls of the cast at his home in Washington Valley today.

The cast follows: "Aunt Debby Dexter," Miss Elsie Stegeman; "Elinor Pearl," Miss Louise Walter; "Ashrael Grant," Miss Margaret Dresher; "Mrs. Hardscratch," Miss Gerta Herren; "Mehitible Doolittle," Miss Sophie Berold; "Bernice Vernon," Miss Margaret Hegensh; "Laura Leigh," Miss Emma Bremer;" Edith Norton," Miss Emma Westermann; "Clarice Fenleigh," Miss Rosalie Millim; "Fantine," Miss Gertrude Krueger;. "Clem," Miss Mildred Westermann.

MANAGING EDITORSHIP FOR BRUCE CONLIN, P. H. S. '12

Bruce Conlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Conlin, of Kensington avenue, was elected managing editor of the Columbia Spectator, the Columbia College literary organ, at the spring dinner of the university held last night. This places Conlin, who graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1912, in line for the office of editor-in-chief next year. He will hold the new office until next January.

The Spectator is one of the oldest of college papers being established in 1877 and now has a circulation of about 3,000.

FATHER BERNARD M. BOGAN THIRTY YEARS A PRIEST

Although no special demonstration will be held, Father Bernard M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, will quietly celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of his ordination tomorrow. He has been the pastor of St. Mary's church for ten years and during his pastorate the church has acquired considerable property which it using for school and other purposes.

Father Bogan was born in Newark about fifty-five years ago and attended the Cathedral School and St. Benedict's College in that city, beginning his study of the classics in St. Charles College, Md., where he remained for four years. In 1877 he entered the junior class of Seton Hall College, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts at the end of that year. The following year he was graduated from the college with the degree of Master of Arts. His first year as a priest was spent in the churches of St. Paul of the Cross and St. Bridget, of Jersey City.

FRUIT AND FLOWERS WANTED FOR THE SICK

The Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild has twenty-six persons on its list who are sick and "shut-ins in Plainfield and need suitable food and fruit. They all need flowers to brighten their lives. Any person who wishes to make donations may send the same to the W. C. T. U. rooms, 10 Madison avenue, Monday afternoon, from 4 to 6, and Tuesday morning, from 9 to 10:30 o'clock, or they may telephone J. M. Harper, 738-W this afternoon and evening and a boy will call for the same Monday afternoon. The Netherwood residents may send their donations to Miss Miller, 919 East Seventh street, and boys will collect them Monday afternoon.

KITCHEN SHOWER.

A delightful kitchen shower was given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William A. Garrigues, on Watchung avenue, in honor of Miss Bessie Flanders, whose marriage to Frederick Staples, of Massachusetts, will take place on June 12. The affair last night was a complete surprise to Miss Flanders, who was the recipient of numerous useful gifts.

DEATH COMES TO WM. W. CORIELL

Prominent Veteran Passed Away Last Night After Long Illness.

A NATIVE PLAINFIELDER

Served With Distinction Throughout Civil War—Wounded in Battle and Promoted to Rank of Sergeant for Bravery.

William Wallace Coriell, numbered among the oldest and best known residents in this vicinity, died at his home on Lincoln place, the borough, at 11:30 last night, following an illness that extended back ten years. He had been ailing for a long time before he was compelled to keep to the house and for the past few months had been in a more or less helpless condition. Death was due to a series of complications which had their origin in organic troubles.

Mr. Coriell was born in Plainfield seventy-three years ago in a house located on West Front street, where F. H. Firstbrook's grocery now stands. His parents were among the city's early residents. Before reaching his majority he entered the produce trade locally and for many years had the leading business of its kind in this section. He built the building on West Front street now occupied by the Leader store aad had his market there for a quarter of a century. He retired from active business twenty-three years ago on the occasion of his fiftieth birthday.

Shortly after the Civil War broke out, Mr. Coriell enlisted in Company B, Sixth New Jersey Regiment, and served with distinction throughout the conflict. He fought under General McClellan and following the battle of "Turkey Bend" was promoted by General Mott to the rank of sergeant for bravery. During a charge in which he participated he was wounded in the head, but returned to service after a short furlough. Among the engagements in which he was on the firing line were those at Yorktown, Williamsburg, Seven Pines, Savage Station, Fair Oakes, Glendale, Malvern Hill, Bristow Station, Bull Run, Chantella and Fredericksburg. After the battle of Fredericksburg, the gallant young Plainfielder was compelled to retire from the service owing to illness which overtook him through exposure and which was indirectly responsible for the troubles that caused his death these many years later.

Mr. Coriell married at Trenton on November 6, 1864, Miss Jennie M. Hargraves, who he met in that city while acting as provost marshal with his regiment. They celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary last November and, fortunately, Mr. Coriell at that time was in better health than he had been in a long while. His wife survives him, also several nephews and nieces living in the city and borough. He was a member of Grace M. E. church and also of Anchor Lodge, F. & A. M., having joined the latter organization in 1864. He belonged to Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and his death comes as an especially sad blow to his comrades just previous to Memorial Day, having been active for many years in all of the doings of the organization.

The funeral will be held at the late residence, 50 Lincoln place, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and burial will be made in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery.

LYDIA CHAPTER, O. E. S., OBSERVES SIXTH BIRTHDAY

Lydia Chapter, No. 41, Order of the Eastern Star, reached its sixth birthday last night, and in celebration of the event the members held a birthday party. The affair was of an informal nature, but proved highly enjoyable. The regular business session was held first and just before it was concluded Mrs. C. H. Rugg, who is referred to as "The mother of Lydia Chapter," having been its first worthy matron, presented the present worthy matron, Mrs. Lulu Krinic, with a beautiful birthday cake. It was made by Mrs. Guy Peck and beside being decorated with the organization's colors, was surmounted by six candles. When the cake was cut it was found that it held many nature silver favors for the members. The candles were lighted when the social session began.

The program rendered during the evening included violin selections by Archibald LaRue, accompanied by Miss Lillian Bunting, and vocal solos by Mrs. E. W. Poinier and Miss Myrtle Kipsey. Punch and wafers were served in conclusion.

Rev. Charles W. Carroll, pastor-at large, will preach at the Congregational church tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. His subject will be "An Unconscious Appeal to the Churches."

ELABORATE PROGRAM FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Clear Weather the Only Thing Needed to Complete Varied Card of Activity.

Although dubious weather prospects have somewhat lessened the interest in the monster program of arrangements for the week end, those who remain in Plainfield will find plenty of entertainment of every nature to occupy their attention. Memorial Day will be fittingly observed in a varied manner here Monday and local churches will hold appropriate ceremonies commemorative of the occasion tomorrow. The weather man has thrown a bomb into the camp of the optimist by his uncertain prophesy and the best that is expected in this section is a cloudy day for Monday.

Athletics, G. A. R. festivities, and other elaborately planned numbers have been added to the holiday cards and if Jupiter Pluvius remains hidden behind a cloud the day will undoubtedly be the busiest of the year in Plainfield.

Banks will be closed all day and those merchants who have not declared a full holiday for their clerks will shut down at noon. The Public Library building will be closed Monday morning, but the adult circulating department and reading room will be open in the afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock.

As is the annual custom the G. A. R. veterans will observe the day in a pretentious fashion, holding the usual parade and decoration of graves in the morning and the exercises in Reform Hall in the afternoon. Tomorrow the "vets" will attend divine services in the Park Avenue Baptist church in the morning and in the Trinity Reformed church at night.

Baseball games will be played in various parts of the city and borough in the morning and a monster field and track meet, probably the largest ever conducted in this city, will be staged at Parker Field in the afternoon. The Plainfield Country Club and Park Club golf courses will be the scene of special competitions and a program of tennis is planned for each club. At the Park Golf Club a holiday program will be run off.

NO BAND CONCERTS FOR WEST END THIS SUMMER

Owing to the inability of the committee in charge to secure the grounds, the executive committee of the West End Civic Association at a meeting held in the home of William J. Boyd last night, decided to lay the matter on the table temporarily. It is probable that the matter will be definitely disposed of at the June meeting.

Next month's session will be the final one of the season, the organization disbanding at that time in accordance with the annual summer custom of suspending meetings during July, August and September.

DUNELLEN GIRLIES FROLIC IN THEIR BROTHERS' TOGS

"Why can't a delegation of village beauties parade in male attire and smoke cigarettes without getting their names on the front page of a village weekly?" This is the question being passed around in Dunellen today, following the appearance of a sensational bit of information dealing with certain fair exponents of the town's "400."

The story tells of a night's escapade in which the girlies donned their brothers' (and in some cases, somebody else's brothers') best Sunday-go-to-meeting togs and between "sips" inhaled the fragrant fumes of scented "coffin-nails."

Brother John "squealed" on his sister Susie, when he found the crease missing in his best suit the next day and since then the story has spread like wild-fire among the villagers. At any rate, the girlies had the "time of their young lives" and all vote the experience a thrilling one.

AUTO BURNED UP.

The large seven-passenger Pierce-Arrow touring car owned by Percy Cook, of Scotch Plains, was totally destroyed by fire last night about 9:30 o'clock on Mountain avenue just this side of Scotch Plains. There were two persons in the car and when the chauffeur went to crank it up it backfired causing an explosion.

PRISONERS LIBERATED.

Joseph Pallin and John Lacey, two borough men, were released from custody this morning, after spending two days in the city jail under suspicion of having stolen a pocketbook from Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur. The complainant failed to appear in court.

AMERICAN SHIPS AGAIN WARNED

German Note Gives Impression That Undersea Warfare Will Continue.

TORPEDO S. S. ETHIOPA

Turkish Casualties Reported at 60,000 in Dardanelles Operations—Duke Ulrich, of Wurtemberg, Wounded by Shrapnel.

Washington, May 29.—A renewed warning to American shipping reached the State Department today from Berlin. The German Foreign Office urged that American shippers make the neutral markings on vessels as plain as possible and especially to have them illuminated promptly and sufficiently at night. Ambassador Gerard received the communication and cabled it. The German government declared that in view of the fact that neutral vessels have been sunk repeatedly in the German area of the maritime war, it recommended that Americans shippers be warned against traversing the war zone incautiously. In the communication the Berlin Foreign Office admitted that the steamship Gulflight was sunk by a German submarine. The communication contained no hint of the probable date of reply to the President's note on the Lusitania, but it indicates that Germany will not give up her warfare on passenger carrying vessels.

London, May 29.—The British steamship Ethiopa, 3,794 tons, has been sunk by a German submarine in the English Channel off Cornwall coast. A despatch from Plymouth said that one of the Ethiopa's boats containing the first officer and 16 members of the crew have been picked up, but that another boat containing the remainder of those who fled from the sinking ship had not been sighted. Members of the crew of the Ethiopa identified the submarine as the U-24.

Athens, May 29.—The total Turkish casualties in the fighting on the Dardanelles are estimated at 60,000 in despatches received today from Tenedos. The eighth and tenth Syrian divisions of the Turkish army have arrived at Constantinople after a forced march from the interior. The troops are in bad condition from 23 days of constant marching.

Vienna, May 29.—The Austrian War Office statement follows:

"In the Tyrol, Italian detachments were crossed the frontier had to deal only with gendarmes and patrols. The bombardment of our frontier works with heavy artillery has ceased."

Amsterdam, May 29.—Duke Ulrich, of Wurtemburg, who is fighting with the German army, has been wounded in the arm by a fragment of shrapnel.

Stockholm, May 29.—The Swedish Government issued a decree today prohibiting the export of cotton.

Paris, May 29.—Ceasing their counter attacks with infantry for the time being, the Germans lost a terrific twelve-hour bombardment against the new French positions at Notre Dame De Lorette in an effort to dislaunch the French soldiers. An official communique issued by the French War Office today states that the German carried on an all-night cannonade against the French at Notre Dame De Lorette, but despite this fire the French have been able to make further progress east of the road that runs through Aix Noulette and Souchez. The French renewed their offensive in the Argonne forest, capturing a German trench at Fontaine Madame. The communique shows that there is no abatement in the ferocity of the battle raging for many days between the Germans and French between Arras and La Bassee.

PARENTS OF A DAUGHTER.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Frederickson, of 1232 Park avenue, are the parents of a daughter who arrived at their home yesterday morning. The little miss has been named Marguerite Jean. The little girl weighs nine and three-quarter pounds.

HIT BY AUTOMOBILE.

Dorothy Dunlap, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dunlap, of 28 Mariners place, was struck by an automobile owned and driven by John Stevens, of 123 Church street, yesterday afternoon. The accident happened at West Front street and Clinton avenue, but owing to the fact that the autoist was travelling at a slow rate of speed the little one was only slightly bruised.

DUNELLEN

BREAKS HIS LEG AS RESULT OF A PRANK

Michael Fabian, who resides on the Warrenville road, had his left leg broken while fooling at the plant of the Ransome Concrete Machinery Company, where he is employed, during the noon hour yesterday. Some companions were giving him a free ride on a donkey car. Along the track which the car was being pushed was a post. Fabian's leg was extended out over the edge of the car and it is not known whether he thought it had sufficient clearance or whether he didn't see the post; at any rate his foot struck the post, pulling him off of the car with the aforesaid result.

He was taken to the office of Dr. J. T. Longbotham in the car of Fred Loizeaux, of the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company, which has a plant nearby, where the limb was attended to and placed in splints.

MRS. W. C. HUBBARD IS MEMBER OF BOARD

With the election of officers and the presentation of addresses by Mrs. Anthony Evans and Charles Brandon Booth in Central Methodist church, Newark, Thursday night, the New Jersey branch of the International Order of King's Daughters and Sons ended its third annual convention. Mrs. Evans is the president of the international order and Mr. Booth is the son of Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, and is associated with her in the prison work of the Volunteers of America.

A short business session preceded the addresses and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. C. A. Menet, of East Orange, vice president, Miss Anne M. Boyd, of Jersey City; recording secretary, Mrs. Charles Lindsey, of Montclair; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Leonard Wallace, of Jersey City; treasurer, Mrs. Walter R. Earlach, of Salem City, members of the executive board, Mrs. Edwin H. Snyder, of West Hoboken, the retiring president, Mrs. William C. Hubbard, of Plainfield, and Miss Margaret J. McMaster, of Maplewood.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Plainfield People Know How to Save It.

Many Plainfield people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Plainfield citizen's recommendation.

Mrs. Anthony Wahl, R. F. D. No. 1, Plainfield, says: "I had such distressing pains in my back that I could hardly stand, and it was out of the question for me to stoop. I was all crippled up, and I knew perfectly well that my kidneys were the cause of the trouble. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me almost immediate relief, and three boxes changed me from a chronic sufferer to a healthy woman. I still take Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally, when a cold settles on my kidneys, and they act as a preventive of any serious trouble."

Price 50c., at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan' Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Wahl had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. Adv.

THE MARTYR'S DAY.

Blue and Grey are yet very close to the hearts of our people.

On Monday we pass another great mile post which marks another year from the day when those loyal, staunch and true men laid down their arms and embraced each other as brothers once more, as men should, who were born and raised under one flag.

The Memorial Celebration in all parts of our country is evidence that patriotism is still in the breasts of the "Ninety Million."

We bow our heads in solemn prayer for our dead heroes.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL AND MUSICAL GREAT SUCCESS

The strawberry festival given in T. A. B. Hall, last night, by the members of St. Mary's Social Club, was enjoyed by about two hundred friends of the young women. Vocal selections were rendered by Miss Mary Donnelly and Louis Feiring, while Prof. Squier's orchestra furnished music for the dancing which was enjoyed until a late hour.

The committe who had charge of the arrangements are pleased with the result and it may be that a similar affair will be held within the near future. The young women who completed the arrangements were the Misses Julia Leahy, Kitty Ellis, Margaret O'Keeffe, Elizabeth Flynn, Katherine Boyle, Katherine Griffin, Mae Carney and Florence Briscoe.

VANDERBILT WILL FILED; WIFE GETS $3,000,000

New York, May 29.—The will of Alfred G. Vanderbilt was filed this morning in the Surrogate's Court for probate. Mr. Vanderbilt bequeathed to his wife $2,000,000 in compliance with an ante-nuptial agreement made between them and an additional sum of $1,000,000. As further provision he gave to her the income during her life of a trust fund of $5,000,000, the principal of which is given to their issue upon her death. In addition Mr. Vanderbilt bequeathed to Mrs. Vanderbilt his camp, known as Sagemore Lodge, and his property known as Moose River Tract, his houseboat Venture and all his real and personal estate in England. To his eldest son, William H., he gave the $5,000,000 trust fund which has been held in trust for him under the will of his father. All the residue of his estate Mr. Vanderbilt bequeathed to his executors in trust to divide into two equal shares, to hold one in trust for his son, Alfred G., Jr., and one for his son, George. Mr. Vanderbilt bequeathed to his brother, Reginald C. Vanderbilt, $500,000; his uncle, Frederick W. Vanderbilt, $200,000; Frederick M. Davies, $500,000, Henry B. Anderson, $200,000; Frederick L. Merriam, $250,000, and Charles E. Crocker, $10,000. Reginald C. Vanderbilt, Frederick W. Vanderbilt, Frederick M. Davies, Henry B. Anderson and Frederick L. Merriam are the executors.

LOSES THREE FINGERS.

Raymond Pace, an employe of the Spicer Manufacturing Company, had three fingers taken off while at work at his machine last night. Mr. Pace said that the foot pedal slipped and while taking the forging from the press the main shaft fell and cut the the three fingers off clean. He has been working for the Spicer people for a short time and yesterday he moved to South Plainfield with his wife from Martinsville. Drs. Pittis and Clauson were called and the injured man was sent to Muhlenberg Hospital where his injuries were dressed.

PERSONAL.

The son of Fred G. Lynn, Jr., was operated upon Thursday afternoon by Dr. Van Horn at Muhlenberg Hospital. He will return home in a couple of weeks.

FAULTS IN OUR SENSES.

Defects That Enable Us to Enjoy Music and Moving Pictures.

It is a fairly well known fact that we cannot hear distinct sounds that come to us at the rate of twenty or more a second (it varies for different people, but only slightly). The result is that we get a continuous sound or musical tone. The same deficiency is evident in our sense of sight, for we cannot see distinctly objects presented to our vision at the rate of more than about eight a second. For this reason only is it possible to have moving pictures. For this reason also a light waved quickly appears as a streak.

The explanation of the deficiency in both cases lies in the fact that it takes time for a sense perception to go from the nerve ending in the particular organ of sense (ear or eye) to the brain; for we perceive only in the brain. It is caused by irritation of the nerve ending, the irritation causing a wave motion winding up at the brain. This speed has been measured and is not very fast. It is about an eleventh of a second after a tall man stubs his toe before he knows it, and another eleventh passes before he can send word to the foot to be held up. If a man had an arm eighty miles long and some one cut off a finger it would be an hour and three-quarters before the wave would cause pain in his brain.

Now, as a man's life consists of absolutely nothing else in the world but these sensory and motor nerve activities, it would seem that the smaller a man is the more perceptions he could have in a given time and that at the same age in years he would really be much more mature than a tall man. Albe has calculated that the entire number of such perceptions in a normal human life of seventy years is about ten to the eleventh power, or ten thousand million.

Of course, if it were not for this so called deficiency two of our most enjoyable entertainments would be forever annihilated that of music of whatever kind and that of moving pictures.—Chicago Herald.

AN EMPTY STOMACH.

Its Effect Upon the System and Why It Craves Food.

During our waking hours the stomach is rarely, if ever, completely empty and apparently there is a very good physiological reason why it should not be. Thus the universal custom of taking meals about five hours apart, so that the contents of the stomach are replenished before the organ is completely emptied, is dependent upon a physical need.

Since most foods are not assimilated by the system directly from the stomach, and as food remains in the stomach several hours after being swallowed, the well known fact that eating relieves fatigue almost immediately has long been puzzling. But recent studies of the still mysterious action of the gastric juice offer a rational explanation. When the stomach is empty this digestive fluid draws directly upon the blood, thus depleting the amount of nourishment necessary to the muscles and producing fatigue. But the depleting action ceases immediately when food enters the stomach; hence the feeling of refreshment that follows a meal.

The amount of fluids and salt in the food also influences the action of gastric juice. When either of these is deficient in quantity the amount of gastric juice is reduced. As a result the food is not properly digested, is hurried through the stomach and is likely to produce intestinal disturbances. Hard work with profuse sweating reduces the fluids and salt in the body. This explains the craving of fluids and salty foods, which is experienced by persons taking prolonged muscular exercise and why it is that when these substances are lacking intestinal troubles develop.—Los Angeles Times.

A Prediction by Ouida.

Ouida, far from regarding heavy feeding as a concomitant of literary success, once declared that to eat anything more than was strictly necessary was vulgar and barbaric, and, further, that to take food in public or anywhere except in entire domestic privacy was "an indelicacy which in the coming golden age of refinement we shall not dream of. We shall then," she said, "no more think of indulging bodily needs in the presence of others than of cleaning our teeth or washing our hair in the public view." And then will be the end of the "restaurant" habit.—Pearson's Weekly.

Hard Labor.

A definition of hard labor appears in the decision of the court in People versus Hanrahan, 75 Mich., 621, as follows:

"Hard labor in itself is not infamous or degrading. On the contrary, it is ennobling and is the foundation upon which reposes all true progress in mental and moral development.

"The infamy and degradation consist in its being involuntary."—New York Sun.

Life's Limits.

All indications point to the fact that less than ten miles below our feet a red heat is maintained permanently and within twenty a white heat. Ten miles above us we have the pitiless cold, far below zero, of interplanetary space. To what a narrow zone of delicately balanced temperature is life confined!

RACE FOR A WIFE.

Getting Married Is a Strange Game In Frigid Kamchatka.

AN ORDEAL FOR THE GROOM.

After Working Hard For a Few Years For the Girl's Father He Finally Wins Her In a Public Chase, In Which He Gets His Skin Well Tanned.

It gets too hot for the Siberian only once in a lifetime. The native Koryak of Kamchatka, far up in the peninsula that is washed by the Bering sea, can sleep comfortably in a room four feet high with six by eight feet of floor space and have a fire smoking near all night while the doors are tightly closed, and then does not object if three others share his apartment with him. Tomorrow he will have chance enough to breathe more cold, fresh air than he cares for. His picture of the happy hereafter is a snug, cozy place where every cell of his body can perpetually enjoy warmth and where neither ears, fingers nor toes shall be frozen.

Once in his life, however, things get a little hotter than he can honestly enjoy, and that once he cannot escape if he is to be a man of importance in the community, for it is his marriage ceremony. As soon as the youth falls in love in dead earnest he calls on the maiden's father to find out what dowry she can bring in case of eventual marriage. Since reindeer is the Koryak's medium of exchange, the dowry usually consists of reindeer. If the father consents to the engagement and the dowry pleases the young man he interviews the girl, and if she reciprocates his affection he enters her father's service. Chopping wood, tending the herds, cultivating the garden and all other kinds of farm work fall to his share. The period of service lasts from two to three years.

The marriage ceremony begins about 6 in the evening. There is a building in the village into which the villagers crowd at twilight. A large hall runs through the center of the building on either side of which are from ten to fifteen little rooms called pologs. Each polog is separated from the next by heavy reindeer curtains, and the entrance from each polog into the hall is closed by similar curtains. Nowhere in all that building except in the hall could a good sized man stand upright.

After considerable eating and some drinking a brass drum begins to beat. At the same time a solemn faced Koryak passes from one polog to another, dropping willow sprouts and alder branches in each inclosure. Presently the beater of the drum begins to sing, to accompany his slow performance on the drum. Gradually he accelerates his beats and his song. Faster and faster he smites his drum; louder and louder he sings, until within thirty minutes he has worked himself into a state of frenzy—a consummation that is not without its effect upon the villagers. The stolid calm with which they entered, suggestive of an impending funeral, gives place to smiles, to tossings of the head, until by and by the whole crowd is as excited as its leader.

At this point, the front curtain of each polog goes up, and two or three women appear inside. In their hands are willow sprouts and alder branches. In a moment the father of the bridegroom enters the building, leading the happy couple by the hand. The noise, the shouting and the whirling now become indescribable. At a signal from the groom's father the bride dashes into the first polog to the right. The women that are within lift the curtain for her, and she passes quickly from one compartment to the next.

Not so with the groom. He dashes after her, but no sooner has he entered the first polog than the women begin to beat him with the willow sprouts and alder branches. He seizes the curtain to enter the next polog, but one or two women hold it down, and if he finally succeeds there is a hot application of branches on that part of his anatomy that remains longest within the polog.

Meanwhile the women in the next polog are ready to receive him with equal warmth. They ply the switches energetically and do not hesitate to thrust out a foot also in order that the "happy groom" may stumble and afford a more enduring target for their blows.

There is no escape from this experience until the groom has entered and passed through every one of those twenty or thirty pologs. The front curtains are raised, so that the public has a clear chance to enjoy the spectacle.

Of course he never catches the bride. She has reached the last polog before he is halfway through. If she passes out of the last polog he must work another year at her father's house and pass through the same ordeal once more. But she usually awaits him in the last polog, and when they meet there the wedding ceremony is finished—and they are man and wife.—Youth's Companion.

Over the Telephone.

"Is this Mr. Jones?"

"It is."

"This is the Getemquick hospital. A woman who was taken ill on the street has been brought here and we think she is your wife."

"Does she say so?"

"No. The patient is unable to talk."

"Then it is not Mrs. Jones. Try somebody else."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The second week of the new policy of high class music and feature photoplays will be ushered in at Proctor's Theatre next Monday afternoon and even greater surprises are in store for the patrons than was in evidence the past six days. An excellent program has been prepared for every day next week, among the headliners being several massive film productions that are now being shown on Broadway at topnotch prices. Professor Ernest Fleming's symphony orchestra will give an entirely new musical repertoire while solos will be a pleasing addition.

The big feature for next Monday afternoon and night will be the World Film Corporation's latest five-part attraction, "Woman and Wine," featuring William Elliott. This picture is based on the William A. Brady play of the same name which created a sensation throughout the country fifteen years ago. All the vivid details have been retained while the famous duel between the two women of Paris' underlife is portrayed with much most intensity than when first shown on the legitimate stage.

Henry Walthal, the leading actor in the world renowned production, "The Birth of a Nation," now crowding the Liberty Theatre, New York, daily, will be seen at Proctor's, Tuesday, in the feature production, "Beulah." Mr. Walthal has reached the front rank of American screen artists and his appearance is always a notable event. "Beulah" is a wonderfully acted and elaborately staged production of the heart gripping classic of Louisiana, telling the pathetic story of Beulah, the daughter of the old South. The acting of Mr. Walthal, the strength of the story and the fame of the brilliant novel from which it is adapted will make this film the most notable production of the season.

Jolly May Irwin, who is a favorite with Plainfield audiences, will be the star attraction at Proctor's at all performances Thursday. She will appear in her greatest comedy success, "Mrs. Black Is Back." It is in five parts and there are at least a hundred laughs to every part.

The program in full for the week will include the following features. Monday, "Woman and Wine," with William Elliott; "Monsier Nickola Dupree," Thanhauser, 2 reels; Tuesday, Henry Walthal in "Beulah;" "The Refugee," one reel. 'The Diamond From the Sky" serial, two reels; Wednesday, "The Country Mouse," four reels; Thursday, May Irwin, in "Mrs. Black Is Back;" Charles Chaplin in a two-reel comedy, "Those Dove Pangs;" Friday, Betty Nansen, in "Anna Karenima," five reels; "Exploits of Elaine," two reels; Saturday, "Where Cowboy is King," four reels; 'The Goddess," serial, two reels, and Paramount Travel pictures, one reel.

June Sale of BLOUSES

Beginning at Store Opening, Tuesday, June 1st

13,100 Blouses Made Within the Last Four to Eight Weeks by Twenty-five of Our Regular Manufacturers---Shirtwaists of Striped Linen at 50c, Up to $10 Lace Blouses for $5

June has her lap full of good things for those who come to this 1915 Blouse Sale.

It is the best June Sale—the VERY BEST—we have had yet.

Every sort of blouse women want now is in this sale at a third to half less than our own regular prices.

Lace blouses—charming ones of filet or novelty meshes, draped over becoming pink satin or Georgette crepe.

Silk blouses—at every price from $1.50 upward. Every weave and almost all colors; tub satin, crepe de chine, habutai, colored pongee, radium, tub silks, fleur de soie and many others. Black blouses included.

White shirtwaists—new copies of Paris models, and thousands of the fresh, attractive lingerie and simple blouses that are necessities for hot weather.

Styles? Too many by far to describe. The lace blouses are mostly $2 and $3. But at $2.85 alone there are sixty-four models; at $2 are seventy-two styles; at $1.50 more than a hundred styles; at $1 more than forty styles, and so on.

These Blouses Have NOT Been Made to Sell "Cheap"

25 of our regular manufacturers made them in the everyday course of their business. But May was cold. Many orders were delayed. Consequently their excess and miscellaneous collections of made-up waists were turned over to us. Even at a loss of profit our orders meant that the workrooms were kept busy.

WHERE THE BLOUSES ARE

On the Main Aisle

$5 for standard $10 grades of lace and Georgette crepe blouses.
$3.85 for standard $5 and $6.50 summer silk blouses in 12 styles.
$2.85 for standard $4.50 and finer grades—an amazing collection of lace and silk blouses, in all sizes or only one or two of a kind.
$2 for standard $2.50, $3 and better grades of well-made lingerie, linen and tub silk shirtwaists.
$1.75 for 1,200 crepe de chine waists in more than twenty styles.
$1.50 for organdie lawn, voile and other lingerie blouses, all sizes, 30 styles and more.

On the Third Floor

Nine exclusive copies of Paris blouses. Two adapted from Cheruit models. $3, $4.50, $5.

On the Subway Floor, Old Building, and Subway Entrance, New Building

50c for striped linen shirtwaists.
75c for $1 voile and lawn waists, all fresh, all sizes.
$1 for $1.50 and $2 lingerie shirtwaists.
$1.50 for $2 and better grades of tub silk and lingerie waists—including eighty new styles, together with every $2 silk waist heretofore in the Store on the Subway floor.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

The most elaborate motion picture of the season will be shown next Monday and Tuesday at the U. S. Astor Theatre, Plainfield, when Frank G. Hall will present "The Eternal City," based on Hall Caine's far-famed novel of that name. This photoplay embodying a richly romantic story, has been put on the screen with remarkable vividness. Miss Pauline Frederick, who last winter appeared in the "Outcast," will portray the leading role of "Donna Roma."

First the novel and then the play from it attracted general attention years ago. But it remained for the camera to emphasize the impression made by the story, which has Rome as its dramatic background. The fact that the real scenes of Rome are revealed in this spectacle is most important. Glimpses of London—for example, the Thames with a view of the Houses of Parliament—add to the scope of the picture-play. But it is Rome that is really great in a photographic sense. Across its most notable piazza moves a countless throng and then there is the coliseum with the socialistic hero, David Rossi, addressing the multitude. This is stirring, especially when the soldiers charge upon the people and panic results. By way of contrast there is the peaceful scene in the vatican gardens, where Pius XI. gives the heroine, Donna Roma, spiritual counsel. How she was led to betray David, the companion of her childhood, who becomes her husband, and finally kills the villianous Baron Bonelli, is worked out realistically until the love story reaches a happy ending.

Even to those who never caught a glimpse of Rome the pictures they will see at the Astor Theatre, Monday and Tuesday night, should be full of charm. They may have had hints of them, perhaps, in parts of "Tosca" (Puccini's opera) and "La Tosca" (Sardou's play), but at the Astor Theatre there will be countless pictures. They are all old stories to a few of us, who have known and learned to love our Rome, but they will seem almost, if not quite, as real and wondrous to the untraveled many.

We watch the crowds that hurry to the sublime Basilica of St. Peter's where a Pope is celebrating his jubilee amid the crash of organs and the sounding of golden trumpets. The writer has watched just such crowds at real jubilees. And later we see other larger and noisier throngs applauding David as he addresses the multitude in front of the palace.

It takes an actress of unusual gifts and beauty to do justice to the charatcer of Donna Roma. In Miss Pauline Frederick such an actress has been found. Miss Frederick's facial eloquence is as impressive as her intelligent gesture. And both are, by some miracle, typically Italian. The part of David will be played by Thomas Holding. To help the illusion the orchestra will play fragments of "Tosca" and Italian hymns and march tunes during the performances. You may be sorry if you miss "The Eternal City."

THE MEN WHO SAVED THE NATION.

As on Monday morning next the drums shall beat and the flags shall fly; as we shall stand with bared heads, viewing a little company of old men, laden with springtide flowers, going forth to the graves of comrades long dead, let us render humble and hearty thanks to Almighty God that "The Government at Washington still lives."

Lives because of what these old men and their fallen comrades did. Lives because in its hour of travail and need, there were not wanting brave heroes, ready and eager to give "the last full measure of devotion;" because at the helm of the ship of state stood a Lincoln; because a Grant, a Sherman, a Sheridan and a Farragut were veritable towers of strength in the cause of "liberty and union, now and forever one and inseparable."

Great men they and mighty, and yet without the countless hosts of patriots, devoted to the same cause and content to play a lesser part in the drama, how helpless!

All hail to that great company of Americans whose lives fell in troublesome times; whose imperishable deeds have secured for us of this day and generation a nation strong for the right,—a "government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

To many of them have been erected memorials in enduring bronze and marble, while countless others lie in humble graves, unmarked and unknown. But to each and all is due a like need of thanksgiving, for royally and well did each do his task that this homeland of ours might forever endure as its fathers had intended.

And in this hour may we not think tenderly of that other great company whose heroes tasted the wormwood and gall of defeat, who wore the Gray, and who followed the "lost cause?"

One nation we, united now and forever, and our common heritage is of brave sires, loyal and devoted to principle, counting life itself none too great a price to pay for its advancement.

These in the robing of glory,
Those in the gloom of defeat,
All with the battle-blood gory,
In the dusk of eternity meet.
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day—
Under the laurel, the Blue;
Under the willow, the Gray.

CLASSES ENTERTAIN AT CHURCH SOCIAL

Vocal and Instrumental Music and Recitations Combined Features.

The annual social of the Sunday-school, of the Grace M. E. church, was held last night, and was largely attended by members, their parents and friends. The program consisted of many numbers, each class of the school entertaining for ten minutes. One of the features was an original poem written and read by W. J. Conroy, superintendent of the Sunday-school.

The first number was a selection on the organ by Miss Alice Carroll, superintendent of the primary department, and a vocal solo by Mrs. E. D. Young. Mrs. D. W. Winckler's class gave "Ten minutes with Robert Louis Stevenson." All of the children who took part were in "dreamland costume." "Guess What I Have in My Pocket" was given by seven girls of Mrs. J. S. Darby's class, and Mrs. V. P. Heath's and Miss Grace Clark's classes combined gave "Meet Me Where the Lanterns Glow."

The Men's Bible Class, of which the pastor, Rev. C. S. Gillespie, is teacher, was represented by Irving Stebbins, Louis Bullman and Mr. Wallace, who rendered vocal selections. Miss Hesler Stebbins recited and Miss Braniace Neier gave a piano solo for Miss Stella Vermeulen's class. The Misses Grace and Carrie Williams and Miss Adelaide Stiglitz performed at the piano for Miss Mary G. Steiner's class. Master Andrew Vanderbeek and Master Plum entertained with recitations.

Miss Lena Rennivan's class of girls entertained with songs. A "Yankee Doo Dee Kitchen" was illustrated by the members of the classes of Miss Mary Hoagland, David Smalley and J. R. Harden, while Mrs. Robert Love's class gave a drill as the Earnest Workers of Grace M. E. church. The pastor made a few remarks. Refreshments were served during the evening.

CIVIC ASSOCIATION MEETING.

The East End Civic Association will hold its regular meeting in the Netherwood Reformed church next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. This will be the closing meeting for the season. Refreshments will be served and a good time enjoyed by all.

VIVID PICTURE OF THE LIFE OF CHRIST

Father John Gives Impressive Discourse on the Sufferings of the Saviour.

"The Cross" was the topic of Father John's discourse at St. Joseph's mission, last night, and in a vivid picture the speaker took his audience from the birth of the Savior, through His life, Passion and death for the redemption of the world. In part, Father John said:

"I can well remember as a growing child finding it hard to understand how it was that our blessed Lord was God and therefore all powerful and all mighty, how he permitted those infamous men to nail Him to the cross. I could not understand why if He was to redeem us from sin, why He did not choose a more gracious manner for our redemption than the cross and Passion. Lest this same thought has occurred to you, the fact that our blessed Lord chose the cross with all its insults and outrages at once proves that there must be in the cross the deepest meaning and truest love.

"As the apostle, St. Paul, said: 'The cross represents the power, wisdom and love of God.' Man had sinned, sin being against the infinite Being was infinite in its malice, born in the creature against the Creator, and between these two there is a vast chasm. Therefore it was necessary for the atonement, that a person of equal dignity, equal majesty, equal nature, with the outraged God, should make this satisfaction and the eternal Son of God cried out, 'Behold, and Lo, I came and a body was fitted on to me.' Sins and outrages always demand suffering. A violated law demands that the transgressor suffer, thus the majesty of the Lord is vindicated.

"Through the sin of man, the Redeemer suffered His body to be lacerated, and had it not been for His suffering we would have experienced all through eternity the loss of God. Therefore it was not by accident that our Lord was born of the humble maid of Galilee; it was not by accident that He came into this world on that cold wintry day, in the stable at Bethlehem; it was not by accident that he was compelled to flee to Egypt with His holy mother from the cruel King who wished his death. No, these things were all fore-ordained by Heaven. On the eve of His mission He said farewell to his mother and went into the desert and prayed for forty days, and during that entire time no food or refreshment pessed His lips. He did these things to alleviate the sufferings and sorrows of humanity as He found it in those days. You remember reading of those people who wanted Him for their kind and He said the birds have their nests, the foxes have their dens, but the Son of Man has not place whereon to lay His head. Following the life of Jesus, we find as His end drew nearer and nearer that His sorrows became more and more deeper. Looking down through the corridors of time He saw all the sins of the world and was sorrowful. Remember, He was the representative of all mankind, the sins of us were laid upon Him and by His bruises we were healed. Who was it that placed the crown of thorns upon His brow? It was your sins, of thought, desire, sins of jest and pride, sins of your mind and heart. These were the thorns that were placed on the brow of Jesus and caused His anguish. His eyes were tormented because you have looked on unholy things and sinned with your eyes; His ears were tormented because you have listened to insults, blasphemy and were too cowardly to right it, and thereby sinned with your ears; His thirst was caused by your sins of intemperance in eating, drinking and way of living. His hands were nailed to the cross because your hands have worked deeds of darkness, deeds of sin; His feet were nailed to the cross because your feet have trod in the pathway of sin, the primrose path, and walking in the ways of sin and damnation you have pierced that sacred heart. Your heart was not turned to God but to the creatures and pleasures of this world. Ah, now do you understand why our Lord chose the cross and Passion? Ah, He craved a world of love and kindness for you and as He looked on from the platform of the cross there was no look of comfort in those upturned faces. It is true His mother was there, but knowing she had no part in His Passoin, His sorrow was increased all the more. His human nature endured the very pain of Hell for the redemption of mankind but His divine nature was forever with His God."

The concluding sermons for the week will be preached tonight and tomorrow night.

Sermon by pastor on "The Civil War and the Present War."

Monday being a holiday the Plainfield Graded Union will meet Tuesday at 4 p. m. in the First M. E. church chapel. Mrs. Crone will give a beginners' session. All are welcome.

The Y. M. H. A. Sunday-school will be opened tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the association rooms at 204 West Front street. All parents of children are invited to attend.

Rev. J. W. P. Collier, the pastor of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, will deliver the second number of a series of sermons that he is preaching each Sunday morning on the life of Jacob. The subject last Sunday was "The Bartered Birthright." Tomorrow he will use as a topic, "Deception." "Sin Against the Holy Ghost" will be the subject of the evening service.

At the Netherwood Reformed church, Leland avenue, one block from the Main Line cars, Rev. Edward S. Ralston will preach at 11 tomorrow morning. In the evening Mrs. Ralston will tell the story of her visit to the Winnebago Indians. The evening service begins at 7:45 o'clock. All are invited to come.

LONG ILLNESS ENDS IN DEATH OF MRS. REID

Following an illness from which she had been a patient sufferer for the past two years, Mrs. Bessie Reid, wife of Remsen Reid, died last night at 11 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Reynolds, of 108 Somerset street. She had been confined to her bed since last Christmas, but at no time did she make complaint or bear her illness with anything but Christian fortitude. The sympathy of all the many friends of the family in the city and borough is extended to the bereaved relatives.

Mrs. Reid was born at Asbury Park twenty-nine years ago and had lived in this city since she was a little girl, with the exception of a few years at Elizabeth shortly after her marriage. She was a member of Warren chapel, where she attended regularly until her health prohibited. Beside her parents, she is survived by her husband, and two children, Proctor, aged five years, and Ethel, aged two years; also three brothers and one sister. The latter are Herbert, Frank and Donald Reynolds and Miss Anna Reynolds, all living at the parents' home on Somerset street.

The funeral will be held at the late residence Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 and will be in charge of Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel. Burial will be in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery.

WILL SING BEST WORKS OF RUSSIAN COMPOSERS

The monthly musical service will be held at the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock preceded by an organ recital lasting fifteen minutes. The numbers will be selected from the best work of Russian composers, such as have been rendered by a number of musical societies in this country during the past year. Some of these societies have been organized for the express purpose of studying and performing the Russian church music.

The choir will be as follows: Soprano, Miss Lillian Vernon Watt; contralto, Miss Grace J. Carroll; tenor, Paul J. Haskell; bass, Hugh Schussler; organist and choirmaster, E. Mettler Davis.

QUARTET CHOIR WILL GIVE MUSICAL SERVICE

The quartet choir of the First Methodist church will give the last musical service of the season tomorrow evening. Excerpts from oratorios which have been sung at the various musical services during the past season will be sung. Among those to be used are selections from Gaul's "Holy City;" Matthews' "Conversion," Maunder's "Penitence, Pardon and Peace" and Matthews' "Life Everlasting." The assisting soloist will be Miss Edith Rubel, violinist, of New York. Her playing has been one of the attractive features of these musical services and no doubt her many friends will be glad of this opportunity of again hearing her play. The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

MEMORIAL TO BISKOP SCARBOROUGH DEDICATED

Surrounded by representatives of nearly every class that has graduated from the college in the last sixty years, Bishop Paul Matthews dedicated at St. Mary's Hall, Burlington, Thursday afternoon, the gate erected by the Alumni to the memory of his predecessor, Bishop Scarborough.

The gate stands at the entrance to the campus and a new drive leads through it to the main building of the institution. At the business session of the Alumni it was announced that $3,000 had been subscribed to erect a brick wall of colonial pattern around the entire campus.

FORMER BRITTON PLACE TO UNDERGO ALTERATIONS

The business and residential building at 1220 West Front street, corner of Clinton avenue, which Ernest Seidler recently purchased from Bennett Britton, is to undergo considerable overhauling. A permit has already been granted for the work and it will probably be commenced next week. The contract cost is given at $1,525. Albert Rhodier will do the carpentering, and Howard Huff masonry.

The plans call for a re-arrangement of the ground floor interior and an extension in the rear measuring 10x20 feet. Back of the new part will be a further extension, 10x10 feet, to be of cement block and intended for an oven. Mr. Seidler is a baker and will use the property for his business, now located on Clinton avenue, between West Front street and the railroad.

COUNTY CONTRACTS.

Eighteen construction contracts calling for the expenditure of varying amounts and an aggregate cost of $27,722 were filed during the week ending last Saturday with County Clerk James J. Calvert, at Elizabeth. The contracts as filed from this end of the county are as noted below:

Adolph Tepper with Walter Apgar, carpenter work, new garage, Seventh street, Plainfield, $1,078.

Same with Harry S. Wahl, plumbing work, $570.

A. MULFORD KEEPS BUSY WITH REAL ESTATE DEALS

Armstrong Mulford, of North avenue, has reported the following rentals and sales to this office:

C. Christmas has purchased from Mrs. Bridget Nolan, property located on East Third street, near Berkman street.

Harry Dreier has purchased the property at the corner of Waynewood Park and West Front street, the new owner now having extensive repairs made to the property.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Harris, of Lafayette place, have purchased a vacant property on West Sixth street, near Monroe avenue, and will erect a dwelling in the near future for their own use.

S. T. Kennedy, formerly of Dunellen, has rented a dwelling on West Sixth street, near Lee place.

Howard Blendinger, for several years of Westfield, has rented of Mrs. Lozier, a house on East Seventh street, near Belvidere avenue.

L. A. Viviano, a member of the Produce exchange, New York, has rented the dwelling belonging to E. F. Feickert, on Berkeley avenue, Netherwood.

Percy A. McVoy has purchased the property at 73 Sandford avenue, and will make extensive improvements in the near future.

A. Rosenberg, of Bayonne, has leased the Kenyon store on North avenue, and will open a trading stamp store in the near future. The store has been repainted during the past week.

H. R. LINBARGER REPORTS MANY RENTALS AND SALES

The following are a few of the recent sales and rentals made through the agency of Harvey R. Linbarger, at 197 North avenue, this city.

Oliver L. Badger, formerly of Florida, has purchased the handsome residence occupied by him, since last May, from Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell, of Detroit, Mich.

A. B. Kershaw, of New York, has purchased 2 lots on Emerson avenue, where he expects to build an attractive residence in the near future.

Captain A. H. Waddell, of New York city, has leased John Bornmann's property at 511 Belvidere avenue.

Francis A. Martin, of this city, has leased an attractive residential property at 1133 Evergreen avenue, of L. B. Woolston, and has taken possession.

W. D. Williams, of East Orange, has rented Mrs. F. M. Ward's property at 93 Fairview avenue.

W. S. Angleman, of this city, has leased W. F. Johnson's house at 1001 Prospect avenue.

W. S. Decker, of Haddon Heights, has leased the residential property at 29 Clinton avenue.

Mrs. Carrie Mellick, formerly of Arlington avenue, has rented the house at 326 Emerson avenue, owned by George Felmey.

Adolph Kohler, of West Fourth street, has rented the residential property at 830 West Fifth street, owned by Chester B. Kellogg.

W. B. Gresham, formerly of Denmark road, has leased C. E. Brodhead's property at 526 Belvidere avenue.

Mr. Linbarger reports an encouraging increase of inquiries from out of town people for renting houses, both furnished and unfurnished, as well as a fair demand for buying residential properties in this city.

STATE PERMITS.

The State Board of Tenement House Supervision is a busy organization these days, being kept going by issuing permits for the erection of buildings in all parts of the State. During the week ending last Saturday, twenty-eight permits were issued calling for a total expenditure of $387,500. Of the permits, thirteen called for alterations, the cost of which is placed at $10,400, leaving $377,500 for entirely new buildings. The total expenditure for the week is $79,555 in excess of the figures of the preceding week.

N. P. H. S.	2	1	.667
Leal	1	3	.250

The morning attraction in sport lines for Memorial Day will be the interscholastic baseball contest between Leal and Plainfield High School, this being the second meeting of these two teams this year. The game will be played on Parker Field, commencing at 10:30 o'clock. Leal has not yet won a league game, losing three, and a victory for the private school team would change the standing to a tie for first between the city and borough schools.

Voorhees will be on the firing line for the maroon and gold team and Brick will probably pitch his first interscholastic game. Denny has worked in the other two P. H. S. has played. The teams will probably lineup as follows:

HAD "TOUCHING" WAYS.

Grace Green, colored, alias Grace Britten, 27 years old, of Plainfield, was sentenced to serve thirty days in the county jail by Judge Mahon, in the Elizabeth police court yesterday. The woman was arrested while hiding in a stable after she "touched" Grevonnis Covina, an Italian, for $6 during a tango lesson in an Elizabeth saloon. Henry William, 37 years old, of Plainfield, who was arrested on suspicion of being an accomplice of the woman, was discharged.

DEFAULTED TO LOCALS.

Battin High School, of Elizabeth, lost a tennis match to North Plainfield High School, yesterday, by default. The local team took four men to Elizabeth to play the Battin boys, and nobody but their manager showed up.

WILDEY SISTERS WIN.

Miss Edna Wildey, of this city, playing with her sister, Mrs. Natalie Farley, in the Morristown tennis tournament, yesterday, won two matches, qualifying for the final round, in which they will meet Miss Marie Wagner and Miss Clare Cassel. In the second round Miss Wildey and Mrs. Farley defeated Mrs. R. A. Pope and Mrs. Robert LeRoy, 6-4 and 6-0, and in the semi-finals won in straight sets from Mrs. F. Ford and Miss Marian Swords, 6-2 and 6-2.

GAME MONDAY MORNING.

Manager Roscoe VanCamp, of the North Plainfield High School baseball team, has arranged a good holiday attraction for Hyde Oval, Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The Morristown High School aggregation will be the boroughites' opponents and a good game is expected. The game was arranged in the morning because the team could not come in the afternoon.

TWO GAMES FOR BAPTISTS.

The First Baptist baseball team will stage a double header on the West End avenue field on Decoration Day. In the morning the church team will be opposed by Martin's city champs, starting at 10:30 o'clock, and in the afternoon the Clinton Avenue A. C. nine is booked. Patterson and Ungaretti are slated to do the pitching for the Baptist aggregation.

BEATTY FOURTH IN TRYOUTS.

In the qualifying round of the collegiate championships, which will take place today on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, yesterday Russell Lawrence Beatty, formerly a student at Leal School, finished fourth in the shot put event, with a heave of 44 feet, 7⅞ inches. His best mark is over 48 feet, which is the college record.

N. P. H. S. TENNIS.

The North Plainfield High School tennis team is scheduled to entertain the Summit High School racquet wielders on the borough courts, Monday afternoon. The borough team took the first match of the season from this team and look for another win.

TENNIS MATCH.

A tennis match between the teams of the Plainfield and Elizabeth Tennis Clubs will be staged on the courts located at Filmore and North avenues, this city, Monday afternoon.

UNGARETTI TO FACE DIXON IN SAURER-BAPTIST GAME

Ungaretti and Johnny Dixon will be the opposing pitchers in the Saurer- First Baptist game Monday morning, on the West End avenue field. The game will start at 10:15 o'clock. Only one new man will appear in the Saurer lineup, Geary covering second base.

The teams will lineup as follows.

Saurer.	Baptist.

HOPE'S BUSY DAY.

The Hope Chapel and Netherwood baseball teams will have two battles Monday, the first being in the morning on the Netherwood field. In the afternoon the scene will shift to Clinton avenue, the Hope home field, where nine or more innings will be played.

T. A. B. VS. KLINKERS.

The T. A. B. baseball team will meet the Somerville Klinkers at Avon Park grounds, Monday afternoon. This will be the third game in the last three days for the abstainers, they having played Saturday and yesterday.

T. A. B. SUNDAY GAME.

The Harrison baseball team will play the T. A. B. nine on Avon Park Oval, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

CONNOLLY TOOK TWO.

Miller	211	156	152

LOCAL KNIGHTS TO ATTEND ELIZABETH FLAG RAISING

Forty members of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, will go to Elizabeth in a body Monday to take part in the flag raising of the Elizabeth council. A monster street demonstration will be one of the features and Captain William T. Cox has been chosen grand marshal for the occasion. The marchers will form at St. Patrick's parish house at 2 o'clock and the local council will have a separate band in the parade. An escort of Fourth Degree Knights, including those from Plainfield, in full regalia, will be furnished and a special train will convey Knights from Bayonne, Jersey City and other Hudson county cities.

The flag raising will be held immediately after the parade, probably at 3 o'clock. A patriotic concert will be given on the lawn from 3 to 6 o'clock, after which there will be a lawn party for members and their families and the local delegation will be entertained at supper.

DATES OF MEETINGS.

The New Jersey Branch Prince of Wales Relief Committee for sailors and soldiers have fixed the dates and meeting places for its next two sessions as follows: Friday, June 4, at the home of Mrs. Edgar Hyatt, 243 East Ninth street, at 4 o'clock; Friday, July 2, at the home of Mrs. A. K. Barclay, of 940 Central avenue.

NEWS OF INTEREST IN THE PLAINFIELD BUILDING WORLD

BASIC BUILDING MATERIALS HIGH

May Closes With Marked Advance in the Wholesale Price

SHORTAGE IS EXPECTED

Further Increase Expected in June Owing to the European War the Complexity of Which Has Become More Acute.

New York, May 29.—May closes with all basic building materials higher in wholesale price than they were on the first of the month. Many advances occurred since the fifteenth, when it became evident that the complexity of the European war would become more acute. Further advances may be expected in June, and by the first of August an actual shortage of material in some lines now seems assured. Manufacturers are more independent in the matter of filling dealers' orders, not only here in the metropolitan district, but throughout the West, with the single exception of Chicago environs. Even in the South there is a stiffening reported in building materials. Reports from reliable construction report agencies for May indicate complete return to normal building conditions for ninety-eight districts. In April national building construction was within 6.3 per cent. of normal.

The real strength of the building situation has been shown in lack of retraction in building loan negotiations, increase in interest rates or boosting of accommodation premiums since the national crisis developed. So far as current building reports are concerned, construction seems to be unabated. Real estate movements have, in fact, not only held their own, but actually show improvement in some districts, notably the suburbs and some congested commercial districts.

The leading active building materials this week were common brick, Portland cement, copper, brass, spelter, linseed oil, and some grades of lumber, including spruce, North Carolina pine and lath.

Hudson common brick fell from $6.50 per thousand this week to $6. Then went to $6.25, where it held weak, and then toward the close rebounded firmly to $6.50. Raritan brick ruled at $6.25, but no quotations were made on district deliveries later than July 1, indicating that manufacturers are preparing for a further stiffening of the market as soon as the price situation in Portland cement improves.

While there was nothing definite given out by the manufacturers of Portland cement this week regarding a change in prices on the first of the month dealers in several instances were secretly informed that they would have to get all the cement they wanted at the current seventy cent mill level into their hands before July 1. In view of the fact that thirty day delivery terms usually prevail, it was assumed that various companies would independently advance their prices five cents a barrel on June 1. This will make the local wholesale price level $1.32 to $1.37. Present low level is $1.23 a barrel.

It is said that manufacturers have been forced to act regardless of the actions of the two belligerent companies responsible for the cut. The shipments for the month of May are sure to show at least a five per cent. gain over those of last month, and possibly the same increase per cent. over the shipments for May of last year. With 182 kilns in operation in both districts, the Lehigh and the Hudson, not a single company has been able to pile up a reserve of either finished cement or clinker, a significant fact for the prospective user of cement to remember, as it is natural to suppose that if supply is below demand, prices will operate accordingly. At least one company will raise its price for this reason on Tuesday.

Sheet copper advanced one cent immediately upon announcement that Italy had gone to war. Prices of sheet brass promptly followed suit with a two-cent advance. Spelter, opening the week nervous, moved up another cent and so did linseed oil, which is now rapidly reaching a seventy cent basis at sixty-seven and sixty-eight cents a gallon at the week-end. Lath has dropped from its former stiff level at $4.25 to $4, but this is only because of the arrival of an unexpected quantity within the last ten days. Spruce is hard to get and is stiffening. North Carolina pine is said to be in greater demand than the cutters are willing to concede in view of the low prices now prevailing, and an upward change in the list is expected on Tuesday. There is a chance that the discount on plate and window glass will be changed downward, making the actual purchase price higher, between now and the first of July. Iron and steel are without change.

Homes of Individuality

Selected by Walter J Keith, Architect

COLONIAL COTTAGE. DESIGN NO. D-1321

The above picture is selected as representing the best in small cottage construction The most noticeable features are the sweeping slope of the roof, the massive porch columns and the little rectangular bays flanking the exposed chimney These, together with the flower boxes under the dormer windows and the centre balcony give it a quaint style of which one does not tire The porches are partly screened at each end with lattice for vines

The floor plan suggested below offers a very compact and convenient arrangement The living room 13 x 22, is extremely fortunate in decorative features, and opens on both front porch and piazza A door at the rear opens into a roomy pantry furnished with dresser, refrigerator space, and a large store closet The pantry connects kitchen and dining room and has a service door leading to piazza The kitchen is large and well lighted and has a pot closet handy to the kitchen range Adjoining is a laundry with chute from second story bath for soiled clothing One ascends to the second floor from the centre entrance hall At the right of the stairs is a convenient coat closet and wide openings connect with the adjoining living room and dining room The second floor contains four large bedrooms and bath Each room is provided with ample closets Off the hall in front is an attractive little balcony A cellar is provided under the entire house.

The estimated cost of this attractive cottage home, according to the suggested floor plan, is $2,300, exclusive of the heating, plumbing, electric work and decorations. Price of plans and specifications $25 00

MANY BUILDINGS BEING BID UPON

Architects and Contractors Being Kept Busy on Prospective Buildings.

Since the announcement of last Saturday that the Saurer plant was to have additions erected in the course of the near future, announcements of immediate construction work have been accumulating with great rapidity, the announcements coming through local contractors, architects, and real estate men. The plans are now out and bids are being received, and it is probable that a number of the proposed structures will be started before long. The additions of the Saurer shops, however, will probably not be started before the end of June. A partial list of prospective buildings for which plans are already out is given below.

The most important of the buildings will be a business structure and will be erected at Plainfield avenue and West Third street, the Bloom Construction Company having recently purchased the property from the Brotherhood Realty Company. The building will have stores on the first floor, and apartments in the second and third stories.

The same concern is to erect a frame dwelling on a property on West Third street, near Clinton avenue, recently secured through an exchange with B. Frank Coriell for property on West Front street.

Conrad Jacobson is this week securing bids for a four family frame apartment house to be erected at 439 West Third street, and contracts will undoubtedly be awarded during the forepart of next week. George H. Fisher, Jr., of Manson place, is the architect of this building.

A. B. Kershaw, of New York, has recently purchased lots on Emerson avenue and will erect a dwelling shortly. Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Harris have purchased property on West Sixth street, near Monroe avenue, also for the purpose of erecting a dwelling.

BUILDING STARTS UPWARD TREND

Four Permits Issued During Week Call for the Expenditure of $8,395.

The outlook for the future of the present building season has taken on added brightness during the course of the past week, not altogether because of the number of permits actually issued, but rather because of the announcements concerning plans for buildings which have been placed in the hands of contractors for bids. Couple this with the fact that during the course of the week four permits have been issued by Inspector T. O. Doane, calling for the erection of one dwelling, two garages, and one alteration job, and showing an estimated expenditure of $8,395, the largest amount for several weeks past, and you have the cause of the feeling that before long building operations will be back to normal.

Up to date, the permits issued thus far this month call for the expenditure of $19,897, of which $2,375 will go for alterations. This leaves $17,522 to be invested in new buildings. The total for the month up to this time is but little short of the total for last May, with two days yet remaining, during which permits may be issued.

Second Ward.

H. K. Titsuka, of 556 Belvidere avenue, has been granted a permit for the erection of one of the most elaborate garages in the city, which is to cost in the vicinity of $2,000. The structure will measure 33x25 feet, will be of frame, and will be two stories high. The roofing will be of shingles, while the framing will be of spruce. A hot water heating system is to be installed. Alexander Milne is the contractor.

L. J. Geary is also to erect a garage, his to go up at 1226 Denmark road at a cost of $470. The building will be frame and measure 20x23 feet. E. V. French is the architect and J. W. Carver the general contractor.

Third Ward.

T. G. Davis is to erect a frame dwelling measuring 33x31 feet on the west side of Irving place, and will occupy the same when it has been completed. The foundations will be of hollow terra cotta block, the framing of hemlock, and the roofing of shingles. A hot water heating system is to be installed. The structure will be two stories high. E. V. French is the architect, Cunniff Brothers the mason contractors, while Louis F. C. Beck has the carpenter contract.

Fourth Ward.

Ernest Seidler is to alter the building located at 1220 West Front street, which he recently purchased from Bennett Brittin. The cost of the improvements will be $1,525. The details appear in another column.

FINE NEW RESIDENCE PLANNED FOR SOUTH SIDE

C. D. Manning, of the firm of Manning & Curtis, has completed plans for the erection of another handsome residence on Sherman avenue, in what is known as Woodland Park. The cost is estimated at $6,500. While the permit has not been asked for yet, the contracts have already been let. James C. Manning will do the carpenter work, Townley Brothers the masonry and the A. M. Griffen Company the plumbing.

The house will be of colonial style and have a total of nine rooms and two baths. The interior plans call for all modern conveniences, with several new features originating with Mr. Manning.

A fine residence recently completed for Mr. Manning on Sheridan avenue, Woodland Park, has been sold by him to Robin Brown, of the borough, who will make it his home. Woodland Park is a part of what was known as the Leonard tract, the old Hope Common being at one end. The property is gradually being built into what will eventually prove to be one of the most desirable residential sections in the south end if the city.

THE GARDEN DAY BY DAY

By TARKINGTON BAKER

The Week's Work In Brief

Apply liquid manure to roses and spray for the second time with whale-oil soap.
Sow melons, pumpkins and cucumbers in the open ground and transplant seedlings started indoors.
Sow sweet corn for succession.
Start training tomato plants.
Be sure the foliage of hardy bulbs has ripened and is dry and withered before removing it.
Set out celery, late cabbage and cauliflower plants for succession.

As soon as the rose buds are well formed, feed the plants with liquid manure, applying about half a gallon around each plant once a week. The solution should not be too strong. When it shows the color of tea or ale it may be considered sufficiently strong. Too strong a dose is worse than none at all; the careful gardener applies it "weak and often." Half a bushel of fresh cow or horse manure to a barrel of water makes a safe solution. Spray at the same time with whale-oil soap at the rate of two ounces to a gallon of water. This should be the second application of this insecticide and care should be taken that the foliage, on this occasion, is well covered with it.

It is often convenient to make up the liquid manure solution in quantity—more, perhaps, than the roses themselves require. It is best and easiest made by placing the manure in a loosely woven cloth bag and suspending this in water until the latter has attained the tea-color characteristic of the liquid fertilizer when it is at its safest and most effective strength. Apply the surplus to herbaceous perennials that are showing flower buds and to others, also, that appear to be in need of a stimulant.

Muskmelon, or cantaloupe seed should be sown six or eight to a hill. The best general distances apart are four feet in the row and the rows at least five feet apart. A bush variety, however, has made its appearance and requires less space—three by three being sufficient. The seed should be sown one inch deep and when the seedlings appear, select the three strongest and uproot the rest. As the plants develop, apply nitrate of soda, half a teaspoonful to the hill, well distributed, or give a light application of liquid manure instead. When the vines attain a length of eighteen inches, pinch off the ends to encourage branching.

The watermelon requires more space for development. Hills six feet apart in rows eight feet apart are the minimum distances. More space would be advisable. Set the seed eye down, eight or ten to the hill, one inch deep and thin to three plants to the hill. Fertilize as for muskmelon. Pumpkins succeed when given the same treatment prescribed for watermelon. Cucumbers may be set as close as the muskmelon and sown in the same manner. Postpone the thinning, however, until it is seen which plants withstand the attacks of the numerous insect pests. In setting out seedlings of melons, cucumbers and pumpkins, avoid disturbing the soil about the roots. All are impatient of such disturbance and seldom recover sufficiently to make good plants.

Sweet corn, to maintain a succession, should be planted every two weeks from now on until the middle of July. As the weather grows warmer increase the depth at which the seed are sown. An inch is sufficient now, but the last planting should be two inches deep. Watch carefully to maintain succession as far as possible with other vegetables. See, at the same time, to the training of the tomato vines. In small gardens, best results will be gained from training to one stem. Remove all "suckers" as fast as they develop and cut off all branching growth. Spray with Bordeaux now and a fortnight and a month later. Give immediately a light dressing of nitrate of soda and, ten days later, dress with wood ashes or muriate of potash, allowing a half handful of the latter—two handsful of wood ashes—to each plant, well distributed.

Training tomatoes to one stem is ideal method for the home garden. On the left is shown a typical cluster of fruit when so grown.

Where the tulips, narcissi and hyacinths have bloomed, the ripening and withering of the foliage may prove an unpleasant sight for a few days. This is not to be avoided, however. The foliage must thoroughly mature and wither away or the strength of the bulbs itself will be impaired. Do not make the mistake, therefore, too often made, of cutting off the curing foliage. Let it remain until it can be picked up without pulling. If the bulbs are grown in beds or borders of perennials or in shrubberies, the expanding foliage of these will, by now, hide the maturing foliage of the bulbs and completely offset the unsightliness of the latter. A light dressing of sulphate of potash at the rate of a pound and a half to a square rod will be of great advantage to the bulbs and will produce excellent results in next spring's crop of flowers.

Cabbage, celery and cauliflower plants should be set out in the vegetable garden. Premium Flat Dutch is an excellent late variety of cabbage. It will well repay the gardener to dust his cabbage plants at nightfall with pyrethrum powder. For the late cauliflower fertilize the soil liberally. Well rotted cow manure is best or pulverized sheep manure is better still. The plants will be grateful for a light mulch and the lawn clippings used for this purpose prove effective. In setting out the celery be sure that the plants are trimmed both top and root. The richer the ground for celery the better. Use well rotted manure and wood ashes liberally.

REMODELING DWELLING RECENTLY PURCHASED

Harry Dreier, who recently purchased the property at Waynewood Park and West Front street, through the agency of Armstrong Mulford, is having the frame dwelling repaired and remodeled throughout, and made modern in every detail. The improvements will cost in the neighborhood of $2,000.

Not only is the house undergoing repairs, but the grounds about the structure are also to receive considerable attention, regrading of the grounds being the feature along this line. New cement walks are also to be laid, this part of the work being contracted for by Albert DeNise. Richard B. VanArsdale is to care for the interior tile work, while Nathan Gershenson will accomplish the work on repapering and redecorating, both exterior and interior. Daniel Giddis is the carpenter contractor, while John T. Caulfield is the mason contractor.

IN THE SUBURBS

Dunellen.

Work on the proposed great changes at the church property of St. John's Roman Catholic parish commenced this week with the beginning of the excavation for the cellar for the rectory. The rectory is to be moved from its present location and swung around so that it will face on First street and cover the westerly end of the church land. The church will then be built on the corner of the lot at the junction of Washington avenue and First street. The excavating and grading is being done by William Gallagher.

Rapid work has been done during the past week on the new house being erected by Contractor Samuel M. Titus for Elwood Gary on the lot which the latter purchased from Edgar Shively. The frame has been put up and the building partly enclosed.

Improvements in the carpentering line are being made this week at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Giles, on Whittier avenue, where a bay window is being put on. The work is being done by Contractor Charles Wrage.

William Smalley has purchased from the Equator Realty and Development Company the house on North avenue, west of the junction of that thoroughfare with Chestnut street, recently conveyed to the company by Mrs. Rose Bell, of New York. The house is the one occupied for a number of years by Alvah Haver and family. Mr. and Mrs. Smalley have already taken possession.

Contractor Henry Kirchner has completed a two weeks' job in repairing two houses owned by Mrs. Margaret Dealaman.

Clarence Scheurman has been making improvements in the carpentering line during the past few days at the house of Charles English on Front street, occupied by Charles Jennings.

Contractor Henry Kirchner has just completed reshingling the roof of the old Lowrie house at the corner of Madison and North avenues.

Lincoln.

The Middlesex Union Sunday-school will lay the cornerstone of the new chapel this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Special music will be rendered and Rev. H. E. Green, of South Bound Brook, will make an address.

The building on Drake avenue, in which the Lincoln Building Syndicate has its office and in which the Lincoln postoffice is located, has been improved by the addition of a new porch and awning in front of the building.

South Plainfield.

The 114-acre farm which Messrs. Haight and Scandell purchased from Dr. W. J. Nelson, of New Market, has been sold to an Italian of New York city, who has taken possession. The party will engage in general farming. Since he has taken possession 600 fruit trees have been set out.

Mrs. George Ryno has purchased the notion and candy store owned at one time by William Riely, adjoining his property.

Warrenville.

Parties from New York city have taken option on John C. Cooper's farm in Warren township, and it is expected will take possession soon. Mr. Cooper is planning to move to the borough, where he will take up his residence.

FAVOR SCHOOL.

Roselle Park, May 29.—For the second time women voters of the borough, Tuesday, carried an election, the result of which insures the erection of a new $65,000 High School. The election was called by Mayor Harwood Fish to determine whether the election held February 9, at which it was voted to build the High School, should be rescinded. It was the most bitterly fought of any election in the history of the borough. Pupils of the schools also played an important part in securing a victory. The vote was a record one, 1,040 ballots being cast. When the polls were to close at 9 o'clock about 200 men and women were still in line waiting to vote. Those opposed to rescinding the election won by 76 votes.

MR. BERRY'S OPERATIONS.

Five of the twelve houses for which Enoch Berry secured permits to erect on Leland avenue, have now been completed, and during the coming week two more will be started. A deal is underway at the present time that will probably result in the five finished structures being purchased, thus permitting Mr. Berry to proceed with the construction of all those for which he has plans. The houses are of desirable size and finish and are doing much to build up the East End of town.

MADE ALTERATIONS.

The dwelling at 608 West Fourth street owned by Abrams and Kunzman, is now modern and up-to-date. New plumbing and heating systems have been installed, and other minor repairs made.

CHAPTER XIX.

Not Madness.

WAINWRIGHT addressed the physician confidently:

"You see, now, Harry, how it is. The thing came to a climax tonight, when I began, with the kindliest intentions, to ask him some questions concerning his health. He just glared at me, as if I were trying to do him some injury instead of really wanting to help him in his trouble. And then, all of a sudden, he proceeded to make the most preposterous demands you could possibly imagine. First he repeated all these strange imaginings of which you have been hearing here tonight, and then he even was so wild as to tack on one in which he stated that my wife, too, had been convicted of theft and been sent to jail.

"To tell the truth, doctor," he continued, "I couldn't make head or tail out of his maunderings. And Lucene got so worried that, finally, as you are an examiner in lunacy, with the power of commitment, I thought the best thing would be to get you over here and let you take him away and put him safely under observation for a while."

"Andrew, come here, please," the physician ordered.

"Yes, sir." The answer was uttered with the utmost respect. The Master Mind immediately advanced to a position just in front of Forbes, where he remained standing patiently.

"You have heard what was said?"

"Oh, yes, sir. To my great surprise, sir."

"Ah! to your great surprise, eh? Why did you say these things?"

"I don't remember saying them, sir. Really, sir, it doesn't seem possible to me that I could ever have said such dreadful things about the family of my employer."

"Now tell me the exact truth," Forbes continued. "Do you think that Mr. Walter is a thief?"

"No, indeed, sir," he disclaimed.

"Or that Mr. Blount is a bank burglar?"

"Oh, no, sir—no, never, sir. Nor that about Mrs. Blount either."

"Why did you threaten Mr. Wainwright, saying that if he refused to do your bidding you would publish these stories in the newspapers?"

"I'm very sorry, sir," Andrew responded, with a quick reversion to his former meek manner, "but I don't remember anything about it, sir."

"Do you dislike Mr. Wainwright?" was the next inquiry.

"Oh, goodness—no, sir!"

"Or Mrs. Wainwright?"

"Oh, no, sir—oh, no, indeed, sir. Very far from it."

"I am glad to hear you speak in this fashion," Forbes said approvingly. "Nevertheless, my good man, it appears on indisputable testimony that you have said these curious and offensive things. What have you to say to me as to that fact?"

Again Andrew looked up.

"Well, sir," he said, "to tell the truth, I am not surprised. A thing like it happened to me once before, sir." There was a general movement of astonishment, in which even the physician shared, at this candid avowal of his unfortunate mental condition. "Yes, sir," he went on, with obvious reluctance, dropping his eyes; "I lost my last place before this in the same way."

"Well, now, Andrew," said Dr. Forbes, "how would you like to go along with me for just a little while to get rested up a bit, you know?"

But the patient displayed a sudden and unexpected animation in opposition to this proposal.

"Oh, no, indeed! Not to an—an insane asylum—no, no!" He wrung his hands dispairingly, and his face became writhen with fear. "Oh, I am sure that would drive me mad, indeed!"

"But you surely need a change of some kind, Andrew," he urged.

"I know that, sir," he said softly. "I know it only too well, sir." Then a little more of spirit crept into his expression. He took a letter from his pocket and held it forth to the physician. "I had thought that this might be the thing for me," he ended as Forbes took the letter. "It is from a cousin of mine down in Virginia, sir."

The physician scanned the missive.

"I see," he said thoughtfully. "As I understand it, then, you have entertained the idea of going down there and living with your cousin, for some time at least, on his farm. Are you still of a mind to follow this course, Andrew, if you should be allowed?"

"I'm under Mr. Wainwright's orders."

The patient's face brightened, and his hands were raised in a movement of entreaty.

"Oh, sir, if I only might!" he cried. "I should like it so very, very much, sir!"

"Good!" came Forbes' crisp comment. He turned briskly to Wainwright. "That's the best way out of the difficulty, Cortland, by all means," he advised. "Under the circumstances now, an asylum would be the very worst place in the world for him. Really, Cortland, I couldn't think of advising it."

Despite Wainwright's efforts Dr. Forbes refused to commit Andrew, and he departed, leaving the oddly assorted group in the library.

The air of humility now fell from Andrew as might a garment when he strode forward, so that he faced the others closely.

"Ingenious, Mr. Wainwright!" he said, with zest. "Oh, it was really quite ingenious. Its one demerit was that it proved so utterly inefficient." He looked slowly over the others in the room, with the exception of Lucene, from whom he held his gaze studiously averted. None of the three criminals who had joined in the futile revolt against him ventured to meet his eyes. They sat in nervous dejection, expectant of condign punishment. Andrew smiled as he contemplated them, and the smile boded ill. The smile grew amusedly contemplative as he regarded Marshall, who was scowling heavily; then of a sudden the Master Mind's face set itself in stern lines. He spoke with authority.

"Mr. Wainwright will excuse you now," he said briskly to the detective.

Marshall snorted indignantly.

"I'm under Mr. Wainwright's orders and following his instructions. Otherwise the situation would be different," he growled wrathfully. "I guess you understand that."

Andrew did not trouble himself to reply. It was Wainwright who reenforced the command.

"It was at this hour of the morning, Mr. Wainwright," he said, with profound solemnity, "that my brother died—that he was put to death. Well, sir, the time agreed on between us has come. What is your choice?"

Wainwright spoke very quietly, firmly—yet with a sadness that told the greatness of his sacrifice.

BROWN LINEN SERVICEABLE FOR PLAY FROCKS.

Tiny girls are wearing these frocks built on roomy, comfortable lines for school and play hours. The lines of this dress are so simple, in kimona effect with a pleat over each shoulder, and a flare skirt set on to the long waist conforms to the new fashion for wide skirts. The collar and cuffs are of white pique with a dainty design worked in brown floss to harmonize with the brown linen of the frock.

A PATTERN FOR MEN.

No. 8914.

The flaring convertible collars so widely used are justly popular, for when a man puts on a negligee shirt he wants one in which he can have the utmost freedom and comfort. For sailing, land sports, or just plain lounging these shirts are indisputably excellent. The shirt cut by Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8914 is so easy to make accurately that there is no reason why the men and boys of the family should not have a supply of these on hand during the summer months. The shirt has a convertible collar and can be made in any of three styles of fronts. The sleeves have band cuffs, perforated for different lengths. Can be made with or without pocket. Pattern cuts in sizes 28-50, requiring in size 34, 3½ yards 36-inch material.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

At a meeting of the senior class yesterday, it was decided to have the class picture taken in separate portraits, and grouped in one frame for presentation to the school.

Mr. Earley has announced that every senior must pay his or her class dues in full before taking part in the exercises which are to be given by the class for its friends on Friday, June 18.

The girls of the senior class are planning a picnic for the boys of the baseball and basketball teams, and all the members of the senior class are to be invited.

RECREATION NOTES.

The Monday night swimming class holding session from 7:30 to 8:30 will not meet on next Monday, owing to the fact that Decoration Day falls on that day.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Song Sparrow And Her Cunning Home.

Sparrow Selected a Spot Among the Grasses.

"I MUST tell you about the song sparrow and the cunningest little home you ever heard of," said daddy as Jack and Evelyn climbed up on his knees for the evening story.

"The little brown song sparrow was a very wise little bird. She came up from the south when the first warm breezes of springtime came, and she just had one idea. It was of having a nice little home for herself and keeping house for herself, just the same as she had done down in the sunny southland.

"Some of the other birds were ahead of the little brown song sparrow. For instance, there was the robin redbreast, who had her nest up in a tall tree in the front yard, where she dwelt with her husband and which they expected would before long be inhabited by some cunning little birdies. And there was old Mr. Crow, who had his wicked black eye on the field where he knew corn would grow later and who had his nest in a tall pine back in the woods. And there was old Grandfather Owl, who spent his time asking 'Who-o-o?' to which nobody answered, and he had his nest back in the woods.

"This little brown song sparrow just wanted that home, and she cast about in her little bird mind for the best place for it. And she had to be careful, for the song sparrow makes her home in the ground.

"It was a beautiful village where she had made up her mind to pass her summer, and while the little sparrow didn't know the name of it, of course, she looked it over with a critical eye and decided that it was quite good enough for her. So she flew over it, looking for a nice place for the home.

"She had to be careful about picking out the place, for she wanted to be sure to get one where no horrid cat or dog would disturb her or the little birdies which were to come. And as she flew she passed in the sunshine over a lovely lake, and by this lake ran a fine, smooth road. And there were no houses for quite a distance, so there would not be much danger of a horrid cat or dog coming to disturb her.

"So the little sparrow selected a spot among the grasses just at the edge of the road, and she dug a hole in the soft soil and covered its top with grass so that it couldn't be seen unless you looked very close and which made it also waterproof so not a drop of rain could get in. Then she laid three little speckled eggs and sat on them till three lovely little birdies came. And the little bird family was very happy that summer with its housekeeping, and t— and by the little children were big enough to fly away by themselves."

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

What has become of the suffrage banner which was raised in Front stree on May 1. —To adapt an old couplet we wonder

"What twas hung for,
If so soon 'twas to be done for."

Perhaps an announcement made in the Daily Press for May 25 may give the reason. We are told that Mrs. Hardy, of Michigan, is to be sent by the Michigan Suffrage Association to work for the "cause" in New Jersey. Now in Michigan the first vote in equal suffrage fell short by very little of making Michigan a suffrage State. The last election gave 98,000 majority against "Votes for Women." With such a result on record it is no wonder that our New Jersey Suffragists might think it time to haul down their colors when a Michigan worker comes among them.

I see that Mr. Swackhamer's letter to the Forum of the Daily Press has called forth an answer on one or two points. So many of his arguments have been so often answered that it seems hardly necessary to reply again. Of course, all thinking people can see at a glance the futility of the "Taxation Without Representation" plea. A Plainfielder holding real estate in New York or elsewhere, has no vote or voice in the imposition of taxes, but he has to pay them. The laws in various subjects differ in different localities, but they must be obeyed by all who live under their jurisdiction. Owners of automobiles have many taxes to pay if they drive through different States, but they have had representation only in one State. I remember hearing of a wedding ceremony which took place in a pantry, because the main part of the house of the bride stood in one State and the pantry in another. A license was required in one State but not in the other, so the ceremony was performed in one State and the reception in another. But the owners of that house could only vote in one State.

Mr. Swackhamer's quotations from the men who are responsible for our Federal Constitution are interesting, but apart from the fact that most of them inferentially proclaim the truth that in a democratic form of government the majority rules, they are not very pertinent to the subject.

But Mr. Swackhamer makes an egregious mistake when he says:

"The Civil War would have been a failure if it had not put the ballot in the negroes' hands, and although there will be no Civil War to free the Women, we should not lose sight of the high value placed upon political liberty by those who engaged in that memorable struggle."

Had he lived through that "memorable struggle" he would have known that the North, though goaded and taunted, would never have resorted to arms had not the leaders of the South struck at the Union itself. The South realized this and fired on our flag at Fort Sumter, and at once Republicans and Democrats rose to defend our nation's life. The very men who previous to that shot had depreciated any anti-slavery movements, were among the first to offer their services to preserve the Union. When some of the slaves came into Fremont's camp, he was ordered to return them to their owners, and it was his clever contention that the blacks were "contraband of war" that made "contraband" a cynonym for many years for negro. Of course, the war resulted in the emancipation of the slaves, just as we hope this present European war will result in the destruction of militarism. The giving the ballot did not follow immediately, and the Southern States have many of them taken advantage of the right given by the Constitution to each State to regulate the franchise within its borders, and have practically disfranchised the negroes.

But the allusion to the Civil War makes one think of the similarity in a certain way of the ways and aims of the secession and of the woman suffrage movements. An arrogant minority insisted on forcing measures (in the South the extension of slavery; at present the extension of the franchise) on a reluctant majority. It is to be hoped that the ballots of the men of 1915 will prove as successful as the bullets of 1861-65.

In the Press for May 26 ten questions by Alice Stone Blackwell are asked. Here are two of them.

If equal suffrage is a bad thing why has it spread from the State that first adopted it to ten neighboring States, all adjoining one another?

If the majority of the people anywhere are dissatisfied with it, why is there no move to repeal it?

Most of the suffrage States are practically ruled by Mormons, and all the Western States are very much under Socialistic influence. Also, the population of most of these States being very small, the evils of woman suffrage are not visible. A woman voter in Idaho used that argument to me, saying that she thought we i nthe East would find the woman's vote a very troublesome element.

To the second question, we can say, New Jersey did repeal it, and the Legislature of Wyoming also repealed it in 1872 or 1873, but the Governor vetoed the measure.

The men don't pay much attention to the woman's vote in most of the State and the women who are opposed to it hate politics and don't want to get into a fight.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"The Scotts are having a house party and there is a dance next Tuesday night. Here is your invitation," said Nell, handing her friend the card.

"Was that Mrs. Scott who called last Saturday?" asked Olive, reading the invitation.

"Yes, Mrs. Scott, Jr. and Sr. The Scotts and Frazees own the big manufacturing plant here and they came to their country home last July. They are delightful people. What is worrying me is that I have nothing to wear to the dance."

"How is that?" asked Olive in surprise.

"Well, in the first place, our expenses for doctor and nurse have been appalling, and I did not feel like getting any evening clothes, especially as there are only one or two occasions a year when one needs anything of the sort here."

"I never thought you would be like the majority of married women, careless about such things. You were always a good dresser and careful of your appearance."

"I am yet," said Nell, coloring, "only I care so much more for other things that clothes have a minor place in my life. When you have a home to keep up and a baby to keep well, and a maid to pay, on a small salary, the amount you feel justified in spending for clothes is not large."

"Don't you have an allowance?" asked Olive.

"No, I never have; all the money is carefully spent, so I can't see as it makes much difference."

"It's not businesslike," objected Olive. "One is so much more independent with a private pocket book. I mean to start that way, that is if I ever marry," laughed Olive.

"Perhaps it would be better. Dick and I have talked about it. I'll begin when the doctor's bill is all paid."

"Now about this party," resumed Olive. "I have several good evening dresses. I wonder if you could not wear one of mine."

"Oh, you are so much taller, I would have a train all around."

"There's one with a long tunic and the skirt is separate. The tunic is full and would do nicely for a skirt. Come and try it on." And they went to Olive's room.

"That's all right. I thought it would be; and the pale green clears your complexion."

Nell viewed herself in the glass with heightened color, the soft lace over the arms, the artistic touches of a real modiste. "I used to have such things," she reflected, "but now——"

A wail floated up the stairs. "Unfasten this quickly, Olive dear; the baby is awake," and Nell slipped into her house dress and flew down the stairs.

"Do you know about the guests? Are there any unmarried people among them?" asked Olive when the baby was contentedly propped up in his buggy.

"I do not know about the house party guests, but there is young Frazee. I haven't seen much of him, but Dick says he is a pleasant fellow. And Mr. Burk, the head bookkeeper, is unattached and our doctor is a young widower." Nell and Jo Parsons had decided to say nothing to Olive about the divorce unless it was necessary. "His sister keeps house for him. She came while I was visiting at the farm this summer."

"I don't like widowers," commented Olive.

"Two young men and a widower may be all the available society. We live in such a scraggly place." Nell smiled into her friend's face. "I suppose nothing would make you willing to live in a small town."

"I am sure I should have to be very much in love to consider it; but you have some charming friends. You are very fortunate in that way," replied Olive.

Household Hints

SCALLOPED CHICKEN.

Mix two cupfuls of nicely seasoned chicken, minced finely, with a cupful of boiling oyster liquor, or as much tomato juice. Stir in six chopped mushrooms, the pounded yolks of two hard-boiled eggs and two tablespoonfuls of cream. Add finely toasted bread crumbs and more cream if needed to make a soft paste. Pack in large clam shells, or in a baking dish, put nuts of butter on top and cook covered for fifteen minutes; then uncover and brown lightly. Cold lamb, duck or boiled veal may be prepared in the same way, with the substitution of a good stock for the oyster or tomato juice.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Place pitcher of cold water on a table in your room and it will absorb all the gases with which the room is filled from the respiration of those eating or sleeping in the apartment.

Any one who has a sterling or German silver purse will be glad to know that common baking soda will clean it in a few minutes. Just take plenty of soda and a little water and scrub with a soft brush. Rinse and dry. This is the method many jewelers use.

When you have your cake ready for the oven (either layer or loaf cake), hold it up a little way from the table and let it drop two or three times; it will not fail when turned or jarred while baking.

To Remove Paint or Grease Spots—Mix four teaspoons alcohol with a tablespoon salt. Shake well and apply with brush or sponge.

Paste for Cleaning Brass—Rotten stone, two ounces; oxalic acid, half ounce; sweet oil, three-fourths ounce; turpentine, enough to make a paste. Apply with a little water.

GOOD COOKIES.

Spiced Cookies—Two cups brown sugar, one cup lard, one cup sirup (maple or corn), one teaspoon allspice, one teaspoon ginger, pinch of cinnamon and pinch of salt. Mix together, then add one cup sour milk, one and one-half teaspoons soda dissolved in a little warm water, flour enough to make quite stiff. After you have mixed enough to handle, put on kneading board with flour on and knead real well. If it is still soft, add more flour and roll and cut quite thick with a cooky cutter. These will keep soft for a long time; makes about five dozen cookies.

Lemon Cookies—One cup each of butter and sweet milk, two eggs, two cups sugar, five cents' worth lemon oil, two cents' worth baking ammonia. Dissolve ammonia in milk, cream butter and sugar, add eggs well beaten, then put all together with sufficient flour to roll.

Filled Cookies—Two cups sugar, one cup lard, two eggs, one cup sweet milk, four level teaspoons cream tartar, two teaspoons soda, two teaspoons vanilla. Filling: Two cups raisins, two cups sugar; two tablespoons flour, two cups water; boil. Roll dough thin, cut with cooky cutter, spread top of one with filling, put another one on top and bake.

Oatmeal Cookies—Two cups sugar, three eggs, one cup butter, one cup lard, four cups flour, four and one-half pounds rolled oats, two cups raisins, ten tablespoons sweet milk, one teaspoon soda in milk, one teaspoon cinnamon.

THE TABLE.

Sponge Cake—Yolks of three eggs, one cup sugar, three-eights cup milk, one-half teaspoon lemon extract, whites of two eggs, one cup flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Beat yolks till thick and lemon colored, add one-half sugar gradually and continue beating, then add milk, remaining sugar, extract, whites of eggs beaten stiff and then dry ingredients. Bake twenty-five minutes in a shallow pan in moderate oven. Filling: Beat remaining white of egg until stiff. Add three-fourths cup pulverized sugar gradually and continue beating with Dover egg beater until thick and creamy. Add one-half teaspoon lemon extract.

Steamed Apples—Wipe, core and pare four medium sized apples. Put them in a steamer over boiling water and cook until soft. Serve cold, add enough sugar f[illegible]

FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR FOR ABSOLUTE SECURITY

Do you realize that for but $5 per year you can rent a large safe deposit box in our Manganese Steel Vault in which your insurance policies, deeds, mortgages, stocks, bonds and other valuable papers as well as your jewelry may be lodged safe from both fire and thieves and to which access may be had as often as desired? The peace of mind insured by the fact that your valuables are out of danger, come what may, should be worth many times the rental cost. If your box is maintained out of town, convenience and economy dictate that it be transferred to Plainfield. We will take pleasure in showing our modern equipment and appointments.

"PASTOR" RUSSELL'S GOSPEL

Compared With

THE GOSPEL OF GOD

This is the Subject of the Closing Address to Be Given by

MR. SAMUEL RIDOUT

Y. M. C. A. HALL

Rented for the Purpose.

SUNDAY EVENING, MAY 30th, 7:30 O'CLOCK.

Your eternal welfare is connected with the great question: What is the Gospel? We are morally responsible to give account of ourselves to God. What about our sins? "Enter not into judgment with thy servant; for in thy sight shall no man living be justified" (Ps. 143:2). How then can we escape the judgment after death? (Heb. 9:27). Can it be by our own works? No: God has done a work which if received by faith avails to meet our case. The gospel of God gives assurance that the believer "will not come into judgment," but is eternally secure. This alone can give joy and true blessing, and is essential to all right and holy living.
